54. Special or temporary appointment or employment.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 59.

Where an act of the legislature provides for the appointment of an agent to collect certain claims of the state against the United States, and for the delivery to him of all papers necessary to the establishment of such claims, and for the agent's compensation, the power of an agent appointed thereunder is not irrevocable, no consideration having been paid for the appointment, and is revoked by an act repealing the former act without any saving clause, no claims having been delivered to the agent.—State of Missouri v. Walker, 125 U. S. 339, 8 S. Ct. 929, 31 L. Ed. 769.

56. Compensation of officers, agents and employes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, §§ 37, 43, 61-67.

58. — Collection and enforcement of fees.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 66.

Where taxes are refunded by the federal government to the state under Act March 2, 1891, c. 496 (26 Stat. 822), which provides that no money so refunded should be paid out by the state or any person to any attorney or agent under a contract for services, the comptroller cannot, under Act Md. 1878, allowing plaintiff a commission on all money recovered by him for the state from the federal government, deduct for plaintiff his commissions from any sum so paid in consequence of plaintiff's exertions, as, if plaintiff was entitled to compensation at all by reason of having made the collection, he was bound by the condition on which the state received the money.—Wallis v. Smith, 157 U. S. 271, 15 S. Ct. 624, 39 L. Ed. 698.

83. Public improvements and works.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 84.

In the exercise of the power of a state to require local improvements, essential to the health and prosperity of a community within its borders, to be made, the fact that the lands to be improved are situated in more than one county cannot affect the power of the state to delegate authority for the establishment of districts to be improved to the supervisors of the county containing the greater part of the lands.—Hagar v. Reclamation Dist. No. 108, 111 U. S. 701, 4 S. Ct. 663, 28 L. Ed. 569, affirming Reclamation Dist. No. 108 v. Hagar, 4 F. 366, 6 Sawy. 567.

89. Disposition of property.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 83.

The undisclosed intention of the purchaser of property from a state to tender "revenue bond scrip" in payment, for the purpose of testing the question of its validity, is not a fraud that entitles the agents of the state to withhold possession after conveying the legal title. 13 C. C. A. 160, 65 F. 731 (1895) affirmed.—Tindal v. Wesley, 17 S. Ct. 770, 167 U. S. 204, 42 L. Ed. 137, affirming judgment Tindal v. Wesley, 65 F. 731, 13 C. C. A. 160.

Jurisdiction of controversy between states as to division of indebtedness, see Courts, 304, 379.

117. Contracts involving indebtedness or expenditures.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 116.

Laws 1893, p. 241, c. 99, relative to excavations of public waterways by private contract, with liens on state tide lands for the compensation, does not provide for the contracting of a debt by or on behalf of the state in contravention of Const. art. 8, § 3, there being merely a provision for the lands becoming liable for the improvements after the state has parted with its interest therein. Judgment, Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 77 P. 845, 35 Wash. 503, affirmed.—Seattle Dock Co. v. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co., 25 S. Ct. 789, 195 U. S. 624, 49 L. Ed. 350.

119. Limitation of use of funds or credit.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 118; 10 Cent. Dig. Const. Law, § 731.

The prohibition in Const. Ark. art. 10, § 6, against loaning the credit of the state "without the consent of the people thereof, expressed through the ballot box," withdrew the authority given by Act Ark. March 18, 1867, to issue, without such consent, in aid of construction of railroads, bonds of the state which should be a lien on the property of the company receiving them.—McKittrick v. Arkansas Cent. R. Co., 152 U. S. 473, 14 S. Ct. 661, 38 L. Ed. 518.

Laws 1893, p. 241, c. 99, relative to excavation of public waterways by private contract, with liens on state tide lands for the compensation, does not contravene Const. art. 12, § 9, and Id. art. 8, § 5, providing that the credit of the state shall not be given to any individual, the state not being liable to discharge the lien, but it being provided that the lands shall be appraised, and not sold for less than the appraised value, and that the purchasers shall take subject to the liens, and that, if the preference right purchasers do not purchase the remedy of the contractor shall be to purchase at the appraised value. Judgment, Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 77 P. 845, 35 Wash. 503, affirmed.—Seattle Dock Co. v. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co., 25 S. Ct. 789, 195 U. S. 624, 49 L. Ed. 350.

135. Warrants and certificates of indebtedness.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, §§ 133-139.

139. — Construction and operation.

A warrant drawn by state authorities in payment of an appropriation made by the legislature for a debt due from the state to an individual, and payable upon presentation if there be funds in the treasury, cannot be deemed a bill of credit, in violation of Const. U. S. art. 1, § 10, or to be a treasury warrant intended to circulate as money, in violation of Const. Tex. 1845, art. 7, § 8, although the state directs its officers to receive such warrants as money in payment of certain dues to the state, and to deliver them to those who would receive them as money in payment of dues from the state, but not to reissue them when once they come back to the treasury of the state. Judgment 41 S. W. 157, reversed.—Houston & T. O. R. Co. v. State of Texas, 20 S. Ct. 545, 177 U. S. 66, 44 L. Ed. 673.

145. Bills of credit and other securities intended to circulate as money.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 141.

Coupons for interest on the bonds of Virginia, providing that the state will pay to bearer a certain amount due as interest at a certain day, and that such coupons shall be receivable at and after maturity for taxes due the state, are not bills of credit, within the meaning of Const. U. S. art. 1, § 10, providing that no state shall "emit bills of credit," as such coupons are not intended to circulate as money.—Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U. S. 270, 5 S. Ct. 903, 962, 29 L. Ed. 185; Chaffin v. Taylor, 116 U. S. 567, 6 S. Ct. 518, 29 L. Ed. 727.

The issue of revenue bond scrip under Act S. C. March 2, 1872, to relieve the state of South Carolina of all liability on its guaranty indorsed upon railway bonds by authority of Act Sept. 15, 1868, when, as this statute shows on its face, there was no outstanding liability represented by the guaranty, comes within the prohibition of Const. April 16, 1868, art. 9, § 10, against issuing scrip except for the redemption of an "evidence of indebtedness previously issued" where neither statute purported to be an adjustment of a claim against the state permitted by Const. art. 14, § 4. Judgment, (C. C.) Robinson v. Lee, 122 F. 1012, affirmed.—Lee v. Robinson, 25 S. Ct. 180, 196 U. S. 64, 49 L. Ed. 388.

146. Bonds and other securities.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, §§ 142-160.

160. — Rights of payees or original purchasers.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, §§ 151, 152.

A state cannot be compelled to pay interest on its bonds after the principal has become due, unless its consent to pay such interest has been manifested by an act of its legislature, or by a lawful contract of its executive officers.—United States v. State of North Carolina, 136 U. S. 211, 10 S. Ct. 920, 34 L. Ed. 336.

No authority to the officers of the state of North Carolina to bind it by an obligation to pay interest on bonds after maturity can be implied from Act N. C. Dec. 22, 1852, which requires the principal of bonds issued under it to be made payable at a day named in the bonds, and interest coupons to be attached to them, but which makes no mention of interest after the date at which the interest is payable.—Id.

Where a state executes, registers, and delivers its bonds, and the interest coupons attached, in the home state, and makes them payable at a bank in another state, merely for the convenience of the bondholders, the payment of interest is governed by its own laws, and not by the laws of the state in which the bonds are made payable.—Id.

Under Acts Ga. 1866, p. 127, the state indorsed the bonds of a railroad company to the amount of nearly $2,000,000, at the rate of $10,000 per mile, taking a mortgage as security. Under Acts Ga. 1870, p. 336, the state was authorized to indorse the company's bonds to the extent of $3,000 in addition to the $10,000, but no mortgage was reserved to the state; and the constitution then provided that the credit of the state should not be given unless the whole of the property of the company aided should be bound therefor. The bonds did not refer to the mortgage of the state under the act of 1866, nor purport to be secured thereby. On default, in 1875, the state bought the road, and afterwards sold it, and retired the first bonds. Held, that the holders of the bonds under the act of 1870 were not subrogated to the mortgage security of the state under the act of 1866, nor were they direct mortgage creditors with a lien on the property.—Cunningham v. Macon & B. R. Co., 156 U. S. 400, 15 S. Ct. 361, 39 L. Ed. 471.

167. — Payment of interest and coupons.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 159.

Under Act Va. Jan. 14, 1882, providing that when coupons of the state bonds are tendered in payment of taxes the taxpayer shall be required to pay the taxes in money but that the coupons shall be received and receipted for and submitted to the proper authorities for verification, when the taxpayer shall be entitled to bring an action for the amount so paid, a mandamus will lie to compel the treasurer to receive coupons so tendered in payment of a revenue license to practice law under Act Va. Feb. 7, 1884.—Sands v. Edmunds, 116 U. S. 585, 6 S. Ct. 516, 29 L. Ed. 739.

168. — Actions.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 160.

Individual owners of bonds issued by the state of North Carolina, each of which is secured by a separate mortgage of ten shares of railroad stock belonging to that state, are not necessary parties defendant to a suit by the state of South Dakota, as the owner of certain of these bonds, to compel payment and a subjection of the mortgaged property to the satisfaction of the debt.—State of South Dakota v. State of North Carolina, 24 S. Ct. 269, 192 U. S. 286, 48 L. Ed. 443.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, §§ 179-184; 12 Cent. Dig. Corp. § 1910.

County treasurers sought to be enjoined from collecting state taxes because of an asserted contract exemption from taxation were endowed with the power to submit the rights of the state to judicial determination by a provision of the statute under which the taxes were levied, that, if the state is interested in the revenue involved in actions against county auditors and treasurers for performing or attempting to perform their duties, the state auditor shall be informed, who shall, in turn, notify the Attorney General, "who shall defend said action for and on behalf of the state."—Gunter v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 26 S. Ct. 252, 200 U. S. 273, 50 L. Ed. 477.

Suit by an alien to enjoin attorney general and county attorney from enforcing Anti-Alien Labor Law, Ariz., as repugnant to the federal Constitution, is not a suit against the state.—Truax v. Raich, 36 S. Ct. 7, 239 U. S. 33, 60 L. Ed. 131, affirming order (D. C.) Raich v. Truax, 219 F. 273.

192. Rights of action by state or state officers.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 185.

Foreign corporations will be enjoined at the suit of the state of Georgia from so discharging sulphurous fumes from their works in Tennessee as to pollute the air over large tracts of territory in Georgia, and to cause and threaten wholesale damage to forests and vegetable life therein, if not to health.—State of Georgia v. Tennessee Copper Co., 27 S. Ct. 618, 206 U. S. 230, 51 L. Ed. 1038, 11 Ann. Cas. 488.

Kansas, having recognized the right to appropriate the waters of a stream for irrigation purposes, subject to the condition of an equitable division between riparian proprietors, is not entitled to enjoin Colorado from diminishing the flow of the Arkansas river by appropriating its waters for purposes of irrigation, which has resulted in reclaiming large areas of arid lands in Colorado, while the influence of such diminution, though of perceptible injury to some portions of the Arkansas valley in Kansas, has worked little, if any, detriment to the great body of the valley.—State of Kansas v. State of Colorado, 27 S. Ct. 655, 206 U. S. 46, 51 L. Ed. 956.

The state of Iowa has an interest in the condition of a nonnavigable lake sufficient to enable it to maintain a suit to enjoin drainage of such lake by one without title, whether the state or the United States owns the bed of the lake.—Marshall Dental Mfg. Co. v. State of Iowa, 33 S. Ct. 168, 226 U. S. 460, 57 L. Ed. 300, affirming decree State v. Jones, 122 N. W. 241, 143 Iowa, 398.

⚡201. Time to sue, limitations, and laches.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 192.

The state of Georgia has not been guilty of such laches as bars her right to injunctive relief against the pollution of air over large tracts of her territory, and the destruction of forests and vegetable life therein by sulphurous gases discharged by foreign corporations from their works in Tennessee, where such conditions have not obtained until recent years, and the dismissal, without prejudice of a similar bill filed in 1904, was due to the mistaken belief that changes in the process of manufacture then in progress would remove the evil.—State of Georgia v. Tennessee Copper Co., 27 S. Ct. 618, 206 U. S. 230, 51 L. Ed. 1038, 11 Ann. Cas. 488.

⚡203. Parties.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, §§ 195, 196; 37 Cent. Dig. Parties, § 47.

Where a state asks for an order of the court directing that certain property on which it has levied for taxes be withdrawn from the hands of receivers in foreclosure proceedings, but declines to become a party to the suit, it assumes a position in which it is not bound by any ruling of the court.—State of Georgia v. Jesup, 106 U. S. 458, 1 S. Ct. 363, 27 L. Ed. 216.

Act N. C. Feb. 12, 1855, enacting that certain railroad stock held by the state shall be pledged, together with any dividends that may be declared thereon, to the payment of certain bonds and interest coupons issued by the state, does not create an actual pledge, but, at most, a mortgage, which cannot be enforced, as the state is a necessary party, and cannot be sued.—Christian v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co., 133 U. S. 233, 10 S. Ct. 260, 33 L. Ed. 589.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 199.

Where a state loaned its credit in aid of a railroad by indorsement of the railroad company's bonds, under a statute (Act Ala. Feb. 11, 1870) providing that none of the bonds should be sold for less than 90 cents on the dollar, and making the directors, officers, incorporators, and stockholders guilty of a violation of that provision individually liable for the loss incurred by the state in consequence thereof, a declaration, in an action by the state, setting out that a large number of bonds were sold for less than 90 cents, but failing to connect that fact with any loss suffered by the state, is demurrable as failing to state a cause of action.—State of Alabama v. Burr, 115 U. S. 413, 6 S. Ct. 81, 29 L. Ed. 435.

Where a state loaned its credit to a railroad company by indorsing its bonds under a statute (Act Ala. Feb. 19, 1867) which provided that the stockholders should be individually liable for all losses incurred by the state in consequence of frauds perpetrated by the company, a declaration setting out gross frauds of the company, its officers and agents, on innocent stockholders, but failing to connect them with the loss suffered by the state, which was in fact caused by a deficiency in the value of the security for its loan of credit stipulated for in the act, is demurrable as failing to state a cause of action.—Id.

Under Act Ala. Feb. 19, 1867, authorizing a loan of the state's credit in aid of a railroad by the indorsement of its bonds by the governor on certain facts being made to appear, and making the stockholders individually liable for the payment of all bonds, the indorsement of which is fraudulently obtained by the company, or which were sold at less than 90 cents on the dollar, and for all other losses incurred by the state in consequence of any other fraud of the company, a declaration in an action by the state against the stockholders, which does not seek to enforce a liability on the bonds, but which sets up the obtaining of an indorsement of a fraudulent overissue of bonds as a cause of action, is demurrable.—Id.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 201.

Execution will not issue on a money judgment against a state, where the Legislature has not met since rendition of the judgment and will not meet until assembling of new Legislature, the members of which had not been chosen.—Commonwealth of Virginia v. State of West Virginia, 36 S. Ct. 719, 241 U. S. 531, 60 L. Ed. 1147.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 202.

Where, in a suit against persons for property which they claim to hold as custodians of the state, the state does not intervene, but expressly refuses to submit its rights to the jurisdiction of the court, it cannot have reviewed the refusal of the court to dismiss the complaint against the defendants on the suggestion of the state that the action was really against the state, brought without its consent, and that the court had no jurisdiction.—State of South Carolina v. Wesley, 155 U. S. 542, 15 S. Ct. 230, 39 L. Ed. 254.

See 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 203.

Costs are properly allowed to defendants on the dismissal, by the Supreme Court of the United States, of the bill filed on behalf of the state of Missouri against the state of Illinois and the sanitary district of Chicago, to restrain the discharge of the sewage of Chicago through an artificial canal into the Mississippi river.—State of Missouri v. State of Illinois, 26 S. Ct. 713, 202 U. S. 598, 50 L. Ed. 1160.

City of Pittsburgh*, 28 S. Ct. 40, 207 U. S. 161, 52 L. Ed. 151, affirming judgment in re City of Pittsburgh, 66 A. 348, 217 Pa. 227; Appeal of Hunter, Id.

Act Feb. 7, 1906 (P. L. 7), authorizing cities in close proximity to be united, and providing for the temporary government of the consolidated city, and the payment of debts, etc., is within the scope of a proclamation of the Governor calling an extra session for the purpose of enabling cities in close proximity to be united in one municipality.—Id.

6. Powers of separate houses or branches of Legislature.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 5.

An act of congress providing a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and which, in furtherance of that object, and also to meet the expenses of executing the law, imposes a tax on the notes in circulation of banking associations organized thereunder, is not a revenue bill, such as the constitution declares must originate in the house of representatives. Therefore the taxing provisions of the national bank law, as contained in the forty-first section thereof, are not invalid because they originated in the senate after the law had first passed the house.—Twin City Nat. Bank v. Nebecker, 17 S. Ct. 766, 167 U. S. 196, 42 L. Ed. 134.

Bills for other than tax purposes, but which may incidentally create revenue, such as Act Feb. 12, 1901, cc. 353, 354, 31 Stat. 767, 774, and Act Feb. 28, 1903, c. 856, 32 Stat. 909, for the elimination of grade crossings and for a union railway station in the district of Columbia, which provide for the payment of a sum of money to the railway companies, to be raised by a tax on property in the District, are not revenue bills which, under Const. U. S. art. 1, § 7, cl. 1, must originate in the House of Representatives. Decree, 25 App. D. C. 221, affirmed.—Millard v. Roberts, 26 S. Ct. 674, 202 U. S. 429, 50 L. Ed. 1090.

The substitution in the Senate of a tax on corporations in lieu of the plan of inheritance taxation contained in a general bill for the collection of revenue as it came from the House of Representatives, where the bill originated, was not forbidden by the provisions of Const. U. S. art. 1, § 7, that all bills for the raising of revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.—Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 31 S. Ct. 342, 220 U. S. 107, 55 L. Ed. 389, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 1312.

The requirement of Const. art. 1, § 7, that revenue bills must originate in the House of Representatives, does not invalidate the provision of Tariff Act, § 37, imposing an excise tax on the use of foreign-built pleasure yachts, which was proposed by the Senate as an amendment; the bill itself originating in the House of Representatives.—Rainey v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 429, 232 U. S. 310, 58 L. Ed. 617, affirming order (C. C.) United States v. Billings, 190 F. 359, and modifying judgment (C. C.) Same v. Blair, 190 F. 372.

12. Introduction of bills.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 9.

Noncompliance with the formalities prescribed by the general laws of the state for the introduction of private bills in the Legislature does not nullify an act passed in disregard of such noncompliance. Decree (C. C. 1903) Manigault v. S. M. Ward & Co., 123 F. 707, affirmed.—Manigault v. Springs, 26 S. Ct. 127, 199 U. S. 473, 50 L. Ed. 274.

17. Passage of bills.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 17-17.

20. — Number of votes required.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 21-24, 27.

In the federal house of representatives, when a quorum is present, the votes of a majority of the quorum are sufficient to pass a bill.—United States v. Ballin, 144 U. S. 1, 12 S. Ct. 507, 36 L. Ed. 321, reversing judgment in re Ballin (C. C.) 45 F. 170.

§25. Approval or veto by executive authority.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 28-38; 13 Cent. Dig. Costs, § 2.

§30. — Effect of adjournment of Legislature.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 32; 13 Cent. Dig. Costs, § 2.

A bill passed by congress, and duly presented to the president during its session, may be signed by him, so as to make it a law, during a recess which congress has taken for a fixed period. Decree United States v. La Abra Silver Min. Co., 32 Ct. Cl. 462, affirmed.—La Abra Silver Min. Co. v. United States, 20 S. Ct. 168, 175 U. S. 423, 44 L. Ed. 223.

§45. Validity and sufficiency of provisions.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 46, 47.

§47. — Certainty and definiteness.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 47.

The words "except in case of emergency" in the proviso in Act March 4, 1907, c. 2939, § 3, 34 Stat. 1416 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 1171), making it unlawful for railway carriers engaged in transportation in the District of Columbia or the territories, or in interstate or foreign commerce, to require or permit employes engaged in such transportation to be or remain on duty for a longer period than that prescribed, do not make the application of the act so uncertain as to destroy its validity, even though the proviso in section 3, limiting the effect of the entire act, can be said to include everything which may be embraced within the term "emergency."—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 31 S. Ct. 621, 221 U. S. 612, 55 L. Ed. 878.

§49. — Possibility of performance or enforcement.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 46.

There is no such impossibility of the State Industrial Commission determining the quality of dirt in coal mined as to render invalid for impracticability, in advance of an attempt of the state to put the so-called Ohio "run-of-mine" or "anti-screen" law, in operation.—Rail & River Coal Co. v. Yaple, 35 S. Ct. 359, 236 U. S. 338, 59 L. Ed. 607, affirming decree (D. C.) 214 F. 278.

§51. Re-enactment, recital, or incorporation of previous act.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 48.

The provisions of a previous law which have been held unconstitutional cannot be considered as a part of a law subsequently enacted from which they are omitted, merely because they are not inconsistent with its provisions, and its repealing clause repeals any laws inconsistent therewith.—Vance v. W. A. Vandercook Co., 18 S. Ct. 674, 170 U. S. 438, 42 L. Ed. 1100, modifying judgment (C. C.) W. A. Vandercook v. Vance, 80 F. 786.

The fact that a law omits provisions of a former law relating to the same subject which have been declared unconstitutional negatives an intention to make them a part of the new law.—Id.

§53. Validity of provisions of territorial statutes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 52; 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, §§ 17, 18.

§54. — In general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 52.

Act Cong. May 2, 1890 (24 Stat. 81, c. 182, § 6), declaring that the legislative power of Oklahoma territory shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation not inconsistent with the United States constitution and laws, and Rev. St. U. S. § 1851, granting the same power to all the territories, authorized the Oklahoma legislature to pass Laws Okl. 1890, c. 14, creating a commission to investigate claims which arose against certain municipalities before laws had been enacted for their legal creation, and authorizing it to report its conclusions to the district court, and for the payment of such as should be finally allowed, by taxation.—Guthrie Nat. Bank v. City of Guthrie, 19 S. Ct. 513, 173 U. S. 528, 43 L. Ed. 796.

The legislature of Arizona was not authorized to repeal the act of congress of June 25, 1890 (26 Stat. 175, c. 612), by a provision therein that the territorial refunding act of March 18, 1887, which is substantially re-enacted, "is hereby amended," and "as amended the same is hereby approved and confirmed, subject to future territorial legislation."—Murphy v. Utter, 22 S. Ct. 776, 186 U. S. 95, 46 L. Ed. 1070.

The grant by Congress of common-law jurisdiction to the Arizona courts, made by Rev. St. U. S. §§ 1868, 1908, did not prevent the enactment of Rev. St. Ariz. 1887, par. 837, which discharges a motion for a new trial by operation of law if not acted upon at the same term, especially in view of the provision of Rev. St. U. S. § 1866, that the jurisdiction given by section 1908 "shall be limited by law."—James v. Appel, 24 S. Ct. 222, 192 U. S. 129, 48 L. Ed. 377.

Laws Wash. 1862-63, p. 262, providing for escheat on death of owner in fee without heirs, was within powers granted territorial legislature by Organic Act Wash. March 2, 1853, § 6.—Christianson v. King County, 36 S. Ct. 114, 239 U. S. 356, 60 L. Ed. 327, affirming judgment 203 F. 894, 122 C. C. A. 188.

Washington territorial legislature having authority under Organic Act March 2, 1853, § 6, to provide for escheat on failure of heirs, could provide as to the tribunal and procedure.—Id.

§55. — Contravention of organic act or other fundamental law.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 17.

The federal employer's liability act (Act June 11, 1906, c. 3073, § 1, 34 Stat. 232 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 891]), by undertaking to regulate commerce in the District of Columbia and the territories of the United States, necessarily superseded any otherwise applicable provisions of Act N. M. March 11, 1903 (Laws 1903, p. 51, c. 33), governing suits for death and personal injuries. Judgment, Gutierrez v. El Paso & N. E. R. Co. (Tex.) 117 S. W. 426, affirmed.—El Paso & N. E. Ry. Co. v. Gutierrez, 30 S. Ct. 21, 215 U. S. 87, 54 L. Ed. 106.

The granting of especial privileges by any form of legislative action, and not merely the conferring of such privileges as a part of the grant of a forbidden private character, was what was prohibited by the provision of Washington Organic Act March 2, 1867, c. 150, § 14 Stat. 426, that the territorial Legislature should not grant private charters or especial privileges, but might enact general incorporation acts.—(1912) Berryman v. Board of Trustees of Whitman College, 32 S. Ct. 147, 222 U. S. 334, 56 L. Ed. 225, reversing decree (C. C. 1907) Board of Trustees of Whitman College v. Berryman, 156 F. 112.

The generic prohibition against the granting of especial privileges, made by Washington Organic Act March 2, 1867, c. 150, 14 Stat. 426, cannot be construed as intended to forbid merely the creation of such privileges as a legislative grant of an exclusive right to ferries, bridges, etc., even if it be conceded that such grants were a common form of territorial legislative abuse prior to the adoption of that statute, and were the generating cause of the insertion of this prohibition.—Id.

A territorial statute giving perpetual succession to an incorporated educational institution, and endowing it with a perpetual exemption from taxation as to all its property, real and personal, grants an especial privilege within the meaning of the provisions of Washington Organic Act March 2, 1867, c. 150, 14 Stat. 426, that the territorial Legislature shall not grant private charters or especial privileges, but may enact general incorporation acts.—Id.

56. — Disapproval by Congress.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 18.

The annulment by Congress of territorial legislation conformably to the provisions of Organic Act Sept. 9, 1850, c. 49, 9 Stat. 449, establishing the territory of New Mexico, that all territorial laws shall be submitted to Congress, and, if disapproved, shall be null and of no effect, does not relate back so as to render invalid from the time of enactment territorial laws duly enacted and within the legislative power of the territory, but such laws remain in force until Congress acts. Judgment (Tex. Civ. App. 1907) 99 S. W. 190, affirmed.—Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Sowers, 29 S. Ct. 397, 213 U. S. 55, 53 L. Ed. 695.

The assent of Congress to the grant of an especial privilege by the territorial Legislature, contrary to the express provisions of the organic act, cannot be implied from its failure to disapprove such enactment.—(1912) Berryman v. Board of Trustees of Whitman College, 32 S. Ct. 147, 222 U. S. 334, 56 L. Ed. 225, reversing decree (C. C. 1907) Board of Trustees of Whitman College v. Berryman, 156 F. 112.

57. Determination of validity of enactment.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 51, 53-57, 196.

58. — Judicial authority and duty in general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 51, 53, 54, 196.

The courts will not go behind enrolled bills duly attested as passed, approved, and filed in the proper depository, on a bill to restrain collection of taxes thereby levied for payment of bonds issued to pay for public buildings, on the ground that members of one house of the legislature by which they were passed were seated without certificates of election.—Lyons v. Woods, 153 U. S. 649, 14 S. Ct. 959, 38 L. Ed. 854, affirming decree 5 N. M. 327, 21 P. 346.

Under the provisions of the organic act of the territory of New Mexico and of the Revised Statutes relating to the passage of territorial statutes, where an enrolled bill is duly attested as passed by the signatures of the president of the council and the speaker of the house, duly approved by the governor, filed in the office of the secretary of the territory, certified and published by him, and not disapproved by congress, its authentication is unimpeachable in the territorial courts.—Lyons v. Woods, 153 U. S. 649, 14 S. Ct. 959, 38 L. Ed. 854, affirming decree 5 N. M. 327, 21 P. 346, and following Field v. Clark, 143 U. S. 649, 12 S. Ct. 405, 36 L. Ed. 294.

64. Effect of partial invalidity.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 58-66, 196; 12 Cent. Dig. Costs, § 2.

Although a statute may be invalid or unconstitutional in part, the part that is valid will be sustained where it can be separated from that part which is void.—Presser v. State of Illinois, 116 U. S. 252, 6 S. Ct. 580, 29 L. Ed. 615.

Where, by rejecting certain exceptions in the statute as conflicting, the legislature is made to enact what it never meant to enact, the entire statute must be held as null.—Sprague v. Thompson, 118 U. S. 90, 6 S. Ct. 988, 30 L. Ed. 115.

The provision made by Tariff Act Oct. 1, 1890 (section 1, par. 231), for the payment of bounties to the sugar producers of the United States, is not so intimately connected with the provisions relating to duties on imports as that a decision declaring that provision unconstitutional would invalidate the whole statute.—Field v. Clark, 143 U. S. 649, 12 S. Ct. 495, 36 L. Ed. 294.

The fact that Pub. Acts Mich. 1891, No. 50, providing for the election of presidential electors, conflicts with Act Cong. Feb. 3, 1887, c. 90, 24 Stat. 373 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 67] in that it fixes a different date for the electors to meet and give their votes, does not vitiate the whole act.—McPherson v. Blacker, 146 U. S. 1, 13 S. Ct. 3, 36 L. Ed. 869, affirming judgment Same v. Secretary of State 92 Mich. 377, 52 N. W. 469, 16 L. R. A. 475, 31 Am. St. Rep. 587.

The tax imposed by Act Aug. 28, 1894, §§ 27-37, so far as it falls on income of real estate and of personal property being invalid, all such sections constituting one entire scheme of taxes are necessarily invalid.—Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 158 U. S. 601, 15 S. Ct. 912, 39 L. Ed. 1108.

A statute rendering insurance agents acting, without license from the auditor, for any "foreign company, corporation, association, or partnership," personally liable on policies issued by them, being admittedly valid so far as it concerns foreign corporations, and its provisions being separable as to the different bodies named, will not be held unconstitutional in a suit against the agent of such a corporation, though, as applied to associations, partnerships, or individuals, it may not be valid.—Noble v. Mitchell, 17 S. Ct. 110, 164 U. S. 367, 41 L. Ed. 472.

The unconstitutionality of the mode of assessment provided by Act Gen. Assem. Ohio, April 27, 1893, § 3, if conceded, would not defeat the other portions of the act, which provide for the making of a street improvement and the issuance of bonds by the town to pay therefor. Judgment (C. C.) 91 F. 37, reversed.—Loeb v. Trustees of Columbia Tp., 21 S. Ct. 174, 179 U. S. 472, 45 L. Ed. 280.

An elimination of the unconstitutional portion of the Illinois trust act of June 20, 1893, which exempts agriculturists and live stock dealers from the provisions which prohibit combinations in restraint of trade, cannot be made without bringing these classes of persons within the prohibitions of the statute, in contravention of the legislative intent, and therefore the entire act must be held invalid. Judgment, Union Sewer Pipe Co. v. Connolly (C. C.) 99 F. 354, affirmed.—Connolly v. Union Sewer Pipe Co., 22 S. Ct. 431, 184 U. S. 540, 46 L. Ed. 670.

The validity of Rev. St. Wis. 1898, §§ 1770b, 4978, so far as it prohibits foreign corporations from transacting business within the state until they have filed a copy of their charter with the secretary of state, is not affected by its possible invalidity as respects partnerships, where it is apparent on the face of the statute that the application of its provisions to corporations is severable from and independent of its application to partnerships.—Diamond Glue Co. v. United States Glue Co., 23 S. Ct. 206, 187 U. S. 611, 47 L. Ed. 328.

Even if Laws 1893, p. 241, c. 99, relative to excavations of public waterways by private contract, with liens on state tide lands for the compensation, grants a special privilege and a monopoly, in contravention of Const. art. 1, § 12, and Id. art. 12, § 22, in that it allows the contractor to erect locks in the waterway, and to exercise exclusive control thereof, and collect toll for his private gain, this is a separable part of the act, and leaves unaffected thereby the part relative to compensation for the improvements. Judgment, Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 77 P. 845, 35 Wash. 508, affirmed.—Seattle Dock Co. v. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co., 25 S. Ct. 789, 195 U. S. 624, 49 L. Ed. 350.

The validity of so much of Laws N. C. 1905, c. 538, enacted to prevent dealing in futures, as makes indictable the carrying on of a "bucket shop" business, is not affected by any repugnancy to the due process of law or equal protection of the laws clause of Const. U. S. Amend. 14, the provisions of that act raise a prima facie presumption of guilt from the proof of certain acts when done by persons generally, and not when done by those engaged in manufacturing or wholesale merchandising. Judgment, State v. Gatewood (1905) 51 S. E. 53, 138 N. C. 749, affirmed.—Gatewood v. State of North Carolina, 27 S. Ct. 167, 203 U. S. 531, 51 L. Ed. 305.

The invalidity, as applied to intrastate commerce, of the provision of Employers' Liability Act July 11, 1906, c. 3073, 34 Stat. 232 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 891], that "every common carrier engaged in trade or commerce" in the District of Columbia or in the territories or between the several states shall be liable for the death or injury of "any of its employees" which may result from the negligence of "any of its officers, agents, or employees," invalidates such provision as applied to interstate commerce. Judgments (C. C. 1906) Brooks v. Southern Pac. Co., 148 F. 986, and (C. C. 1907) Howard v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 148 F. 997, affirmed.—Howard v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 28 S. Ct. 141, 207 U. S. 463, 52 L. Ed. 297.

The invalidity of provisions as to gas pressure and penalties in Laws N. Y. 1905, p. 2091, c. 736, and Laws 1906, p. 235, c. 125, regulating rates in New York City, does not avoid provisions as to rates, from which the invalid provisions are clearly separable. Decree (C. C. 1907) Consolidated Gas Co. v. City of New York, 157 F. 849, reversed.—Willcox v. Consolidated Gas Co. of New York, 29 S. Ct. 192, 212 U. S. 19, 53 L. Ed. 352, 15 Ann. Cas. 1034, 48 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1134.

The possible unconstitutionality of Sess. Laws Okl. 1899, p. 188, c. 21, § 4, making it an offense to sell products of petroleum which do not conform to the statutory standard, does not affect the validity of the other sections which provide for inspection and branding. Judgment (1907) 89 P. 212, 18 Okl. 107, affirmed.—Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. Deselms, 20 S. Ct. 270, 212 U. S. 159, 53 L. Ed. 453.

The possible invalidity as to individual carriers of the provisions of Elkins Act Feb. 19, 1903, c. 708, 32 Stat. 847 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 880), imputing to the carrier the acts, omissions, or failures of its officers and agents, acting within the scope of their employment, does not affect the validity of so much of that act as imputes to corporate carriers the commission by officers and agents, acting within the scope of their employment, of criminal violations of the prohibitions of that act against rebates. Judgment (C. C. 1906) United States v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 146 F. 298; Same v. Guilford, Id., affirmed.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. United

The possible invalidity of the clause of Hepburn Act June 29, 1906, c. 3591, 34 Stat. 584 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 892), imposing penalties for violations of its provisions forbidding railway carriers from transporting in interstate commerce commodities with which they are associated, or in which they are interested cannot affect the validity of these provisions, since the penalty clause is wholly separable therefrom. Judgment and decree (C. C. 1908) 164 F. 215, reversed.—United States v. Delaware & H. Co., 29 S. Ct. 527, 213 U. S. 366, 53 L. Ed. 836.

The invalidity, so far as interstate commerce is concerned of the provisions of the federal employers' liability act (Act June 11, 1906, c. 3073, § 1, 34 Stat. 232 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 891]), does not invalidate such of its provisions as attempt to regulate commerce within the District of Columbia and the territories. Judgment, Gutierrez v. El Paso & N. E. R. Co. (Tex.) 117 S. W. 426, affirmed.—El Paso & N. E. Ry. Co. v. Gutierrez, 30 S. Ct. 21, 215 U. S. 87, 54 L. Ed. 106.

The unconstitutional portion of Gen. St. Kan. 1901, § 1283, under which a foreign corporation may be required to make and file a statement of its financial condition as a condition of doing interstate business in the state, cannot be separated from the further provision in the same section that the obtaining of the certificate of the Secretary of State that such statement has been properly made shall be a condition precedent to the right of the corporation to maintain an action in the Kansas courts, but both provisions must fall together. Judgment (1907) 91 P. 74, 76 Kan. 328, reversed.—International Text-Book Co. v. Pigg, 30 S. Ct. 481, 217 U. S. 91, 54 L. Ed. 678, 27 L. R. A. (N. S.) 493, 18 Ann. Cas. 1103.

The possible invalidity under the due process of law clause of the federal Constitution of the provisions as to penalties, contained in Gen. Laws Tex. 1905, c. 148, § 9, taxing wholesale dealers in oils, does not invalidate the wholly independent provisions of that statute for the collection by civil suit of the taxes due the state. Judgment (1907) 103 S. W. 489, 100 Tex. 647, affirmed.—Southwestern Oil Co. v. State of Texas, 30 S. Ct. 496, 217 U. S. 114, 54 L. Ed. 688.

The imprisonment features of the provisions of the Philippine Penal Code for the punishment of the falsification by a public official of a public and official document are not separable from the invalid accessory punishments therein provided of deprivation of civil rights and subjection to perpetual disqualification to enjoy political rights, and to perpetual surveillance of the authorities.—Weems v. United States, 30 S. Ct. 544, 217 U. S. 349, 54 L. Ed. 793, 19 Ann. Cas. 705.

The invalidity, so far as the federal Supreme Court is concerned, as requiring non-judicial action, of the provisions of Act March 1, 1907, c. 2285, 34 Stat. 1015, attempting to confer jurisdiction upon the court of claims, and, by appeal, upon the Supreme Court, of suits against the United States, to be brought by certain named Cherokee Indians, for themselves and all others similarly situated, to determine the validity of congressional legislation subsequent to Act July 1, 1902, c. 1375, 32 Stat. 76, in so far as such legislation purports to increase or extend the restrictions upon alienation, incumbency, or the right to lease the allotments of lands of Cherokee citizens, or to increase the number of persons entitled to share in the final distribution of the Cherokee lands and funds, defeats the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims as well, since an intention cannot be imputed to Congress to confer jurisdiction on that court separately considered.—(1911) Muskat v. United States, 31 S. Ct. 250, 219 U. S. 346, 55 L. Ed. 246, reversing judgment (1909) 44 Ct. Cl. 137, and Brown v. Same (1909) 44 Ct. Cl. 283.

The gross revenue tax exacted from a non-resident express company by Laws Okl. 1910, c. 44, cannot be construed, to save its constitutionality, as referring only to receipts from commerce wholly within the state.—Meyer v. Wells Fargo & Co., 32 S. Ct. 218, 223 U. S. 298, 56 L. Ed. 445.

The validity of Comp. St. Neb. 1911, c. 21, §§ 3, 4, in so far as they impose liability on a railroad company for injury to an employé engaged in interstate commerce, from the negligence of a coemployé, and modify the rule of contributory negligence, is not affected because such statute covers subjects dealt with by Safety Appliance Act March 2, 1893, as to negligence of railway companies relating to cars, roadbed, etc.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Castle, 32 S. Ct. 606, 224 U. S. 541, 56 L. Ed. 875.

The invalidity, as applied to the states, of the provisions of Civil Rights Act March 1, 1875, §§ 1, 2, intended to secure equal accommodations to all persons and to punish forbidden discrimination by a penalty and criminal prosecution, invalidates the law as applied to other places, within the jurisdiction of the United States, such as an American vessel on the high seas more than a marine league from land and the District of Columbia and the territories.—Butts v. Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co., 33 S. Ct. 964, 230 U. S. 126, 57 L. Ed. 1422.

Railway rates established by the Oregon railroad commission will not be denied effect for any invalidity of the separable penal provisions of Laws Or. 1907, p. 67, on which the commission acted.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Campbell, 33 S. Ct. 1027, 230 U. S. 537, 57 L. Ed. 1610, affirming decree (C. C.) 189 F. 182.

The validity of Act Ky. March 10, 1900 (Ky. St. § 820a), relating to rate-making by railroad commission, is not affected by possible invalidity of penalty attached on disobedience of the commission's order.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Garrett, 34 S. Ct. 48, 231 U. S. 298, 58 L. Ed. 229, affirming order (C. C.) 186 F. 176.

The possible invalidity of the penalty provisions of Pub. Acts Mich. 1909, No. 300, as amended by Pub. Acts 1911, No. 139, which are in a section by themselves because precluding an appeal to the courts to restrain enforcement of that statute for the compulsory interchange of railway traffic, does not affect the validity of the latter provisions.—Grand Trunk R. Co. of Canada v. Michigan R. R. Commission, 34 S. Ct. 152, 231 U. S. 457, 58 L. Ed. 310, affirming decree (D. C.) 198 F. 1009.

The unconstitutionality of the attempt to prevent access to the federal courts under Act Okl. May 26, 1908 (Laws 1908, c. 16, art. 4), providing for revocation of license to do business within the state of every corporation who shall assert in any court of the state a domicile within another state, renders invalid that part of the statute which imposes a local citizenship on every corporation doing business in the state.—Harrison v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 34 S. Ct. 333, 232 U. S. 318, 58 L. Ed. 621, L. R. A. 1915F. 1187, affirming decree (C. C.) St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Cross, 171 F. 480.

The invalidity, as applied to interstate business conducted by a foreign corporation in a border county, of the license tax imposed by Act Ala. March 31, 1911 (Laws 1911, p. 180) §§ 32, 33f, on the business of selling sewing machines, does not affect the validity of the tax as to business conducted in other counties in which there is no element of interstate commerce.—

Singer Sewing Mach. Co. v. Brickell, 34 S. Ct. 493, 233 U. S. 304, 58 L. Ed. 974.

Neither forms of classification nor methods of enumeration should be made the basis for striking down a voting standard prescribed by a state, which was legally enacted, because of invalidity under the federal Constitution of another test with which the legal provisions may have been associated.—Guinn v. United States, 35 S. Ct. 926, 238 U. S. 347, 59 L. Ed. 1340, L. R. A. 1916A, 1124.

The invalidity under Const. U. S. Amend. 15, of the exemption from the literacy test prescribed by 1910 amendment of Const. Okl. art. 3, § 4a, as condition of voting which that amendment makes that persons of certain age were entitled to vote and their lineal descendants, renders invalid the literacy test itself.—Id.

Invalidity under Const. U. S. Amend. 15, of provision of Laws Md. 1908, c. 525, conferring right to vote at municipal election in Annapolis on all citizens entitled to vote prior to January 1, 1868, renders invalid other qualifications.—Myers v. Anderson, 35 S. Ct. 932, 238 U. S. 868, 59 L. Ed. 1349, affirming judgment (C. C.) Anderson v. Myers, 182 F. 223.

Unconstitutionality of classification in Act La. No. 10 of 1915, regulating business of sugar refiners, requires that the whole act fall as a whole.—McFarland v. American Sugar Refining Co., 36 S. Ct. 498, 241 U. S. 79, 60 L. Ed. 899, affirming decree (D. C.) American Sugar Refining Co. v. McFarland, 229 F. 284.

Possible invalidity of so much of Pub. Acts Mich. 1913, No. 301, regulating employment agencies, as prescribes the fees, does not affect other provisions of the act from which it is separable.—Brazee v. People of State of Michigan, 36 S. Ct. 561, 241 U. S. 340, 60 L. Ed. 1034, affirming judgment People v. Brazee, 149 N. W. 1053, 183 Mich. 259.

II. GENERAL AND SPECIAL OR LOCAL LAWS.

See District of Columbia, ¶5.

Grant of special privileges or immunities, see Constitutional Law, ¶205.

Laws granting divorce, see Divorce, ¶5.

Right of territories to enact, see Territories, ¶15.

¶79. Grant and regulation of franchises, privileges, and immunities.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 84, 85.

A county is not a corporation within the meaning of Const. Neb. art. 3, § 15, prohibiting the legislature from passing any special law "granting to any corporation, association, or individual any exclusive privileges, immunities, or franchises."—Sherman County v. Simonds, 109 U. S. 735, 3 S. Ct. 502, 27 L. Ed. 1093.

¶80. Creation and regulation of corporations and corporate offices.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 86-89.

Const. Ga. 1868, art. 8, § 6, cl. 5, providing that "the general assembly shall have no power to grant corporate powers and privileges to private companies [with certain exceptions], but it shall prescribe by law the manner in which such powers shall be exercised by the courts," applies to the granting of corporate franchises, and does not take away from the general assembly the power to amend the charters of existing corporations by modifying or enlarging their powers.—Jones v. Habersham, 107 U. S. 174, 2 S. Ct. 336, 27 L. Ed. 401.

Const. Neb. art. 8, § 1, forbidding the legislature to pass any special act conferring corporate powers, is not infringed by a statute empowering certain counties to issue bonds for the payment of valid debts previously contracted.—

Sherman County v. Simonds, 109 U. S. 735, 3 S. Ct. 502, 27 L. Ed. 1093.

⇨90. Incorporation, alteration, and dissolution of municipalities.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 98-100.

Act Feb. 7, 1906 (P. L. 7), authorizing the consolidation of contiguous cities, is not in violation of Const. art. 3, § 7, forbidding local or special legislation, though at the time of its passage the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny were the only ones in the state to which such legislation would technically apply.—Hunter v. City of Pittsburgh, 28 S. Ct. 40, 207 U. S. 161, 52 L. Ed. 151, affirming judgment in re City of Pittsburgh, 66 A. 348, 217 Pa. 227; Appeal of Hunter, Id.

⇨91. Classification of counties, towns, and municipal corporations.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 101, 102.

⇨92. — Grounds and validity.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 101.

An act of a territorial legislature classifying the counties of the territory according to the equalized assessed valuation of the property therein, and fixing the salaries of county officers in each class at specified amounts—those in the first class receiving the largest salaries, and those in the last class the smallest (Laws 1895, p. 68)—is not a local or special law, within the meaning of the act of congress of July 30, 1886, forbidding the passage of such laws by the territories in certain cases.—Harwood v. Wentworth, 162 U. S. 547, 16 S. Ct. 890, 40 L. Ed. 1069.

⇨93. — Validity of acts relating to classes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 102; 44 Cent. Dig. States, § 81.

Legislation for all cities of the state except those of the first class, such as that made by Act Cal. March 15, 1883, as amended March 1, 1893, authorizing outstanding bonded indebtedness to be refunded on certain conditions, is not repugnant to constitutional restrictions upon special legislation. Judgment, City of Santa Cruz v. Waite, 98 F. 387, 39 C. C. A. 106, reversed.—Waite v. City of Santa Cruz, 22 S. Ct. 327, 184 U. S. 302, 46 L. Ed. 552.

⇨94. Regulation of government and affairs of counties, towns, and municipalities in general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 103, 104.

Including in Laws N. M. 1909, c. 80, relating to changing of county seats, provisions that the place to which it is intended to remove the county seat shall be at least twenty miles distant from the then county seat, does not make the law a local one within the prohibition contained in Act Cong. July 30, 1886, § 1, prohibiting enactment by territorial Legislature of local or special laws changing county seats.—Gray v. Taylor, 33 S. Ct. 199, 227 U. S. 51, 57 L. Ed. 413, affirming decree 113 P. 588, 15 N. M. 742, and affirming judgment Territory v. Board of Com'rs of Lincoln County, 117 P. 1127, 16 N. M. 467.

⇨97. Establishment and regulation of highways, bridges, and other public works.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 106, 109.

A navigable stream is not a highway in the sense that that word is used in the provision of Const. S. C. art. 3, § 34, forbidding the enactment of local or special laws "to lay out, open, alter, or work roads or highways." Decree (C. C.) Manigault v. S. M. Ward & Co., 123 F. 707, affirmed.—Manigault v. Springs, 26 S. Ct. 127, 199 U. S. 473, 50 L. Ed. 274.

⇨98. Establishment, organization, and jurisdiction of courts.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 110, 111; 43 Cent. Dig. Courts, § 384.

Laws Okl. 1890, c. 14, creating a board of commissioners to hear and determine claims against certain municipalities organized in the territory before laws had been provided for their creation by congress (and which claims, though creating no legal obligation, were deemed based on sufficient moral obligation), to provide for their investigation, and payment of such as were proper, by taxation, is not invalid as in contravention of Act Cong. July 30, 1886 (24 Stat. 170, c. 818), prohibiting territorial legislatures from passing any law to regulate practice in courts of justice.—Guthrie Nat. Bank v. City of Guthrie, 19 S. Ct. 513, 173 U. S. 528, 43 L. Ed. 796.

⇨104. Curative statutes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 116.

Where a city, without authority of law, has issued bonds to raise money for a high school building, and has received and enjoyed the proceeds thereof, an act subsequently passed, legalizing and making valid the bonds, rather deprives the city of the power to interpose an unconscionable defense to a just claim than grants it any new power, and is not in violation of Const. art. 8, § 1, providing that the legislature shall pass no special act conferring corporate powers.—Read v. City of Plattsmouth, 107 U. S. 568, 2 S. Ct. 208, 27 L. Ed. 414.

III. SUBJECTS AND TITLES OF ACTS.

⇨107. Acts relating to one or more subjects.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 121-134.

Act Neb. Feb. 15, 1869 (Laws 1869, p. 92), entitled "An act to enable counties, cities, and precincts to borrow money on their bonds, or to issue bonds to aid in the construction or completion of works of internal improvement in this state, and to legalize bonds already issued for such purpose," does not violate Const. Neb. 1867, art. 2, § 19, which provided that "no bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title."—Otoe County v. Baldwin, 111 U. S. 1, 4 S. Ct. 265, 28 L. Ed. 331.

Act Iowa, approved April 6, 1868, entitled "An act to authorize independent school districts to borrow money and issue bonds therefor for the purpose of erecting and completing school houses, legalizing bonds heretofore issued, and making school-orders draw 6 per cent. interest in certain cases," is not in violation of the provision in the constitution of that state which declares that "every act shall embrace but one subject, and matters properly connected therewith, which subject shall be expressed in the title."—Independent School Dist. of Ackley v. Hall, 113 U. S. 135, 5 S. Ct. 371, 28 L. Ed. 954.

Under Const. Ky. art. 2, § 37, requiring that no law enacted by the general assembly shall relate to more than one subject, which shall be expressed in the title, the act of January 30, 1878, entitled "An act authorizing the county of Carter, and those parts of Boyd and Elliott taken from Carter county, to compromise and settle with the holders of the bonds and coupons of interest executed by Carter county in its subscription to the capital stock of the Lexington & Big Sandy Railroad Company, and to levy and collect a tax for that purpose," is constitutional.—Carter County v. Sinton, 126 U. S. 517, 7 S. Ct. 650, 30 L. Ed. 701, affirming judgment (C. C.) Sinton v. County of Carter, 23 F. 535.

Laws 1893, p. 241, c. 99, entitled "An act prescribing the ways in which waterways for the uses of navigation may be excavated by private contract, providing for liens on tide and shore lands belonging to the state, granting rights of way across lands belonging to the state," does not violate the constitutional provision against embracing more than one subject, though the title is broad enough to include three, the real subject or purpose of the act being the excavation of public waterways by private contract, and the liens and rights of way provided for being merely incidental thereto. Judgment, Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 77 P. 845, 35 Wash. 503, affirmed.—Seattle Dock Co. v. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co., 25 S. Ct. 789, 195 U. S. 624, 49 L. Ed. 850.

109. Expression in title of subject of act in general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 126-139.

The title to a statute is sufficient, within the constitutional limitation that no law shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title, if it is not a cloak for legislating upon dissimilar matters, and the subjects embraced in the enacting clause are naturally connected with the subject expressed in the title.—Blair v. City of Chicago, 26 S. Ct. 427, 201 U. S. 400, 50 L. Ed. 801, reversing decree (C. C.) Govin v. City of Chicago, 132 F. 848.

Const. art. 4, § 28, providing that an act shall contain but one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in the title, does not require the title to designate the purpose of the act. Judgment, State v. Cantwell, 78 S. W. 569, 179 Mo. 245, affirmed.—Cantwell v. State of Missouri, 26 S. Ct. 749, 199 U. S. 602, 50 L. Ed. 329.

110. Titles and provisions of acts relating to particular subjects.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 129-191.

112. — Franchises, privileges, and immunities.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 140½.

A provision of a statute amending Rev. St. Mo. 1889, § 5869, which had exempted insurance companies doing business on the assessment plan from any provisions of the general insurance laws of the state except as therein distinctly set forth, by specially applying to such corporations, the provisions of section 5855, that suicide shall be no defense to a suit upon a policy of insurance, is within the title, "An act to repeal [Rev. St. Mo. 1889, § 5869], and to enact a new section in lieu thereof." Judgment 104 F. 638, 44 C. C. A. 93, affirmed.—Knights Templars' & Masons' Life Indemnity Co. v. Jarman, 23 S. Ct. 108, 187 U. S. 197, 47 L. Ed. 139.

113. — Corporations and corporate offices.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 141-144.

Const. III. 1848, provided that no private or local law should embrace more than one subject, and that this subject should be expressed in the title. An act entitled "An act to amend the charter of the Cairo & St. Louis Railroad Company" embraced provisions legalizing invalid municipal elections previously held for the purpose of voting subscriptions to railway stock. Held, that the tenor of the act was sufficiently expressed in its title.—City of Jonesboro v. Cairo & St. L. R. Co., 110 U. S. 192, 4 S. Ct. 67, 28 L. Ed. 116.

Where a statute is entitled "An act to amend the articles of association of" a railroad company, "and to extend the powers of and confer a charter upon the same," provisions authorizing incorporated townships to subscribe to the capital stock upon the assent of their legal voters, and legalizing the assent of voters given previous to the passage of the act, are fairly within the scope of the title, and the act is not in conflict with Const. III. 1848, art. 3, § 23, providing that no private or local law "shall embrace more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title."—Town of Mahomet v. Quackenbush, 117 U. S. 508, 6 S. Ct. 858, 29 L. Ed. 982.

Act N. J. March 31, 1869 (Laws 1869, c. 386), entitled "An act to enable the united companies to improve lands under water at Kill von Kull, and other places," does not contravene Const. N. J. art. 4, § 7, par. 4, the object of the law being to confirm the companies' title to the lands described, and all its provisions being pertinent thereto.—City of Hoboken v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 124 U. S. 656, 8 S. Ct. 643, 31 L. Ed. 543, affirming judgment (C. C.) 16 F. 816.

The provision of an act, entitled "An act to provide for the formation of street railways," making such act applicable to corporations of like character already organized and in operation, is within the general object of such act as expressed in its title.—City of Detroit v. Detroit Citizens' St. Ry. Co., 22 S. Ct. 410, 184 U. S. 368, 46 L. Ed. 592.

A statute entitled "An act to incorporate" a particular railway company does not, under the decisions of the Florida courts, bear a title sufficiently broad to embrace a grant of public land in aid of the construction of the authorized railway.—Peters v. Gilchrist, 32 S. Ct. 122, 222 U. S. 483, 56 L. Ed. 278.

115. — Rights of property, transfers, and incumbrances.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 150, 151.

Provisions of Laws Wash. 1862-63, p. 262, for escheat on death of an owner in fee without heirs, are adequately expressed in the title within meaning of Organic Act Wash. March 2, 1853, § 6.—Christianson v. King County, 36 S. Ct. 114, 239 U. S. 356, 60 L. Ed. 327, affirming judgment 203 F. 894, 122 C. C. A. 188.

117. — Civil remedies and proceedings.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 154-157.

The title of an amendatory state statute, which designates the particular sections of the Code of Civil Procedure which it purports to amend, satisfies a constitutional requirement that every act shall embrace but one subject, which subject shall be expressed in its title.—Ross v. Aguirre, 24 S. Ct. 22, 191 U. S. 60, 48 L. Ed. 94.

118. — Crimes and criminal prosecutions and punishments.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 158-160.

Act 28th Leg. p. 68, c. 50, entitled "An act to prohibit the buying and selling of pools or receiving or making bets on horse racing," is not repugnant to Const. art. 3, § 35, prohibiting bills from containing more than one "subject," to be expressed in the title, in that it prohibits "book making" in the body thereof, and does not mention it by that name in the title. Judgment, Ex parte Hernan (Tex. Cr. App.) 77 S. W. 225, 45 Tex. 343, affirmed.—Hernan v. State of Texas, 25 S. Ct. 800, 198 U. S. 579, 49 L. Ed. 1171.

120. — Counties, towns, and municipal corporations.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 163-172.

The provision of Const. N. J. art. 4, § 7, that "every law shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title," must be construed to mean that the title shall give a reasonable intimation of the matters under legislative consideration; and Act April 15, 1868, entitled "An act to set off from the township of Bloomfield, in the county of Essex, a new township, to be called the 'Township of Mont-chair," is not unconstitutional because, in consequence of a provision therein, that any act from which Bloomfield has been specially excepted shall apply to and be operative in Montclair, authority is given to the new township of Montclair, under Act April 9, 1868, to issue bonds in aid of the Montclair Railroad Company.—Inhabitants of Montclair Tp. v. Ramsdell, 107 U. S. 147, 2 S. Ct. 391, 27 L. Ed. 431.

—121. — Taxation, licenses, and public funds.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 146, 173, 174.

Act Feb. 25, 1875, entitled "An act to legalize certain taxes therein mentioned," and legalizing certain municipal bonds and the taxes levied to pay them, was not in conflict with Const. art. 2, § 19, providing that no bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in the title, since to legalize the taxes necessarily made the bonds valid.—Read v. City of Plattsburgh, 107 U. S. 568, 2 S. Ct. 208, 27 L. Ed. 414.

The purpose of Pub. Acts Mich. 1909, No. 49, to extend to telephone and telegraph companies provisions of Pub. Acts 1905, No. 282, for the assessment of property of certain classes of corporations and the method of collecting the same, held sufficiently expressed in the title.—Citizens' Telephone Co. v. Fuller, 33 S. Ct. 833, 229 U. S. 322, 57 L. Ed. 1206, affirming decree (C. C.) The Michigan Telephone Tax Cases, 185 F. 634.

—123. — Highways, bridges, and other public works.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 176-183.

The title of Laws 1893, p. 241, c. 99, relative to excavation of public waterways by private contract, with liens for the compensation, is sufficient though not indicating the power of the land commissioner to give the liens. Judgment, Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 77 P. 845, 35 Wash. 503, affirmed.—Seattle Dock Co. v. Seattle & L. W. Waterway Co., 25 S. Ct. 789, 195 U. S. 624, 49 L. Ed. 350.

IV. AMENDMENT, REVISION, AND CODIFICATION.

See Carriers, —18.

Amendment of corporate charters or acts of incorporation, see Corporations, —38.

—143. Invalidity of amendatory act as affecting act amended.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 211.

The validity of the original Michigan local option law held not affected by adoption of Pub. Acts 1899, No. 183, and Pub. Acts 1903, No. 170, which were nullities because unconstitutional.—Eberle v. People of State of Michigan, 34 S. Ct. 464, 232 U. S. 700, 58 L. Ed. 803, affirming judgment People v. Eberle, 133 N. W. 519, 167 Mich. 477.

Before a statute, especially one relating to taxation, should be held to be not subject to amendment or repeal, an intent not to amend or repeal must be so directly and unmistakably expressed as to leave no room for doubt. It is not so expressed when the existence of the intent arises only from inference or conjecture.—City of Covington v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, 19 S. Ct. 383, 173 U. S. 231, 43 L. Ed. 679.

—161. — In general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 230-234.

Where two statutes cover, in whole or in part, the same matter, and are not irreconcilable, and no purpose to repeal is expressed or indicated, effect will be given to both.—Frost v. Wenie, 157 U. S. 46, 15 S. Ct. 532, 39 L. Ed. 614.

Subsequent legislation upon a general subject covered by a code or systematic collection of general rules dealing with such subject in a comprehensive way carries with it an implication that the general rules are not superseded, but are to be applied in its enforcement, save as the contrary clearly appears.—United States v. Barnes, 32 S. Ct. 117, 222 U. S. 513, 56 L. Ed. 291.

—162. — Repeal of special by general act.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 235-237; 37 Cent. Dig. Ins. Per. § 74.

The federal Supreme Court will follow the continuous construction of the Land Department that the special provision for Louisiana in the swamp land grant act of March 2, 1849 (9 Stat. 352, c. 87), that title shall vest in the state on approval of a list of lands by the Secretary of the Interior, was not affected by the general clause of the act of September 28, 1850 (9 Stat. 519, c. 84), granting swamp lands to Arkansas, to vest only upon the issuance of a patent, that the provisions of this act be extended to and their benefits be conferred upon each of the other states in which such swamp and overflowed lands may be situated.—State of Louisiana v. Garfield, 29 S. Ct. 31, 211 U. S. 70, 53 L. Ed. 92.

—166. — Repeal by re-enactment.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 241.

The repeal of the Arizona act of March 18, 1887 (Laws Ariz. 1887, tit. 31), creating a board of loan commissioners for the territory, was effected by the act of congress of June 25, 1890 (26 Stat. 175, c. 612), which substantially re-enacted the territorial act in all its provisions, although the preamble of such act speaks of the territorial act as being amended, and, as amended, approved and confirmed.—Murphy v. Utter, 22 S. Ct. 776, 186 U. S. 95, 46 L. Ed. 1070.

—167. — Repeal by revision or codification.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 242, 243.

Act Mo. March 10, 1871, which authorizes the levy of a tax on both realty and personalty in a township for the payment of bonds issued by it in aid of railroads, though not incorporated into the Revision of 1879, continues in force thereafter under section 3154 (Rev. St. Mo. 1879), as it was not "expressly repealed," and is not "repugnant to any acts passed or revised" at the session of 1879.—Cape Girardeau County Court v. United States, 118 U. S. 68, 6 S. Ct. 951, 30 L. Ed. 73.

168. Invalidity of repealing act.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 244.

A repeal of Act Tex. 1889, permitting foreign corporations to do business in the state, does not result from the provision of Act Tex. 1896, exempting labor organizations, on the ground that this provision is unconstitutional, since, if it were so, the entire act would be void, and could not operate as a repeal of the former act. Judgment 44 S. W. 936, 19 Tex. Civ. App. 1, affirmed.—Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. State of Texas, 20 S. Ct. 518, 177 U. S. 28, 44 L. Ed. 657.

169. Repeal of repealing or amendatory act as revival of act repealed or amended.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 246, 247, 250.

The effect of a repealing statute is to revive the law as it stood before the passage of the statute repealed, unless the statute itself, or some general statute, makes a different rule.—United States v. Philbrick, 120 U. S. 52, 7 S. Ct. 413, 30 L. Ed. 559.

In repealing parts of the Code which had been declared unconstitutional, the court cannot impute to the legislature an intent to revive earlier laws which might render the amended laws liable to the same objection.—Patapasco Guano Co. v. Board of Agriculture of North Carolina, 18 S. Ct. 862, 171 U. S. 345, 43 L. Ed. 191, affirming decree, 52 F. 690.

(A) GENERAL RULES OF CONSTRUCTION.

See Food, 2.

Lien laws, see Mechanics' Liens, 5.

180. Intention of Legislature.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 259-265.

181. In general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 259, 263.

In whatever language a statute may be framed, its purpose must be determined by its natural and reasonable effect, and such purpose is to be taken into consideration in passing on its validity.—Collins v. State of New Hampshire, 18 S. Ct. 768, 171 U. S. 30, 43 L. Ed. 60.

A particular construction of a statute which will occasion great inconvenience or produce inequality and injustice is to be avoided, if another more reasonable interpretation is present in the statute.—Knowlton v. Moore, 20 S. Ct. 747, 178 U. S. 41, 44 L. Ed. 969.

183. Spirit or letter of law.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 261.

It is within the power of courts to declare that a thing which is within the letter of a statute is not governed by the statute, because not within its spirit or the intention of its makers.—Rector, etc., of Holy Trinity Church v. United States, 143 U. S. 457, 12 S. Ct. 511, 36 L. Ed. 226.

187. Meaning of language.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 266-281.

188. In general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 266, 267, 276.

In construing those parts of the Code which re-enact provisions originally enacted in both the French and English languages, both texts may be taken into consideration, although, if the two texts cannot be reconciled, the English must prevail.—Viterbo v. Friedlander, 120 U. S. 707, 7 S. Ct. 962, 30 L. Ed. 776, reversing decree (C. C.) 24 F. 320.

189. Literal and grammatical interpretation.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 283.

Where the language of a statute is plain and unambiguous, it is the duty of the court to enforce it according to the obvious meaning of the words, without attempting to change it by adopting a different construction, based upon some supposed policy of congress in regard to the subject of legislation, or upon considerations of injustice or inconvenience arising from the enforcement of the statute according to its terms.—Bate Refrigerating Co. v. Sulzberger, 157 U. S. 1, 15 S. Ct. 508, 39 L. Ed. 601, affirming decree (C. C.) 56 F. 713.

194. General and specific words.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 272.

Additional words of qualification, needed to harmonize a general and a prior special provision in the same statute, should be added to the general provision, rather than to the special one. Judgment 38 Ct. Cl. 268, affirmed.—Rodgers v. United States, 22 S. Ct. 582, 185 U. S. 83, 46 L. Ed. 816.

204. Statute as a whole, and intrinsic aids to construction.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 282-283.

210. Preamble and recitals.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 287.

The preamble of an act may be referred to aid in ascertaining the intent, when the body of such act is fairly susceptible of different constructions.—Price v. Forrest, 19 S. Ct. 434, 173 U. S. 410, 43 L. Ed. 749.

211. Title, headings, and marginal notes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 283.

The title of an act may be resorted to for the purpose of elucidating what is obscure in the provisionalary part.—Rector, etc., of Holy Trinity Church v. United States, 143 U. S. 457, 12 S. Ct. 511, 36 L. Ed. 226.

While express provisions in the body of an act cannot be controlled or restrained by the title or preamble, yet the latter may be referred to when the statute is susceptible of different constructions; and this rule is especially applicable in states whose constitutions provide that every act shall relate to but one subject, which shall be expressed in the title.—Coosaw Min. Co. v. State of South Carolina, 144 U. S. 550, 12 S. Ct. 689, 36 L. Ed. 537, affirming decree South Carolina v. Coosaw Min. Co., 47 Fed. 225.

While the title constitutes no part of an act, it may be considered as a key to the correct interpretation thereof where the intent is otherwise ambiguous.—Knowlton v. Moore, 20 S. Ct. 747, 178 U. S. 41, 44 L. Ed. 969.

The title of an act cannot be resorted to in aid of its construction where the act is free from doubt or ambiguity.—Cornell v. Coyne, 24 S. Ct. 383, 192 U. S. 418, 48 L. Ed. 504.

It is only in a doubtful case that the title of an act can control the meaning of the enacting clauses.—Lapina v. Williams, 34 S. Ct. 196, 232 U. S. 78, 58 L. Ed. 515, affirming judgment Ex parte Hoffman, 179 F. 839, 103 C. C. A. 327.

◀ 212. Presumptions to aid construction.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 239.

It being historically true that the American people are a religious people, as shown by the religious objects expressed by the original grants and charters of the colonies, and the recognition of religion in the most solemn acts of their history, as well as in the constitutions of the states and the nation, the courts, in construing statutes, should not impute to any legislature a purpose of action against religion.—Rector, etc., of Holy Trinity Church v. United States, 143 U. S. 457, 12 S. Ct. 513, 36 L. Ed. 226.

Until the state decides otherwise, the Supreme Court will assume, in order to uphold the provisions of Laws Ark. 1911, p. 77, § 20, forfeiting a right of a foreign railway to do business in the state if it fails to pay the franchise tax, that such section will be limited to forfeiting only privilege as to intrastate business.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. State of Arkansas ex rel. Norwood, 35 S. Ct. 99, 235 U. S. 350, 59 L. Ed. 265, affirming decree 152 S. W. 110, 106 Ark. 321.

◀ 213. Extrinsic aids to construction.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 290-299.

◀ 214. — In general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 290.

The federal Supreme Court will not ordinarily go beyond the reports of congressional committees to the debates in Congress to determine the meaning of a federal statute.—Lapina v. Williams, 34 S. Ct. 196, 232 U. S. 78, 58 L. Ed. 515, affirming judgment Ex parte Hoffman, 179 F. 839, 103 C. C. A. 327.

◀ 215. — Contemporaneous circumstances.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 291.

In construing a doubtful statute, the court will consider the evil which it was designed to remedy, and for this purpose will look into contemporaneous events, including the situation as it existed, and as it was pressed upon the attention of the legislative body, while the act was under consideration.—Rector, etc., of Holy Trinity Church v. United States, 143 U. S. 457, 12 S. Ct. 511, 36 L. Ed. 226.

In construing any act of legislation, whether a statute or a constitution, regard is to be had, not only to all parts of the act itself, and of any former act of the same lawmaking power of which the act is an amendment, but also to the condition and the history of the law as previously existing, and in the light of which the new act must be read and interpreted. Order, In re Wong Kim Ark (D. C.) 71 F. 382, affirmed.—United States v. Wong Kim Ark, 18 S. Ct. 456, 169 U. S. 649, 42 L. Ed. 890.

◀ 216. — Motives and opinions of legislators.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 292.

The debates in congress cannot be considered for the purpose of discovering the meaning of a statute.—United States v. Trans-Missouri Freight Ass'n, 17 S. Ct. 540, 166 U. S. 290, 41 L. Ed. 1007, reversing decree 58 F. 58, 7 C. C. A. 15, 24 L. R. A. 73.

The meaning of Interstate Commerce Act Feb. 4, 1887, as amended by Act June 29, 1906, cannot be determined by statements in the debates in Congress.—Omaha & C. B. St. Ry. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 33 S. Ct. 890, 230 U. S. 324, 57 L. Ed. 1501, 46 L. R. A. (N. S.) 385, reversing decree (Com. Ct.) 191 F. 40.

A statement by a member of a Senate conference committee during debate, explanatory of changes in a bill, cannot be resorted to for the purpose of construing a statute contrary to its plain terms.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. International Coal Min. Co., 33 S. Ct. 893, 230 U. S. 184, 57 L. Ed. 1446, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 315, reversing judgment 173 F. 1, 97 C. C. A. 383.

◀ 217. — History and passage of act.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 293.

In construing a statute, especially when, like the interstate commerce law, it is in the nature of experimental legislation, the courts must take notice of the history of the legislation, and, out of possible different constructions, select and apply the one that best comports with the genius of our institutions, and which, therefore, is most likely to have been the construction intended by the law-making power.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 162 U. S. 197, 16 S. Ct. 666, 40 L. Ed. 940, reversing decree Interstate Commerce Commission v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., 57 F. 948, 6 C. C. A. 653.

The rule that congressional debates may not be used as a means to an interpretation of an act of Congress is not violated by resorting to them to ascertain the history of the period when the statute was adopted.—(1911) Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey v. United States, 31 S. Ct. 502, 221 U. S. 1, 55 L. Ed. 619, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 834, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 734, affirming decree (C. C. 1909) United States v. Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, 173 F. 177.

Reports of committees of the House of Representatives and the Senate may be consulted to ascertain the motive of Congress in passing a statute.—McLean v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 122, 226 U. S. 374, 57 L. Ed. 260, reversing judgment 45 Ct. Cl. 95.

◀ 218. — Contemporaneous construction in general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 294, 295.

Contemporaneous construction is an available aid in construing a statute only where the language of such statute is ambiguous, and susceptible of two reasonable interpretations.—Houghton v. Payne, 24 S. Ct. 590, 194 U. S. 88, 48 L. Ed. 888; Smith v. Same, 24 S. Ct. 595, 194 U. S. 104, 48 L. Ed. 893.

◀ 219. — Executive construction.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 296, 297.

The fact that, during the years between 1876 and 1885, Rev. St. § 2931 was construed by the treasury department to require that the liquidation should be made on the final withdrawal for consumption, and that a protest filed within 10 days thereafter was sufficient, is not such a long and uninterrupted acquiescence as to be controlling upon the courts.—Merritt v. Cameron, 137 U. S. 542, 11 S. Ct. 174, 34 L. Ed. 772.

A departmental construction of a statute will not be followed by the courts when it is clearly erroneous.—United States v. Tanner, 147 U. S. 661, 13 S. Ct. 436, 37 L. Ed. 321.

Where the language of a statute is plain, subsequent action by the departments of the state or contemporaneous or antecedent history of the subject cannot be appealed to for interpretation; but they may be resorted to in order to ascertain the meaning and force of terms or words and the real intent of the Legislature.—Studebaker v. Perry, 22 S. Ct. 463, 184 U. S. 258, 46 L. Ed. 528, affirming judgment 102 F. 947, 43 C. C. A. 69; Deming v. McClaughry, 113 F. 639, 51 C. C. A. 349, order affirmed McClaughry v. Deming, 22 S. Ct. 786, 186 U. S. 49, 46 L. Ed. 1049.

Where the meaning of a statute is doubtful, great weight is given to the construction placed on it by the department charged with its execution.—United States v. Cerecedo Hermanos y Compania, 28 S. Ct. 532, 209 U. S. 337, 52 L. Ed. 821.

The federal courts will accept as controlling the decision of the Land Department that the use of the words "assignors" and "assigns" in the amendment of Act March 3, 1891, c. 561, § 2, 26 Stat. 1096 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1549), to Desert Land Act March 3, 1877, c. 107, 19 Stat. 377 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1548), evidenced the intention of Congress to remove the restrictions of the earlier act upon the assignment of a desert land entry, and was not merely in recognition of the right that every entryman has under the public land laws of the United States to make an assignment after he has acquired the equitable title to the land embraced within his entry.—United States v. Hammers, 31 S. Ct. 593, 221 U. S. 220, 55 L. Ed. 710.

Construction given by the Department of the Interior to consents of Indian allottees, under Act March 3, 1893, c. 209, 27 Stat. 612, to a sale of that portion of allotted land not required for their homes, would control in case of ambiguity in the statute.—Jacobs v. Prichard, 32 S. Ct. 289, 223 U. S. 200, 56 L. Ed. 406, affirming judgment (1907) Prichard v. Jacobs, 90 P. 922, 46 Wash. 562.

Departmental practice in administration of statutes will control when the practice is reasonable.—Robinson v. Lundrigan, 33 S. Ct. 255, 227 U. S. 173, 57 L. Ed. 468, affirming decree 178 F. 230, 101 C. C. A. 590.

223. Construction with reference to other statutes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 300, 302-304.

224. — In general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 300, 302, 304.

Prior acts may be resorted to in construing a statute to solve, but not to create, an ambiguity. Judgment 9 App. D. C. 48, reversed.—Hamilton v. Rathbone, 20 S. Ct. 155, 175 U. S. 414, 44 L. Ed. 219.

225. — Statutes relating to same subject-matter.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 302, 303.

Statutes expressly defining the jurisdiction of certain courts will not be controlled by mere implications arising from subsequent statutes.—Rosecrans v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 302, 165 U. S. 257, 41 L. Ed. 708.

The re-enactment in the same words of a statute which has notoriously received a construction in practice from those whose duty it is to carry it out gives rise to the presumption that such construction is satisfactory to the Legislature, unless it is plainly erroneous. Judgment (Ariz. 1906) 84 P. 511, affirmed.—Copper Queen Consol. Min. Co. v. Territorial Board of Equalization of Territory of Arizona, 27 S. Ct. 695, 206 U. S. 474, 51 L. Ed. 1143.

Subsequent congressional legislation may be considered as an aid to the interpretation of prior legislation upon the same subject.—(1911) Tiger v. Western Inv. Co., 31 S. Ct. 578, 221 U. S. 286, 55 L. Ed. 738, reversing judgment (1908) Western Inv. Co. v. Tiger, 96 P. 602, 21 Okl. 630.

225½. — Re-enactment of or reference to former statute and adoption of provisions previously construed.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 306.

The re-enactment by Congress, without change, of a statute which has previously received a long-continued executive construction, is an adoption by Congress of such construction.—United States v. Cerecedo Hermanos y Compania, 28 S. Ct. 532, 209 U. S. 337, 52 L. Ed. 821.

Congress, in using the words "unmanufactured tobacco," in Tariff Act July 24, 1897, c. 11, § 1, par. 215, 30 Stat. 169 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1648), held to have adopted the construction given by Supreme Court to those words in earlier tariff act.—Latimer v. United States, 32 S. Ct. 242, 223 U. S. 501, 56 L. Ed. 526.

226. Construction of statutes adopted from other states or countries.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 307.

Sections 772 and 804 of the Revised Statutes, relating to the District of Columbia, were taken from the New York Code of Procedure of 1851-52, and should be construed in conformity with the interpretation placed upon them by the courts of New York, rather than tested by the law of Maryland, prevailing in the District previous to the reorganization of the supreme court by the act of Congress of March 3, 1863.—Metropolitan R. Co. v. Moore, 7 S. Ct. 1334, 121 U. S. 558, 30 L. Ed. 1022.

Act Cong. March 3, 1863, relating to the supreme court of the District of Columbia, was taken from Code Proc. N. Y. 1851-52, and should be construed in conformity with the interpretation placed upon it by the courts of New York, rather than tested by the law of Maryland prevailing in the District before the reorganization of the supreme court by the act of congress.—Metropolitan R. Co. v. Moore, 121 U. S. 558, 7 S. Ct. 1334, 30 L. Ed. 1022; Inland & Sea-Board Coasting Co. v. Hall, 124 U. S. 121, 8 S. Ct. 397, 31 L. Ed. 369.

Act Utah Feb. 18, 1876, § 10 (Comp. Laws, § 694), relating to the rights of children omitted from a will, having been copied from a statute of California, which was itself taken from a statute of another state, the supreme court is not bound by the construction of the statute made by the courts of California.—Coulam v. Doull, 133 U. S. 216, 10 S. Ct. 253, 33 L. Ed. 596.

The rule that, when one state adopts a statute of another, it also adopts the construction placed thereon by the courts of the latter state, applies only to decisions rendered before the adoption of the statute.—Stutsman County v. Wallace, 142 U. S. 293, 12 S. Ct. 227, 35 L. Ed. 1018.

Where congress, in section 8 of the interstate commerce act, adopted the language of the English traffic act of 1854, in respect to "undue preference," it may be presumed that it was intended also to adopt the construction given to these words by the English courts.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 145 U. S. 263, 12 S. Ct. 844, 36 L. Ed. 699, affirming decree (C. C.) 43 F. 37, which follows McDonald v. Hovey, 110 U. S. 619, 4 S. Ct. 142, 28 L. Ed. 269.

The Oregon statute providing that a testator may "devise all his estate, real and personal, saving to the widow her dower," adopted from Missouri in 1849, and re-enacted in 1853 and in 1862, after Oregon became a state, conferred testamentary power to devise after-acquired real estate: the statute having been so construed by the Missouri courts before such re-enactment, and that construction having been approved by the supreme court of Oregon.—Hardenbergh v. Ray, 151 U. S. 112, 14 S. Ct. 305, 38 L. Ed. 93, affirming judgment (C. C.) Hardenbergh v. Same, 33 F. 812, 13 Sawy. 158.

While it is the ordinary rule to accept the interpretation given to a statute by the courts of the country by which it was originally adopted, the rule is not to be followed under all circumstances; and the interpretation placed upon a statute of the territory of Utah by the supreme court of the territory, being that required by its obvious meaning, will not be rejected because, apparently, the supreme court of the state of California, from which the statute was taken, has, in a single decision, taken a different view.—Whitney v. Fox, 17 S. Ct. 713, 166 U. S. 637, 41 L. Ed. 1145.

When congress adopts a statute substantially as it exists in the legislation of a state, it adopts also the known and settled construction given to it by the courts of that state.—Willis v. Eastern Trust & Banking Co., 18 S. Ct. 347, 169 U. S. 295, 42 L. Ed. 752; Capital Traction Co. v. Hof, 19 S. Ct. 580, 174 U. S. 1, 43 L. Ed. 873.

A paragraph adopted by a territorial legislature from the code of another state is presumed to have been taken with the meaning already given to it by the supreme court of that state.—Henrietta Min. & Mill. Co. v. Gardner, 19 S. Ct. 327, 173 U. S. 123, 43 L. Ed. 637, reversing judgment, 81 P. 1126, 5 Ariz. 211.

The fact that the Arkansas statutes respecting the rights of married women (Sand. & H. Dig. §§ 4940, 4945, 4946, 4949, 5041) were nearly identical with the New York act of 1860 does not show that the prior construction of the New York act was adopted, where it is not shown that the statute was in fact adopted from New York, instead of from Massachusetts, where there was a similar statute in force. Judgment, 97 F. 837, 38 C. C. A. 502, affirmed.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Humble, 21 S. Ct. 526, 181 U. S. 57, 45 L. Ed. 747.

The courts of the Indian Territory are bound to respect the decisions of the supreme court of Arkansas interpreting laws of that state, which were adopted and extended over the Indian Territory by Act Cong. May 2, 1890.—J. M. Robinson & Co. v. Belt, 23 S. Ct. 16, 187 U. S. 41, 47 L. Ed. 65, affirming judgment, 100 F. 718, 40 C. C. A. 664.

An assignment for the benefit of creditors, although requiring a release by creditors as a condition of preference, must be deemed valid in the Indian Territory, in view of the decisions of the courts of Arkansas upholding such assignments under the statutes of that state concerning assignments for the benefit of creditors and the statute of frauds, which were adopted and extended over the Indian Territory by Act Cong. May 2, 1890 (26 Stat. 94, § 31).—Id.

The construction given by the Colorado courts to a statute of that state which is alleged to have served as the model for Rev. St. Ariz. 1901, § 3880, defining the powers of the board of equalization, need not be followed by the Arizona courts when construing the territorial statute, where the Colorado decision turned partly on the notion, inapplicable to Arizona, that the board of equalization had no function of assessment, and in part on the Constitution of the state. Judgment (Ariz. 1906) 84 P. 511, affirmed.—Copper Queen Consol. Min. Co. v. Territorial Board of Equalization of Territory of Arizona, 27 S. Ct. 695, 206 U. S. 474, 51 L. Ed. 1143.

The settled construction of the equality clause of the English railway clauses consolidation act of 1845, as forbidding the charging of a higher rate for the carriage of goods for an intercepting or forwarding agent than for others, applies in construing the provisions of Act Feb. 4, 1887, c. 104, § 2, 24 Stat. 379 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3155), which were substantially taken from the English statute.—(1911) Interstate Commerce Commission v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 31 S. Ct. 392, 220 U. S. 235, 55 L. Ed. 448, reversing decree Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission (C. C. 1908) 166 F. 499.

◀228. Provisos, exceptions, and saving clauses.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 316.

The fact that, in a general act of congress, certain conditions are expressly made "jurisdictional facts," does not require that a proviso containing the same conditions, in a special act relating to the same subject and enacted on the same date, but not expressly naming them as jurisdictional, must not be construed to have that effect.—Austin v. United States, 155 U. S. 417, 15 S. Ct. 167, 39 L. Ed. 206, affirming judgment 25 Ct. Cl. 437.

◀231. Revisions and Codes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 312.

The ordinary rules of interpretation of statutes apply to the Louisiana Code, and, in construing it, the originals of statutes embodied in it may be referred to.—Viterbo v. Friedlander, 120 U. S. 707, 7 S. Ct. 962, 30 L. Ed. 776, reversing decree (C. C.) 24 F. 320.

Intention to alter scope of existing law cannot be imputed to Congress because in the Revised Statutes it placed in two separate sections portions of what was a single section of the original act.—Anderson v. Pacific Coast S. S. Co., 32 S. Ct. 626, 225 U. S. 187, 56 L. Ed. 1047.

Separation in Revised Statutes of the United States of the several parts of a section of an existing statute for purposes of convenience did not change their purpose or meaning.—Buck Stove & Range Co. v. Vickers, 33 S. Ct. 41, 226 U. S. 205, 57 L. Ed. 189, reversing judgment 101 P. 668, 80 Kan. 29.

◀233. Construction as including or binding government.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 314.

The United States is not bound by the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act, unless specifically mentioned therein.—(1912) Guarantee Title & Trust Co. v. Title Guaranty & Surety Co., 32 S. Ct. 457, 224 U. S. 152, 56 L. Ed. 706, reversing judgment (1909) Title Guaranty & Surety Co. v. Guarantee Title & Trust Co., 174 F. 385, 98 C. C. A. 603.

(B) PARTICULAR CLASSES OF STATUTES.

◀238. Legislative grants.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 319.

Statutory grants of property, franchises, or privileges in which the government has an interest are to be strictly construed in favor of the public, and nothing will pass except what is granted in clear and explicit terms.—Coosaw Min. Co. v. State of South Carolina, 144 U. S. 550, 12 S. Ct. 689, 36 L. Ed. 537, affirming decree South Carolina v. Coosaw Min. Co. (C. C.) 47 F. 225.

◀241. Penal statutes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 322, 323.

A penal statute, if ambiguous, will be construed more strongly in favor of the defendant than it would if the statute were remedial, but in such a way as to effect substantial justice, and preserve the obvious intention of the legislature. Judgment, 77 F. 966, 23 C. C. A. 594, 46 L. R. A. 712, affirmed.—Bolles v. Outing Co., 20 S. Ct. 94, 175 U. S. 262, 44 L. Ed. 158.

While penal statutes must be construed strictly, this rule is not violated by adopting the sense of the words which best harmonizes with the object and intent of the legislature as gathered from the whole context of the statute.—Johnson v. Southern Pac. Co., 25 S. Ct. 158, 196 U. S. 1, 49 L. Ed. 363, reversing judgment, 117 F. 462, 54 C. C. A. 508.

The rule of strict construction of criminal statutes does not require that the narrowest technical meaning be given to the words employed in disregard of their context, and in frustration of the obvious legislative intent. Judgment (D. C. 1908) 162 F. 687, reversed.—United States v. Corbett, 30 S. Ct. 81, 215 U. S. 233, 54 L. Ed. 173.

¶261. Nature of retroactive operation in general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 342.

To construe the anti-trust law of July 2, 1890, as applying to contracts made prior to its enactment, does not give it a retroactive or ex post facto effect.—United States v. Trans-Missouri Freight Ass'n, 17 S. Ct. 540, 186 U. S. 290, 41 L. Ed. 1007, reversing decree, 58 F. 58, 7 C. C. A. 15, 24 L. R. A. 73.

¶265. Statutes impairing vested rights.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 346, 347.

Unless the intention clearly and strongly appears and is manifested in appropriate words, a statute will always be given a construction that will make it operate prospectively, where to do otherwise would materially change existing rights.—Southwestern Coal & Improvement Co. v. McBride, 22 S. Ct. 763, 185 U. S. 499, 46 L. Ed. 1010, affirming judgment, 104 F. 1007, 43 C. C. A. 683.

¶268. Curative statutes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 360, 361.

Mortgages of personal property, executed by a nonresident of the Indian Territory and recorded, before the passage of the curative act of February 3, 1897, in that judicial district of the Indian Territory in which the property was situated at the time of their execution, were validated by the provision of that act, that all mortgages of personal property in the Indian Territory theretofore so executed and recorded were thereby validated. Judgment, Evans-Snyder-Buel Co. v. McFadden, 105 F. 293, 44 C. C. A. 494, 58 L. R. A. 900, affirmed.—McFaddin v. Evans-Snyder-Buel Co., 22 S. Ct. 758, 185 U. S. 505, 46 L. Ed. 1012.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 365-375.

¶275. — Liabilities incurred.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 368, 369.

The exception from the operation of the provision repealing conflicting laws, which is made by the Hepburn act (Act June 29, 1906, c. 3591, § 10, 34 Stat. 584 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 892]), in favor of causes pending in the federal courts, which "shall be prosecuted to conclusion in the manner heretofore provided by law," was addressed solely to the procedure to be followed in pending cases, and such section, therefore, does not supersede the general provision of Rev. St. U. S. § 13 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 6], saving existing forfeitures, penalties, or liabilities from repeal, so as to prevent future criminal prosecutions for offenses against the Elkins act (Act Feb. 19, 1903, c. 708, 32 Stat. 847 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 880]), committed prior to the adoption of the later statute. Judgment (C. C. A. 1907) 155 F. 945, 84 C. C. A. 93, affirmed.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. United States, 28 S. Ct. 313, 208 U. S. 452, 52 L. Ed. 567.

¶276. — Actions and other proceedings pending.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 371, 372.

A petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the Arizona loan commission to issue refunding bonds in exchange for county bonds is a "proceeding theretofore taken," within the meaning of the saving clause of Rev. St. Ariz. 1887, par. 2934, § 7, declaring that the repeal or abrogation of any statute shall not affect any action or proceeding theretofore taken, except as therein provided, and was therefore not affected by a subsequent repeal of the act creating the loan commission.—Murphy v. Utter, 22 S. Ct. 776, 186 U. S. 95, 46 L. Ed. 1078.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 374, 375.

Effect must be given, in construing a repealing act, to the general saving clause in Rev. St. U. S. § 13 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 6], prescribing the effect of repealing acts on existing penalties, forfeitures, and liabilities, unless, either by express declaration or necessary implication arising from the terms of the repealing law as a whole, it results that the legislative mind will be set at naught by giving effect to such saving clause. Judgment (C. C. A. 1907) 155 F. 945, 84 C. C. A. 93, affirmed.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. United States, 28 S. Ct. 313, 208 U. S. 452, 52 L. Ed. 567.

¶278. Prospective construction of retrospective laws.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 376, 377.

The act of Congress "to quiet titles in favor of parties in actual possession of lands situated in the District of Columbia" (13 Stat. 531) applies not only in favor of those who were in possession when it took effect, but also of those in possession when litigation involving the title arises, and operates to render effective, in favor of the party in possession claiming thereunder, a conveyance executed by an attorney in fact in his own name, where the consideration was paid and was received by his principal.—Williams v. Paine, 18 S. Ct. 279, 169 U. S. 55, 42 L. Ed. 658.

VII. PLEADING AND EVIDENCE.

Judicial notice, see Evidence, ¶27-37.

¶279. Pleading public statutes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 378; 12 Cent. Dig. Corp. §§ 2021, 2064, 2073.

Federal courts are presumed to be cognizant, without pleading of the Employers' Liability Act of April 22, 1908.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Wulf, 33 S. Ct. 135, 226 U. S. 570, 57 L. Ed. 355, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 134, affirming judgment 192 F. 919, 113 C. C. A. 665.

Declaration need not invoke Employers' Liability Act if the facts stated bring the action under that statute.—Kansas City Western Ry. Co. v. McAdow, 36 S. Ct. 252, 240 U. S. 51, 60 L. Ed. 520, affirming judgment (Mo. App.) McAdow v. Kansas City Western Ry. Co., 164 S. W. 188.

¶282. Evidence as to public statutes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 17, 27, 42, 332-336, 338.

¶283. — Presumptions as to enactment.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. § 382.

Congress will be presumed to have acted advisedly and with full knowledge of the situation, in enacting the provision of the District appropriation act of June 30, 1898 (30 Stat. 525, 538, c. 540), regulating the rates which a telephone company may charge in the District of Columbia, although the committees appointed by each house to investigate charges for telephone service in the District never completed their work and made no report. Decree, Manning v. Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co., 18 App. D. C. 191, reversed.—Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co. v. Manning, 22 S. Ct. 881, 186 U. S. 238, 46 L. Ed. 1144.

¶285. — Legislative journals and other records.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 17, 27, 384, 385.

A decision that no reference can be had to the journal of either house for the purpose of showing that a section of a bill as it finally passed does not appear in the act as authenticated is not inconsistent with Rev. St. § 895, declaring that certified extracts of the journals shall be admitted as evidence in the courts of the United States, and shall have the same force and effect as the originals.—Field v. Clark, 143 U. S. 649, 12 S. Ct. 495, 36 L. Ed. 294.

A decision that no reference can be had to the journal of either house, to the reports of committees, or to any other documents printed by authority of congress, for the purpose of showing that a section of a bill as finally passed does not appear in the act as authenticated, is not inconsistent with Const. art. 1, § 5, requiring that each house shall publish a journal of its proceedings, and shall enter thereon the yeas and nays of the members when requested by one-fifth of those present.—Id.

When a duly enrolled bill, signed by the speaker of the house of representatives, the president of the senate, and the president of the United States, is placed in the custody of the secretary of state, its authentication as a law of the United States is complete, and no reference can be had to the journal of either house, to the reports of committees, or to any other documents printed by authority of congress, for the purpose of showing that a section of the bill as it finally passed, does not appear in the act as thus authenticated.—Id.

On a reference to the journal of the federal house of representatives to ascertain whether a duly authenticated law was passed in the presence of a quorum and by the necessary number of votes (assuming, but not deciding, that such reference may be made), the court is bound to assume that the journal speaks the truth, and cannot receive oral evidence to impeach its correctness.—United States v. Ballin, 144 U. S. 1, 12 S. Ct. 507, 36 L. Ed. 321, reversing judgment in re Ballin, 45 F. 170.

An act of a territorial legislature, attested by the presiding officers of both branches thereof, approved by the governor, and committed to the custody of the secretary of state as an act of the legislature, is to be taken as enacted in the mode required by law, and cannot be impeached by the recitals, or omission of recitals, in the journals of legislative proceedings, which are not required by the fundamental law to be so kept as to show everything done in the consideration of bills presented for action.—Harwood v. Wentworth, 162 U. S. 547, 16 S. Ct. 890, 40 L. Ed. 1069.

The legislative journal title must, under the decisions of the Florida courts, control, where there is a variance between such title and the title of the bill as enrolled and promulgated.—Peters v. Gilchrist, 32 S. Ct. 122, 222 U. S. 483, 56 L. Ed. 278.

¶288. Evidence as to foreign statutes.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 389-391.

¶290. — Other countries.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Statut. §§ 390, 391.

The admission in evidence of an agreed translation of the statutes of a foreign country does not preclude the use, upon any matter open to reasonable doubt, of the deposition of a lawyer of that country, respecting the accepted or proper construction of such statutes. Judgment, Mexican Nat. R. Co. v. Slater, 115 F. 593, 53 C. C. A. 239, affirmed.—Slater v. Mexican Nat. R. Co., 24 S. Ct. 581, 194 U. S. 120, 48 L. Ed. 900.

Where the defendant, after purchasing an engine, made such reasonable examination as was possible without tearing the machinery to pieces, and subjected it fully to all ordinary tests for determining its efficiency and strength, and no defects were thereby disclosed, it was not guilty of negligence as to plaintiff, a stranger to it, because there existed in the engine a latent defect that afterwards caused an explosion in its yard, whereby plaintiff was injured.—Richmond & D. R. Co. v. Elliott, 149 U. S. 266, 13 S. Ct. 837, 37 L. Ed. 728.

¶3. Matters which may be subject of stipulation.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Stip. § 2.

The parties to a suit may make a valid agreement to dispense with the taking of evidence, and to accept the evidence taken and abide by the decrees which shall be entered in certain other cases in which the allegations of fact and the contentions of law are identical with those in the suit in question. Decree

(C. C.) Starr v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 110 F. 3, affirmed.—Prout v. Starr, 23 S. Ct. 398, 188 U. S. 537, 47 L. Ed. 584.

A party may bind itself by a stipulation that on consent to continuance no judgment obtained in a pending suit in another jurisdiction shall be pleaded.—Brooklyn Min. & Mill. Co. v. Miller, 33 S. Ct. 251, 227 U. S. 104, 57 L. Ed. 478, affirming judgment 108 P. 471, 13 Ariz. 217.

7. Oral stipulations in court.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Stip. § 14.

A party may in open court, without any writing, consent to the reduction of a verdict in his favor, and the noting of his consent by the clerk on the journal is sufficient evidence thereof, and cannot be questioned.—Lewis v. Wilson, 151 U. S. 551, 14 S. Ct. 419, 38 L. Ed. 267.

10. Consideration.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Stip. § 22.

One who consents to the reduction of a verdict in his favor, upon the court's statement that unless he does so a new trial will be granted, and also upon the defendants' promise to immediately pay the judgment to be entered, is bound thereby, when the arrangement has been fully carried out, even if the court was without power to grant a new trial or reduce the judgment.—Lewis v. Wilson, 151 U. S. 551, 14 S. Ct. 419, 38 L. Ed. 267.

12. Rescission or withdrawal from stipulation.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Stip. § 22.

Counsel stipulated to submit a case under Rule 20 of the supreme court, by which stipulation times were fixed for the filing of plaintiff's argument, defendant's argument, and plaintiff's reply, respectively. Plaintiff failed to file either an argument or reply. Defendant filed his argument within the time specified. Held, that the cause would be taken as submitted under the rule.—Aurrecoechea v. Bangs, 110 U. S. 217, 3 S. Ct. 639, 28 L. Ed. 125.

Counsel, who has entered into a stipulation of facts to save delay, may, upon giving notice in sufficient time to prevent prejudice to the opposite party, repudiate any fact therein with respect to which the facts subsequently developed show that it was inadvertently signed.—Decree, Cambria Iron Co. v. Carnegie Steel Co. 37 C. C. A. 593, 96 F. 850, reversed.—Carnegie Steel Co. v. Cambria Iron Co., 22 S. Ct. 698, 185 U. S. 403, 46 L. Ed. 968.

14. Construction and operation in general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Stip. §§ 24-27; 16 Cent. Dig. Depositions, §§ 5-7; 17 Cent. Dig. Effect, § 237; 21 Cent. Dig. Execution, § 54.

A stipulation of record that certain testimony, already taken and filed in a foreclosure suit, "may be used in any future litigation" touching the property, "with the same effect as though originally taken therein, each party to such future litigation reserving the right to take additional testimony," does not make such testimony available on appeal, when the record fails to show that any part of it was used on the hearing below.—Kneeland v. Luce, 141 U. S. 437, 12 S. Ct. 39, 35 L. Ed. 808.

When a case is submitted on an agreed statement of facts, the want of an answer becomes immaterial.—Saltonstall v. Russell, 152 U. S. 628, 14 S. Ct. 733, 38 L. Ed. 576.

When a case is submitted to the court on an agreed statement of facts, for such a judgment as the law requires, all questions of the sufficiency of the pleadings are waived.—Id.

Questions respecting the right of a municipality to impose a tax for the purpose of erecting a waterworks plant, or the alleged invalidity of any method of acquiring such works except by purchasing existing works, are excluded from consideration by a stipulation in the agreed statements of facts, on which the case was tried, that if the city has the right to erect and maintain an independent plant of its own, in view of the contract rights of a private waterworks company, it contemplates raising funds and revenues therefor in the manner provided by law, and will raise revenues within the limits of indebtedness authorized by the state Constitution and laws. Judgment City of Helena v. Helena Waterworks Co., 122 F. 1, 58 C. C. A. 381, affirmed.—Helena Waterworks Co. v. City of Helena, 25 S. Ct. 40, 195 U. S. 383, 49 L. Ed. 245.

15. Conclusiveness and effect.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Stip. §§ 22-54.

17. — Persons concluded.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Stip. §§ 38-40.

A stipulation of record cannot bind parties who came in as interveners after it was made, and who did not sign it.—Kneeland v. Luce, 141 U. S. 437, 12 S. Ct. 39, 35 L. Ed. 808.

18. — Matters concluded.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Stip. §§ 41-54.

A stipulation that the decision of an issue in a case pending at law shall be taken and entered of record as the decision of the same issue in a suit in equity in the United States circuit court involving the same question makes the decision in the law case equivalent to the decree of the United States circuit court, and nothing more; and, the evidence taken on the trial of the issue being incorporated in the record on appeal to the United States supreme court in the suit in equity, the question can be reviewed there.—Little v. Giles, 118 U. S. 596, 7 S. Ct. 32, 30 L. Ed. 269, reversing decree (C. C.) Giles v. Little, 13 F. 100.

A stipulation of the parties that the escape of immigrants who had been received on board a steamship for deportation to the port from whence they came could not have been reasonably anticipated by the master or officers, and did not occur by reason of any negligence or want of proper care upon their part, is as binding on the courts as the specific evidentiary facts set out in such stipulation. Judgment 125 F. 596, 60 C. C. A. 428, reversed.—H. Hackfeld & Co. v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 456, 197 U. S. 442, 49 L. Ed. 826.

Judgment for plaintiff, in an action to quiet title to a mining claim because location notice did not state that defendant's claim was located as forfeited property, as required by Civ. Code Ariz. 1901, par. 3241, and in view of stipulation filed in the case, will not be disturbed on appeal, where defendant was not deprived of any right by the decision as to the nature of the stipulation.—(1912) *Clason v. See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 31-38.

A municipal ordinance granting a franchise to a street railway company is not invalid because the term of such franchise may extend beyond the limit of the corporate life of such company. Decree, Minneapolis St. Ry. Co. v. City of Minneapolis (Minn. 1907) 155 F. 989, modified.—City of Minneapolis v. Minneapolis St. Ry. Co., 30 S. Ct. 118, 215 U. S. 417, 54 L. Ed. 250.

—18. Nature and extent of franchises and privileges.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 39-41.

A grant of a street railway franchise does not, in Illinois, extend beyond the life of the municipality conferring it, where there was no attempt to make a grant of a definite term. Decree (C. C.) Govin v. City of Chicago, 132 F. 848, reversed.—Blair v. City of Chicago, 26 S. Ct. 427, 201 U. S. 400, 50 L. Ed. 801.

The consent to the extension of the Chicago street railway system into the town of Lake View, of Cook county, given by a supervisor acting under the authority of Act Feb. 14, 1859, § 6, or by the board of trustees created by Act Feb. 16, 1866, was not given in perpetuity, although no time was specifically mentioned, but must be deemed to cover only the same term as the city of Chicago had granted to the main system.—Id.

The extended corporate life given by Amendatory Act Ill. Feb. 6, 1865, to the street railway corporation created by Act Feb. 14, 1859, § 1, must be read into the charter of the street railway company created by section 10 of the same act, and invested by that section with all the grants, powers, privileges, immunities, and franchises conferred upon the corporation by the first section as fully and effectually as if incorporated by a separate act.—Id.

Municipal grants of street railway franchises must be strictly construed. Decree (C. C. 1905) 137 F. 111, affirmed.—Cleveland Electric Ry. Co. v. City of Cleveland, 27 S. Ct. 202, 204 U. S. 116, 51 L. Ed. 399.

Municipal ordinances extending the life of the franchise of the Euclid Avenue or main line of the Cleveland street railway system will not be construed as applicable to a road with a separate route and a different term of life, known as the "Garden Street Branch," on the theory that the latter road became a part of the main line because it was permitted to run in connection with such main line, and to use a portion of that line to reach a public square.—Id.

The words "main line," in municipal ordinances granting, respectively, the right to construct a small extension to the Garden Street branch of the Cleveland street railway system and the right to lay a second track on a portion of that branch, to terminate with the expiration of the grant for the main line, must be deemed to refer to the rest of the Garden Street branch, and not to the Euclid Avenue line.—Id.

A street railway franchise made to terminate with the grant to the main line is to be measured by the grant as it then exists, and not by any subsequent extension of the term which may be granted.—Id.

A grant of a street railway franchise by the Cleveland common council, to be valid "until the expiration of the grants for said company's tracks on said Quincy street east of Lincoln avenue, to wit, July 13, 1913," is not a grant extending to that date, where the Quincy street grants were then in fact to terminate at an earlier date.—Id.

An extension of the time for the termination of the franchise of the Garden Street branch of the Cleveland street railway system to the date set for the termination of the Euclid Avenue or main line was not effected by a municipal ordinance consenting to a consolidation of several street railroads, including the Euclid Avenue and Garden Street lines, on condition that but one fare should be charged for a continuous ride.—Id.

The title to the rails, poles, and other appliances for operating the Garden Street branch of the Cleveland street railway system remaining in the various streets at the expiration of its franchise is in the railway company which has been operating the road.—Id.

The contract right of a street railway company to charge five-cent fares, secured against impairment "during the term of its charter" by a municipal ordinance ratified by Act Minn. March 4, 1879 (Sp. Laws 1879, p. 410, c. 299), extends for 50 years, where the company undertook to organize for that period, under Gen. St. Minn. 1866, c. 34, tits. 1, 2, §§ 1-63, and in its certificate of incorporation stated that its corporate life was to be for that term, and has continued to act as a corporation since the expiration of the 30 years which would have been its corporate life, if organized, as the municipality contends it should have been, under title 2 of such chapter. Decree, Minneapolis St. Ry. Co. v. City of Minneapolis (Minn. 1907) 155 F. 989, modified.—City of Minneapolis v. Minneapolis St. Ry. Co., 30 S. Ct. 118, 215 U. S. 417, 54 L. Ed. 250.

—19. Amendment or revocation of charters.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 49-54.

The declaration in the title of the various acts constituting the charters of the Chicago street railway companies, that they concern "horse railways," does not, because of the provision of Const. Ill. 1848, that no private or local law shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in the title, prevent the exercise of the power to amend, modify, or annul any contract, stipulations, licenses, or undertakings, conferred by Amendatory Act Feb. 6, 1865, upon the city and the companies, in such manner as to authorize the use of electricity or cable as the motive power. Decree (C. C.) Govin v. City of Chicago, 132 F. 848, reversed.—Blair v. City of Chicago, 26 S. Ct. 427, 201 U. S. 400, 50 L. Ed. 801.

—21. Acquisition of franchises or privileges in streets and roads.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 31-33, 43, 50-55, 62, 69-85.

—22. — In general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 31, 37, 62, 73, 85.

A city which extends the duration of a street-railway franchise in order to enable the railway company to refund its bonded indebtedness is estopped, after negotiation of the new bonds, from attacking the validity of the extension for want of consideration.—City Ry. Co. v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 17 S. Ct. 653, 166 U. S.

557, 41 L. Ed. 1114, modifying decree Citizens' St. R. Co. v. City Ry. Co. (C. C.) 64 F. 647.

24. — License or consent of municipality.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. §§ 34-38, 43, 50-55, 69-76.

The continued operation of a street railway is a sufficient consideration for an ordinance extending the date for the expiration of its franchise.—City Ry. Co. v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 17 S. Ct. 653, 166 U. S. 557, 41 L. Ed. 1114, modifying decree Citizens' St. R. Co. v. City Ry. Co. (C. C.) 64 F. 647.

The acceptance of a street-railway franchise may be shown, in the absence of formal resolution, by action constituting an actual practical acceptance.—Id.

Acceptance by a street-railway company of an amendatory ordinance, extending its franchise, may be presumed from the fact that the amendment was beneficial to it, and from the fact that it issued bonds which are to fall due at the expiration of the extension.—Id.

The acceptance of a bid already made, when the successful bidder defaults, is necessitated by the provision of Act Cal. March 11, 1901, p. 266, c. 103, § 5, for the granting of a street railway franchise by a municipality to the "next highest bidder" therefore, in case the successful bidder fails to make the requisite deposit of the amount of his bid within 24 hours after the sale. Decree (C. C.) Pacific Electric Co. v. City of Los Angeles, 118 F. 746, affirmed.—Pacific Electric Ry. Co. v. City of Los Angeles, 24 S. Ct. 586, 194 U. S. 112, 48 L. Ed. 896.

The right to renew street railway grants, conferred upon municipal councils by Bates' Ann. St. Ohio 1897, § 2501, may be exercised prior to the expiration of the original grant, although the language of such section is that "the council may renew any such grant at its expiration." Decree, Cleveland City Ry. Co. v. City of Cleveland (C. C.) 94 F. 385, and Cleveland Electric Ry. Co. v. Same, Id., affirmed.—City of Cleveland v. Cleveland City Ry. Co., 24 S. Ct. 756, 194 U. S. 517, 48 L. Ed. 1102; Same v. Cleveland Electric Ry. Co., 24 S. Ct. 764, 194 U. S. 538, 48 L. Ed. 1109.

The abolition, during the life of the street railway corporation created by Act Ill. Feb. 14, 1859, of the office of supervisor in a township in Cook county, whose consent, under section 6 of that act, was essential to the extension of the street railway over and along the highways of the township, did not authorize such extension without official consent. Decree (C. C.) Govin v. City of Chicago, 132 F. 848, reversed.—Blair v. City of Chicago, 26 S. Ct. 427, 201 U. S. 400, 50 L. Ed. 801.

Consent of the board of trustees for the town of Lake View, in Cook county, which under Act Ill. Feb. 16, 1865, was to consist of the supervisors, assessors, and commissioners of highways, and their successors in office, and was empowered by Act March 5, 1867, § 7, to control and supervise streets and highways, satisfies the provision of Act Feb. 14, 1859, § 6, requiring the consent of the supervisor to the extension of the Chicago street railway system into townships of Cook county.—Id.

An intention to prolong the life of a street railway franchise from the date originally fixed for its termination to February 10, 1908, which was the date fixed for the expiration of a franchise granted to another company with which the company operating the former franchise was, with the consent of the city, consolidated, must be inferred from subsequent ordinances authorizing the consolidated company to extend its lines and change to electricity as a motive power, the rights under all of which were to terminate with the franchise of the "main line," which was recognized as continuing until that date. Decree (C. C.) Cleveland Electric Ry. Co. v. City of Cleveland, 135 F. 368, affirmed.—City of Cleveland v. Cleveland Electric Ry. Co., 26 S. Ct. 513, 201 U. S. 529, 50 L. Ed. 854.

Municipal ordinances extending the life of a street railway franchise from the date originally fixed for its termination to the date fixed for the expiration of a franchise granted to another company with which the company operating the former franchise was, with the consent of the city, consolidated, do not violate the provisions of Rev. St. Ohio, § 2502, that a municipal corporation, shall not, during the term of a street railway grant or renewal thereof, release the grantee from any obligation or liability thereby imposed.—Id.

Municipal extensions of the life of a street railway franchise before the original grant has expired are authorized by Rev. St. Ohio, § 2501 although the language of that section is that the council may renew any such grant at its expiration.—Id.

27. Nature and extent of rights acquired in streets and roads.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. P. §§ 39-42, 44-47, 56, 61, 63-65.

28. — In general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. §§ 39-42, 44, 45, 56, 61, 63-65.

A city, after granting to a railroad company the use of its streets, for double tracks for many miles, has the power, by ordinance passed before the completion of the road, to limit the company to the use of one track for a short distance in one crowded and narrow street, that being a reasonable regulation of the use of the street, not inconsistent with the original ordinance, though it be a contract; and the regulation is not unreasonable simply because it does not provide for the expense of taking up one track already laid in the street for the distance of a few hundred feet before any objection was made by the city, the company having proceeded, by working night and day, to lay double tracks after such objection, and after notice that measures would be taken to modify the original ordinance as was subsequently done. Baltimore Trust & Guarantee Co. v. City of Baltimore (C. C.) 64 F. 153, reversed.—Mayor, etc., of City of Baltimore v. Baltimore Trust & Guarantee Co., 17 S. Ct. 696, 166 U. S. 673, 41 L. Ed. 1160.

The right to operate street railways in Chicago under the municipal ordinance confirmed by Acts Ill. Feb. 14, 1859, and Feb. 6, 1865, until the city should exercise its reserved right to purchase, is confined to the streets designated in the original ordinance and in such other later ordinances as indicate a purpose to preserve the permission of the original ordinance, and does not, by reason of the unity of the street railway system extend to the rights of occupancy acquired in other streets, so as to continue such right until purchase is made of the entire system. Decree (C. C.) Govin v. City of Chicago, 132 F. 848, reversed.—Blair v. City of Chicago, 26 S. Ct. 427, 201 U. S. 400, 50 L. Ed. 801.

The right to use the Chicago streets for street railway purposes was not extended to 99 years, without reference to any limitation as to time fixed by the municipality, by Amendatory Act Ill. Feb. 6, 1865, which extends from 25 to 99 years the corporate life of the street railway companies created by Acts Ill. Feb. 14, 1859, and Feb. 21, 1861, to construct and maintain street railways on streets designated by the common council, upon terms and conditions prescribed by such council, and provides that any transfer of "rights, privileges, or franchises between the corporations" and all "contracts, stipulations, leases, and undertakings" as made and amended between the companies and the city, respecting the location, use, or exclusion of railways in or upon the streets, or any of them, of said city, shall be deemed and held and continued in force "during the life hereof" as if incorporated in the earlier statutes.—Id.

No intention to confer a right in perpetuity to the occupancy of certain streets on the west side for street railway purposes authorized by the Chicago ordinance of August 17, 1864, can be inferred from the silence of such ordinance respecting the term of the grant, in view of the other ordinances limiting grants for the west side system to 25 years and thereafter until the municipality should exercise its right of purchase, especially since 25 years was the limit of the corporate life of the grantee.—Id.

Whatever rights and privileges the street railway companies had in the Chicago streets under the compromise ordinance of July 10, 1883, as amended August 6, 1883, after the expiration of the time limitation in the "power ordinances" of June 7, 1886, and March 30, 1888 were not lost by the acceptance of the privileges conferred by these ordinances, which provided that privileges as to time, after the expiration of the term fixed therein, were to be governed by prior ordinances.—Id.

The life of a street railway franchise granted by a city and an adjoining township for a fixed term was not extended until the date fixed by the township for the termination of other street railway franchises by the adoption of a municipal ordinance, after the annexation of a part of the township to the city, requiring the street railway company for the full term of the said township grants to sell workmen's tickets at a reduced rate; other provisions of the township grants to remain unchanged.—Detroit United Ry. v. City of Detroit, 33 S. Ct. 697, 229 U. S. 39, 57 L. Ed. 1056, affirming judgment (Mich.) City of Detroit v. Detroit United Ry., 137 N. W. 645, 172 Mich. 136.

30. — Conflicting grants or licenses.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 47.

The Indiana act of 1891, granting a new charter to Indianapolis, with power to its board of public works, with the approval of the council, to grant street-railway franchises, is not to be construed retrospectively, so as to authorize the granting of a franchise impairing the obligation of existing contracts.—City Ry. Co. v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 17 S. Ct. 653, 166 U. S. 557, 41 L. Ed. 1114, modifying decree Citizens' St. R. Co. v. City Ry. Co. (C. C.) 64 F. 647.

38. Maintenance and repair of roads and streets.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. §§ 99-111.

The charter of the Washington & Georgetown Railroad Company (12 Stat. 389) provides that it shall keep its tracks "for the space of two feet beyond the outer rail thereof, and also the space between the tracks, at all times well paved and in good order." Act Cong. July 17, 1876, "authorizing the repavement of Pennsylvania avenue," provides that "the Washington & Georgetown Railroad Company shall bear all the expense for that portion of the work lying between the exterior rails of the tracks of the road, and for a distance of two feet from and exterior to the track on each side thereof, and of keeping the same in repair; but the said railroad company, having conformed to the grade established by the commissioners, may use cobblestone or Belgian rock in paving their tracks, or the space between their tracks, as the commissioners shall direct." The commissioners required a blue granite stone five inches in width, eight inches deep, and each stone three feet long, to be laid alongside of the exterior rails of the track, the whole length of the pavement. Held, that the whole expense of this blue granite curb was properly assessed to the railroad company, and that it was not entitled to have the whole cost of all the paving on each side of its track computed together, and to pay only such proportion of the whole cost as the two feet bore to the whole distance from the exterior rail to the sidewalk.—Washington & G. R. Co. v. District of Columbia, 108 U. S. 522, 2 S. Ct. 865, 27 L. Ed. 807.

The expense of underpinning the track, rendered necessary by excavations for new pavement, was properly charged to the railroad company.—Id.

47. Change in road or motive power.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. §§ 120-122.

A city which, without express legislative power, has authorized a street-railway company to change from horse power to electricity, cannot set up a want of power, after the company has incurred large expenditures in making the change, and after the legislature, by subsequent act, has given such power to city councils.—City Ry. Co. v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 17 S. Ct. 653, 166 U. S. 557, 41 L. Ed. 1114, modifying decree Citizens' St. R. Co. v. City Ry. Co. (C. C.) 64 F. 647.

49. Leases of road or other property.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. §§ 125, 126.

The want of corporate power to make or accept certain leases of street railway property cannot be raised by the municipality in a suit to which all the corporations are parties, brought by the receivers, in whom are vested, under the authority of the court, all the rights and franchises of the lessor corporations which the latter undertook to transfer to the lessees. Decree (C. C.) Govin v. City of Chicago, 132 F. 848, reversed.—Blair v. City of Chicago, 26 S. Ct. 427, 201 U. S. 400, 50 L. Ed. 801.

51. Consolidation of roads.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. §§ 123, 129.

A contract exemption of a street railway company from paying obligations is not a "privilege" within the meaning of Laws N. Y. 1867, p. 444, c. 254, as amended by Laws 1879, p. 553, c. 508, empowering a railway company, being the lessee of the property of another railway company, to acquire the whole of the latter's capital stock, in which case its "estate, property, rights, privileges, and franchises" shall vest in and be held and enjoyed by the purchasing corporation "fully and entirely, and without change or diminution." Judgment, City of Rochester v. Rochester Ry. Co. (1904) 91 N. Y. S. 87, 98 App. Div. 521, affirmed.—Rochester Ry. Co. v. City of Rochester, 27 S. Ct. 469, 205 U. S. 236, 51 L. Ed. 784.

A street railway company incorporated under Laws N. Y. 1884, p. 309, c. 252, which imposed upon it the duty of paving a portion of the street, cannot claim the benefit of a contract exemption from paving obligations enjoyed by a predecessor in title.—Id.

A street railway company whose capital stock has been wholly acquired by a lessee corporation, pursuant to Laws N. Y. 1867, p. 444, c. 254, which, as amended by Laws 1879, p. 553, c. 503, provides that in such case the estate, property, rights, privileges, and franchises of the selling corporation shall vest in the purchasing corporation, to be thereafter controlled by the latter in its own name, cannot be regarded as still having a corporate existence which will enable the purchasing corporation to claim and enjoy, on behalf of the selling corporation, a contract exemption from paving obligations which the latter corporation enjoyed.—Id.

57. Actions by or against companies in general.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. §§ 126-143; 27 Cent. Dig. Inj. §§ 131-133.

The difference between the market value of land with street car service and the expectation that cars will continue always to run, and such value without the operation of the cars, and with no expectation that they will run in the future, is too uncertain to be made the measure of damages for the breach by a street railway company of its covenant to run its cars over an extension, contained in the agreement by which it secured its right of way. Judgment 18 App. D. C. 497, reversed.—Eckington & S. H. Ry. Co. v. McDevitt, 24 S. Ct. 36, 191 U. S. 103, 48 L. Ed. 112.

60. Abandonment of franchise.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. §§ 50-54.

The acceptance of a municipal ordinance requiring a street railway company to issue transfers does not abrogate an existing contract right secured against impairment by subsequent legislation to charge a five-cent fare for one continuous passage not exceeding three miles in length. Decree, Minneapolis St. Ry. Co. v. City of Minneapolis (Minn. 1907) 155 F. 989, modified.—City of Minneapolis v. Minneapolis St. Ry. Co., 30 S. Ct. 118, 215 U. S. 417, 54 L. Ed. 259.

Existing contract rights of a street railway company to charge five-cent fares, secured against impairment by subsequent legislation, were not abandoned by accepting an ordinance authorizing a change of motive power from horse power to electricity, although the original franchise named only animal or pneumatic power, where it also provided that no propelling power should be used after it should be proved a public nuisance, and that the company might connect with other street railways upon which power was used similar to that authorized to be used by street railways by the city council, but that steam power cars, such as were in common use, should not be used upon the city tracks unless specially authorized.—Id.

A declaration having alleged that plaintiff was injured by being pushed from a horse car at a crossing in the commotion caused by an approaching train, proof that she was injured by jumping from the car in a reasonable effort to avoid danger is not a substantial variance.—*Washington & G. 117. — Questions for jury.

See 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. §§ 239-257.

Whether a street railway motorman was negligent in failing to get his car under such control, after seeing several young boys on the track at a public crossing where children were in the habit of playing, as would have enabled him to prevent an injury to one of the boys, whose foot was caught, is a question for the jury, although he may have sounded the gong when far enough away to give ample warning, and, as soon as he saw that the boy could not or would not leave the track, may have done all in his power to stop the car before the injury. SUBROGATION.

Scope-Note.

[INCLUDES substitution in place of creditors, and succession to creditors' rights and remedies, of persons paying debts for which they were not primarily liable, whether payment be in pursuance of an agreement for such substitution, or for the protection of the interest of the person making it; and rights, liabilities, and remedies of parties in respect of such subrogation.

Where a town, under authority of a statute, issued bonds and delivered them to a railroad company, by which company they were accepted, and afterwards purchased by plaintiff, such purchase was no payment of the appropriation voted by the town to the railroad company; and hence, all the bonds being declared void in a suit between the plaintiff and the town, the plaintiff was not entitled to be subrogated to the right of the railroad company, if such right existed, to enforce the collection of the appropriation voted by the town.—Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Town of Middleport, 124 U. S. 534, 8 S. Ct. 625, 31 L. Ed. 537, affirming decree (O. C.) 31 F. 874.

④7. — Subrogation to rights of creditor.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Subrog. §§ 17, 18, 21-29, 53, 77, 83, 92.

Where defendant, in a criminal case arising under the laws of the United States, forfeits his recognizance, his sureties cannot recover against him or his estate the amount they are compelled to pay by reason of his default, as subrogating a surety in such cases is against public policy, and tends to subvert the purposes of the recognizance.—United States v. Ryder, 110 U. S. 729, 4 S. Ct. 196, 28 L. Ed. 308.

Rev. St. § 3468 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2314], which declares that sureties on bonds given to the United States shall, upon default of the principal obligor, be remitted to the rights of the United States against him, has no application to bail bonds in criminal cases.—Id.

Between February and May, 1890, a bank, in reliance on an agreement by a contractor, employed by the government in 1888 to build a customhouse, to deliver to it the 10 per cent. of the contract price reserved by the government, made certain advances to the contractor, which, it was alleged, were used in completing the building. In May, 1890, the contractor defaulted, and his surety completed the work. Held that the lien, if any, acquired by the bank upon the fund reserved by the government, was subordinate to the equity of the surety therein, arising at the date of the contract.—Prairie State Nat. Bank v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 142, 164 U. S. 227, 41 L. Ed. 412.

The right of a surety for a government contractor to be subrogated to the contractor's right to the reserve fund in the hands of the government, representing work done prior to an assignment of the contract, is superior to rights of the assignees. Decree (1907) Hardaway & Prowell v. National Surety Co., 150 F. 465, 80 C. C. A. 283, affirmed.—Hardaway v. National Surety Co., 29 S. Ct. 202, 211 U. S. 552, 53 L. Ed. 321.

④8. — Subrogation to rights of principal.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Subrog. § 19.

The surety on the bond of a public contractor, conditioned, in compliance with the Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), for the faithful performance of the contract, and the prompt and full payment of laborers and materialmen, has an equity, under the doctrine of subrogation, in the sums due from the government under the contract, which is superior to the claim of a bank under an assignment from the contractor to secure the repayment of money loaned, to be used as he saw fit, either in the performance of his building contract or in any other way. Decree (1906) 143 F. 810, 74 C. C. A. 484, affirmed.—Henningsen v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 28 S. Ct. 389, 208 U. S. 404, 52 L. Ed. 547.

12. Relative interests of parties in property or fund subject to incumbrance discharged.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Subrog. § 5.

R. occupied five lots, one of which he owned, the others being leaseholds, with privilege of purchase. He assigned the leaseholds, and leased the lot he owned, to H. for 10 years, at a monthly rental, with privilege of purchase. H. covenanted to pay off two deeds of trust on the last named lot, and it was agreed that, if H. did not exercise the privilege of purchasing that lot, R. was to have, for one year after the expiration of the 10-years term, the privilege of buying H. out by refunding all payments made by him in purchasing the fee-simple of the leaseholds, etc. H. paid off the incumbrances on R.'s lot, remained in possession for the 10 years, paid the rent agreed, and exercised the privilege of purchasing the leaseholds, but did not purchase R.'s lot; nor did R. exercise his privilege of buying H. out. Held, that the payment by H. of the deeds of trust was a part of the consideration for the assignment, and did not entitle him to be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagees.—Robbins v. Clark, 127 U. S. 622, 8 S. Ct. 1339, 32 L. Ed. 292.

20. Necessity for payment of debt or incumbrance.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Subrog. §§ 47, 48.

22. Protection of interest in property.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Subrog. §§ 43, 55, 59; 35 Cent. Dig. Mtg. § 959.

If trustees under a trust deed given to secure railroad bondholders, which contains covenants of title, are obliged to pay off a pre-existing incumbrance held by the state, in order to save the road from a judgment sale, they are entitled, upon such payment, to be subrogated to the rights of the state, and to indemnify themselves from the property.—Memphis & L. R. R. Co. v. Dow, 120 U. S. 287, 7 S. Ct. 482, 30 L. Ed. 595.

26. Persons making voluntary payments.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Subrog. § 67.

Bonds issued by a town in lieu of an appropriation voted in aid of a railroad, where accepted by it, and sold and delivered to plaintiff, on whose suit against the town they were adjudged void for want of authority in the town to issue them. Held, that the purchase by plaintiff being no payment of the appropriation voted by the town, plaintiff as a volunteer was not subrogated to the company's right to enforce collection.—Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Town of Middleport, 124 U. S. 534, 8 S. Ct. 625, 31 L. Ed. 537, affirming decree (C. C.) 31 F. 874.

27. Agreements for subrogation.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Subrog. §§ 63, 73.

The maker of a note had it discounted at his bank by the issuance of a time certificate of deposit drawn in favor of one from whom he had purchased some cattle, and afterwards he indorsed this certificate, at the holder's request. The bank had the note rediscounted, giving as collateral security, additional to its indorsement and that of its cashier, a mortgage on land owned by the cashier. Afterwards, the bank having become insolvent, the maker of the note took up the certificate of deposit, and also paid the note, seeking to recoup himself by a written agreement with the holder of the note that he should be subrogated to the latter's rights under the cashier's mortgage. Held, that the payment by the maker extinguished the claim on the note, and removed the only debt which sustained the mortgage, and, as the mortgagor was not personally liable on the certificate of deposit, the agreement for subrogation, even if he assented to it, was without consideration as to him, and cannot be enforced.—Underwood v. Metropolitan Nat. Bank, 144 U. S. 639, 12 S. Ct. 784, 36 L. Ed. 586.

37. Defenses and grounds of opposition.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Subrog. §§ 104, 105.

40. Equitable defenses.

See 44 Cent. Dig. Subrog. § 105.

Plaintiffs procured a transfer of registered bonds of the United States belonging to a trust estate, effected a sale of the bonds, and paid over the proceeds to the depositor of the bonds, whereby they were lost to the estate. Plaintiffs, having been compelled to make good the loss to the estate, filed a petition in the court of claims, alleging that the register of the treasury had made the transfer without authority, and claiming to be subrogated to the rights of the trust estate against the United States because of such transfer. Held that, as their alleged right was based in part on their own wrongful acts, they were in no position to invoke the aid of the doctrine of subrogation.—German Bank v. United States, 148 U. S. 573, 13 S. Ct. 702, 37 L. Ed. 564.

A state is not forbidden by the federal Constitution to tax credits arising out of loans, on collateral security made by the local agent of a foreign corporation, who retains the collateral, and, as evidence of the indebtedness, takes the customer's so-called check, which is regarded as an overdraft, upon which the customer is charged interest, and which is finally sent to the home office, to which the money, when repaid, is remitted by an exchange transaction unless reloaned by the local agent to other parties.—State Board

The taxation of liquors in bonded warehouses within the state, provided for by Laws Md. 1892, c. 704, as amended by Laws Md. 1900, c. 320, under which the proprietors of such warehouses were required to pay the taxes, and were given a lien on the property therefor, is within the powers of the state, despite the facts that there is no specific provision giving the proprietor who pays the taxes a right to recover interest thereon, that under federal legislation distilled spirits may be left in a warehouse for several years, and that for spirits so in bond negotiable warehouse receipts have been issued. Judgment 52 A. 601, 95 Md. 483, affirmed.—Carstairs v. Cochran, 24 S. Ct. 318, 193 U. S. 10, 48 L. Ed. 596.

—5. — Property of United States.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 17, 31-44.

Lands sold under Act Cong. June 7, 1862, c. 98, § 7, for nonpayment of direct taxes, and bid in by the United States, and subsequently redeemed by the grantee of the former owner, are not subject to taxation by the authorities of the state for the time during which the title was in the United States, notwithstanding they had never been expressly ceded by the state to the general government.—Van Brocklin v. Anderson, 117 U. S. 151, 6 S. Ct. 670, 29 L. Ed. 845.

Act Cong. May 5, 1864, giving to the state of Wisconsin, to be transferred to a railroad company, a quantity of land, provided that if, when the line of the road was located, any of the land granted had been otherwise disposed of, other sections should be selected by a state agent, subject to the approval of the secretary of the interior. Held, that the indemnity lands, though they were selected by the state agent, and the selections were authenticated and forwarded to the secretary of the interior, did not vest in the company, so as to be subject to taxation by the state, until the selection was approved by the secretary, the act of approval being judicial, and not ministerial; nor could his approval be inferred from the fact that he did not formally reject the selections.—Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Price County, 133 U. S. 496, 10 S. Ct. 341, 33 L. Ed. 687.

The grant by congress of authority to tax railroad grant lands, the legal title to which is still in the United States, requires no acceptance by the states as a preliminary to the exercise of such taxing power.—Central Pac. R. Co. v. State of Nevada, 162 U. S. 512, 16 S. Ct. 885, 40 L. Ed. 1057, affirming decree State v. Central Pac. R. Co., 21 Nev. 247, 30 Pac. 686.

State tax laws, which would be applicable to unpatented railroad grant lands but for the fact that, under the laws of the United States, such lands are held not taxable, come into operation without re-enactment, immediately upon the passage of an act of congress authorizing the states to tax such lands.—Id.

The fact that some of the lands included in a railroad grant may turn out to be mineral lands, so as to be excepted from the grant, is no defense to the claim of a state for taxes on the entire grant, so long as the railroad company lays claim to the right of possession of all the lands.—Id.

A certificate of location was issued in 1858, but nothing was in fact paid to the government for the land until 1888. During this period the land was sold for taxes assessed against it in the name of the locator. Held, that the title remained in the government until 1888, and therefore the land was not, prior to that time, subject to state taxation, and the tax deeds were void.—Hussman v. Durham, 17 S. Ct. 253, 165 U. S. 144, 41 L. Ed. 664.

Lands within the place limits of the Northern Pacific Railroad grant, the lists of which have been approved and certified by the local land officers, but patents for which have been withheld pending further investigation as to the mineral or nonmineral character of the lands, are taxable by the state. A mere dispute as to the character of the land, its mineral character not being admitted or proved, is not sufficient to overcome the primary effect of the grant, which was to vest the company with the legal title, upon which it may maintain ejectment, even though a patent has not issued. Decree Myers v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 83 F. 358, 28 C. C. A. 412, affirmed.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Myers, 19 S. Ct. 276, 172 U. S. 589, 43 L. Ed. 564.

The United States has no such interest in land conveyed by it to a corporation for dry dock purposes, with a reserved right to the free use of the dry dock, and a provision for forfeiture in case of the continued unfitness of the dry dock for use, or the use of the land for other purposes, as will prevent the state from taxing the corporation's interest in such land. Judgment 54 A. 623, 97 Md. 97, affirmed.—Bal-

The equitable title to the land did not pass from the United States, so as to make it liable to state taxation, upon the location of a military bounty land warrant, issued under Act March 3, 1855, c. 207, 10 Stat. 701, by one who was not the lawful owner and holder of such warrant, since such location did not operate as a payment of the purchase price, which was essential to the right to a patent.—(1911) *Sargeant & Lahr v. Land embraced by Spanish grant, reported as valid by Land Commissioners and confirmed by Act May 23, 1828, to the extent of one league square, was segregated from the public domain and subject to state taxes, on making in 1851 of survey, made the foundation of the patent subsequently issued.—*Wilson Cypress Co. v. Proceedings for acquisition of title to arid lands under Carey Act Aug. 18, 1894, § 4, and amendatory Acts June 11, 1896, and March 3, 1901, § 3, have reached the point where land may be taxed by the state when nothing remains to be done by the entryman in order to entitle him to a patent.—Bothwell v. Bingham County, 35 S. Ct. 702, 237 U. S. 642, 59 L. Ed. 1157, affirming judgment 132 P. 972, 24 Idaho, 125.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 12.

A city whose corporate limits extended to low water on the Indiana shore of the Ohio river granted a Kentucky bridge company a right to build a railroad bridge within its boundaries, and made certain stipulations as to the taxation thereof; but the company afterwards resisted the collection of taxes levied on that part of the bridge extending beyond low water on the Kentucky shore. Held, that the taxation of the bridge was not invalid as a taxation of an agency of the federal government.—Henderson Bridge Co. v. City of Henderson, 141 U. S. 679, 12 S. Ct. 114, 35 L. Ed. 900.

The franchise which the Central Pacific Railroad Company derived from the state of California is taxable by that state, though it is subject to a mortgage to the United States.—Central Pac. R. Co. v. People of the State of California, 162 U. S. 91, 16 S. Ct. 766, 40 L. Ed. 903.

Property in the hands of a trustee in bankruptcy is not exempted from liability to state taxation by Bankr. Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, 30 Stat. 548 [U. S. Comp. Stat. 1901, p. 3418]. Decree 120 F. 256, 56 C. C. A. 92, affirmed.—Swarts v. Hammer, 24 S. Ct. 695, 194 U. S. 441, 48 L. Ed. 1060.

Land conveyed by the United States to a corporation for dry dock purposes is not entirely exempted from state taxation, as an agency of the United States, because of a reservation in the conveyance of the right to the free use of the dry dock, and a provision therein for forfeiture in case of the continued unfitness of the dry dock for use, or the use of the land for other purposes. Judgment 54 A. 623, 97 Md. 97, affirmed.—Baltimore Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. v. City of Baltimore, 25 S. Ct. 50, 195 U. S. 375, 49 L. Ed. 242.

A state may not tax bonds issued by municipalities in the Indian territory and the territory of Oklahoma in the hands of the holders, as this would be to tax performance of a governmental function by an agency of the federal government.—Farmers' & Mechanics' Sav. Bank of Minneapolis v. State of Minnesota, 34 S. Ct. 354, 232 U. S. 516, 58 L. Ed. 706, reversing judgment State v. Farmers' & Mechanics' Sav. Bank of Minneapolis, 130 N. W. 445, 114 Minn. 95.

The admission of Oklahoma to the Union did not deprive the holders of bonds issued by municipalities in the Indian territory and the territory of Oklahoma of exemption from state taxation.—Id.

A surety company, executing bonds required by the United States under Act Aug. 13, 1894, does not become a federal instrumentality, exempt from a state tax exacted from foreign corporations on premiums received.—Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 36 S. Ct. 298, 240 U. S. 319, 60 L. Ed. 664, affirming judgment Commonwealth v. Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland, 90 A. 437, 244 Pa. 67.

7. — Bonds or other securities issued by United States.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 19, 20.

Capital stock of an insurance company, invested in United States bonds, exempted from taxation by the states, is not exempt from the tax imposed by Laws N. Y. 1880, c. 542, as amended by Laws N. Y. 1881, c. 361, on the "corporate franchise or business of corporations in that state, of one-quarter mill on the capital stock for each 1 per cent. of dividend of 6 per cent. or over." By a divided court.—Home Ins. Co. v. State of New York, 119 U. S. 129, 8 S. Ct. 1385, 30 L. Ed. 350.

Laws N. Y. 1881, c. 361, provides that every corporation, with certain exceptions, doing business in the state, shall be subject to a tax, upon its "corporate franchise or business," to the amount of one-quarter of a mill upon its capital stock for each 1 per cent. of its dividends, where they amount to 6 per cent on its capital, a less rate to be paid where the dividends are less than 6 per cent. Held, that the tax is one upon the "corporate franchise," or privilege of being a corporation, and not on the capital stock, to which reference is made only to fix the amount of the tax; and hence its validity is not affected by the fact that any part of the capital stock is invested in securities of the United States.—Home Ins. Co. v. State of New York, 134 U. S. 594, 10 S. Ct. 593, 33 L. Ed. 1025, affirming People v. Home Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. 328.

The immunity of national securities from state taxation is violated by a tax imposed under the authority of Code Iowa, § 1322, directing that shares of stock of state banks shall be assessed to such banks, and not to individual stockholders, the substantial effect of which is to require taxation upon the property, not including the franchises, of such banks, and to adopt the value of the shares as the measure of the taxable valuation of such property, without permitting any deduction from such valuation on account of bonds of the United States owned by the banks. Judgment (Iowa, 1904) 101 N. W. 867, reversed.—Home Sav. Bank v. City of Des Moines, 27 S. Ct. 571, 205 U. S. 503, 51 L. Ed. 901.

8. — Franchises, patents, and other rights granted by United States.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 21.

The grant of the United States to a telegraph company, under Rev. St. § 5263 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3579], of the right to construct and operate lines along any military or post roads of the United States, declared such by law, is not such a grant of a franchise as to exempt such a company from taxes or excises imposed by a state in which its lines are thus constructed and operated.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 125 U. S. 530, 8 S. Ct. 961, 31 L. Ed. 790; Ratterman v. Western Union Tel. Co., 127 U. S. 411, 8 S. Ct. 1127, 32 L. Ed. 229; Attorney General of Commonwealth of Massachusetts v. Western Union Tel. Co., 141 U. S. 40, 11 S. Ct. 889, 35 L. Ed. 628.

Pub. St. Mass. c. 13, § 54, providing for collection of taxes from foreign corporations, and authorizing the court in certain cases to issue injunctions restraining such corporations from transacting any business until delinquent taxes are paid, is void as to the issuing of such injunction against a telegraph company whose lines in that state are mostly constructed and operated as United States postal roads by virtue of Rev. St. § 5263 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3579], granting the right to build and operate lines on such roads.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 125 U. S. 530, 8 S. Ct. 961, 31 L. Ed. 790.

Franchises conferred by congress cannot, without its permission, be taxed by the states.—State of California v. Central Pac. R. Co., 127 U. S. 1, 8 S. Ct. 1073, 32 L. Ed. 150.

When a railroad, which has secured a state franchise to operate its road, afterwards receives a federal franchise, the state franchise is not merged in the federal franchise, so as to prevent the taxation of the state franchise, the roadbed, etc., of the railroad.—Central Pac. R. Co. v. People of State of California, 162 U. S. 91, 16 S. Ct. 766, 40 L. Ed. 903.

A state tax on the capital stock of a bridge company, consolidated from corporations of different states, which maintains an interstate bridge, is not a tax on a franchise conferred by the federal government, although the corporation has authority under an act of congress to construct the bridge. Judgment, Keokuk & H. Bridge Co. v. People, 52 N. E. 117, 176 Ill. 267, affirmed.—Keokuk & H. Bridge Co. v. People of State of Illinois, 20 S. Ct. 205, 175 U. S. 626, 44 L. Ed. 299.

Gross revenue tax imposed by Act Okt. May 26, 1908 (Laws 1908, c. 71, art. 2) § 6, on coal miners or producers, cannot be exacted from the corporate lessee acting under Curtis Act June 28, 1898, of coal mines on unallotted lands belonging to Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians.—Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. Harrison, 35 S. Ct. 27, 235 U. S. 292, 59 L. Ed. 234.

A state may not, when assessing the corporate assignee of an oil and gas lease of Osage lands, made under Act Feb. 28, 1891, and Act March 3, 1905, include the lease, either as a separate object of taxation or as represented by the stock of the corporation.—Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Co. v. State of Oklahoma, 36 S. Ct. 453, 240 U. S. 522, 60 L. Ed. 779, reversing judgment In re Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Co., 142 P. 997, 43 Okl. 307.

10. — National banks.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 23-26.

St. Ky. 1894, c. 108, providing for a tax on the "franchise" of corporations, associations, etc. (section 4077), taking the whole act together, and especially sections 4078-4081, is to be construed, not as a tax on the franchise in the technical sense, but upon all the intangible property of the corporation; and this tax not being levied upon the shares of stock in the names of the shareholders, nor equivalent in law to a tax so levied, the provision is void as applied to national banking associations, as not being authorized by Rev. St. U. S. § 5219, which permits the states to tax the shares in such an association in the names of the holders thereof. Decree 39 S. W. 1116, 19 Ky. Law Rep. 247, reversed.—Owensboro Nat. Bank v. City of Owensboro, 19 S. Ct. 537, 173 U. S. 664, 43 L. Ed. 850.

Ky. St. c. 108, § 4077 et seq., providing for a tax on the franchises and property of corporations, and not upon the shares of stock in the names of the stockholders, is invalid, as applied to national banks, as a mode of taxation unauthorized by Rev. St. U. S. § 5219.—Third Nat. Bank of Louisville v. Stone, 19 S. Ct. 759, 174 U. S. 432, 43 L. Ed. 1035.

The only taxation of national banks contemplated by Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502), is taxation on shares of stock and on real property. Judgment (N. M. 1906) 86 P. 548, affirmed.—First Nat. Bank v. Albright, 28 S. Ct. 349, 208 U. S. 548, 52 L. Ed. 614.

The semi-annual tax imposed under P. S. Vt. §§ 804-820, on interest-bearing deposits in national banks does not unfairly discriminate against national banks.—Clement Nat. Bank v. State of Vermont, 34 S. Ct. 31, 231 U. S. 120, 58 L. Ed. 147, affirming judgment State v. Clement Nat. Bank, 78 A. 944, 84 Vt. 167, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 22.

11. — National bank shares.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 27-29.

Under Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], which provides that all the shares of any banking association may be included in the valuation of the personal property of the owner or holder in the state within which the association is located, but each state may determine the manner of taxing the shares of national banks, a state may tax the shares of a national bank without regard to their ownership, the shares of stock of a national bank owned by another bank not being exempt by reason of such ownership.—National Bank of Redemption v. City of Boston, 125 U. S. 60, 8 S. Ct. 772, 31 L. Ed. 689.

National bank shares are subject to state taxation in the hands of individual shareholders.—Van Slyke v. State of Wisconsin, 154 U. S. 581, 14 S. Ct. 1168, 20 L. Ed. 240.

Act Wash. March 9, 1891, § 21, provides for the assessment and taxation of national bank stock to the bank. Section 23 renders the bank liable for the tax as agent for the shareholder, and authorizes it to pay the tax out of the shareholder's profits or charge it to his account. Held, that a tax so assessed is not a tax on the capital of the bank, forbidden by Rev. St. U. S. § 5219.—First Nat. Bank v. County of Chehalis, 17 S. Ct. 629, 166 U. S. 440, 41 L. Ed. 1069.

12. — Discrimination between national bank shares and other moneyed capital.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 30.

The laws of Pennsylvania removed the burden of county taxation from railroad securities, from shares of stock in any company liable to pay a certain tax into the state treasury, from mortgages, judgments, and recognizances of every kind, from moneys owing upon agreements for the sale of real estate, and from all loans made by corporations, which were taxable for state purposes, when the state tax should be paid.

In an action to enjoin the levying of a county tax upon certain shares in a national bank in such state, brought on the ground that such tax was inconsistent with Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], providing that the taxation by state authority of national bank shares shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such state, the bill showed large amounts of property in the state of the kind mentioned above as exempt from county taxation. Held, that a demurrer to the bill was improperly sustained.—Royer v. Boyer, 113 U. S. 689, 5 S. Ct. 706, 28 L. Ed. 1089.

The exemption of municipal bonds of the city of New York from taxation, does not render invalid the taxation of national bank shares.—Mercantile Nat. Bank v. City of New York, 121 U. S. 138, 7 S. Ct. 826, 30 L. Ed. 895, affirming decree (C. C.) 28 F. 776.

Trust companies are not virtually or in a commercial sense "banks," and it not appearing that capital invested therein is taxed at a lower rate than national bank stock under Act N. Y. July 1, 1882, § 312, they furnish no argument against the validity of that section.—Id.

Stocks of foreign corporations held in New York having no situs in that state, and not being taxable there, their nontaxation is not a violation of Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502].—Id.

Taxes assessed on national bank shares under Act N. Y. July 1, 1882, § 312, are not void on the ground that the securities of life insurance companies, the deposits of saving banks, the stock of corporations incorporated under the laws of New York, of trust companies, and of companies created outside of and owned in the state, virtually escape taxation; such property not being "moneyed capital in the hands of individuals," within Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502].—Id.

An exemption from taxation of deposits in savings banks is not a discrimination against national banks within Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502].—Id.

Act N. J. April 11, 1866, § 15, exempts from taxation thereunder corporations which, by virtue of any contract in their charters, or other contracts with this state, are expressly exempted from taxation, and except mutual life insurance companies specially taxed. It was alleged that $301,485,000 was thus exempted, and $24,000,000 by an exemption of deposits in savings banks. Held, that the assessments of the national banks were not invalid, on authority of Mercantile Nat. Bank v. City of New York, 121 U. S. 138, 7 Sup. Ct. 826, 30 L. Ed. 895.—National Newark Banking Co. v. City of Newark, 121 U. S. 163, 7 S. Ct. 839, 30 L. Ed. 904.

A rule adopted by the board of assessors of a city to assess all shares of stock in state and national banks in the city at par, without regard to their actual market value, but making the requisite reduction in real estate owned by the banks, is not in conflict with Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], providing that the taxation of shares in national banks by the state in which they are situated shall not be at a greater rate than other moneyed values in the hands of individual citizens of such state.—Stanley v. Albany County Sup'rs, 121 U. S. 535, 7 S. Ct. 1234, 30 L. Ed. 1000.

Act N. Y. April 23, 1866, c. 761, which does not permit the holder of national bank stock to set off his indebtedness, is so far in conflict with Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502]; such set-off being permitted in all other cases.—Id.

The county assessors assessed the stock of all the banks in the county, both state and national, at the par value. The actual value of the shares of certain national banks was 25 per cent. above par, and the actual value of all the banks in the county was above par, varying in that respect from 10 to 100 per cent. A shareholder of the national bank sought to recover the amount paid on his stock on the ground of discrimination. Held that, the discrimination not being designed by the assessors, the assessment, considering the nature of the property, secured as nearly as practicable equality and uniformity of taxation between such state and national banks.—Williams v. Albany County Sup'rs, 122 U. S. 154, 7 S. Ct. 1244, 30 L. Ed. 1088.

The fact that under the act of congress the capital of national banks can be taxed by the states in no other way than by an assessment upon the shares of that capital held by individuals, does not render unconstitutional the Iowa statute which taxes savings banks in that state on the amount of their paid-up capital, and does not tax the shares of those banks held by individual shareholders, the same rate per cent. being assessed upon the capital of the savings banks as upon the shares of the national banks, and it not appearing that the tax upon the former is not as great as that upon the latter.—Davenport Nat. Bank v. Davenport Board of Equalization, 123 U. S. 83, 8 S. Ct. 73, 31 L. Ed. 94.

A tax levied under Pub. St. Mass. c. 13, § 8, which provides that bank shares shall be assessed at their cash value, is not in violation of Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], or unconstitutional, as being "at a greater rate than other moneyed capital in the hands of citizens," because disproportionate and unequal to the tax imposed, under Pub. St. Mass. c. 13, relative to the taxation of the corporate franchise of corporations, excepting banks, on life insurance companies, based on the number of their policies, on trust and like companies, based on the amount of their deposits, and on telephone companies, based on the number of telephones used by them, these corporations not being banking institutions, and the investments made by them, their only capital, not being "moneyed capital in the hands of citizens."—National Bank of Redemption v. City of Boston, 125 U. S. 60, 8 S. Ct. 772, 31 L. Ed. 689.

Taxes levied under Pub. St. Mass. c. 13, § 8, which provides that all bank shares shall be assessed at their cash value, and at the same rate and no greater than other moneyed capital in the hands of citizens is by law assessed, are not invalid, either under St. Mass. or Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], because, under statutory provisions, the tax on savings banks is based on the amount of their deposits, excepting deposits invested in loans secured on taxable real estate, since savings banks are organized for the purpose of investing the savings of small investors, and not for banking purposes in the commercial sense.—Id.

Under Rev. St. Ohio, §§ 2808, 2809, establishing a state board for the equalization of returns of bank shares from the various counties for taxation, according to the rules prescribed in that title for equalizing real and personal property, and authorizing it to increase or diminish the value of the shares, according to their relative value, such board has power only to equalize the assessed value of such shares among themselves; and an order made by it increasing the assessment of shares of a national bank above that of other property in the county is invalid, under Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], providing against discrimination against such banks in state taxation.—Whitbeck v. Mercantile Nat. Bank of Cleveland, 127 U. S. 193, 8 S. Ct. 1121, 32 L. Ed. 118.

Laws N. Y. 1880, c. 596, § 3, which provides that the stockholders in banks and trust companies organized under the authority of the state, or of the United States, shall be assessed for the value of their shares of stock, but which omits to provide for the taxation of the shares of stock in other private corporations, does not contravene Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502] which forbids the taxation of shares in national banks at a greater rate than is assessed on other "moneyed capital" in the hands of the individual citizens of the state. The purpose of section 5219 is to prevent unjust discrimination against United States banks, and the term "moneyed capital" means capital engaged in the operation of banking.—Palmer v. McMahon, 133 U. S. 660, 10 S. Ct. 324, 33 L. Ed. 772, following Mercantile Nat. Bank v. City of New York, 121 U. S. 138, 7 S. Ct. 826, 30 L. Ed. 895, affirming decree (C. C.) 28 F. 776.

The provision in Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], relating to taxation of national banks, "that the taxation shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such state," is not violated by Rev. St. Mont. div. 5, c. 53, § 1003, providing that when the "entire capital stock of any incorporated company shall be invested in assessable property in the territory of Montana such stock shall not be taxed," as the restriction imposed by section 5219 refers to other "moneyed capital," used in making a profit on money by the use of the moneyed capital as money, not to capital invested in mining, manufacturing, or transportation.—Talbot v. Silver Bow County Com'rs, 139 U. S. 438, 11 S. Ct. 594, 35 L. Ed. 210, affirming judgment Silver Bow County Com'rs v. Davis, 6 Mont. 306, 12 Pac. 688.

The mere fact that a state statute permits some debts to be deducted from some moneyed capital for the purpose of assessment for taxation, but not from that which is invested in the shares of national banks, does not show a violation of Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], forbidding state taxation of national bank shares to be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens, there being nothing to show that the amount of moneyed capital in the state from which debts may be deducted, as compared with the moneyed capital invested in national bank shares, was so large and substantial as to amount to an illegal discrimination against national bank shareholders.—First Nat. Bank of Garnett v. Ayers, 160 U. S. 660, 16 S. Ct. 412, 40 L. Ed. 573.

Rev. St. U. S. § 5219, providing that state taxation of national bank stock shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed on "other moneyed capital" of citizens of the state, refers only to moneyed capital which comes into competition with the business of national banks; and the exemption of the stocks and bonds of insurance, wharf, and gas companies, or other non-competing capital or credits, is not an unlawful discrimination against national banks whose stock is taxed.—First Nat. Bank v. County of Chehalis, 17 S. Ct. 629, 166 U. S. 440, 41 L. Ed. 1069.

A bill by a national bank to enjoin the collection of taxes on its stock, alleging that moneyed capital in the state, a specified amount of which was invested in stocks and bonds of insurance, wharf, and gas companies, and another specified amount in loans and securities payable to citizens, the nature of which was not indicated other than by the allegation of the legal conclusion that they were "taxable," was exempted from taxation, does not show a discrimination against the bank in violation of Rev. St. U. S. § 5219, by taxing its stock at a greater rate than was assessed on other moneyed capital in the hands of citizens of the state.—Id.

The state has the right to make the national banks its agents to collect the tax on their shares from the individual stockholders, and it is no objection to the law that the state banks are not required to do the same.—Merchants' & Manufacturers' Nat. Bank v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 17 S. Ct. 829, 167 U. S. 461, 42 L. Ed. 286.

A state statute giving banks the option to pay a tax of four mills on each dollar on the actual value of their shares, or of collecting from their shareholders and paying into the state treasury a tax of eight mills on the dollar of the par value of the eight shares, does not conflict with Rev. St. § 5219, which does not forbid discrimination between national banks, but only as between such banks and state banks or other moneyed capital.—Id.

In Rev. St. § 5219, forbidding the states to tax shareholders in national banks at a higher rate than that imposed on "other moneyed capital," the quoted words refer only to capital which comes into competition with the business of national banks; and hence exemptions from taxation, however large, such as deposits in savings banks of moneys belonging to charitable institutions, which are exempted for reasons of public policy, and not as an unfriendly discrimination against investments in national bank shares, are not forbidden by the federal statute.—First Nat. Bank of Wellington, Ohio, v. Chapman, 19 S. Ct. 407, 173 U. S. 205, 43 L. Ed. 669.

Rev. St. Ohio, § 2759, relating to the taxation of unincorporated banks and bankers, provides for deducting the debts of the business from the amount of capital employed therein, and assessing the remainder for taxation, without permitting a further deduction of the banker's general debts. Sections 2762 to 2766, relating to incorporated banks, state and national, require the shares of stock to be listed at their "true value in money," which is taken as the assessment after first deducting the amount of the bank's real estate, which is taxed separately. Held, that the true value of the shares in money can only be ascertained by deducting the debts of the bank from its assets; and hence the result is practically the same as in the case of unincorporated banks, so that there is no unlawful discrimination in favor of the latter, and against national banks.—Id.

The fact that, by the tax laws of Ohio the owners of what are termed "credits" are allowed to deduct their debts therefrom, and are assessed only upon the balance, while no such right of deduction is given to the owners of national bank shares, cannot be held an unlawful discrimination against the latter, in the absence of any data from which the court can determine what proportion the moneyed capital of individual citizens included in the term "credits" bears to the amount invested in national bank shares.—Id.

The term "moneyed capital," as employed in Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], forbidding greater taxation of shareholders of national banks than is imposed on other moneyed capital, does not include capital which does not come in competition with the business of national banks. Judgment (1900) 61 P. 560, 21 Utah, 324, 56 L. R. A. 340, affirmed.—Commercial Nat. Bank v. Chambers, 21 S. Ct. 863, 182 U. S. 556, 45 L. Ed. 1227.

No discrimination against national banks in violation of Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], providing that taxation on their shares of stock, shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed on other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens, is made by the system of taxation prevailing in New York in respect to trust companies, since it must be presumed that if such companies are using their funds in a strictly banking business, under an assumption of powers not in fact conferred by law, the state will take proper steps to keep them within the statutory limits, and a neglect for a limited time to do so cannot be considered as an assent by the state to such an improper assumption of power. Judgment 57 N. E. 408, 163 N. Y. 320, affirmed.—Jenkins v. Neff, 22 S. Ct. 905, 186 U. S. 230, 46 L. Ed. 1140.

A discrimination against national banks and in favor of state banks and other moneyed corporations, forbidden by Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], results from the taxation of shares of stock of national banks, under Pol. Code Cal. §§ 3608-3610, at their market value, while the construction given by the highest state court to the provisions for the taxation of the property of state banks and other moneyed corporations does not require, although property is defined by Const. Cal. art. 13, § 1, as including franchises, that the assessing officers shall include in the assessment all the intangible elements of value which form part of the market and selling value of shares of stock.—San Francisco Nat. Bank v. Dodge, 25 S. Ct. 384, 197 U. S. 70, 49 L. Ed. 669.

The adoption of a different method for taxing state banks and other moneyed corporations from that adopted for the taxation of national banks does not necessarily conflict with Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], authorizing state taxation of shares of stock in national banks, but exacting that the tax, when levied, shall be at no greater rate than that imposed on other moneyed corporations.—Id.

The retroactive provision of Act Ky. March 21, 1900, relating solely to national banks, by which such banks are charged with a liability for taxes for past years on their capital stock, whether held within or without the state, and are subjected to a penalty in addition for delinquency, operates as a discrimination against such banks, prohibited by Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], where, until the passage of that act, national banks were not required to return for taxation shares of their capital stock held outside of the state. Judgment (C. C.) First Nat. Bank v. Covington, 129 F. 792, affirmed.—City of Covington v. First Nat. Bank of Covington, 25 S. Ct. 562, 198 U. S. 100, 49 L. Ed. 963.

A discrimination against national banks, forbidden by Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], does not necessarily result from the adoption by the state of a different method of taxation with reference to national banks from that it has adopted for state banks.—Id.

The retroactive features of Act Ky. March 21, 1900 (Acts 1900, c. 23), making it the duty of certain officers of each national bank to list its shares of stock for taxation, and requiring the bank to pay the tax and a penalty for delinquency, subject to a deduction on account of taxes paid by the bank under other legislation, do not, so far as the shares of resident shareholders are concerned, operate to discriminate against the bank, contrary to Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502), although the shareholders and the number of shares may not be the same as when the liability to taxation arose, where such statute is construed by the state courts as not imposing any new liability either upon domestic shareholders or the bank, but as simply providing another method for the assessment of shares which have escaped assessment because not listed for taxation.—Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Commonwealth of Kentucky to Use of Boyle County, 30 S. Ct. 532, 217 U. S. 443, 54 L. Ed. 832.

An owner of national bank shares seeking to overthrow a state taxation system as discriminating against holders of such shares, contrary to Rev. St. § 5219 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502), has the burden of proof.—People of State of New York ex rel. Amoskeag Sav. Bank of Manchester, N. H., v. Purdy, 34 S. Ct. 114, 231 U. S. 373, 58 L. Ed. 274, affirming judgment 92 N. E. 1096, 198 N. Y. 503, which affirms 119 N. Y. S. 1139, 134 App. Div. 996.

Imposition on basis of book values of a one per cent. tax on national bank stock under Laws N. Y. 1909, c. 62 (Consol. Laws 1909, c. 60), does not contravene Rev. St. § 5219 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502), providing that taxation shall not be at a greater rate than assessed on other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens.—Id.

The taxing scheme of Laws N. Y. 1909, c. 62 (Consol. Laws 1909, c. 60), does not contravene Rev. St. § 5219 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502), forbidding discriminations against holders of national bank stock because in individual cases an owner of shares of such stock who is indebted may sustain a heavier tax than another likewise indebted who has invested his money otherwise.—Id.

—13. — Corporations created by other states and shares therein.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 15.

A state may impose upon foreign corporations (including those organized under the laws of other states) any conditions it may see fit as a prerequisite to their doing any business within its borders; and Act N. Y. May 26, 1881, exacting from all corporations doing business in the state a tax proportioned to the total amount of their capital stock, without regard to what part thereof is employed within the state, or to the amount or kind of business done there, cannot be impeached on the ground of repugnancy to any provisions of the federal constitution.—Horn Silver Min. Co. v. People of State of New York, 143 U. S. 305, 12 S. Ct. 403, 36 L. Ed. 164.

The requirement that receipts for the payment of the federal internal revenue tax upon the business of selling intoxicating liquors be registered and published at the holder's expense, which is made by Act N. D. March 13, 1907 (Laws 1907, c. 189), is not a valid exercise of the police power, but is invalid, as placing a direct burden upon the taxing power of the federal government. Judgment (1907) 113 N. W. 371, 16 N. D. 347, reversed.—State of North Dakota ex rel. Flaherty, v. Hanson, 30 S. Ct. 179, 215 U. S. 515, 54 L. Ed. 307.

The rule that the power to tax depends on jurisdiction of the subject-matter does not apply to federal taxation.—United States v. Bennett, 34 S. Ct. 433, 232 U. S. 299, 58 L. Ed. 612.

—18. — Agencies and instrumentalities of state.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 47.

A succession tax imposed under the authority of Act Cong. June 13, 1898, c. 448, 30 Stat. 448 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2286], upon a bequest to a municipality for public purposes is not unconstitutional as a tax upon an agency of the state, since such a tax, being collected from the property while in the hands of the executor, who is required by section 30 of that act to liquidate it "before payment and distribution to the legatees," cannot be regarded as a tax upon the municipality, although it may operate incidentally to reduce the bequest by the amount of the tax.—Snyder v. Bettman, 23 S. Ct. 803, 190 U. S. 249, 47 L. Ed. 1035.

—19. Power of territories.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 48-50.

Lands granted in aid of a railroad, of which the government has retained the legal title as security for the cost of selecting, surveying, and conveying the same, are not subject to territorial taxation until after the patents have been issued therefor, notwithstanding the road may have been built and the land earned in accordance with the terms of the grant before the tax was levied.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Rockne, 115 U. S. 600, 6 S. Ct. 201, 29 L. Ed. 477.

Under Rev. St. § 5134 et seq. [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3454], providing for the incorporation of national banks in both states and territories, the territories have the same power to tax national banking associations located in them as have the states, notwithstanding that section 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], which expressly confers the power to tax such associations, only mentions states, and provides that, in assessing taxes imposed by the authority of the "state within which the association is located," the shares in such association may be included in the valuation of the personal property of the owner of them.—Talbott v. Silver Bow County Com'rs, 139 U. S. 438, 11 S. Ct. 594, 35 L. Ed. 210, affirming judgment Silver Bow County Com'rs v. Davis, 6 Mont. 306, 12 Pac. 688.

Objection to the taxation of land because it is an unconfirmed Mexican grant cannot be sustained where it is not shown that such grant is not a "perfect" one, the equitable title to which is vested in the taxpayer, or that the land is not in his possession, and improved.—Maish v. Territory of Arizona, 17 S. Ct. 193, 164 U. S. 599, 41 L. Ed. 567.

Territorial legislatures may impose a tax on cattle, belonging to others than Indians, which are grazing on Indian reservations within the territory, pursuant to a lease of the land for that purpose made by the Indians with the approval of the federal authorities. Such tax is too remote and indirect to be deemed a tax on the lands or privileges of the Indians, and is not an interference with the power of congress to deal with the Indians and their property and commercial transactions. Judgment 46 P. 578, 5 Okl. 1, reversed.—Thomas v. Gay, 18 S. Ct. 340, 169 U. S. 264, 42 L. Ed. 740.

The levy of a tax, by a territorial government, upon personal property located on an Indian reservation, not embraced in any organized county, is not invalid as being taxation without representation.—Id.

It is immaterial that the approval of the authorities was on condition that the owners of the cattle should employ Indians as herders.—Wagoner v. Evans, 18 S. Ct. 730, 170 U. S. 588, 42 L. Ed. 1154, reversing decree 46 P. 1117, 5 Okl. 31.

Franchises granted by the Hawaiian government between July 7, 1898, and September 28, 1899, were not made acts of Congress by adoption, so as to be exempt from territorial taxation, by the provision of the organic act April 30, 1900, c. 339, § 73, 31 Stat. 141, 154, ratifying and affirming such franchises.—Honolulu Rapid Transit & Land Co. v. Wilder, 29 S. Ct. 44, 211 U. S. 137, 53 L. Ed. 121.

Jurisdiction for taxing purposes of the harbor areas and navigable waters of Porto Rico is not denied to the insular government by the reservations in favor of the United States made by Act April 12, 1900, § 13, and Act July 1, 1902.—Gromer v. Standard Dredging Co., 32 S. Ct. 499, 224 U. S. 362, 56 L. Ed. 801.

20. Territorial limitations of power.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 51-54.

Act Kan. Feb. 22, 1875, ceding to the United States exclusive jurisdiction over the Ft. Leavenworth military reservation, saved to the state "the right to tax railroad, bridge, and other corporations, their franchises and property, on said reservation." Held, that while, when the United States acquire lands within the limits of a state by purchase thereof with the consent of the legislature of the state, for the erection of forts, etc., their jurisdiction is exclusive, where a state cedes land to the United States, it may prescribe such condition, it not being inconsistent with the effective use of the property for the purpose intended; that the acceptance of such grant by the United States, with the condition, might be presumed; and that the property of a railroad company within the reservation was liable to taxation by the state.—Ft. Leavenworth R. Co. v. Lowe, 114 U. S. 525, 5 S. Ct. 995, 29 L. Ed. 264.

Where a railroad company has lawfully constructed and is operating a railroad through an Indian reservation in the territory of Idaho (Act Cong. July 3, 1882) on a strip of land ceded to the United States for the use of the company and its successors as a right of way, etc., the right of the territory to tax the property of the company thereon is not affected by the provision of the organic act (Act Cong. March 3, 1863, 12 Stat. 808) excluding the territorial jurisdiction from any lands which by treaty with the Indians were not to be included therein, nor by the treaty of July 3, 1868, with the Eastern band of the Shoshones and the Bannock tribe (15 Stat. 673), setting apart the reservation for their undisturbed use and occupation, and providing that no person should ever be permitted to pass over or settle thereon.—Utah & N. Ry. Co. v. Fisher, 116 U. S. 28, 6 S. Ct. 246, 29 L. Ed. 542.

A railroad having taken and constructed its road on a right of way through an Indian reservation, granted to it by congress, subject to its obtaining the consent of the Indians thereto, it will be presumed, in a suit involving the right of a territory to tax the road, in the absence of anything in the record, that the consent was obtained.—Maricopa & P. R. Co. v. Territory of Arizona, 156 U. S. 347, 15 S. Ct. 391, 39 L. Ed. 447.

Act Ind. March 6, 1893, which takes as a basis for the valuation of the property of a telegraph company within the state the proportion of the whole value of its whole capital stock which the length of its lines within the state bears to the whole length of all its lines, is not invalid as providing for taxation of property outside the state.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Taggart, 163 U. S. 1, 16 S. Ct. 1054, 41 L. Ed. 49, affirming judgment 141 Ind. 281, 40 N. E. 1051, 60 L. R. A. 671.

A bridge erected by a corporation between Kentucky and Indiana, with the consent of Congress, in or over the Ohio river, low-water mark on the western and northwestern banks of which is a boundary of Kentucky, is a proper subject of taxation by that state, although that river, as a navigable stream, is under the control of Congress.—Henderson Bridge Co. v. City of Henderson, 19 S. Ct. 553, 173 U. S. 592, 43 L. Ed. 823.

Lands lying between the middle of New York Bay and the low-water line on the New Jersey shore are taxable by New Jersey, notwithstanding the provisions of a compact between the states, fixing the boundary line as the middle of New York Bay, approved by Congress, Act June 28, 1834, c. 126, 4 Stat. 708, by which New York is given "exclusive jurisdiction of and over all the waters of the bay of New York," and "of and over the land covered by the said waters to the low-water mark" on the New Jersey side, subject to the exclusive right of property in New Jersey "in and to the land under water lying west of the middle of the bay," and to her exclusive jurisdiction over wharves, docks, and improvements made, or to be made, on her shore, and to her exclusive right to regulate the fisheries on the west of the middle of said waters. Judgment (Err. & App. 1905) 61 A. 1118, 72 N. J. Law, 311, affirmed.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Jersey City, 28 S. Ct. 592, 209 U. S. 473, 52 L. Ed. 896.

Laws Kan. 1913, c. 135, imposing annual tax on paid-up capital stock of domestic railroad companies, held not invalid as taxing property of the corporation outside the state.—Kansas City, F. S. & M. Ry. Co. v. Botkin, 36 S. Ct. 261, 240 U. S. 227, 60 L. Ed. 617, affirming judgment Same v. Sessions, 147 P. 791, 95 Kan. 261.

Laws Kan. 1913, c. 135, imposing annual tax on foreign railroad doing business in state in proportion to its capital stock devoted to such business, held valid.—Lusk v. Botkin, 36 S. Ct. 263, 240 U. S. 236, 60 L. Ed. 621, affirming judgment Same v. Sessions, 147 P. 794, 95 Kan. 271.

21. Public purpose.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 55-58.

24. — Special or local purpose, and benefit to locality taxed.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 57.

In actions for equitable relief, it is sufficient that a tender is made in the bill, with an offer to bring the money into court whenever the court directs; and it is not necessary that the money shall be brought into court on the filing of the bill.—Cheney v. Libby, 134 U. S. 68, 10 S. Ct. 498, 33 L. Ed. 818.

The levy of a tax for county purposes on personal property on an Indian reservation outside the county, but to which it is attached for that purpose, is not invalid on the ground that the persons taxed receive no benefit from the expenditure of the money.—Thomas v. Gay, 18 S. Ct. 340, 169 U. S. 264, 42 L. Ed. 740; Wagoner v. Evans, 18 S. Ct. 730, 170 U. S. 583, 42 L. Ed. 1154.

37. Constitutional provisions.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 64-66, 133.

Taxation of a resident of the state under Rev. Laws Mass. c. 12, §§ 2, 4, 23, on shares in a foreign corporation, held constitutional.—Hawley v. City of Malden, 34 S. Ct. 201, 232 U. S. 1, 58 L. Ed. 477, affirming judgment 90 N. E. 415, 204 Mass. 138.

§39. Equality and uniformity.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 63-103.

§40. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 63-89.

The laws of Pennsylvania, taxing bonds and other securities issued by corporations on their nominal instead of their actual value, are not an unjust discrimination, and do not violate Const. U. S. Amend. 14, forbidding a state to withhold from any person the equal protection of its laws.—Bell's Gap R. Co. v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 134 U. S. 232, 10 S. Ct. 533, 33 L. Ed. 892.

Such mode of taxation is not open to the objection that the corporation is taxed for property not its own, since the tax is in fact on the bondholder, and not on the corporation.—Id.

A clause in a railroad charter, following exemptions from taxation of the capital stock forever and of the road for 25 years, that no tax should ever be laid on the road which would reduce the dividends below a certain percentage, held an exemption to that extent, and not a special rule for taxation of the road after the 25 years, void for violation of the constitutional rule (Const. Tenn. 1834, art. 2, § 28) of uniformity and equality.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. State of Tennessee, 153 U. S. 486, 14 S. Ct. 968, 38 L. Ed. 793.

The legislature has power to provide for the taxation of real property which has escaped taxation in previous years, without providing for the taxation of personal property of that class.—Winona & St. P. Land Co. v. State of Minnesota, 159 U. S. 526, 16 S. Ct. 83, 40 L. Ed. 247.

A statute providing in general terms for the taxation of all property owned by railroad corporations by a tax on the gross earnings of their roads is valid as to lands of a company which in fact contribute to the earnings of its road, though there may be other corporations coming within its provisions which own property entirely disconnected from their roads, and as to which the statute may be invalid, as in effect exempting such property from all taxation.—McHenry v. Alford, 18 S. Ct. 242, 168 U. S. 651, 42 L. Ed. 614.

A county tax levied on personal property located on an Indian reservation outside the county, pursuant to the laws of a territory, is not invalid on the ground of discrimination, in that the land on which the property is located is not also taxed. Judgment, Gay v. Thomas, 48 P. 578, 5 Okl. 1. reversed.—Thomas v. Gay, 18 S. Ct. 340, 169 U. S. 264, 42 L. Ed. 740.

It is in the discretion of a territorial legislature to provide that a tax on cattle grazing on an Indian reservation shall be assessed at a different date from other property, and that the assessment shall be revised by a different board.—Id.

Public policy does not require an unlawful tax to be sustained where there is an equality between it and a lawful one. Decree 39 S. W. 1116, 19 Ky. Law Rep. 247, reversed.—Owensboro Nat. Bank v. City of Owensboro, 19 S. Ct. 537, 173 U. S. 664, 43 L. Ed. 850.

The federal Constitution does not forbid state taxation of the franchise of a domestic corporation at a different rate than is assessed upon the tangible property in the state. Decree (C. C.) Louisville & N. E. Co. v. Coulter, 131 F. 282, reversed.—Coulter v. Louisville & N. E. Co., 25 S. Ct. 342, 196 U. S. 599, 49 L. Ed. 615.

Taxing shares of foreign corporations owned by citizens under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1908, §§ 10,143, 10,233, 10,234, held constitutional. With domestic corporations, the property, and not the shares, is taxed.—Darnell v. State of Indiana, 33 S. Ct. 120, 226 U. S. 390, 57 L.

Ed. 287, affirming judgment 90 N. E. 769, 174 Ind. 143.

Geographical uniformity alone is exacted by Const. art. 1, § 8, providing that all duties and imposts shall be uniform throughout the United States.—Brushaber v. Union Pac. R. Co., 36 S. Ct. 236, 240 U. S. 1, 60 L. Ed. 493.

§42. — Classification of subjects, and uniformity as to subjects of same class.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 90-95.

Act Mo. May 16, 1889, which imposes on companies carrying goods "by express, on contract with any railroad or steamboat company," a tax on their "receipts for business done within this state," does not deprive the express companies of the equal protection of the laws, nor constitute inequality of taxation, since the state has a right to tax different kinds of property in different ways.—Pacific Exp. Co. v. Seibert, 142 U. S. 339, 12 S. Ct. 250, 35 L. Ed. 1035.

Express companies having no tangible property of their own constitute a separate class from companies owning their own means of transportation; and a discrimination between them and such other companies as to the manner in which they are taxed does not violate the constitutional requirements of uniformity and equality of taxation.—Id.

Nothing in the federal Constitution prevents a state from singling out railroad and other corporate property and taxing it for state purposes in a manner and at a rate different from that applicable to other property. Decree (C. C.) Michigan Railroad Tax Cases, 138 F. 223, affirmed.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Powers, 26 S. Ct. 459, 201 U. S. 245, 50 L. Ed. 744.

The mere fact that all the other property in the state, wherever situated, is taken into consideration in fixing the average rate of taxation at which, under Pub. Acts Mich. 1901, Act No. 173, railroad and certain other corporate property is to be assessed, does not carry with it such proof of injustice and inequality as necessarily to invalidate the tax.—Id.

Railway companies are not arbitrarily discriminated against, contrary to the uniformity provisions of the Ohio Constitution, by the exercise tax imposed on gross earnings by Act May 31, 1911 (102 Ohio Laws, p. 224), because other public utilities within the state are not included.—Ohio Tax Cases, 34 S. Ct. 372, 232 U. S. 576, 58 L. Ed. 737, affirming decree (D. C.) Ohio River & W. Ry. Co. v. Dittay, 203 F. 537.

The uniformity clause of Const. art. 1, § 8, is not violated by the tax on gross tonnage levied by Tariff Act, § 37, on the use of foreign-built pleasure yachts owned by citizens because a like tax is not imposed on a domestic yacht under similar circumstances.—Billings v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 421, 232 U. S. 261, 58 L. Ed. 596, affirming judgment (C. C.) United States v. Billings, 190 F. 359; United States v. Billings, 34 S. Ct. 428, 232 U. S. 289, 58 L. Ed. 608, affirming in part (C. C.) United States v. Blair, 190 F. 372; Rainey v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 429, 232 U. S. 310, 58 L. Ed. 617, affirming order (C. C.) United States v. Billings, 190 F. 359, and modifying judgment (C. C.) Same v. Blair, 190 F. 372; United States v. Bennett, 34 S. Ct. 433, 232 U. S. 299, 58 L. Ed. 612.

§44. — Local taxes, and uniformity as to same locality.

An Indian reservation, attached to a county for judicial purposes by order of the Supreme Court of the territory of Oklahoma pursuant to Organization Act May 2, 1890 (26 Stat. 81, 85, c. 182) § 9, was not, by Sess. Laws Okl. 1895, c. 43, art. 6, making personal property in such reservations subject to taxation in the counties to which they were so attached, so made a part of the same taxing district as the county as to render invalid for want of uniformity Sess. Laws Okl. 1899, p. 218, limiting the right of taxation in such reservations to taxes for territorial and court purposes. Judgment, Pryor v. Bryan, 66 P. 348, 11 Okl. 357; Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Same, Id., affirmed.—Foster v. Pryor, 23 S. Ct. 549, 189 U. S. 325, 47 L. Ed. 835.

45. — Taxation of individuals and corporations.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 100-103.

The Pennsylvania statute (Act June 30, 1885, § 4) requiring the treasurer of each private corporation doing business in the state, upon the payment of interest on any bond, etc., issued by such corporation, to assess the state tax of 3 mills upon the "nominal value" of such evidence of debt, deduct the same from the interest paid, and turn it into the state treasury, is not in contravention of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, as taking property without due process of law, or as providing for an unjust discrimination in favor of persons owning bonds of foreign corporations, which by the general laws of the state are taxed at their actual value.—Jennings v. Coal Ridge Improvement & Coal Co., 147 U. S. 147, 13 S. Ct. 282, 37 L. Ed. 116, affirming judgment Coal Ridge Improvement & Coal Co., 17 A. 986, 127 Pa. St. 397.

While Ky. St. 1894, §§ 4077, 4088, taxing all the property, both tangible and intangible, of corporations and associations, do not apply to all individual taxpayers, yet, as other sections subject individuals to taxation upon all their tangible and intangible property, the statute is not invalid under the state constitution on the ground of discrimination or want of uniformity.—Weir v. Norman, 17 S. Ct. 527, 166 U. S. 171, 41 L. Ed. 960.

Taxes upon the privileges of corporations, being taxes upon their property, are subject to the limitations of Const. Miss. 1869, art. 12, §§ 13, 20, requiring the property of corporations to be taxed, like that of individuals, in proportion to its value.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Hewes, 22 S. Ct. 26, 183 U. S. 66, 46 L. Ed. 86.

Making gross earnings in the state the controlling factor in fixing value for taxation by express companies by Laws S. D. 1907, c. 64, as amended by Laws 1909, c. 162, held a violation of Const. S. D. art. 11, § 2, requiring taxes on corporate property to be assessed in manner provided for taxes on individual property.—Johnson v. Wells Fargo & Co., 36 S. Ct. 62, 239 U. S. 234, 60 L. Ed. 243, affirming judgment Wells Fargo & Co. v. Johnson, 214 F. 180, 130 C. C. A. 528.

47. Double taxation.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 104-114.

The exaction from railway companies by Act May 31, 1911 (102 Ohio Laws, p. 224), of an excise tax of 4 per cent. on their gross intrastate earnings in addition to the taxation of their property, is not double taxation.—Ohio Tax Cases, 34 S. Ct. 372, 232 U. S. 576, 58 L. Ed. 737, affirming decree (D. C.) Ohio River & W. Ry. Co. v. Dittie, 203 F. 537.

State taxation of memberships in chamber of commerce is not repugnant to federal Constitution as double taxation because property of corporation has been taxed.—Rogers v. Hennepin County, 36 S. Ct. 265, 240 U. S. 184, 60 L. Ed. 594, affirming judgment 145 N. W. 112, 124 Minn. 539.

49. Taxation according to value.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 115-124.

Contracts between the state of Minnesota and railroad companies, made by acts of February 23, 1865 (Sp. Laws Minn. 1865, c. 2, p. 19), and March 4, 1870 (Sp. Laws Minn. 1870, p. 338), whereby the state exempted the companies from all other taxes until a sale or lease of the lands, or sale of stumpage thereon, in consideration of a percentage on the gross earnings, were not in violation of the provisions of Const. Minn. art. 9, §§ 1, 3, requiring all property to be taxed at its true value in money, since these contracts were made by the state as a trustee of the public lands granted to it in aid of railroad, or which were granted to the corporations by congress subject to the consent of the state, and, as the state had accepted the property as a trustee, it was not compelled to weaken the full accomplishment of that trust by subjecting the lands to taxation, if, in its judgment as trustee, the trust could be most effectually accomplished by transferring the lands subject to a limited taxation until such time as the full value of the lands could be secured for the purposes of the trust. Judgment, State v. Stearns, 75 N. W. 210, 72 Minn. 200, reversed.—Stearns v. State of Minnesota, 21 S. Ct. 73, 179 U. S. 223, 45 L. Ed. 162.

50. Limitation of rate or amount.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 125, 128.

A law imposing a tax on privileges and franchises is not repugnant to the Ohio Constitution as being confiscatory because in isolated cases it may impose a hardship.—Ohio Tax Cases, 34 S. Ct. 372, 232 U. S. 576, 58 L. Ed. 737, affirming decree (D. C.) 203 F. 537.

Railway franchises are not valueless so as to make the tax imposed by Act May 31, 1911 (102 Ohio Laws, p. 224), on gross earnings, confiscatory because the earnings of the railroad are not sufficient to pay more than other legitimate high-grade securities or may not be sufficient to pay operating expenses.—Id.

53. Excise taxes.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 127.

The tax on transfers of corporate stock imposed by Laws N. Y. 1905, c. 241, is not invalid under Const. U. S. Amend. 14, as making an arbitrary discrimination in favor of sales of other kinds of personal property, such as corporate bonds. Order (1906) 77 N. E. 970, 184 N. Y. 431, affirmed.—People of State of New York ex rel. Hatch v. Reardon, 27 S. Ct. 138, 204 U. S. 152, 51 L. Ed. 415, 9 Ann. Cas. 736.

Excise tax exacted from foreign corporations under Pub. St. Mass. 1909, c. 490, for the privilege of doing business in the state, held constitutional.—Baltic Min. Co. v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 34 S. Ct. 15, 231 U. S. 68, 58 L. Ed. 127, affirming judgments 93 N. E. 831, 207 Mass. 381.

III. LIABILITY OF PERSONS AND PROPERTY.

(A) PRIVATE PERSONS AND PROPERTY IN GENERAL.

Due process of law, see Constitutional Law, 283.

60. Nature of property.

67. — Personal property in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 152, 153, 164, 165.

Memberships in an incorporated chamber of commerce having no capital stock, merely furnishing buildings for its members, held properly taxable as such.—Rogers v. Hennepin County, 36 S. Ct. 265, 240 U. S. 184, 60 L. Ed. 594, affirming judgment 145 N. W. 112, 124 Minn. 539.

92. Property of nonresidents or aliens.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 182-196.

95. — Credits, investments, and securities in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 190-192.

Moneys collected as interest and principle of notes, mortgages, and other securities kept within the state for use or reinvestment, though the owner is domiciled in another state, and the moneys are deposited in a bank to his credit, are subject to taxation under Acts La. 1890, c. 106, providing for taxation of credits arising from business done in the state, at the business domicile of a nonresident owner, his agent, or representative.—City of New Orleans v. Stemple, 20 S. Ct. 110, 175 U. S. 309, 44 L. Ed. 174.

Notes and mortgages, the owner of which is domiciled in another state, when they are kept within the state by an agent, may be subjected to taxation by the laws of the state in which they are held.—Id.

Investments by a nonresident of the state are subject to taxation under the laws of the state when made by a resident agent who is employed to invest and reinvest moneys, at whose office the loans are made payable, and who retains the mortgages securing them, and to whom the notes taken for the loans are returned from time to time whenever required for the purpose of renewal, collection, or foreclosure of securities, notwithstanding the fact that the notes are sent out of the state to the principal, and the agent has no authority to execute satisfactions of mortgages.—Bristol v. Washington County, 20 S. Ct. 585, 177 U. S. 133, 44 L. Ed. 701.

Loans made by a foreign life insurance company to its policy holders, which, though represented by notes, are in fact charged against the reserve value of the borrowers' policies, under an agreement for the extinguishment of the debt by deducting the amount of the loans, with interest, from the amount of any claim under the policies, are not taxable by the state in which the borrowing policy holders reside. Decree (C. C. 1908) New York Life Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors for Parish of Orleans, 158 F. 462, affirmed.—Board of Assessors of the Parish of Orleans v. New York Life Ins. Co., 30 S. Ct. 385, 216 U. S. 517, 54 L. Ed. 597.

Railway companies not domiciled in the state are not taxable for stock and bonds of other companies owned by them.—Wright v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 35 S. Ct. 475, 236 U. S. 687, 59 L. Ed. 788, modifying decree 201 F. 1023, 119 C. O. A. 282.

97. Situs of property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 196-201.

98. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 196-198, 200.

The intangible property of an express company, created by the acquisition of franchises or privileges and the combined use of its tangible property in several states, is distributed wherever the tangible property is located and the work is done. Its situs for taxation is not confined to the state by which the company was chartered, or in which its home office is located.—Adams Exp. Co. v. Ohio State Auditor, 17 S. Ct. 604, 166 U. S. 185, 41 L. Ed. 965.

The settled rule that the domicile of the owner or the actual situs of the vessel, and not the place of enrollment of a vessel plying between ports of different states, engaged in the coastwise trade, and the consequent marking of the stern of the vessel with the name of the place of enrollment, as provided for in Rev. St. U. S. §§ 4178, 4334 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2830, 2968], was the criterion by which to determine the situs of the vessel for taxation, was not changed by the declaration of Act June 26, 1884, c. 121, § 21, 23 Stat. 58 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2831], that the word "port," as used in those sections, shall be construed to mean either the port where the vessel is enrolled, or the place where it was built, or where one of the owners resides, which simply enables the owner to select a place other than the port of enrollment be marked upon the vessel. Judgment 85 S. W. 1096, 26 Ky. Law Rep. 585, reversed.—Ayer & Lord Tie Co. v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, 26 S. Ct. 679, 202 U. S. 409, 50 L. Ed. 1082, 6 Ann. Cas. 205.

A state cannot tax German warehouse receipts, valuing them at the value of the whisky they represent, where it cannot tax the whisky itself either because it was exported from the United States or because of its situs. Judgment (1907) Commonwealth v. Selliger, 98 S. W. 1040, 39 Ky. Law Rep. 451, reversed.—Selliger v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, 29 S. Ct. 449, 213 U. S. 200, 53 L. Ed. 761.

The right to select the name of the place of enrollment, the place where the vessel was built, or the place where the owner resides, as the place to be marked upon the stern as the home port, given the owner by Rev. St. §§ 4141, 4178 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2808, 2830), as amended by Act June 23, 1874, c. 467, 18 Stat. 252, does not confer the arbitrary right upon the owner to select a place for the taxation of his vessel.—(1911) Southern Pac. Co. v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, 32 S. Ct. 13, 222 U. S. 63, 56 L. Ed. 96, affirming judgment (1900) Commonwealth v. Southern Pac. Co., 120 S. W. 311, 134 Ky. 417, 20 Ann. Cas. 965.

Ocean-going steamships owned by a Kentucky corporation, and plying between the ports of New York and New Orleans, New York and Galveston, and New Orleans and Havana, are taxable in Kentucky, the domicile of the owner, although the vessels are enrolled at the port of New York, and carry the words "New York" on their sterns; these facts not being sufficient to give the vessels an actual situs in New York.—Id.

The inability of vessels, by reason of draught, or the depth of water, to go to the situs of the domicile of the owner, does not prevent their taxation at that domicile, where they have gained no actual situs elsewhere.—Id.

A state may fix the situs for taxation of memberships in chamber of commerce at the place in the state at which the exchange is located.—Rogers v. Hennepin County, 36 S. Ct. 265, 240 U. S. 184, 60 L. Ed. 594, affirming judgment 145 N. W. 112, 124 Minn. 539.

100. — Property temporarily within jurisdiction.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 201.

The Louisiana tax laws will not be construed by the federal courts as taxing bank deposits of a foreign life insurance company, made solely for transmission to its home office, and not used or drawn against by any one in Louisiana, in the absence of any decision of the Louisiana supreme court to that effect. Decree (C. C. 1908) New York Life Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors for Parish of Orleans, 158 F. 462, affirmed.—Board of Assessors of Parish of Orleans v. New York Life Ins. Co., 30 S. Ct. 385, 216 U. S. 517, 54 L. Ed. 597.

101. — Property in transit.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 201.

Transportation of logs partly by water and partly by rail is included in the provision of Act Mich. April 8, 1899, making forest products in transit to a point outside the state assessable at the place in the state nearest to the last boom or sorting gap of the stream in or bordering on such state in which they will naturally be last floated during such transit, although the statute also provides that, if the transit "is to be other than through any water course in or bordering on" the state, such property shall be assessed at the point where it will naturally leave the state in the ordinary course of its transit.—Diamond Match Co. v. Village of Ontonagon, 23 S. Ct. 266, 188 U. S. 82, 47 L. Ed. 349.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 142.

Power to tax property on Indian reservations outside the county, but attached thereto for purposes of taxation, having been first given by the Oklahoma statute of March 5, 1895, the provisions of that act authorizing assessors to assess or reassess property that, by oversight or negligence, has escaped taxation in previous years, gives them no authority to assess for previous years property on such reservations.—Wagoner v. Evans, 18 S. Ct. 730, 170 U. S. 588, 42 L. Ed. 1154, reversing decree 46 P. 1117, 5 Okl. 31.

◀110. Property sold or forfeited to state on nonpayment of tax.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 143.

By the constitution of West Virginia (article 9, § 5), all lands within that state which were formerly vested in the state of Virginia by forfeiture or by purchase at tax sales were permitted to be redeemed at any time before June 20, 1868, and any such lands which were not redeemed by that time were not thereafter subject to be put upon the taxbooks in the names of individuals; and any subsequent assessment and sale for taxes were void.—Rich v. Braxton, 158 U. S. 375, 15 S. Ct. 1006, 39 L. Ed. 1022, affirming decree Braxton v. Rich (C. C.) 47 F. 178.

Acts Gen. Assem. Va. 1881-82, § 20, c. 119, providing for taxation of the rolling stock of "every railroad company not exempted from taxation by virtue of its charter," is, by its terms, inapplicable to the rolling stock of a foreign corporation, which is used on its leased railways within the state owned by home corporations not exempt.—*Marye v. ◀127. Capital and stock.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 230-232.

By the charter of the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana the subscribers to the stock did not pay for their subscriptions in cash, but evidenced the amount thereof by interest-bearing notes payable in installments maturing many years ahead, the payment of which was secured by a mortgage on real estate and slaves. The working capital of the bank was procured by a loan from the state to the bank of its bonds, which were indorsed by the bank, and by it sold in open market. To secure the payment of these state bonds the bank pledged all the notes furnished by its stockholders for the amount of their stock subscriptions, as well as the mortgages securing them. Held, that the capital of the bank consisted of the money derived from the sale of the state bonds, and not from the subscriptions and stock mortgages by which they were secured; and therefore the mortgaged property bought in by the bank under foreclosure proceedings does not constitute a part of its capital, and a judgment that the capital is exempt from taxation is not conclusive as to the exemption of such real estate; nor did the fact that the charter authorized the subscribers to borrow from the bank on their stock a certain amount of the capital afforded by a sale of the bonds make the stock mortgages an investment of the capital.—City of New Orleans v. Citizens' Bank of Louisiana, 17 S. Ct. 905, 167 U. S. 371, 42 L. Ed. 202.

The imposition of a privilege tax on foreign insurance companies by Rev. St. Ohio, § 2745, does not bring such companies within the exception from the operation of section 2744 which that section makes in favor of corporations whose taxation elsewhere is specifically provided for, and hence does not relieve them from the duty, under that section, to return for taxation bonds deposited by them with the superintendent of insurance for the protection of the local policy holders as a condition of doing business in Ohio.—Scottish Union & National Ins. Co. v. Bowland, 25 S. Ct. 345, 196 U. S. 611, 49 L. Ed. 619.

The taxation of credits arising out of loans on collateral security made by the local agent of a foreign corporation, who retains the collateral, and, as evidence of the indebtedness, takes the customer's so-called check, which is regarded as an overdraft, upon which the customer is charged interest, and which is finally sent to the home office, to which the money, when repaid, is remitted by an exchange transaction unless reloaned by the local agent to other parties, is authorized by the provision of Acts La. 1898, p. 350, No. 170, § 7, for the taxation of credits arising from business done in the state at the business domicile of a non-resident owner, his agent, or representative.—State Board of Assessors of Parish of Orleans v. Comptoir National D'Escompte De Paris, 24 S. Ct. 109, 191 U. S. 388, 48 L. Ed. 232.

Bonds in which a foreign insurance company is required by Rev. St. Ohio, § 3660, as a condition of doing business in Ohio, to invest a portion of its capital stock, to be deposited with the superintendent of insurance for the protection of the local policy holders, are personal property within the meaning of section 2744, requiring insurance companies to list for taxation all their personal property, which, by the terms of that section, is to include moneys and credits within the state, and is also defined in section 2730 as including the capital stock, although the taxation of investments in bonds, provided for in sections 2730, 2731, extends only to such securities as are in the hands of individual residents, owned by themselves or held by them for others, since these last sections were not intended to limit other sections of the tax law, but were enacted to carry out a general purpose to tax all personal property within the state.—Scottish Union & National Ins. Co. v. Bowland, 25 S. Ct. 345, 196 U. S. 611, 49 L. Ed. 619.

169. Shares in foreign corporations.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 292.

Shares of stock in a foreign corporation, held by a domestic corporation, are taxable as the property of the latter, under the mandate of the Georgia Constitution that "all taxation shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and ad valorem on all property subject to be taxed within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax, and shall be levied and collected under general laws," which is carried out in Laws 1898, No. 150, §§ 1, 2, authorizing a tax on all the taxable property of the state, and section 16, which requires taxpayers to return the number of shares of stock in foreign corporations which they own. (C) PUBLIC PROPERTY AND INSTITUTIONS.

181. Indian lands.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 45; 27 Cent. Dig. Indians, § 54.

Permanent improvements on lands allotted to Indians in severalty, under Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119 (24 Stat. 389), section 5 of which requires the United States to hold such lands in trust for the allottees for 25 years, and then, unless the time shall be extended by the president, convey the fee free from any charge or incumbrance, cannot be taxed by a state as personal property.—United States v. Rickert, 23 S. Ct. 478, 188 U. S. 432, 47 L. Ed. 532.

A state may not tax lands allotted to Indians in severalty, under Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119 (24 Stat. 389), section 5 of which requires the United States to hold such lands in trust for the allottees for 25 years, when, unless the time shall be extended by the president, they shall be conveyed free from any charge or incumbrance, and declares that any conveyance thereof, or any contract touching the same, before the expiration of such period, shall be absolutely null and void.—Id.

The United States has such an interest in preventing the taxation by a state of permanent improvements on, and personal property used in the cultivation of, lands allotted to Indians in severalty, under Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119 (24 Stat. 389), section 5 of which requires the United States to hold such lands in trust for the allottees for 25 years, and then convey the fee free of all incumbrance, as entitles it to maintain a suit in equity to restrain the collection of such tax.—Id.

Land allotted under an Indian treaty which exempts such land from levy, sale, or forfeiture until the state Legislature shall, with the consent of Congress, remove the restriction, can no longer escape taxation after the Indian patentee has become a citizen under Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119, 24 Stat. 388, which, in addition to the grant of citizenship, provides that "Indians to whom allotments have been made shall have the benefit of, and be subject to, the laws, both civil and criminal, of the state or territory in which they may reside," and the 10 years during which Congress, by Act March 3, 1893, c. 209, 27 Stat. 612, 633, postponed the operation of the provision of Laws Wash. 1889-90, p. 499, granting the power of alienation "in like manner and with like effect as any other person may do under the laws of the United States and of this state," and removing all restrictions in reference thereto, have expired. Judgment (1905) 80 P. 295, 38 Wash. 128, affirmed.—Goudy v. Meath, 27 S. Ct. 48, 203 U. S. 146, 51 L. Ed. 130.

188. Agencies and instrumentalities of government in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 298.

The use of machinery and boats in the harbor of San Juan, Porto Rico, in the performance of a dredging contract with the United States, does not exempt them from taxation.—Gromer v. Standard Dredging Co., 32 S. Ct. 499, 224 U. S. 362, 56 L. Ed. 801.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 309.

Exempting property of telephone companies whose gross annual receipts do not exceed $500 from ad valorem tax imposed by Pub. Acts Mich. 1909, No. 49, does not render the statute invalid, where the companies taxed are those organized for profit and the untaxed enterprises are mutual or co-operative.—Citizens' Telephone Co. v. Fuller, 33 S. Ct. 833, 229 U. S. 322, 57 L. Ed. 1206, affirming decree (C. C.) The Michigan Telephone Tax Cases, 185 F. 634.

195. — Restrictions on exemptions.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 312, 313.

Act Fla. Jan. 6, 1855, to encourage a liberal system of internal improvements, granted to a railroad company an exemption from taxation for a specified period. The franchise of the company passed by several conveyances to another company, the charter of which confirmed the exemption for the remainder of the period. By further conveyance, the property, franchises, rights and privileges of the latter company passed to the Pensacola Railway Company, and by its charter (Act Fla. Feb. 27, 1877, § 2), vested in it as though it were originally granted to or acquired by the company. They were transferred by it to the Louisville & Nashville Railway Company. Held, that the act of 1877, confirming the exemption, was in contravention of Const. Fla. 1868, art. 12, § 1; and Id. art. 13, § 24, restricting exemption from taxation to property used for religious, educational, or charitable purposes.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Palmes, 109 U. S. 244, 3 S. Ct. 193, 27 L. Ed. 922.

Const. Fla. 1868, art. 12, § 1, and Id. art. 13, § 2, prohibited the legislature from granting corporations exemptions from taxation except for property used for religious, educational, or charitable purposes. Held, that Acts 1872 and 1875, chartering certain railroad companies and exempting them from taxation, were in contravention of the constitution, and therefore void.—Id.

Under the provision in the Arkansas constitution, declaring that "all laws exempting property from taxation other than is provided" therein "shall be void," the exemption in the statute of 1883, relative to the assessment of taxes on railroad property, of "embankments, tunnels, cuts, ties, trestles, or bridges," is void, as not being within the classes of property to which the exemption from taxation is restricted by the constitution; and a tax levied under the act on the value of the whole property of a railroad is valid.—Little Rock & Ft. S. Ry. v. Worthen, 120 U. S. 97, 7 S. Ct. 469, 30 L. Ed. 588.

The rule of strict construction is just as applicable when determining whether words of restriction found in the fundamental law are intended to operate as a limitation on the legislative power to grant contract exemptions from taxation as where the question is whether the particular terms of an alleged contract did or did not embrace an exemption from taxation.—(1912) Berryman v. Board of Trustees of Whitman College, 32 S. Ct. 147, 222 U. S. 334, 58 L. Ed. 225, reversing decree (C. C. 1907) Board of Trustees of Whitman College v. Berryman, 156 F. 112.

197. Statutory provisions in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 315, 316.

The charter of the Gulf & Ship Island Railroad Company granted by Act Miss. Feb. 23, 1882, even if it be considered as a revival of the rights and privileges which had formerly belonged to a company chartered in 1850, is taken subject to the provision of Const. Miss. 1869, which requires the property of such corporations to be taxed, like that of individuals, in proportion to its value.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Hewes, 22 S. Ct. 26, 183 U. S. 66, 46 L. Ed. 86.

198. Exemptions in corporate charters.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 317.

Act Ky. April 22, 1882, amending the charter of the Louisville Water Company so as to exempt it from taxation of any kind, was repealed by the act of May 17, 1886, revising the general revenue laws of the state, and declaring, among other things, that "all property, real and personal, within the state not herein expressly exempted," shall be taxed, and repealing all acts inconsistent therewith, whether general or special.—Louisville Water Co. v. Clark, 143 U. S. 1, 12 S. Ct. 346, 36 L. Ed. 55, affirming decree Clark v. Louisville Water Co., 90 Ky. 515, 14 S. W. 502.

The power of a county to tax the property of a railroad company, under a provision in the charter of the company giving the power of taxation to municipal corporations, is not affected by the fact that the charter was granted before the county was organized as a municipal corporation.—Central Railroad & Banking Co. v. Wright, 17 S. Ct. 80, 164 U. S. 327, 41 L. Ed. 454.

A provision, in the charter of a railroad company, that the railroad and its appurtenances shall not be taxed higher than a fixed rate, followed by provisions regulating the taxation of the property of the company by municipal corporations, amounts to a limitation on state taxation.—Id.

A provision, in the charter of a railroad company, denying to municipal corporations the power to tax its "stock," but giving them power to tax "any property, real or personal," of the company, is, in effect, a denial of power to tax the shares of stock in the hands of stockholders.—Id.

Capital, in whatever form invested, appropriate to the purpose of the company, and not merely the shares held by stockholders, must be regarded as meant by the word "stock," as used in a provision of a railway charter that the stock of the company and its branches shall be exempt from taxation for seven years, and after that shall be subject to a tax not exceeding a given per cent. upon the net proceeds of their investments, in view of the recognition in other provisions of the charter of the distinction between capital stock and "shares," and of at least 60 years' legislative and executive acquiescence in reading this partial exemption as applicable to the capital stock of the company, and of a series of decisions of the highest state court, holding either that the whole of the capital was exempt, in whatever form invested, or so much of the investment as corresponded in value to the authorized capital stock. Decree, Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Wright (C. C. 1904) 132 F. 912, affirmed.—Wright v. Georgia R. & Banking Co., 30 S. Ct. 242, 216 U. S. 420, 54 L. Ed. 544.

The excess of the value of a railway and its appurtenances over the nominal value of its authorized capital stock, the result of natural increase in the value of such property, and of renewals, alterations, and betterments made from time to time is included in the partial exemption from taxation under the charter provision that the stock of the company and its branches shall be wholly exempt for seven years, and after that shall be subject to a tax not exceeding a given per cent. on the net proceeds of their investments; the legislative purpose being otherwise plain that the authorized capital be adequate to the construction and equipment of the roads.—Id.

199. Exemption by limitation of amount of tax.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 318.

An exemption in a railroad charter from any tax which will reduce the dividends below a certain percentage is not void for uncertainty, although no limit of capital stock is fixed, and no means provided for fixing the same or ascertaining the dividends.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. State of Tennessee, 153 U. S. 486, 14 S. Ct. 968, 38 L. Ed. 793.

200. Exemption by commutation of tax.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 319.

Under Laws Dak. 1883, c. 99, which provided for the taxation of railroad property based on the gross earnings, to be "in lieu of any and all other taxes upon any railroads," or upon any other property situated in this territory, belonging to the corporation owning or operating such railroads," and, further, that "the lands of any railroad company shall become subject to taxation in the same manner as other similar property as soon as the same are sold, leased, or contracted to be sold or leased," the lands granted to aid in the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad while owned by the company, and not leased, etc., were not taxable except as provided therein, although no part of the tax when collected was distributed to counties in which lands were situated, but through which the line of road did not pass.—McHenry v. Alford, 18 S. Ct. 242, 168 U. S. 651, 42 L. Ed. 614.

Land granted to aid in the construction of a railroad, and mortgaged by the company to secure the money with which the road was built, while still owned by the company, is property which contributes to the earnings of the road in such sense that a statute providing for the taxation of all property of the company, including such lands, by a tax on the "gross earnings arising from the operation of such road," is not invalid, as, in effect, exempting such lands from taxation.—Id.

204. Construction and operation of exemptions in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 321-323, 325, 332, 333.

The Southwestern Railroad Company was exempted by its charter (Act Ga. Dec. 14, 1845, § 14) from taxation higher than one-half of one per cent. upon its annual net income. Parts of two other railroads were acquired by it under legislative authority (Acts Ga. Dec. 19, 1859, and Dec. 18, 1860), with the proviso that they should be subject to the same tax that the rest of the Southwestern Railroad is required to pay, and such additional tax as the legislature might thereafter impose. Held, that an exemption from taxation must be expressed in clear and unambiguous language, and that neither of the acquired roads partake of the exemption granted to the Southwestern Company.—Southwestern R. Co. v. Wright, 116 U. S. 231, 6 S. Ct. 375, 29 L. Ed. 626.

Act La. April 28, 1853, incorporating a railroad company, provided in section 2 that the capital stock should be exempt from taxation, and that its road, warehouses, rolling stock, etc., should be exempt for 10 years after the completion of the road within the state. Held, that there was no exemption of such property before the completion of the road.—Vicksburg, S. & P. R. Co. v. Dennis, 116 U. S. 666, 6 S. Ct. 625, 29 L. Ed. 770.

Exemption from taxation is a franchise.—State of New Jersey v. Wright, 117 U. S. 648, 6 S. Ct. 907, 29 L. Ed. 1021.

A legislature will not be held to have surrendered the taxing power unless its intention to do so is expressed in unmistakable terms.—

Co. v. City of New Orleans*, 143 U. S. 192, 12 S. Ct. 406, 36 L. Ed. 121, affirming judgment 40 La. Ann. 587, 4 South. 512, and distinguishing Gordon v. Appeal Tax Court, 44 U. S. (3 How.) 133, 11 L. Ed. 529.

Section 8 of the charter of the Y. & M. V. R. Co., granted by the legislature of Mississippi, February 17, 1882 (Laws Miss. 1882, p. 838), provided that all the property of that company in the state necessary to the exercise of the powers granted, "shall be exempt from taxation for a term of twenty years from the completion of said railroad to the Mississippi river, but not to extend beyond twenty-five years from the date of the approval of this act." Rev. Code Miss. § 608, in force at the time, provided that no railroad company should be subject to taxation during construction, but that parts of the road completed and operated for profit should be taxed. Held, that the exemption given by the charter was to begin from the completion of the road to the Mississippi river only, and not during its construction, and that parts of the road completed and in operation before that time were taxable.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Thomas, 132 U. S. 174, 10 S. Ct. 68, 33 L. Ed. 302.

The act of Dakota territory of March 9, 1883 (Laws 1883, c. 99), imposed a percentage tax on the gross earnings of railroad companies in lieu of all taxation. This act was superseded by the act of March 7, 1889, which provided for a like percentage tax on any company accepting its provisions, but as a condition of such acceptance this act required payment, within 30 days from its passage, of all arrearages due under the act of 1883. It was provided further that any company failing to comply with the provisions of the act should immediately become subject to taxation on its property in the same manner as individuals. If an acceptance were filed after February 15th, and before August 15th, in any year, the percentage tax under the new law was to be paid on or before the latter date. This act, however, was repealed November 2, 1889, by the repugnant provisions contained in the constitution of North Dakota, as approved by congress. Held, that the Northern Pacific Company, which paid its arrearages within the 30 days, and filed its acceptance before August 15th, but failed to pay the percentage tax which fell due on that date, immediately became subject to assessment on its lands in the various counties, and an assessment accordingly made before the repeal of the percentage law was not invalidated by such repeal.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Clark, 153 U. S. 252, 14 S. Ct. 809, 38 L. Ed. 706.

An exemption from taxation is never presumed, but must be clearly granted.—Phoenix Fire & Marine Ins. Co. of Memphis v. State of Tennessee, 161 U. S. 174, 16 S. Ct. 471, 40 L. Ed. 660.

A tax exemption and not merely a guard against alienation, which would fall when restrictions on alienation were removed, was made by Act June 28, 1898, under which lands allotted in severalty to members of the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes were nontaxable while the title remained in the original allottees.—(1912) Choate v. Trapp, 32 S. Ct. 566, 224 U. S. 665, 56 L. Ed. 941, reversing decree (1911) 114 P. 709, 28 Okl. 517; (1912) Gleason v. Wood, 32 S. Ct. 571, 224 U. S. 679, 56 L. Any doubt as to whether tax exemption in Act June 28, 1898, allotting lands in severalty to Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes was a personal privilege, or an incident attached to the land, must be resolved in favor of the patentees.—Id.

205. Irrevocability of exemptions.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 333-341.

—206. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 338.

A state statute exempting from taxation property already owned by a grand lodge of Masons does not constitute an irrevocable contract, but is a mere gratuity, which the state can withdraw at any time.—Grand Lodge of State of Louisiana v. City of New Orleans, 17 S. Ct. 523, 166 U. S. 143, 41 L. Ed. 951.

—207. — Exemptions in corporate charters.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 339.

The charter of a Kentucky bank, granted in 1833, contained a provision as to the mode of taxation of the bank, and fixed a limit beyond which it should at no time be taxed. The charter was renewed from time to time thereafter, the last time being in 1880. In 1856 the legislature passed an act (Gen. St. Ky. c. 68, § 8) providing that all charters thereafter granted should be subject to amendment or repeal at the will of the legislature, unless a contrary intent was plainly expressed therein. Held that, conceding that the extension of 1880 carried with it into the new period the limitation of the old charter of the bank as to taxation, still the charter as thus extended was subject to repeal under the statute of 1856, there being no contrary provision in the act of extension, and, as the power to repeal it as a whole included the power to repeal any provision in it, such limitation did not constitute an irrevocable contract, preventing the state from increasing the rate, or changing the mode, of taxation.—City of Louisville v. Bank of Louisville, 19 S. Ct. 753, 174 U. S. 439, 43 L. Ed. 1039.

—208. — Reservation of power to alter or amend.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 340.

The purchaser, at foreclosure, of the property of a railroad company which had been held under a charter exemption from taxation, deriving its rights other than its title to the property acquired at the sale, from the acts of 1871-77, creating such purchaser a corporation, etc., was subject to the constitution and laws then in force reserving to the legislature the power to alter or amend any charter or certificate of incorporation.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Miller, 114 U. S. 176, 5 S. Ct. 813, 29 L. Ed. 121.

—209. — Consideration.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 341.

The fact that a charter amendment, granting an exemption to a water company, also imposed upon it the duty of furnishing to the city, free of charge, all water needed for fire protection, did not prevent a subsequent revenue act from operating as a repeal of the exemption, since the obligation would fall together with the exemption.—Louisville Water Co. v. Clark, 143 U. S. 1, 12 S. Ct. 346, 36 L. Ed. 55, affirming decree Clark v. Louisville Water Co., 90 Ky. 515, 14 S. W. 502.

—210. Revocation or other termination.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 334-337.

Exemption from taxation is a franchise, and nonuser consisting in the acquiescence in actual taxation through a period of nearly 60 years will raise a conclusive presumption of surrender.—State of New Jersey v. Wright, 117 U. S. 648, 6 S. Ct. 907, 29 L. Ed. 1021.

Act Minn. May 22, 1857, granting a portion of the public lands given to the territory for railroad purposes to a certain railroad company, provided that the lands so granted should be exempt from taxation until "sold and conveyed" by the company, and that, in consideration of the grant, the company should pay to the territory or state 3 per cent. of its gross earnings. Held, that the words "sold and conveyed" were satisfied, so as to terminate the exemption, when the railroad company had received full payment for the lands, and had executed an instrument by which all its equitable and substantial interest in them was transferred.—Winona & St. P. Land Co. v. State of Minnesota, 159 U. S. 526, 16 S. Ct. 83, 40 L. Ed. 247.

The Kentucky statute of April 22, 1882, exempting the property of the Louisville water company from taxation, and requiring it to furnish water free for public purposes, was valid, and the exemption continued in force until the general revenue law went into effect, in September, 1886; and the taxes for that year which had already been assessed, were therefore not collectible from the water company.—Louisville Water Co. v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, 18 S. Ct. 571, 170 U. S. 127, 42 L. Ed. 975.

The withdrawal of a repealable exemption from state taxation of the property of a reorganized railway company, if any such exemption existed, was effected by Acts Md. 1896, c. 120, which directs a new assessment for taxation of the property in the state, and expressly declares that the property of every railroad shall be assessed for county and municipal purposes, and contains a proviso that nothing therein contained shall be held to discharge, release, or impair any irrevocable contract or obligation then existing which sufficiently evidences the legislative intent to repeal exemptions from taxation which were not protected by binding contracts beyond legislative control, and to bring all property within the taxing power of the state. Decree (1905) 135 F. 977, 70 C. C. A. 287, reversed.—Wicomico County Com'rs v. Bancroft, 27 S. Ct. 21, 203 U. S. 112, 51 L. Ed. 112.

The partial exemption from taxation under a charter provision that the stock of a railway company and its branches shall be wholly exempt for seven years, "and after that" shall be subject to a tax not exceeding a given per cent. on the net proceeds of their investments, cannot be regarded as limited to the 36 years during which the company was to have exclusive rights within a defined territory, on the theory that the words "and after that" do not mean "thereafter," and do not refer to the limitation immediately preceding, but to the 36 years' limitation of the exclusive right regulated by the preceding part of the same section of the charter. Decree, Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Wright (C. C. 1904) 132 F. 912, affirmed.—Wright v. Georgia R. & Banking Co., 30 S. Ct. 242, 216 U. S. 420, 54 L. Ed. 544.

A charter exemption from taxation which has ceased and become void for failure to construct a railroad within the time limited by its charter cannot be revived by a subsequent statute, enacted when the state Constitution prohibited the granting of special privileges with respect to taxation, recognizing the legal existence of the railway company at that time, and waiving the right to declare a forfeiture. Judgment, State v. Chicago Great Western Ry. Co. (1908) 119 N. W. 211, 106 Minn. 290, affirmed.—Chicago Great Western Ry. Co. v. State of Minnesota, 30 S. Ct. 353, 216 U. S. 234, 54 L. Ed. 460.

—211. Nature or use of property exempt in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 347, 348, 364, 379.

Acts La. 1880, No. 77, § 48, purporting to tax, not the capital stock, but the shares of shareholders of the corporation, by assessing tax against them, really taxes the corporation for its capital stock, and is a tax within the prohibition of its charter, exempting it, on the payment of a certain annual sum, from all other taxes and licenses.—City of New Orleans v. Houston, 119 U. S. 265, 7 S. Ct. 198, 30 L. Ed. 411.

214. Public lands granted in aid of railroads or other improvements.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 354.

Under Act July 27, 1866, chartering the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, which grants to such company a right of way "to the extent of one hundred feet in width on each side of said railroad where it may pass through the public domain, including all necessary grounds for station buildings, workshops, depots, machine shops, switches, side tracks, turntables, and water stations," and provides that "the right of way shall be exempt from taxation within the territories of the United States," the right of way thereby granted, and which was exempted from taxation, was not merely the right of passage, but, whether the grant is held to be of the fee or of an easement, was real estate, of corporeal quality, to which all station houses and other buildings erected thereon became attached as a part thereof, and such buildings are not taxable within a territory. Decree United States Trust Co. of N. Y. v. Atlantic & P. R. Co., 47 P. 725, 8 N. M. 673, affirmed.—Territory of New Mexico v. United States Trust Co. of New York, 19 S. Ct. 128, 172 U. S. 171, 43 L. Ed. 407.

Section 2 of the act of July 27, 1866, chartering the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company provides: "That the right of way through the public lands be, and the same is hereby granted, to the said * * * company * * * for the construction of a railroad and telegraph line as proposed. * * * Said way is granted to said railroad to the extent of one hundred feet in width on each side of said railroad where it may pass through the public domain, * * * and the right of way shall be exempt from taxation within the territories of the United States." Held, that the exemption from taxation was of the same right of way therein granted through public lands, and did not extend to right of way through private lands otherwise acquired by the company.—Territory of New Mexico v. United States Trust Co. of New York, 19 S. Ct. 784, 174 U. S. 545, 43 L. Ed. 1079.

216. Bonds or other securities issued by United States.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 352.

United States treasury checks, or orders issued for interest accrued upon registered bonds of the United States, where intended for immediate payment, may be taxed by a state, in the hands of the owner, without violating Rev. St. U. S. § 3701 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2480], exempting obligations of the United States from state taxation. Judgment (1903) 72 P. 920, 139 Cal. 205, 5 L. R. A. (N. S.) 608, 96 Am. 219. Property of individuals in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 358, 359, 363.

Money which one has in the bank is not exempt from taxation because it was derived from his salary as a federal officer; it losing its identity as salary when it has been paid to him and come into his possession. Judgment (1908) 83 N. E. 6, 197 Mass. 99, 125 Am. St. Rep. 330, affirmed.—Dyer v. City of Melrose, 30 S. Ct. 410, 215 U. S. 594, 54 L. Ed. 341.

228. Savings banks and deposits therein.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 367.

An exemption of the shares of stock in a bank from general taxation upon the payment of an annual tax of a certain per cent. does not exempt the surplus and undivided profits.—Bank of Commerce v. State of Tennessee, 161 U. S. 134, 16 S. Ct. 456, 40 L. Ed. 645.

A provision in a bank charter that it shall pay to the state an annual tax of one-half of 1 per cent. on each share of the capital stock subscribed, which shall be in lieu of all other taxes, exempts the shares, but not the corporation and its property, from further taxation.—Shelby County v. Union & Planters' Bank, 161 U. S. 149, 16 S. Ct. 558, 40 L. Ed. 650.

231. Railroad companies and property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 371-372.

The Southwestern Railroad Company was exempted by its charter (Act Dec. 14, 1845, § 14) from taxation higher than one-half of 1 per cent. upon its annual net income. By Act Feb. 23, 1850, it was authorized to construct another branch "under the rules and restrictions as they are now authorized to construct said Southwestern Railroad." Held, that the branch line did not partake of the exemption in the charter.—Southwestern R. Co. v. Wright, 118 U. S. 231, 6 S. Ct. 375, 29 L. Ed. 626.

Under Act Tenn. Dec. 11, 1845, incorporating the Nashville & Chattanooga Railroad Company, and providing, in section 38, that the capital stock thereof shall be forever exempt from taxation while the road, fixtures, workshops, warehouses, rolling stock, etc., shall be exempt from taxation for a period of 20 years from the completion of the road, shares of stock in the hands of holders are forever exempted from taxation in the state.—State of Tennessee v. Whitworth, 117 U. S. 129, 6 S. Ct. 645, 29 L. Ed. 830.

A so-called branch railroad built under Act Mo. March 21, 1868, under which the so-called branches are managed separately from the main line, and have distinct stock, and, although there is but one board of directors, that board is required, in all matters "directly and specially affecting the interests" of the branch road, to follow the instructions of the stockholders of the branch, is substantially an independent road; and such a branch built by a company which was incorporated under a charter exempting its stock from taxation previous to the constitution of 1865, which allows no such exemption, is not entitled to the benefit of such exemption.—Chicago, B. & K. C. R. Co. v. State of Missouri, 122 U. S. 561, 7 S. Ct. 1300, 30 L. Ed. 1135, rehearing denied 120 U. S. 569, 7 S. Ct. 693, 30 L. Ed. 732.

Act N. C. Jan. 3, 1834, incorporating the W. & W. R. Co., provided in section 19 that such road should be free from taxation. Subsequent sections authorized the construction of branches, and provided that all powers, rights, and privileges conferred by preceding sections in respect of the main road should extend thereto, in the laying out, construction, use, and preservation of said branches. Held, that the privileges extended to the branches were limited to the purposes enumerated, and did not exempt the branch lines from taxation.—Wilmington & W. R. Co. v. Alsbrook, 146 U. S. 279, 13 S. Ct. 72, 36 L. Ed. 972, affirming judgment 110 N. C. 137, 14 S. E. 652.

Act Ga. Dec. 14, 1835, amending the charter of the Central Railroad & Banking Company, provides (section 18) that the "railroad and the appurtenances of the same" shall not be taxed higher than one-half of 1 per cent. upon its annual net income, that "no municipal or other corporation shall have power to tax the stock of said company, but may tax any property, real or personal," of the company, in the ratio of taxation of like property. Held, that the power of cities and counties through which the road passed to tax its property extended to all property of the road within their jurisdiction, and was not limited to property not included in the terms "railroad and appurtenances."—Central Railroad & Banking Co. v. Wright, 17 S. Ct. 80, 164 U. S. 327, 41 L. Ed. 454.

A statute exempting from taxation all property of a railroad company does not extend to property, not necessary for its business, which it acquires under authority of a subsequent statute containing no exemption clause.—Ford v. Delta & Pine Land Co., 17 S. Ct. 230, 164 U. S. 662, 41 L. Ed. 590, affirming decree (C. C.) 43 F. 181.

The contract arrangement for the payment to a municipality of a license fee on each street car, modified as to the amount of such fees under the authority of a statute accepted by the street railway company, stating that such fees should be taken "in full satisfaction for the use of the streets or avenues," does not exempt the company from the tax imposed, under Laws N. Y. 1899, c. 712, on its franchise. Judgments 67 N. E. 69, 174 N. Y. 417, 63 L. R. A. 884, 105 Am. St. Rep. 674, affirmed, and 80 N. Y. S. 85, 79 App. Div. 183, reversed.—People of State of New York ex rel. Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. State Board of Tax Com'rs, 25 S. Ct. 705, 199 U. S. 1, 50 L. Ed. 65, 4 Ann. Ct. 715, 199 U. S. 53, 50 L. Ed. 85.

An intention to exempt from a franchise tax cannot be gathered from the provisions of a railway charter that its income is lawfully chargeable with certain specified expenses and with "every other cost and charge properly or necessarily connected with the maintenance and operation of said railway," with dividends and with a sinking fund, and that the excess of income shall be divided equally between the government and the stockholders, where a subsequent provision exempts the property from taxation while under construction, "provided that, as fast as completed and equipped, the completed and equipped portion shall become liable to such taxation," although, when the charter was granted, real and personal property were, under Haw. Rev. Laws 1905, § 1216, assessed for taxation "separately as to each item thereof for its full value."—Honolulu Rapid Transit & Land Co. v. Wilder, 29 S. Ct. 44, 211 U. S. 137, 53 L. Ed. 121.

Additional taxation of railway properties and franchises as property of lessee held a violation of irrevocable exemptions in contract of lessor railroad company from taxation, notwithstanding distinctions made by Code Ga. 1861, between usufruct of a tenant and of an estate for years.—Wright v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 35 S. Ct. 471, 236 U. S. 674, 59 L. Ed. 781, affirming decree (D. C.) Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Wright, 206 F. 107.

Irrevocable contract exemptions in railway charter from certain taxes exempt railway property from additional taxation against the lessee.—Wright v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 35 S. Ct. 475, 236 U. S. 687, 59 L. Ed. 788, modifying decree 201 F. 1023, 119 C. C. A. 282.

Railway property exempted from other than specified taxes on annual income, passing to the lessee, includes betterments and improvements on the demised land, rolling stock added by lessees which under the lease becomes property of the lessor, and improvements by the lessor before the lease.—Id.

235. Manufactories and manufacturing companies.

236. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 333-335.

The articles of association of a corporation stated that it was organized to conduct the business of buying, selling, leasing, and operating mines and mining claims, and smelting, reducing, and refining works; of carrying on a general mining, milling, and smelting business in all its branches; of conducting a general mercantile business, by buying and selling such merchandise, stores, and miners' supplies as are usually required by a mining camp; of building roads and tramways necessary to the transportation of its products or procuring its supplies; of buying and selling real estate required for its business; and generally to do all things incidental to a general mining business. Held, that it was not a "manufacturing corporation," within the provision of Act N. Y. May 26, 1881, exempting such corporations from the franchise tax imposed by said act.—Horn Silver Min. Co. v. People of State of New York, 143 U. S. 305, 12 S. Ct. 403, 36 L. Ed. 164.

241. Charitable or benevolent institutions, and property used for charitable purposes.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 389-393.

After the division of a township, and the formation of a new one, which was afterwards incorporated as part of a city, the poor farm belonging to the old township, and situated within the portion which remained, was authorized by Act N. J. Feb. 18, 1862 (Laws 1862, c. 37, p. 52), to be conveyed to the new corporation; and it was enacted that the poor farm "shall be at all times hereafter liable and subject to taxation by the said [old] township, * * * so long as it is embraced in the limits of the said township." Held, that said provision was repealed by the general tax law, April 11, 1866 (Revision, p. 1150), exempting from taxation all property used for charitable purposes, and repealing all other acts, whether special or local, or otherwise, inconsistent therewith.—Williamson v. State of New Jersey, 130 U. S. 189, 9 S. Ct. 453, 32 L. Ed. 915.

244. Religious societies and institutions, and property used for religious purposes.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 405-414.

Act Cong. March 3, 1875, c. 162 (18 Stat. 503), authorizing the levy of taxes for the support of the government of the District of Columbia, exempts from taxation "church buildings and grounds actually occupied by such buildings," but provides that, if any portion of any building or grounds shall be used to secure a rent or income, or for any business purpose, such portion shall be taxed against the owner. Act July 12, 1876, c. 180, and March 3, 1877, c. 117 (19 Stat. 85, 399), are to the same effect, though differing somewhat in form. Held, that where a church was built at one end of a piece of land, so as to enable the ecclesiastical authorities to derive an income from the lease or sale of the lots at the other end, such lots were not exempt from taxation, though a part of the inclosure in which the church stood.—Gibbons v. District of Columbia, 116 U. S. 404, 6 S. Ct. 427, 29 L. Ed. 680.

247. Transfer of exemption or of property exempt.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 326-330.

A statute granted to a corporation exemption from taxation for a certain period. The "franchises, privileges, and immunities" of this road were later sold to the P. & L. Railroad Company, the charter of which confirmed the exemption for the remainder of the period. By a subsequent conveyance, the "property, rights, franchises, privileges, and immunities" of the latter company passed to the P. Railroad Company, and by its charter vested in it as though the same were originally granted or acquired thereby. By another conveyance, all the "franchises, rights, property, etc." of the P. Railroad Company were conveyed to plaintiff company. Held, that the exemption from taxation did not pass by virtue of the conveyance by the P. Company, and that plaintiff was therefore liable for taxes.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Palmes, 109 U. S. 244, 3 S. Ct. 193, 27 L. Ed. 922.

Where a state legislature authorizes the formation of a railroad company, to be a body corporate for certain purposes and provides by its charter that it shall be exempt from taxation for a certain period of time from and after its completion, the exemption from taxation is a personal privilege of the very corporation specifically referred to, and ceases with it, unless the express and clear intention of the law requires the exemption to pass as a continuing franchise to a successor.—Memphis & L. R. R. Co. v. Berry, 112 U. S. 609, 5 S. Ct. 299, 28 L. Ed. 831.

Act W. Va. March 1, 1866, passed to incorporate a railroad company for the purpose of completing a road originally begun by the state, provided that no taxation "upon the property of the said company" should be imposed by the state "until the profits of said company" should amount to 10 per cent. on its capital. Act Feb. 18, 1871, as amended by Act Feb. 20, 1877, regulating sales on foreclosure of railroad mortgages, provided that such sale and conveyance should pass to the purchaser at the sale not only the works and property of the company as they were at the time of making the mortgage, but all property of which it might be possessed at the time of the sale; that "upon such conveyance to the purchaser the said company shall ipso facto be dissolved"; that the said purchaser should forthwith be a corporation by any name which might be set forth in the conveyance; and that the corporation created by or in consequence of such sale and conveyance should succeed "to all such franchises, rights, and privileges * * * as would have been had * * * by the first company but for such sale," etc. Held, that a company which purchased in December, 1877, at foreclosure sale, the property of the company created by the act of 1866, derived its corporate existence and powers from the act of 1871, and that the exemption from taxation enjoyed by the former company was personal to such company, and did not pass under such act to the purchaser.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Miller, 114 U. S. 176, 5 S. Ct. 813, 29 L. Ed. 121.

The grant, in an act incorporating a railroad company (Acts Tenn. Jan. 23, 1852, and Nov. 30, 1853), of all the "rights, powers, and privileges" conferred by the charter of another company (Act Tenn. Dec. 11, 1846), extends to the new companies an exemption from taxation of the capital stock contained in the charter referred to.—State of Tennessee v. Whitworth, 117 U. S. 139, 6 S. Ct. 649, 29 L. Ed. 833.

The power given a railroad company by its charter to pledge the road, together with its franchises, for any indebtedness that might be incurred in its construction, did not authorize it to make an absolute sale of its property and franchises to a corporation of another state. That right was given subsequently by statute; and, the company having elected to make an absolute sale under that act, the property passed subject to the condition that it should thereafter be liable to taxation.—Chicago, B. & K. C. R. Co. v. State of Missouri, 122 U. S. 561, 7 S. Ct. 1300, 30 L. Ed. 1135, rehearing denied 120 U. S. 569, 7 S. Ct. 693, 30 L. Ed. 732.

The main line and the property and franchises of a Missouri corporation, having been purchased in 1871 by an Iowa corporation, that portion of the "main line" of the former road extending to the boundary line between Missouri and Iowa is liable to taxation, for state and county purposes, under the Missouri act of March 24, 1870 (Wag. St. c. 37, art. 2, § 57). The manifest object of that act is to subject to taxation railroad property in Missouri which passes under the control of a corporation of another state, whether by purchase or by lease or by "arrangements for operating the same."—Id.

Immunity from taxation does not pass merely by a conveyance of the "property and franchises" of a railroad company under a judicial sale, in a suit brought by the state to enforce a statutory lien, though such company's property was held by it exempt from taxation.—Pickard v. East Tennessee, V. & G. R. Co., 130 U. S. 637, 9 S. Ct. 640, 32 L. Ed. 1061.

A corporation may exist under and by virtue of the purchase at a receiver's sale of the charter of another corporation, and the legislative recognition and the assumption of the state that it is a corporation, and yet not have any right to an exemption from taxation granted to the other corporation, because it is not, in law or in fact, the same.—Mercantile Bank v. State of Tennessee, 161 U. S. 161, 16 S. Ct. 461, 40 L. Ed. 656.

The exemption from taxation contained in Act Tenn. Feb. 29, 1856, incorporating the Gayoso Savings Institution, was a personal privilege of the corporation, which did not pass with a sale of its charter.—Id.

Act Tenn. March 30, 1860, granted to the D. Ins. Co. "all the rights, privileges, and immunities" of the B. Ins. Co. Act Tenn. March 11, 1867, incorporating the W. Ins. Co., gave it "all the rights, and privileges" of the D. Co. Held, that the immunity from taxation granted to the two former companies did not pass to the W. Co.—Phoenix Fire & Marine Ins. Co. of Memphis v. State of Tennessee, 161 U. S. 174, 16 S. Ct. 471, 40 L. Ed. 660, affirming City of Memphis v. Phoenix Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 91 Tenn. 566, 19 S. W. 1044.

Act Tenn. March 20, 1858, authorizing the H. Insurance & Trust Company to organize "with all the forms, officers, terms, powers, rights, reservations, restrictions, and liabilities given to" the M. Company, did not pass to the H. Company an exemption from taxation granted to the M. Company by its charter.—Home Ins. & Trust Co. v. State of Tennessee, 161 U. S. 198, 16 S. Ct. 476, 40 L. Ed. 670.

A subrogation by statute of one corporation to the rights and privileges of a former corporation does not include an immunity from taxation.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Hewes, 22 S. Ct. 26, 183 U. S. 66, 46 L. Ed. 86.

A contract exemption from taxation, made by a municipality under authority of law, for a valuable consideration, with one of the constituent railway companies, does not pass to a consolidated company organized after the adoption of Const. Miss. 1890, § 181, requiring the property of corporations to be taxed like that of individuals.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. City of Vicksburg, 28 S. Ct. 510, 209 U. S. 358, 52 L. Ed. 833.

A contract exemption from taxation does not survive a purchase by the state at a sale on foreclosure of the property and franchises of a railway company; and a subsequent grant by the state, made when the state Constitution prohibited the granting of special privileges with respect to taxation, of all the rights, benefits, privileges, property, franchises, and interests which the state had acquired under its purchase, could not carry such exemption to the grantee. Judgment, State v. Great Northern Ry. Co. (1908) 119 N. W. 202, 106 Minn. 303, affirmed.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. State of Minnesota, 30 S. Ct. 344, 216 U. S. 206, 54 L. Ed. 446.

Any contract exemption from taxation created by charter of canal or banking company, limiting exemptions of such property as is occupied and used for canal navigation, did not pass to its grantee and lessee, where the canal company leased the canal under right given by Act N. J. March 14, 1871 (P. L. p. 444).—Morris Canal & Banking Co. v. Baird, 36 S. Ct. 28, 239 U. S. 126, 60 L. Ed. 177, affirming judgment Same v. State Board of Assessors, 71 A. 328, 76 N. J. Law, 627.

248. Consolidation of exempt corporation with others.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 365.

The charter of a railway company provided that the "capital stock and dividends of said company shall be forever exempt from taxation; the road, fixtures, and appurtenances shall be exempt from taxation until it pays an interest of at least 10 per cent. per annum." Afterwards, in pursuance of a power contained in its charter, it consolidated with another company by an agreement which provided that all the property of each corporation should be taken and deemed to be transferred to the consolidated company, "as such new corporation, without further act or deed." Held, that the new company took the property of the old company, subject to the provisions of the constitution in respect to taxation in force at the time of the consolidation.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Berry, 113 U. S. 465, 5 S. Ct. 529, 28 L. Ed. 1055.

Where two railroad companies, which both enjoyed a statutory exemption from taxation on the shares of their capital stock (Act Tenn. Jan. 23, 1852, and Act Tenn. Nov. 30, 1853), are consolidated with a third company of another state, which has its property located there, the exemption from taxation passes into the shares of new stock issued by the new company, and substituted for the stock of its three constituent companies.—State of Tennessee v. Whitworth, 117 U. S. 139, 6 S. Ct. 649, 29 L. Ed. 833.

Act N. C. Jan. 3, 1834, incorporating a railroad, exempted it from taxation. Subsequent provisions authorized the construction of branches, and provided that all powers and privileges conferred by preceding sections in respect to the main road should extend thereto. By a subsequent act another railroad, which had not been exempt from taxation, was absorbed, its stockholders taking the stock of the consolidated road in lieu of their own, and it was provided that the property of the absorbed road should be held in the same manner as other property of the absorbing road. Held, that the absorbed road was not exempt from taxation.—Wilmington & W. R. Co. v. Alabrook, 146 U. S. 279, 13 S. Ct. 72, 36 L. Ed. 972, affirming judgment 14 S. E. 652, 110 N. C. 137.

Act Mo. March 2, 1869, authorizing the consolidation of certain railway corporations, provided that the companies should become one and that new certificates of stock should be issued in exchange for the stock of the consolidated companies, and that the consolidation agreement should be recorded as the charter of the new company. Held, that an exemption from taxation in the charter of one of the companies, prohibited by Const. Mo. 1865, art. 11, § 16, did not pass to the consolidated company under Act 1869, § 4, providing that the consolidated company should be entitled to the same franchises and privileges under the laws of the state as if the consolidation had not occurred, since that act being subsequent to the adoption of the constitution, the legislature had no power to extend the exemption.—Keokuk & W. R. Co. v. State of Missouri, 152 U. S. 301, 14 S. Ct. 592, 38 L. Ed. 450.

Act Mo. March 2, 1869, authorizing the consolidation of certain railway corporations, provided that the companies should become one, and that new certificates of stock should be issued in exchange for the stock of the consolidated companies, and that the consolidation agreement should be recorded as the charter of the new company. Held, that an exemption from taxation, granted in the charter of one of the constituent companies, did not pass to the consolidated company in view of Const. Mo. 1865, art. 11, § 16, prohibiting such exemptions, notwithstanding section 8, continuing in force statutes of the state then in force.—Id.

A new grant of corporate franchises, within the meaning of Const. Miss. 1890, § 180, making such grants subject to constitutional provisions which require the property of corporations to be taxed like that of individuals, is made by a subsequent consolidation between railroad companies which had exemptions from taxation prior to the adoption of the new constitution, but which, by articles of consolidation, agree to merge and consolidate their properties, immunities, and privileges, and substitute for their shares shares in the new company, although there is a clause in the articles providing that the consolidation shall be effected without disturbing the corporate existence of one of the old companies, "or the formation of any new, distinct corporation, unless such result shall be necessary to give legal effect to this agreement," where the effect of the consolidation is to surrender the entire administration of the functions of the constituent companies to a new corporation with a new corps of officers.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Adams, 21 S. Ct. 240, 180 U. S. 1, 45 L. Ed. 395, rehearing denied 21 S. Ct. 729, 181 U. S. 580, 45 L. Ed. 1011, affirming judgment 28 So. 956, 77 Miss. 194; Id., 21 S. Ct. 282, 180 U. S. 26, 45 L. Ed. 408, affirming judgment 28 So. 959, 77 Miss. 780.

No immunity from taxation which did not then exist was conferred by Act Ga. Jan. 21, 1852 (Acts 1851-52, p. 120), authorizing the consolidation of the stocks of two railway companies under the name and style of one of such companies, which should continue to exercise all the powers and privileges conferred by existing law upon the corporation of that name, and be under all the liabilities and restrictions imposed upon it. Decree Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Wright (C. C. 1904) 132 F. 912, affirmed.—Wright v. Georgia R. & Banking Co., 30 S. Ct. 242, 216 U. S. 420, 54 L. Ed. 544.

Incorporating a railway company with power to exercise all the powers and privileges conferred by an earlier act incorporating another railway company does not confer upon the new corporation the immunity from taxation enjoyed by the earlier company under its charter.—Id.

249. Waiver of or estoppel to claim exemption.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 342.

Though Act Tenn. March 26, 1887, authorizes any company having power to receive moneys in trust to do a general banking business without forfeiting any right, privilege, or immunity granted in the original charter, an insurance company incorporated before 1870, which was authorized by charter to receive moneys in trust, loses, upon undertaking to do a banking business, an immunity from general taxation given by its charter, since it then, in effect, becomes a new company, and is, as such, subject to Const. 1870, art. 2, § 28, requiring all property to be taxed.—Memphis City Bank v. State of Tennessee, 161 U. S. 186, 16 S. Ct. 468, 40 L. Ed. 664, affirming judgment—Memphis v.

Memphis City Bank, 91 Tenn. 574, 19 S. W. 1045.

Where a railroad company, pursuant to requirement of Pol. Code Cal. § 3604, furnished to the board of equalization a sworn statement purporting to be a "statement in relation to its property subject to taxation in the state," and therein stated the value of "the franchise," etc., at a certain amount, and the board of equalization determined the value of "the franchise," etc., to be a certain sum, and thereupon assessed "the said franchise," etc., at that sum, the presumption is that "the franchise" included by the company in its statement and by the board in its assessment was one not exempt under the laws of the United States; and the company is estopped to say that the description is ambiguous, as being applicable to an exempt franchise as well as one not exempt.—Central Pac. R. Co. v. People of State of California, 162 U. S. 91, 16 S. Ct. 766, 40 L. Ed. 903.

251. Proceedings to establish and enforce exemption.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 343-345.

Where a party claims that its exemption from taxation under the particular statute in question has been established by prior adjudications of the highest court of the state, the fact that it is threatened with suits for future taxes under such statute, and also with the danger of harassing suits for fines and penalties, which the statute permits to be brought for each day's delay in paying the taxes, would seem to afford sufficient ground for equitable intervention. Decree Bank of Kentucky v. Stone (C. C.) 88 F. 383, affirmed.—Stone v. Bank of Kentucky, 19 S. Ct. 881, 174 U. S. 799, 43 L. Ed. 1187.

IV. PLACE OF TAXATION.

265. Credits and securities in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 433, 440.

State taxation of credits arising out of loans made in the regular course of business by the local agent of a foreign insurance company to its policy holders is not forbidden by Const. U. S. Amend. 14, where the loans were negotiated, the notes signed, the security taken, the interest collected, and the debts paid within the state, because the promissory notes which are the evidences of such credits are kept at the home office at all times when not needed in the state. Judgment, Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Board of Assessors for Parish of Orleans (1905) 39 So. 846, 115 La. 698, affirmed.—Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. City of New Orleans, 27 S. Ct. 499, 205 U. S. 396, 51 L. Ed. 853.

266. Mortgages.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 441, 442.

Act Cong. May 5, 1864, gave to the state of Wisconsin, to be transferred to a railroad company, a quantity of land along the route of the proposed railroad. Held that, the railroad company having built and equipped its road, and done all that the act required for the issue of patents for the land within the place limit, and having received a patent from the state, and there being nothing to hinder the use and enjoyment of the land by the company, the company had an indefeasible right or title as of the date of the grant, though the land department erroneously refused to issue patents therefor; and the land was therefore subject to taxation by the state.—Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Price County, 133 U. S. 496, 10 S. Ct. 341, 33 L. Ed. 687.

283. Railroads.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 461-464.

285. — Right of way, tracks, and other real property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 462.

Const. Cal. art. 13, § 2, provides that "land and improvements thereon shall be separately assessed"; and Pol. Code Cal. § 3617, declares that improvements include fences. Const. Cal. art. 13, § 10, provides that the state board of equalization shall assess the "franchise, roadway, roadbed, rails, and rolling stock of all railroads operated in more than one county." Pol. Code, § 3664, provides that "the depots, station grounds, shops, buildings, and gravel beds shall be assessed by the assessors of the county where situated." Held, that fences along a railroad are improvements, and as such are to be assessed by the local authorities, and the state board of equalization has no authority to assess them.—Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 118 U. S. 394, 6 S. Ct. 1132, 80 L. Ed. 118.

Where township bonds, issued in aid of a railroad company, show on their face that under the charter of the company (Acts Ill. March 24, 1869, § 13) the holder is entitled to have a tax assessed and collected for their payment, a judgment judicially establishing the liability of the town imposes on the county clerk the duty of assessing and levying the tax, notwithstanding the failure of the town clerk to certify the vote for the bonds, the amount so voted, and the rate of interest thereon, as required by the charter (Id. § 12), nor by his failure to certify that the judgment has been audited and allowed by the town auditors.—Hawley v. United States, 108 U. S. 543, 2 S. Ct. 846, 27 L. Ed. 820.

(B) ASSESSORS AND PROCEEDINGS FOR ASSESSMENT.

Determination of amount of tax by assessors as conclusive on bankrupt court, see Bankruptcy, 341.

310. Statutory provisions.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 511-512.

The fact that St. Minn. 1878, § 113, provides for assessment by the county auditor of the taxes for the previous years in which the property was omitted from the roll by the county auditor, while the assessment of current taxes is made by the county assessor on actual view, and is reviewed by a town board of review and a county board of equalization, does not affect the constitutional rights of any person, the rule of assessment being the same.—Winona & St. P. Land Co. v. State of Minnesota, 159 U. S. 526, 16 S. Ct. 83, 40 L. Ed. 247.

320. Determination as to persons and property taxable.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 535.

The presumption is that an assessment made by the state board of equalization of refrigerator cars owned by a foreign corporation and used in interstate commerce was correct and regular, and was made upon the average number used in the state during the year, where there was no objection that too many cars were assessed, or that they were assessed too much or in an improper manner, but the only objection was that they could not be taxed at all. Judgment, 55 P. 639, 18 Utah, 378, 48 L. R. A. 790, affirmed.—Union Refrigerator Transit Co. v. Lynch, 20 S. Ct. 631, 177 U. S. 149, 44 L. Ed. 708.

(C) MODE OF ASSESSMENT IN GENERAL.

Due process of law, see Constitutional Law, ☞284.

☞346. Valuation.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 579-594.

☞347. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 579-581, 583.

There is nothing in the federal constitution which prohibits a state from taxing at its real value intangible property within the state.—Adams Exp. Co. v. Ohio State Auditor, 17 S. Ct. 604, 166 U. S. 185, 41 L. Ed. 965.

☞351. — Credits, investments, and securities.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 594.

Rev. St. Ohio, § 2737, prescribing the character of statement to be made by persons holding moneys, credits, etc., subject to taxation, declares that such statement shall truly set forth, inter alia, "moneys on hand, or on deposit subject to order," and "the amount of credits hereinbefore defined." Subdivision 16 requires a statement of "the monthly average amount or value, for the time he held and controlled the same, within the preceding year, of all moneys, credits, or other effects within that time invested in, or converted into, bonds or other securities of the United States, or of this state, not taxed, to the extent he may hold or control such bonds or securities, on said day preceding the second Monday of April; and any indebtedness created in the purchase of such bonds or securities shall not be deducted from the credits," above mentioned. Held, that there is no principle which forbids the state from taking, as designed by this act, the whole period of a business year already past as the best means of ascertaining how much the taxpayer shall be assessed on taxable property, and how much shall be deducted for his nontaxable federal and state securities. And, where a person converts the entire amount of his bank account into treasury notes just before the day to which the assessment relates, for the sole purpose of avoiding the assessment, and a few days later surrenders the notes, and has his account restored, he cannot object to having the amount of his account assessed under the above act.—Shotwell v. Moore, 129 U. S. 590, 9 S. Ct. 362, 32 L. Ed. 827, affirming 45 Ohio St. 632, 16 N. E. 470.

(D) MODE OF ASSESSMENT OF CORPORATE STOCK, PROPERTY, OR RECEIPTS.

☞365. Statutory provisions.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 608-611.

The two modes of assessment for taxation prescribed by the constitution of California are by a state board of equalization and by county boards and local assessors. All property is to be assessed in the county, city, etc., in which it is situated, except that the franchise, roadway, roadbed, rails, and rolling stock of any railroad company operated in more than one county are to be assessed by the state board, and apportioned to the several counties, etc. By legislative enactment the state board is required to include in their assessment steamers engaged in transporting passengers and freights across waters which divide a railroad. The supreme court of California, in City and County of San Francisco v. Cent. Pac. R. Co., 63 Cal. 469, 49 Am. Rep. 98, held this act unconstitutional; and steamboats were held to be assessable by the county board, and not by the state board. This court, following that decision, and that of Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 118 U. S. 394, 6 S. Ct. 1132, 30 L. Ed. 118, holds that the assessment of the steamers of a railroad company by the state board violates the Constitution of California, and is void; and, being inseparably blended with the other property assessed, the whole assessment is void.—State of California v. Central Pac. R. Co., 127 U. S. 1, 8 S. Ct. 1073, 32 L. Ed. 150.

☞366. Report or statement by corporation.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 612-619.

☞371½. — Conclusiveness and effect.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 619.

In determining the taxable value of the property of a corporation, it will be presumed, when the contrary is not shown by its return, that all its property is used in the transaction of its business.—Adams Exp. Co. v. Ohio State Auditor, 17 S. Ct. 604, 166 U. S. 185, 41 L. Ed. 965.

☞375. Valuation of corporate property in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 624, 631, 671.

A state which has chartered a bridge company to build a bridge over a river forming a boundary of the state may properly include the franchise thus granted in the valuation of the company's property for taxation.—Henderson Bridge Co. v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, 17 S. Ct. 532, 166 U. S. 150, 41 L. Ed. 953.

☞376. Valuation of franchises and privileges.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 625, 629-631.

Ky. St. 1894, § 4077, providing for a tax upon the "franchise" of corporations, associations, etc., means, not a tax on the franchise in the technical sense, but upon all the intangible property of the corporation; and in the case of corporations engaged in interstate commerce, their intangible property is to be assessed on the basis of their mileage within and without the state.—Weir v. Norman, 17 S. Ct. 527, 166 U. S. 171, 41 L. Ed. 960.

☞384. Valuation of shares of stock.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 620, 621, 635.

Act Ohio, April 5, 1859, § 59, providing that "no person shall be required to list for taxation any certificate of the capital stock of any company, the capital stock of which is taxed in the name of the company," does not apply to shares in a foreign corporation owned by residents of Ohio, when but a small part of the property of the company is subject to taxation in Ohio.—Sturges v. Carter, 114 U. S. 511, 5 S. Ct. 1014, 29 L. Ed. 240.

A tax on the shares of stock in a trust company under Rev. St. Ohio, § 2762, is not equivalent to a tax on the property of the corporation, and therefore the shareholders are not entitled, under Rev. St. U. S. § 3701 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2480], to have a deduction, from the value of the shares, of the amount of the capital stock of the company which is invested in United States bonds. Judgment 58 N. E. 1036, 62 Ohio St. 266, affirmed.—Cleveland Trust Co. v. Lander, 22 S. Ct. 394, 184 U. S. 111, 46 L. Ed. 456.

—386. Banks and bank shares and deposits.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 637-647.

An assessment made under a law so far invalid as not permitting a set-off of the stockholder's indebtedness is not, therefore, invalid, unless the stockholder has shown the assessor what his just debts are, and taken the requisite steps to have his assessment made out accordingly.—Stanley v. Albany County Sup'rs, 121 U. S. 535, 7 S. Ct. 1234, 30 L. Ed. 1000.

The excess only of the par value of national bank stock over the amount of the owner's interest-bearing indebtedness is liable to taxation.—Id.

Under Rev. St. § 5219 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502], providing against discrimination in state taxation against national banks, where the laws of a state allow a taxpayer owning moneyed capital to make a deduction from the amount assessed against him of his bona fide indebtedness, no such provision being made for the indebtedness of holders of bank stock, they are entitled to such deduction, although they omitted to make demand therefor till after the return of the shares for assessment, and the session of the state board of equalization.—Whitbeck v. Mercantile Nat. Bank of Cleveland, 127 U. S. 193, 8 S. Ct. 1121, 32 L. Ed. 118.

A state, in taxing as credits the surplus of a savings bank, must leave out of the computation of its assets bonds issued by territorial municipalities which are exempt from taxation.—Farmers' & Mechanics' Sav. Bank of Minneapolis v. State of Minnesota, 34 S. Ct. 354, 232 U. S. 516, 58 L. Ed. 706, reversing judgment State v. Farmers' & Mechanics' Sav. Bank of Minneapolis, 130 N. W. 445, 114 Minn. 95.

—388. Express and other transportation companies.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 667, 668.

In determining the value of the property of an express company for taxation on a mileage basis it will be presumed, when the contrary is not shown by the company, that all its property in the several states in which it operates is directly employed in its business.—Sanford v. Poe, 17 S. Ct. 305, 165 U. S. 194, 41 L. Ed. 683, affirming decree 69 F. 546, 16 C. C. A. 305.

—389. Railroads.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 652-666.

—390. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 652-655, 658, 659.

The assessment for taxation of the property, within the state, of a railroad company whose road extends outside the state, cannot be adjudged excessive and illegal upon testimony that the valuation was excessive, and that portions of the road outside the state were of largely greater value than any similar length within the state, unaccompanied by evidence that the assessing board reached the valuation by simply dividing the total value of the company's property on a mileage basis, or that it failed to take into consideration such excessive value of portions outside the state.—Pittsburgh, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Backus, 154 U. S. 421, 14 S. Ct. 1114, 38 L. Ed. 1031, and 154 U. S. 438, 14 S. Ct. 1114, 38 L. Ed. 1040, affirming judgment 133 Ind. 625, 33 N. E. 432.

Assessment of part of a railroad within a state, another part of which is in another state, by ascertaining the value of the whole line as a single property, and then determining the value of that within the state, held, in the absence of special circumstances, not to involve valuation of property out of the state.—Cleveland, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Backus, 154 U. S. 439, 14 S. Ct. 1122, 38 L. Ed. 1041, affirming judgment 133 Ind. 513, 33 N. E. 421, 18 L. R. A. 729.

A state may tax that portion of the property of an interstate railroad company lying within the state at its value as an organic portion of the entire road.—Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co. v. Babcock, 27 S. Ct. 326, 204 U. S. 585, 51 L. Ed. 636.

—391. — Right of way, tracks, and other real property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 660-666.

The statute of West Virginia requiring railroad companies to make return to the state auditor for taxation of their trackage in the several counties of the state, and also of all their real estate, depots, etc., and all other buildings and structures includes that part of a bridge across the Ohio river which is within the state, which is real estate and also a structure. If considered as a part of the track of the road, and as being included in the return of track mileage, the increased value of the track by reason of the bridge may be taken into account by the taxing authorities, and it is immaterial to the railroad company whether it is so taxed or as a separate structure.—Pittsburgh, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Works of West Virginia, 19 S. Ct. 90, 172 U. S. 32, 43 L. Ed. 354.

Under the laws of the territory of New Mexico for the assessment of property for taxation, by which the term "real estate" is defined as including the improvements thereon, an assessment of railroad property, which enumerates the improvements on the right of way, and gives to some of them a separate valuation, is not thereby rendered invalid, nor can the improvements for that reason be said to have been assessed as personal property.—Territory of New Mexico v. United States Trust Co. of New York, 19 S. Ct. 784, 174 U. S. 545, 43 L. Ed. 1079.

—393. — Earnings and receipts.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 657.

The sum received by one railroad company from another as compensation for the use of its tracks is a toll, within the meaning of Act Pa. June 7, 1879, taxing the gross receipts of railroad companies "for tolls and transportation."—New York, L. E. & W. R. Co. v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 158 U. S. 431, 15 S. Ct. 896, 39 L. Ed. 1043, affirming judgment 22 A. 212, 145 Pa. 38.

—396. Telegraphs and telephones.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 670.

The amount of a tax or excise imposed by a state on a telegraph company was determined by ascertaining what proportion the number of miles of its lines in the state bore to the whole number operated by the company, and taxing an equal portion of the assessable value of the company's stock. Held, that the principle itself not being unjust, and it not appearing that the company was injured by any principle or rule of law not equally applicable to other similar objects of taxation, the tax would not be declared void on the ground that no deduction was made for the value of property of the company subject to local taxation in other states, the company owning no such property within the state imposing the tax.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 125 U. S. 530, 8 S. Ct. 961, 31 L. Ed. 790.

A state statute requiring a telegraph company to pay a tax upon its property within the state, valued at such proportion of the whole value of its capital stock as the length of its lines within the state bears to the length of all its lines everywhere, deducting a sum equal to the value of its real estate and machinery subject to local taxation within the state, is constitutional.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Taggart, 163 U. S. 1, 16 S. Ct. 1054, 41 L. Ed. 49.

◀397. Foreign corporations.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 672.

Personal property owned by a nonresident express company and situated outside the state cannot be taken into account in fixing the value, for taxation, of its property within the state, on a mileage basis, on the theory that it gave the credit necessary for carrying on the business in the state, where the resulting assessment is greatly in excess of the value of the total good will of the company, measured by the difference between its tangible assets and the total value of its stock.—Fargo v. Hart, 24 S. Ct. 498, 193 U. S. 490, 48 L. Ed. 761.

(E) ASSESSMENT ROLLS OR BOOKS.

Due process of law, see Constitutional Law, ◀284.

◀413. Designation of persons.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 690-706.

◀415. — Owner or occupant of property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 695-698, 700-703.

The Florida statute (Laws 1869, c. 1713, §§ 6, 7, 17, 19), requiring lands to be assessed to the owner or occupant, or, if there is no occupant or known owner, to "unknown owner," is mandatory, and a tax sale made under an assessment to persons who have never had any title or possession is void.—Bird v. Benlisa, 142 U. S. 664, 12 S. Ct. 323, 35 L. Ed. 1151.

The placing of lands upon the tax books according to a survey upon which no patent had ever been issued as the property of persons who had no title whatever thereto is unauthorized by law, and a tax sale had under such an assessment is void, and confers no title.—Rich v. Braxton, 158 U. S. 375, 15 S. Ct. 1006, 39 L. Ed. 1022, affirming decree (C. C.) Braxton v. Rich, 47 F. 178.

◀416. — Estate, heirs, or representatives of decedent.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 704-706.

The fact that an assessment for taxes was in the name of "the estate of" a decedent, while the administration of his estate had been finally closed and the property put into possession of the heirs, will not justify equitable relief by injunction, though it was technically in the wrong name.—City of New Orleans v. Stemple, 20 S. Ct. 110, 175 U. S. 309, 44 L. Ed. 174.

◀419. Description of property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 687, 711-735.

◀421. — Real property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 720-727, 729-735.

Under Laws Fla. 1869, c. 1713, § 17, an assessment of lands not by section, town, and range, according to the government survey, nor by boundaries, but by a descriptive name, sometimes used in the neighborhood, but not known to the official record of title, is insufficient, especially if the acreage given is materially different from that of the tract intended to be described, and no title passes by a tax-sale made under such assessment.—Bird v. Benlisa, 142 U. S. 664, 12 S. Ct. 323, 35 L. Ed. 1151.

◀439. Curative statutes.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 770, 771.

Where, by statute, the assessors are required to complete the assessment roll by a certain date, and to make oath to it in a prescribed form, and it is essential that these requirements should be observed to enable notices to be published specifying a time when they would meet for the purpose of reviewing the assessments on the application of any person aggrieved, defects arising through the noncompletion of the assessment roll by the specified date, and departure from the prescribed form of oath, may be cured by subsequent remedial statute, provided the right of the taxpayers aggrieved by the assessment to have their objections passed upon is not interfered with.—Williams v. Albany County Sup'rs, 122 U. S. 154, 7 S. Ct. 1244, 30 L. Ed. 1088.

◀441. Partial invalidity.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 773.

Where an assessment of railroad property made by the state board of equalization includes fences, and is void as to such property because of lack of authority to assess railroad fences, it is void in toto, and cannot be made the basis of any judgment for taxes where there is no means of separating the value of the fences illegally assessed from the aggregate valuation of the property.—Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 118 U. S. 394, 6 S. Ct. 1132, 30 L. Ed. 118.

◀446. Conclusiveness and effect.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 784-786.

The judgment of a state board of equalization of Missouri, which has laid a substantial tax upon corporations therein, is final under the Missouri Constitution and statutes.—State of Missouri v. Dockery, 24 S. Ct. 53, 191 U. S. 165, 48 L. Ed. 133, 63 L. R. A. 571.

(F) EQUALIZATION OF ASSESSMENTS.

Due process of law, see Constitutional Law, ◀251.

◀450. Equalization among counties or other municipalities by state board or officer.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 800-804.

Excessive assessments should be corrected by the course provided by law for such correction.—Stanley v. Albany County Sup'rs, 121 U. S. 535, 7 S. Ct. 1234, 30 L. Ed. 1000.

The total valuation of the property in the territory may be increased by the Arizona board of equalization beyond the sum of the returns of the board of supervisors of the several counties, since Rev. St. Ariz. 1901, § 3890, empowering the board to increase or diminish the valuation of property in any county in order to produce a just relation between all the valuations of property in the territory, only prohibits the board from reducing the aggregate valuation below that as returned by the clerks of the several counties, which implies that the board has the power of change, and, but for the prohibition, might reduce the total. Judgment (Ariz. 1906) 84 P. 511, affirmed.—Copper Queen Consol. Min. Co. v. Territorial Board of Equalization of Territory of Arizona, 27 S. Ct. 695, 206 U. S. 474, 51 L. Ed. 1143.

The Arizona board of equalization, in exercising its power under Rev. St. Ariz. 1901, § 3880, to increase or diminish the valuation of property in any county in order to produce a just relation between all the valuations of property in the territory, is not bound to deal with the valuation of each county as a whole, but may increase or diminish the valuations of particular classes of property within the county.—Id.

(G) REVIEW, CORRECTION, OR SETTING ASIDE OF ASSESSMENT.

452. Constitutional and statutory provisions.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 806, 807.

The lack of any provision for an equalization of railroad property with other property in the state in Pub. Acts Mich. 1901, Act No. 173, authorizing the taxation of railroad property at the average rate of taxation imposed on other property in the state, does not vitiate the assessment, where the statute names the time and place for the sessions of the assessing board, and gives to any person or company interested the right to be heard, and authorizes the board to correct the valuation. Decree (D. C.) Michigan Railroad Tax Cases, 138 F. 223, affirmed.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Powers, 26 S. Ct. 459, 201 U. S. 245, 50 L. Ed. 744.

453. Exclusiveness of statutory remedy.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 809.

A sale of lands for delinquent taxes will not be set aside, on the ground of unjust valuation, where no such purpose appears on the part of the assessor or board of equalization, although unimproved lands were assessed at a higher rate than improved lands owned by residents, yet no discrimination was made between unimproved lands owned by residents and by nonresidents, and the error in valuation could have been corrected by appropriate proceedings before the tax sale.—Beeson v. Johns, 124 U. S. 56, 8 S. Ct. 352, 31 L. Ed. 360.

477. Notice to public of meeting or sessions of board.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 850, 851.

Notice of the time and place of the first meeting of the state board for the equalization of the shares of incorporated banks, given by the provisions of Rev. St. Ohio, § 2808, designating the time and place for such meeting, is sufficient notice to any banks which may be affected by its action, although such action may be taken at a meeting of the board held after it has adjourned without fixing a date for a subsequent meeting. Judgment Mercantile Nat. Bank of Cleveland, Ohio, v. Hubbard, 105 F. 809, 45 C. C. A. 68, reversed.—Lander v. Mercantile Nat. Bank of Cleveland, Ohio, 22 S. Ct. 908, 186 U. S. 458, 46 L. Ed. 1247.

479. Proceedings by and before board or officer.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 853-853; 2 Cent. Dig. App. & E. § 141.

482. — Notice to persons interested.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 854-857.

Rev. St. Ohio, § 2782, authorizes a county auditor having reason to believe that any person has made a false statement of his property for taxation to issue compulsory process, and require the attendance of any person whom he may suppose to have knowledge of the value of such property, and examine him on oath, and requires him, before entering on the tax list the proper amount of taxes, to notify such person, that he may have an opportunity to show that his statement was correct. Held, that where a person, subpoenaed to appear before the auditor to give information of all property within his knowledge not returned for taxation, while in attendance before such auditor is informed by the latter of his purpose to increase the amount of the property returned by such person for taxation, there is a substantial compliance with the statute.—Sturges v. Carter, 114 U. S. 511, 5 S. Ct. 1014, 29 L. Ed. 240.

492. — Setting aside assessment and making of reassessment.

Sess. Laws Ariz. 1891, p. 146, § 1, provides that, where any tax on property subject to taxation shall be set aside, declared void, or its collection enjoined for irregularity, error, or omission in the proceedings, it may, upon order of the board of supervisors, be reassessed within four years, and collected as part of the tax for the current year. Held, that a resolution of the board, reciting failure of proceedings to collect taxes for a prior year because of insufficient publication, and directing their reassessment and insertion on the tax roll for the current year, together with the delinquent list in which they were so included, are sufficient to show that the taxes were properly charged against the property, in the absence of evidence to the contrary.—Maish v. Territory of Arizona, 17 S. Ct. 193, 164 U. S. 599, 41 L. Ed. 567.

498. Injunction to restrain assessment.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 913-919.

Injunction is the proper form of relief from an assessment for taxation made upon unconstitutional principles.—Fargo v. Hart, 24 S. Ct. 498, 193 U. S. 490, 48 L. Ed. 761.

Tender is not a prerequisite to injunctive relief against an assessment for taxation made upon unconstitutional principles.—Id.

Equity will not enjoin a reassessment of a tax on the stock and real property of a national bank because of the apprehension that Rev. St. U. S. § 5219 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3502), will be violated by the assessing officer in making the assessment. Judgment (N. M. 1906) 86 P. 548, affirmed.—First Nat. Bank v. Albright, 28 S. Ct. 349, 208 U. S. 548, 52 L. Ed. 614.

500. Actions to set aside assessment or for reassessment.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 925-930.

Proof of fraud or misconduct, and not merely of an error of judgment, on the part of an assessing board, is necessary to warrant setting aside the assessment.—Maish v. Territory of Arizona, 17 S. Ct. 193, 164 U. S. 599, 41 L. Ed. 567.

That an officer of a railroad company declared before the board of assessors that the company would pay taxes on a certain valuation of its property, but would resist payment on a higher valuation, will not raise the presumption that the subsequent act of the board in fixing the valuation of the railroad property at the rate named by the officer was fraudulent.—Id.

VI. LIEN AND PRIORITY.

503. Creation and requisites of lien.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 934-938.

506. — Entry of unpaid tax and tax books or other records.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 938.

A state law requiring that all liens on real property must be recorded, in order to affect third parties (Const. La. 1879, art. 176), does not apply to tax liens in favor of the United States.—United States v. Snyder, 149 U. S. 210, 13 S. Ct. 846, 37 L. Ed. 705.

507. Property to which lien attaches.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 937-941.

All the property of a railroad being assessed as a unit, and the tax being due as a unit, the tax is a lien on all the property assessed.—Maricopa & P. R. Co. v. Territory of Arizona, 156 U. S. 847, 15 S. Ct. 391, 39 L. Ed. 447.

The lien of taxes upon the fee given by Act Tenn. Jan. 10, 1903, p. 663, c. 258, § 32, applies only when the fee itself may be taxed, and does not give such lien for a tax upon the interest of a lessee where the fee itself is exempt from taxation.—(1908) Jetton v. University of the South, 28 S. Ct. 375, 208 U. S. 489, 52 L. Ed. 584, reversing decree (C. C. 1907) University of the South v. Jetton, 155 F. 182.

◀509. Priorities in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 943-945; 35 Cent. Dig. Mtg. § 324.

Though Const. La. 1879, art. 176, requires tax liens on real property to be recorded in order to avail against third parties, yet a tax lien in favor of the United States may be enforced against land in the hands of a purchaser for value and without notice, though it was not recorded; the law not being applicable to such liens.—United States v. Snyder, 149 U. S. 210, 13 S. Ct. 846, 37 L. Ed. 705.

A bill in equity for an injunction to restrain collectors of taxes due to the state of Virginia from refusing to receive, when tendered in payment of such taxes, coupons made receivable therefor by Act Va. March 30, 1871, will not lie on behalf of a holder of such coupons who owes no taxes or other debt to the state. The discrediting of the coupons by previous refusals of the state officers to receive them is not actionable damage.—Marye v. Parsons, 114 U. S. 325, 5 S. Ct. 932, 962, 29 L. Ed. 205.

The revenue license to practice law, imposed by Code Va. 1873, tit. 12, c. 34, § 61, is a tax within Act Va. March 30, 1871, making coupons cut from the bonds of the state receivable for "all taxes, debts, dues, and demands due the state."—Royall v. Commonwealth of Virginia, 116 U. S. 572, 6 S. Ct. 510, 29 L. Ed. 735; Sands v. Edmunds, 116 U. S. 585, 6 S. Ct. 516, 29 L. Ed. 739; Royall v. Commonwealth of Virginia, 121 U. S. 102, 7 S. Ct. 826, 30 L. Ed. 883.

Where a state is surety on the bonds of a railroad company, and to relieve itself from liability therefor issues in exchange for such bonds its scrip, expressed on its face to be "receivable in payment of all taxes and dues to the state," the holder of such scrip cannot maintain a petition for mandamus to compel its receipt for taxes unless he himself owes the taxes, and is in a position to make a present tender, although the market value of the scrip is depreciated by the refusal to receive it.—Hagood v. Southern, 117 U. S. 52, 6 S. Ct. 603, 29 L. Ed. 805.

◀530. Operation and effect of payment in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 985, 988.

Act of March 7, 1889, of the territory of Dakota, relating to the taxation of railroads, provided that it should apply to railroad companies which were in arrears for taxes imposed by Laws 1883, c. 99, only on payment of such arrearage within 30 days. The Northern Pacific Railroad Company was largely in arrears, and taxes had also been levied on some of its property by the counties in which it was situated, which taxes it had not paid. The company paid the arrearage due under the law of 1883, and was thereafter taxed under the act of 1889. Held, that such payment and its acceptance, though, made after the expiration of 30 days, were a compromise and settlement of all claims for prior taxes against the property of the company, including those levied on its lands by the local authorities.—McHenry v. Alford, 18 S. Ct. 242, 168 U. S. 651, 42 L. Ed. 614.

◀538. — Voluntary payment in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 999, 1000.

In Kentucky an action to recover taxes paid does not lie except when the payment has been made under duress of a distraint made by the collection officers. Decree, Bank of Kentucky v. Stone (C. C.) 88 F. 383, affirmed.—Stone v. Farmers' Bank of Kentucky, 19 S. Ct. 880, 174 U. S. 409, 43 L. Ed. 1027.

Payment by foreign corporation of franchise tax imposed by Laws Tex. 1905, c. 19, to avoid forfeiture of right to do business and right to sue, held not voluntary.—(1912) Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Shannon, 32 S. Ct. 236, 223 U. S. 468, 56 L. Ed. 510, affirming judgment (1909) 115 S. W. 361, 52 Tex. Civ. App. 634.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1006-1016.

The Secretary of State, who collects unconstitutional tax imposed by Laws Colo. 1907, p. 548, upon capital stock of foreign railway company is liable in a suit to recover back tax as paid under duress, especially under section 6, providing that, if judicially determined that the payment was erroneous, the auditor may draw warrant for refunding same.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. O'Connor, 32 S. Ct. 216, 223 U. S. 280, 56 L. Ed. 436, Ann. Cas. 1913C; 1050.

Rev. St. Mo. 1909, § 11,417, authorizing the circuit court to enforce "by mandamus or otherwise" an order to the county court to assess a tax, empowers the circuit court to use coercive measures alone, and not to collect the tax through its own officers.—*Yost v. 570. Actions on official bonds.
See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1122-1129.

Suit was brought by the state, on relation of the owner of county warrants, finding no money in the county treasury to pay his warrants, against the tax collector and his surety, alleging that the collector had improperly received other warrants in payment of taxes, and had thus intentionally prevented any money coming into the treasury. The collector had settled according to law with the county for taxes collected, and the county court had approved his accounts. Held, that there was no relation of contract or legal obligation between the owner of the warrants and the collector to sustain the action.—State of Missouri v. Winterbottom, 8 S. Ct. 98, 123 U. S. 215, 31 L. Ed. 124.

Pub. St. Mass. c. 13, § 54, providing for collection of taxes from foreign corporations and authorizing the court in certain cases to issue injunctions restraining such corporations from transacting any business until delinquent taxes are paid, is void as to the issuing of such injunction against a telegraph company whose lines in that state are mostly constructed and operated as United States postal roads by virtue of Rev. St. § 5263 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3579], granting the right to build and operate lines on such roads.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 125 U. S. 530, 8 S. Ct. 961, 31 L. 587. — Defenses.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1196-1200.

On a bill by the state against a corporation, to recover taxes on the capital stock or on shares of stock, the time of the acceptance of the charter may be inquired into, to determine the right to an immunity from taxation granted by the charter.—Planters' Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. State of Tennessee, 161 U. S. 193, 16 S. Ct. 466, 40 L. Ed. 667.

Discrimination or overvaluation by a state board of equalization in assessing property for purposes of taxation is not a ground of defense to an action at law to collect the taxes. Judgment, State ex rel. Gottlieb v. Western Union Tel. Co., 65 S. W. 775, 165 Mo. 502, affirmed.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. State of Missouri, 23 S. Ct. 730, 190 U. S. 412, 47 L. Ed. 1116.

Neither the listing of a number of mining claims en masse for taxes, nor payment of a part of the unlawful tax as a condition of injunction, nor payments under compromise subsequently held invalid, will estop the owner from contesting the enforcement of the tax, because the board of equalization unlawfully increased the assessment on a part of the property by singling out some of the claims.—Territory of Arizona ex rel. Gaines v. Copper Queen Consol. Min. Co., 34 S. Ct. 546, 233 U. S. 87, 58 L. Ed. 863, affirming judgment 108 P. 960, 13 Ariz. 198.

595. — Judgment.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1218.

In an action by a county for taxes, after judgment for defendant on the ground that the assessment was void, defendant allowed judgment to be entered against it for the principal of the tax assessed, leaving the question of penalty and interest to be determined on appeal. Held that, as the plaintiff was not entitled to judgment for the taxes in question, and the parties having stipulated that the judgment should not be treated as an admission by the defendant of the validity of the taxes claimed, the plaintiff cannot have judgment for penalty, interest, and attorney's fees.—San Bernardino County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 118 U. S. 417, 6 S. Ct. 1144, 30 L. Ed. 125.

606. Injunction.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1230-1257.

607. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1230.

Where a receiver alleges that a tax levied on property in his hands is illegal, and files a petition in the circuit court to determine its legality, the power of the court to restrain any interference with the property for the purpose of collecting the tax pending such determination is not affected by the fact that the state statutes expressly deny any mode of relief against illegal taxes, save payment under protest, and action to recover back the amount so paid.—Ex parte Tyler, 149 U. S. 164, 13 S. Ct. 785, 37 L. Ed. 689.

Equity has jurisdiction, where no remedy at law exists, upon payment of a tax fairly and equitably due, to restrain the collection of the tax assessed upon a corporation at a different rate and by a different method from that employed for other corporations of the same class and for the same year, which results in a most enormous and material discrimination against the complainant corporation. Judgment, Chicago Union Traction Co. v. State Board of Equalization (C. C. 1902) 114 F. 557, affirmed.—Raymond v. Chicago Union Traction Co., 28 S. Ct. 7, 207 U. S. 20, 52 L. Ed. 78, 12 Ann. Cas. 757; Same v. Chicago Edison Co., 28 S. Ct. 14, 207 U. S. 42, 52 L. Ed. 90.

608. — Grounds of relief.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1230-1241.

Where a railroad company has tendered coupons for interest on state bonds in payment of taxes, as permitted by an act of the legislature, and such tender has been refused because of a subsequent unconstitutional act, the railroad company may have an injunction to prevent the collection of the taxes by levy upon its property.—Allen v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 114 U. S. 311, 5 S. Ct. 925, 962, 29 L. Ed. 200, affirming Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Allen (C. C.) 17 F. 171.

A bill in equity to set aside and restrain the collection of a personal tax, or a tax levied upon personal property, by a municipal corporation, cannot be maintained on the sole ground of the illegality of the tax by reason of the nonresidence within the limits of such municipality, of the person against whom the tax is levied.—City of Milwaukee v. Koefner, 116 U. S. 219, 6 S. Ct. 372, 29 L. Ed. 612.

Where overvaluation has arisen from the adoption of a rule of appraisal which conflicts with a constitutional or statutory provision, the collection of the excess will be enjoined upon payment or tender of the amount due upon a just valuation.—Stanley v. Albany County Sup'r, 121 U. S. 535, 7 S. Ct. 1234, 30 L. Ed. 1000.

A taxpayer cannot obtain relief by injunction against a tax because of its illegality, unless there is some special ground of equitable jurisdiction.—Pacific Exp. Co. v. Seibert, 142 U. S. 339, 12 S. Ct. 250, 35 L. Ed. 1035.

Under the law of New Mexico, which requires property to be assessed at its cash value, property of a national bank was so assessed, but on appeal to the board of equalization the assessment was reduced to 85 per cent. of the full value. Held, that the mere fact that other property was assessed at 70 per cent. of its value, not through any design or systematic effort on the part of the assessors, would not justify an injunction to restrain the collection of the tax.—Albuquerque Nat. Bank v. Perea, 147 U. S. 87, 13 S. Ct. 104, 37 L. Ed. 91, affirming 5 N. M. 664, 25 Pac. 776.

A valid state statute giving a railroad company the right of appeal to the courts from the assessment of its property for taxation, after receiving notice of such assessment, on which appeal all legal evidence offered shall be heard by the court, affords an adequate remedy for any error or illegality in the assessment; and a company which, after full opportunity, has not availed itself of such remedy, cannot maintain a suit in a court of the United States to enjoin the collection of any part of the tax imposed, on the ground that property was illegally assessed.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Works of West Virginia, 19 S. Ct. 90, 172 U. S. 32, 43 L. Ed. 354.

The collection of taxes assessed under the authority of a state is not to be restrained by writ of injunction from a court of the United States, unless it clearly appears, not only that the tax is illegal, but that the owner of the property taxed has no adequate remedy, by the ordinary process of the law, and that there are special circumstances bringing the case under some recognized head of equity jurisdiction.—Id.

In a state where payment of taxes is held to be voluntary unless made under duress of a distraint, it would seem that the right of action to recover back a tax levied against a bank is an inadequate remedy, in view of the interference with its business and the injury to its credit which would be caused by a distress upon its personal property. Decree (C. C.) Bank of Kentucky v. Stone, 88 F. 383, affirmed.—Stone v. Farmers' Bank of Kentucky, 19 S. Ct. 880, 174 U. S. 409, 43 L. Ed. 1027.

In a state where an action to recover taxes paid will only lie when they have been paid under duress of a distraint, such remedy is not an adequate one where the taxing officers, instead of distraining, may bring an action at law to collect the tax. A remedy at law cannot be adequate if its adequacy depends upon the will of the opposing party.—Id.

Irreparable injury cannot be inferred as the result of the enforcement of an illegal tax, so as to sustain a suit in equity to enjoin its collection, where there is a plain and adequate remedy at law to recover the amount of the tax wrongfully assessed.—Indiana Mfg. Co. v. Koehne, 23 S. Ct. 452, 188 U. S. 681, 47 L. Ed. 651.

The absence of an adequate remedy at law is not shown by an averment in a bill which seeks to enjoin the collection of a tax on property alleged to be exempt from taxation, that a portion of the tax is to be paid to the state of Indiana, which cannot be sued, where, under the general tax laws of that state, complainant might have had its objections to the assessment reviewed by a state board, and, if unsuccessful, might have paid the tax, and then, under Burns' Rev. St. Ind. 1894, §§ 7915, 7916, have filed a petition with the board of county commissioners to recover it back as "wrongfully" assessed, and, if still unsuccessful, might have appealed from the decision of such board to the courts.—Id.

The prevention of multiplicity of suits cannot successfully be invoked to sustain a suit in equity to enjoin the collection of an illegal tax, where complainant's remedy under the state statutes was to have its objections to the assessment reviewed by a state board, and, if unsuccessful, to pay the tax and file a petition with the board of county commissioners to have it refunded, and, if still unsuccessful, to appeal from the decision of such board to the courts.—Id.

An averment that an assessment upon the capital stock and franchises of a corporation constitutes a cloud upon title is not sufficient to sustain a bill in equity which seeks to enjoin the collection of such tax as illegal, where it contains no allegation that the corporation owns any real property.—Id.

The United States has no such prompt and efficacious remedy at law as will deprive it of the right to equitable relief against the unlawful taxation by a state of permanent improvements upon, and personal property used in the cultivation of, lands allotted to Indians in severalty, under Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119 (24 Stat. 389), the fifth section of which requires the United States to hold such lands in trust for the allottees for 25 years, and then convey the fee free of all incumbrance.—United States v. Rickert, 23 S. Ct. 478, 188 U. S. 432, 47 L. Ed. 532.

Code Va. 1887, §§ 567-570, provide an adequate remedy at law for the correction of an erroneous assessment of taxes, and a federal court of equity is without jurisdiction of a suit to enjoin the collection of such taxes, levied by authority of the state, on the ground of erroneous assessment. Decree (C. C.) 110 F. 812, affirmed.—Douglas Co. v. Stone, 24 S. Ct. 843, 191 U. S. 557, 48 L. Ed. 301.

Equity will not interfere by injunction with the prosecution of civil suits against a foreign corporation to recover taxes levied on its personal property within the state, on the ground that the corporation is not personally liable therefor, since this objection may be set up as a defense by answer in the actions at law.—Scottish Union & National Ins. Co. v. Bowland, 25 S. Ct. 345, 196 U. S. 611, 49 L. Ed. 619.

The existence of an adequate remedy at law cannot successfully be urged to defeat ancillary relief by way of injunction in aid of a decree enjoining the collection of state taxes, since that question was foreclosed by the original decree.—Gunter v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 26 S. Ct. 252, 200 U. S. 273, 50 L. Ed. 477.

A federal court will not enjoin the collection of state taxes on railroad property because of undervaluation of the other taxable property in the state, where such inequality is not the result of a scheme or agreement among the taxing officers.—Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co. v. Babcock, 27 S. Ct. 326, 204 U. S. 585, 51 L. Ed. 636.

Injunctive relief against the taxation of railroad property because of the methods adopted by the state board of equalization and assessment in arriving at the valuation of such property for tax purposes will not be given in a federal court except in a case of fraud or a clearly shown adoption of a fundamentally wrong principle.—Id.

A foreign corporation cannot sue in equity in the federal courts to enjoin collection of taxes in Colorado, where under the Colorado law the company could have recovered back from the county the money so paid if the taxes were illegal.—Singer Sewing Mach. Co. of New Jersey v. Benedict, 33 S. Ct. 942, 229 U. S. 481, 57 L. Ed. 1288, affirming decree 179 F. 628, 103 C. C. A. 186.

A federal court has jurisdiction of bill to enjoin collection of state taxes as unwarranted by the law and because manner of assessment is a fraud on the complainant's constitutional rights.—Johnson v. Wells Fargo & Co., 36 S. Ct. 62, 239 U. S. 234, 60 L. Ed. 243, affirming judgment Wells Fargo & Co. v. Johnson, 214 F. 180, 130 C. C. A. 528.

610. — Payment or tender of taxes not in controversy.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1244.

A taxpayer cannot maintain an action to enjoin the collection of taxes illegally assessed against him, until he has paid or tendered the portion legally assessed.—Albuquerque Nat. Bank v. Perea, 147 U. S. 87, 13 S. Ct. 194, 37 L. Ed. 91, affirming decree 5 N. M. 664, 25 P. 776.

The act of Dakota territory of March 9, 1883 (Laws 1883, c. 99), imposed a percentage tax on the gross earnings of railroad companies in lieu of all other taxation. This act was superseded by the act of March 7, 1889, which provided for a like percentage tax on any company accepting its provisions, but as a condition of such acceptance this act required payment, within 30 days from its passage, of all arrearages due under the act of 1883. It was provided further that any company failing to comply with the provisions of the act should immediately become subject to taxation on its property in the same manner as individuals. If an acceptance were filed after February 15th and before August 15th in any year, the percentage tax under the new law was to be paid on or before the latter date. This act, however, was repealed November 2, 1889, by the repugnant provisions contained in the constitution of North Dakota, as approved by congress. Held, that the Northern Pacific Company, which paid its arrearages within the 30 days, and filed its acceptance before August 15th, but failed to pay the percentage tax which fell due on that date, immediately became subject to assessment on its lands in the various counties, and an assessment accordingly made before the repeal of the percentage law was not invalidated by such repeal; and, as the company was therefore liable to pay either the percentage tax or the assessment, it was not entitled to enjoin collection of the latter without showing payment or tender of the former.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Clark, 153 U. S. 252, 14 S. Ct. 809, 38 L. Ed. 706.

Payment, or at least a tender, of the amount of the taxes shown from the bill on complainant's own theory justly and equitably to be due on shares of stock in a national bank, must be made before a court of equity will interfere by injunction with their collection because no notice was given of the assessment, and because such assessment, by reason of a failure to make the deduction prescribed by law, was at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital. Decree (C. C. 1901) 107 F. 570, modified.—People's Nat. Bank of Lynchburg v. Marye, 24 S. Ct. 68, 191 U. S. 272, 48 L. Ed. 180.

The rule that tender of the valid portion of a tax is a condition precedent to relief by injunction against illegal taxation cannot be invoked to defeat injunctive relief in aid of a decree enjoining the collection of state taxes, where all questions concerning the part of the tax not covered by the original decree were eliminated from the controversy.—Gunter v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 26 S. Ct. 252, 200 U. S. 273, 50 L. Ed. 477.

Tender of so much of a tax as would have fallen on receipts from commerce within the state held not prerequisite to injunction of collection from nonresident express company, whose receipts are largely derived from interstate commerce and investments outside the state, of the gross revenue tax exacted by Laws Okl. 1910, c. 44.—Meyer v. Wells Fargo & Co., 32 S. Ct. 218, 223 U. S. 298, 56 L. Ed. 445.

611. — Proceedings and relief.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1242, 1245-1257.

The members of a state board of equalization and assessment should not be subjected to a cross-examination in a proceeding for equitable relief against the taxation of railroad property, with regard to the operation of their minds in arriving at the valuation of such property for tax purposes.—Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co. v. Babcock, 27 S. Ct. 326, 204 U. S. 585, 51 L. Ed. 636.

The existence of an adequate remedy at law by an action to recover back illegal taxes, which will defeat injunctive relief, is negated by allegations in a bill to restrain illegal taxation that, if complainant sues to recover back the taxes, separate suits must be brought against the several taxing bodies receiving a share of the tax; that the proportion of the tax which goes to the state cannot be recovered by any legal proceeding; that whatever repayment can be compelled from the other taxing bodies will not cover the cost, including commissions deducted for the collection of the tax; that payment of such tax will render complainant insolvent; and that a levy on its property will interfere with the street car system operated by it, to the injury of the public. Judgment, Chicago Union Traction Co. v.

State Board of Equalization (C. C. 1902) 114 F. 557, affirmed.—Raymond v. Chicago Union Traction Co., 28 S. Ct. 7, 207 U. S. 20, 52 L. Ed. 78, 12 Ann. Cas. 757; Same v. Chicago Edison Co., 28 S. Ct. 14, 207 U. S. 42, 52 L. Ed. 90.

IX. SALE OF LAND FOR NONPAYMENT OF TAX.

Levee assessments, see Levees, 628.

616. Taxes and charges for which land may be sold.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1273-1278.

622. — Partial illegality.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1277.

Where land is sold for taxes, any portion of which is illegal, the sale is void.—Gage v. Pumpelly, 115 U. S. 454, 6 S. Ct. 136, 29 L. Ed. 449.

623. Demand of payment and default of owner.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1266, 1267.

In Mississippi a landowner is not bound as matter of law, to take notice of a new map giving a new description of his lands; and if, relying on the old description and the old map, he attempts to pay his taxes, and supposes he has done so on all his lands, but fails to do so on some of them, which are subsequently sold for taxes without his knowledge, the deed made in pursuance of such sale is void.—Lewis v. Monson, 151 U. S. 545, 14 S. Ct. 424, 38 L. Ed. 265.

625. List of lands delinquent.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1279-1285.

Under a statute making the delinquent tax list prima facie evidence that the taxes therein are due against the property assessed, the testimony of a single witness that the board of equalization increased the valuation of certain property, there being no evidence that this was done without proof of value or due notice to the parties, is not sufficient to impeach the assessment.—Maish v. Territory of Arizona, 17 S. Ct. 193, 164 U. S. 599, 41 L. Ed. 567.

The provision of Rev. St. Ariz. 1887, § 2686, that the delinquent list "shall be prima facie evidence that the taxes therein are due" against the property, applies to all taxes in the list, whether for the current or a prior year.—Id.

629. — Filing.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1232.

Compliance with the provision of Mansf. Dig. Ark. § 5763, requiring the clerk of the county court to record the delinquent tax list, is essential to the validity of the proceeding.—Martin v. Barbour, 140 U. S. 634, 11 S. Ct. 944, 35 L. Ed. 546, affirming decree (C. C.) 34 F. 701.

635. Proceedings for judgment against real property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1298-1318.

639. — Jurisdiction and venue.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1302.

In proceedings under Rev. St. Ariz. 1887, §§ 2684-2688, to collect delinquent taxes, if objections are duly made to the entry of judgment against any property included in the delinquent list, the court does not lose jurisdiction to render such judgment by taking time for hearing and considering such objections, until the time fixed for the sale of the other property in the delinquent list has expired.—Maish v. Territory of Arizona, 17 S. Ct. 193, 164 U. S. 599, 41 L. Ed. 567.

642. — Process or notice and appearance.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1305-1307.

Under Laws Ark. 1881, p. 89, providing that, on the filing of a complaint with the clerk, an order shall be entered on the record notifying all persons having any interest in the lands sought to be sold for unpaid taxes, and directing a copy of the order to be published in a newspaper in the county, the publication of the order in a newspaper is indispensable to the validity of the proceedings.—Dick v. Foraker, 155 U. S. 404, 15 S. Ct. 124, 39 L. Ed. 201.

Filing of complaint, in proceedings to foreclose lien of county for delinquent taxes before publication of summons, held not jurisdictional, notwithstanding requirement of Baillinger's Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 4878.—(1912) Ontario Land Co. v. Wilfong, 32 S. Ct. 328, 223 U. S. 543, 58 L. Ed. 544, affirming judgment (1909) Wilfong v. Ontario Land Co., 171 F. 51, 96 C. C. A. 293.

Judgment, in proceedings under Washington statutes to foreclose lien of county for delinquent taxes, held not invalid because summons required answer within 60 days after publication, instead of within 60 days after "date of" first publication.—Id.

647. — Form and requisites of judgment or decree.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1312-1315.

Judgment foreclosing lien of county for delinquent taxes under Washington statutes is not void for failure to file the application for judgment until date of its entry.—(1912) Ontario Land Co. v. Wilfong, 32 S. Ct. 328, 223 U. S. 543, 58 L. Ed. 544, affirming judgment (1909) Wilfong v. Ontario Land Co., 171 F. 51, 96 C. C. A. 293.

648. — Conclusiveness of adjudication.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1316.

A judgment of the county court, ordering sales of lands for taxes, rendered on service by publication, is not conclusive, but may be attacked collaterally on the grounds that among the taxes for which the land was sold are included some illegal taxes, and that there was a failure to comply with the requirements of Const. Ill. art. 9, § 5 (Rev. St. Ill. 1874, c. 120, p. 893), as to personal notice to the owner of the expiration of the period of redemption.—Gage v. Pumpelly, 115 U. S. 454, 6 S. Ct. 136, 29 L. Ed. 449.

649. — Review.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1317.

Where a party in proceedings under Rev. St. Ariz. 1887, §§ 2684-2688, to collect delinquent taxes, objects to entry of judgment against his property because the "delinquent list as published is not a copy of the original," and on the hearing objects to the admission of the published list, but not on the ground that the original is the best evidence, and does not point out, as required by the statute, wherein the copy differs from the original, a material variance will not be assumed on appeal.—Maish v. Territory of Arizona, 17 S. Ct. 193, 164 U. S. 599, 41 L. Ed. 567.

657. Notice of sale.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1332-1342.

658. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1332-1335, 1339.

There is a failure to give due and reasonable notice of a tax sale when land belonging to "Ida J. Hanthorn" is placed on the delinquent tax list as the property of "Ida J. Hawthorn," and is sold as the property of "Hawthorn."—Marx v. Hanthorn, 148 U. S. 172, 13 S. Ct. 508, 37 L. Ed. 410, affirming judgment (C. C.) 30 F. 579.

662. — Proof.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1342.

Compliance with the provisions of Mansf. Dig. Ark. § 5763, requiring the county clerk to record the notice of sale, required by section 5762 to be published, and to certify at the bottom of the record as to such publication, is essential to the validity of the proceeding.—Martin v. Barbour, 140 U. S. 634, 11 S. Ct. 944, 35 L. Ed. 546, affirming decree (C. C.) 34 F. 701.

Under Laws Ark. 1881, p. 89, providing that, on the filing of a complaint with the clerk, an order shall be entered on the record, notifying all persons having any interest in the lands sought to be sold for unpaid taxes, and directing the clerk to cause a copy of the order to be inserted in a newspaper published in the county, the making of the record entry of the notice is indispensable to the validity of the proceedings.—Dick v. Foraker, 155 U. S. 404, 15 S. Ct. 124, 39 L. Ed. 201.

679. Purchase by state or municipality, and resale.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1361, 1362.

Lands sold for taxes and bought in by the county commissioners were again sold by the county treasurer for later taxes, and purchased by plaintiff, who held the original legal title; but the commissioners afterwards sold and conveyed the lands to defendant. Held, that their deed was inadmissible as against plaintiff's title, as the county was estopped to assert its title as against a purchaser at the sale by the county treasurer.—Murphy v. Packer, 152 U. S. 398, 14 S. Ct. 636, 38 L. Ed. 489.

684. Report or return and record of sale.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1369-1374.

Failure of the clerk to make entries showing the sale of land for taxes, as required by Mansf. Dig. Ark. §§ 5763, 5769, 5771, so that it was returned by the assessor as subject to taxation for the following year, instead of being exempt by reason of its being sold to the state, was prejudicial to the owner, as it thereby prevents his receiving notice of the sale so that he might redeem.—Martin v. Barbour, 140 U. S. 634, 11 S. Ct. 944, 35 L. Ed. 546, affirming decree (C. C.) 34 F. 701.

687. Certificate of delinquency issued to person paying taxes.

Omission of county treasurer to file certificate of delinquency in proceedings to foreclose county lien for delinquent taxes under Washington statutes held not fatal to the validity of the proceedings.—(1912) Ontario Land Co. v. Wilfong, 32 S. Ct. 328, 223 U. S. 543, 56 L. Ed. 544, affirming judgment (1909) Wilfong v. Ontario Land Co., 171 F. 51, 96 C. C. A. 293.

X. REDEMPTION FROM TAX SALE.

Due process of law, see Constitutional Law, 285.

Equal protection of the laws, see Constitutional Law, 229.

697. Persons entitled to redeem.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1394-1400; 33 Cent. Dig. Life Est. § 51.

Under the act of West Virginia of November 18, 1873, relating to sales by the state of lands forfeited or purchased at tax sales for the benefit of the school fund, the heirs of the former owner are entitled to redeem at any time before the sale, although the statute in terms gives the right of redemption only to the "former owner" or an incumbrancer.—Rich v. Braxton, 158 U. S. 375, 15 S. Ct. 1006, 39 L. Ed. 1022, affirming decree Braxton v. Rich (C. C.) 47 F. 178.

700. Notice to redeem.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1407, 1409-1423; 36 Cent. Dig. Mun. Corp. § 1298.

704. — Form and requisites.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1418-1423.

Under Rev. St. Ill. c. 120, § 216, providing that no purchaser of lands at a sale for taxes or special assessments shall be entitled to deeds until he has served the owner, occupant, and persons interested with a notice showing, among other things, for what year the lands were "taxed or specially assessed," a notice stating that the sale was for taxes "and" special assessments for a given year is defective, because it does not show for which the sale was made; and this defect is not cured by the provision of section 224 that deeds executed by the county clerk shall be prima facie evidence that the land was sold "for taxes or special assessments, as stated in the deed," and that "the sale was conducted in the manner required by law."—Gage v. Bani, 141 U. S. 344, 12 S. Ct. 22, 35 L. Ed. 776.

705. — Service in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1424.

Under Rev. St. Ill. c. 120, § 216, that the notice required to be given by a purchaser at a tax sale before obtaining a deed shall be "served on every person" in actual possession, etc., service upon a husband and wife by handing a copy to the wife is insufficient when it does not appear that the husband was present.—Gage v. Bani, 141 U. S. 344, 12 S. Ct. 22, 35 L. Ed. 776.

707. — Proof.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1426-1428.

In an action to set aside a tax deed, one C., who was in possession of the premises at the time the deed was issued, testified that he was not at any time served with notice of the fact of the tax sale, as required by Rev. St. Ill. c. 120, § 216. One W. thereafter deposed that on April 4, 1879, more than five years before his deposition, he served a notice on C. and his wife. His deposition, taken in the absence of plaintiff and his attorney, and, so far as appeared, without notice to either, did not show that he ever made or saw any memorandum of the date of service, or how he was able to fix the date. Moreover, he simply stated that on that date he served "a" notice, without referring to any notice that had been recorded, or stating that the notice recited the facts required by the statute. The records on which the tax deed was issued contained an affidavit of W., made July 15, 1879, stating that on April 4, 1879, he served a copy of the notice thereto annexed on C. personally. It, however, made no reference to service on C.'s wife. There was also in the records in support of the application for a deed the affidavit of one T. that "on the date and at the place as mentioned" in W.'s affidavit he was present and witnessed the service on C. "in the manner and form" as stated by W. The deposition of T. was not, however, taken, nor was he produced as a witness, nor any reason given why he was not examined. There was also an affidavit in support of the application for a deed that there were then in existence "the original memoranda of service of the respective parties making the same," and that the affidavits of W. and T. were correct according to such memoranda. The person who made this affidavit did not, however, testify; neither did any such original memoranda appear on the notice returned. Held that, as the affidavit of service was by Rev. St. Ill. c. 120, § 217, made only prima facie evidence that the notice was given, there was no error in setting aside the tax deed on the ground that the proof failed to show with sufficient certainty such notice as the statute required.—Gage v. Bani, 141 U. S. 344, 12 S. Ct. 22, 35 L. Ed. 776.

XI. TAX TITLES.

Tax sale or deed as color of title, see Adverse Possession, ◀79.

(A) TITLE AND RIGHTS OF PURCHASER AT TAX SALE.

◀734. Effect of defects or irregularities in levy or assessment, judgment, decree, or sale.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1408, 1470-1473.

In an advertisement of the sale of real estate for taxes, where the owner's name is given correctly in full, the fact that it is followed by the words "or her estate or heirs," when the owner was in fact a male person, is not such an error as to vitiate the sale.—Del Castillo v. McConnico, 18 S. Ct. 229, 168 U. S. 674, 42 L. Ed. 622.

Tax deed held not void because notice of sale was not posted or otherwise given.—(1912) Ontario Land Co. v. Wilfong, 32 S. Ct. 328, 223 U. S. 543, 56 L. Ed. 544, affirming judgment (1909) Wilfong v. Ontario Land Co., 171 F. 51, 96 C. C. A. 293.

◀743. Grantees of purchasers.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1485-1488.

One receiving a deed from the state of lands sold to it for delinquent taxes takes it in the same condition in which the state held it, and subject to the same equities and defenses.—Martin v. Barbour, 140 U. S. 634, 11 S. Ct. 944, 35 L. Ed. 546, affirming decree (C. C.) 34 F. 701.

(B) TAX DEEDS.

Necessity of determination of validity of curative act, see Constitutional Law, ◀46.

◀756. Recitals.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1507-1516.

◀762. — Consideration, and proceedings subsequent to sale.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1514-1516.

A tax deed recited that "S. A. Coleman, assignee of Oconto county," had deposited certificates of sale showing that five parcels, each of which sold for so much, were sold "to the said Oconto county, and by its treasurer assigned to S. A. Coleman," for so much "in the whole," the total being the sum of the five several sums. Gen. Laws Wis. 1859, c. 50, § 22, prescribed a form of deed, and provided that it should be "substantially" in that or "other equivalent form," showing that the land was sold for a sum named "in the whole." Held*, that the deed followed the form substantially.—Geekie v. Kirby Carpenter Co., 106 U. S. 379, 1 S. Ct. 315, 27 L. Ed. 157.

◀764. Description of property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1519-1522.

Where there is a departure in the description in a tax deed from that contained in the assessment roll and prior tax proceedings, the prior description, if imperfect and insufficient, avoids the deed, though the description in the latter may be sufficient and complete.—Stout v. Mastin, 139 U. S. 151, 11 S. Ct. 519, 35 L. Ed. 121.

A tax deed which correctly describes a lot in Kansas City, Kan., as lot 246, Armstrong "street," is invalid, where the assessment roll erroneously describes it as lot 246, Armstrong "block"; and the defect is not cured by showing a custom in Kansas City, Kan., to describe lots by their number and street, unless it is further shown that there is no block in such city known as "Armstrong Block."—Id.

◀765. Execution.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1523-1537.

Under Act Neb. 1861, relating to tax deeds, providing that "such conveyance shall be executed by the county treasurer, under his hand and seal," a tax deed not executed by the treasurer under his seal of office is void.—Deputron v. Young, 134 U. S. 241, 10 S. Ct. 539, 33 L. Ed. 923, affirming Young v. De Putron (C. C.) 37 F. 46.

◀768. Recording and registration.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1531, 1532.

The fact that in the general index of deeds the entries in regard to a tax deed are so crowded that the figures relating to the description do not fall in the proper column is not sufficient to invalidate the record, there being nothing sufficient to actually mislead an ordinarily prudent man.—Bardon v. Land & River Imp. Co., 157 U. S. 327, 15 S. Ct. 650, 39 L. Ed. 719, affirming decree, Land & River Imp. Co. v. Bardon (C. C.) 45 F. 706.

The fact that a tax deed running in the name of the state and county as grantors is indexed in the general index to the county records in the name of the county only is no ground, under the Wisconsin laws, for holding that the deed is void as against a purchaser from the original owner, it appearing that the deed itself was correctly spread upon the record book.—Id.

◀777. Estate or interest created.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1546-1550.

◀781. — Transfer of interest of person assessed.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1549.

Under the tax law of Iowa, there is no privity between one holding a tax title to land and the holder of the fee.—Hussman v. Durham, 17 S. Ct. 253, 165 U. S. 144, 41 L. Ed. 664.

◀787. Effect as evidence.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1555-1559.

◀788. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1555, 1557, 1559-1563.

To prove tax deeds void, parol evidence that certain sums illegally paid out by the county were paid at a time when they must have come from the tax levy for which such deeds were made, is admissible.—Culbertson v. H. Witbeck Co., 127 U. S. 326, 8 S. Ct. 1136, 32 L. Ed. 134.

A record of county board proceedings showed a resolution that a sum for an illegal purpose be paid out in orders on the county treasurer, immediately followed by another that a tax be raised for the contingent fund to defray general expenses. Oral testimony showed that such sum was actually paid, and other records established the fact that taxes were levied for similar purposes afterwards. Held, sufficient proof that the sum voted was paid out of the levy resolved on, and that the levy and tax titles founded on it were consequently invalid under the Michigan law.—Id.

Under the statutes of Illinois a tax deed is only prima facie evidence in favor of the purchaser, and may be shown to be invalid by proof either that there was no advertisement of sale, no judgment or precept on which the land could have been sold, no taxes unpaid, or no notice to redeem given or recorded.—Gage v. Kaufman, 133 U. S. 471, 10 S. Ct. 406, 33 L. Ed. 725.

Mansf. Dig. Ark. § 4246, providing that tax deeds issued by the state land commissioner shall be under his hand and seal, and shall convey all the title of the state, and that such deeds shall be received as evidence in any court in the state, merely makes them prima facie evidence of title, and does not prevent a person from showing that he has been deprived of substantial rights with respect to the land by reason of the failure of the officers of the state to observe requirements of law in respect to tax proceedings relative thereto.—Martin v. Barbour, 140 U. S. 634, 11 S. Ct. 944, 35 L. Ed. 546, affirming decree (C. C.) 34 F. 701.

Mansf. Dig. Ark. § 5782, stating the facts necessary to be proved in order to defeat the title conveyed by a tax deed, relates exclusively to deeds executed by the "clerk of the county court," and does not embrace deeds made by the commissioner of state lands.—Id.

Under Rev. St. Ill. c. 120, § 216, providing that no purchaser of lands at a sale for taxes or special assessments shall be entitled to deeds until he has served the owner, occupant, and persons interested with a notice showing, among other things, for what year the lands were "taxed or specially assessed," a notice stating that the sale was for taxes "and" special assessments for a given year is defective, because it does not show for which the sale was made; and this defect is not cured by the provision of section 224 that deeds executed by the county clerk shall be prima facie evidence that the land was sold "for taxes or special assessments, as stated in the deed," and that "the sale was conducted in the manner required by law."—Gage v. Bani, 141 U. S. 344, 12 S. Ct. 22, 35 L. Ed. 776.

Notice to the owner of the sale of property for delinquent taxes is essential to the validity of the proceedings, and the legislature has no power to declare the tax deed conclusive evidence of such notice; and hence act Or. Feb. 21, 1887 (2 Hill's Ann. Laws, p. 1309), which makes such deed only prima facie evidence of the regularity of all proceedings in the matter, cannot be held to impair any vested rights acquired under Gen. Laws Or. (Ed. 1874) p. 767, § 90, which precluded attacks on tax deeds for failure to give notice of the sale.—Marx v. Hanthorn, 148 U. S. 172, 13 S. Ct. 508, 37 L. Ed. 410, affirming judgment (C. C.) 30 F. 579.

Laws N. Y. 1885, c. 448, making tax deeds which had been on record for two years prior to the passage of the act conclusive evidence of the regularity of the sale and all proceedings prior thereto, if not assailed by direct proceeding within six months after the taking effect of the law, is, according to its principal intent and effect, a statute of limitations, and is not repugnant to any provision of the Constitution of the United States.—Turner v. People of State of New York, 13 S. Ct. 38, 168 U. S. 90, 42 L. Ed. 392, affirming judgment People v. Turner, 40 N. E. 400, 145 N. Y. 451.

(C) ACTIONS TO CONFIRM OR TRY TITLE.

Conclusion in pleadings, see Pleading, 678.

6793. Right of action to confirm or quiet tax title.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1575.

The Wisconsin statute giving the grantee in a tax deed a right within three years after its date to commence an action against the owner or any person claiming under him for the purpose of barring such owner or his grantees from all right, title, or interest in the land (Rev. St. Wis. 1878, p. 383, c. 50), is not exclusive, and was not intended to contract the jurisdiction and practice in equity in respect of bills to quiet title, or to exclude the general remedy given by Rev. St. § 3186, in favor of persons having legal title and actual possession, though that legal title depended on a tax deed.—Bardon v. Land & River Imp. Co., 157 U. S. 327, 15 S. Ct. 650, 39 L. Ed. 719, affirming decree (C. C.) Land & River Imp. Co. v. Bardon, 45 F. 706.

6796. Right to attack tax title in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1578-1581.

The fact that a complaint in a bill to obtain the sale of land for taxes under Laws Ark. 1881, p. 64, is brought in the name of the state, does not estop the state to subsequently convey the land under another sale for taxes, where there was no copy of the order to show cause in the equity suit served on defendant, and no publication as required by statute and the sale thereunder was therefore void.—Dick v. Foraker, 155 U. S. 404, 15 S. Ct. 124, 39 L. Ed. 201.

6799. Right of action to remove cloud on title by tax sale or deed.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1584, 1585.

Though a tax deed be void for illegality in the proceedings, equity will give relief on bill to remove a cloud from title, particularly where the illegality does not appear wholly on the face of the records.—Lyon v. Alley, 130 U. S. 177, 9 S. Ct. 480, 32 L. Ed. 899.

As a tax deed in the form prescribed by statute, though invalid, appears on its face to be a cloud on the title of the owner of the land, a bill in equity is the proper mode of obtaining relief therefrom.—Gage v. Kaufman, 133 U. S. 471, 10 S. Ct. 406, 33 L. Ed. 725.

6800. Tender or deposit of amount of taxes or purchase money as condition precedent to attack on tax title.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1586.

Where a bill to remove clouds from title alleges that defendant claims title to the land under tax deeds executed when in fact there were no taxes due and unpaid for which the land could have been sold, plaintiff need not offer to pay any taxes, as a condition of relief.—Gage v. Kaufman, 133 U. S. 471, 10 S. Ct. 406, 33 L. Ed. 725.

Const. La. art. 210, declaring that tax titles are prima facie valid, and cannot be set aside without a previous tender to the purchaser of the price and 10 per cent. interest thereon, does not apply where suit is brought to enforce the lien of a mortgage as against a tax title alleged to have been acquired after execution of the mortgage by the mortgagor's brother in collusion with the mortgagor.—Mendenhall v. Hall, 134 U. S. 559, 10 S. Ct. 616, 33 L. Ed. 1012.

6802. Time to sue, limitations, and laches.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1582-1597.

6803. — In general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1588-1590.

Mansf. Dig. § 5791, providing that all actions to test the validity of any proceeding in the appraisal, assessment, or levy of taxes, or to avoid a tax sale for irregularity or neglect of any kind, by any officer having anything to perform under the tax act, shall be commenced within two years, does not prevent the owner's showing irregularities which deprived him of a substantial right, and were actually prejudicial.

cial to him.—Martin v. Barbour, 140 U. S. 634, 11 S. Ct. 944, 35 L. Ed. 546, affirming decree (C. C.) 34 F. 701.

The fact that one suing to recover under a tax deed introduces, in support of his general equities or by way of rebuttal, certain evidence, which discloses formal defects in the tax proceedings, does not operate as a waiver of his right to rely on the statute of limitations.—Bardon v. Land & River Imp. Co., 157 U. S. 327, 15 S. Ct. 650, 39 L. Ed. 719, affirming decree (C. C.) Land & River Imp. Co. v. Bardon, 45 F. 706.

—805. — Actions against claimant under tax title.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1593-1597.

Gen. Laws Wis. 1861, c. 138, § 5, provides that no action will lie in behalf of the former owner of land sold for taxes to recover possession thereof unless commenced within three years after the recording of the deed. Id. § 6, provides that this limitation shall not apply where the taxes have been paid, where the land was redeemed, or where the land was not liable to taxation. Held, that a sale for taxes is within the limitation, and the right of the former owner is barred notwithstanding the fact that in the sum for which the land was sold was included five cents for a United States revenue stamp to be put on the certificate of sale issued to the purchaser.—Geekie v. Kirby Carpenter Co., 106 U. S. 379, 1 S. Ct. 315, 27 L. Ed. 157.

The statute providing that suits to recover lands sold for taxes shall not be brought later than one year from the recording of the tax deed is not available in favor of a purchaser whose deed is void because the description therein varies materially from that of the assessment roll.—Bird v. Benliss, 142 U. S. 664, 12 S. Ct. 323, 35 L. Ed. 1151.

In Wisconsin, when a tax deed is in due form, and recorded in the proper office, and the lands described therein remain vacant and unoccupied for three years or more after the recording thereof, the tax title claimant is deemed to be in the constructive possession, the statute of limitations runs in his favor, and the original owner is barred from attacking the validity of the deed, except on the ground of want of power to levy and sell, lack of jurisdiction in taxing officers, or the like.—Bardon v. Land & River Imp. Co., 157 U. S. 327, 15 S. Ct. 650, 39 L. Ed. 719, affirming decree (C. C.) Land & River Imp. Co. v. Bardon, 45 F. 706.

Any defects or irregularities in the proceedings by which a tax title to land is acquired—such as the sale for aggregate unpaid taxes of several years on a tract which had been assessed in separate parcels, or part of which had in some years not been assessed at all, and the failure to publish a proper notice of redemption—will not affect the validity of the tax title under Laws N. Y. 1885, c. 448, after the expiration of the two years thereby prescribed, even if some of the defects are to be deemed jurisdictional, since the statute is not merely a curative one, but is a statute of limitations. Judgment (C. C.) 83 F. 436, affirmed.—Saranac Land & Timber Co. v. Roberts, 20 S. Ct. 642, 177 U. S. 318, 44 L. Ed. 786.

(D) RIGHTS AND REMEDIES OF PURCHASER OF INVALID TITLE.

—821. Refunding or recovery of purchase money from state, county, or other municipality.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1621-1629.

Pol. Code Dak. c. 28, § 40, provides that the county commissioners shall attach their warrant to the tax list, requiring the treasurer to collect the taxes therein levied according to law; and section 62 requires the treasurer to sell all lands "which shall be liable for taxes of any description for the preceding year or years." Held that, in selling lands for taxes, the treasurer acts in a purely ministerial capacity, and is bound to sell all lands which the commissioners' warrant shows to be liable for taxes overdue; and hence, when he sells railroad grant lands contained therein, and regularly listed to private persons, but which, in fact, are not liable to taxation, because the railroad company has not paid the cost of the government survey, such sale is not "by mistake or wrongful act of the treasurer," within the meaning of section 78, which makes the county liable to refund money received at such wrongful sale, and gives it a remedy over against the treasurer and his bondsmen.—Stutsman County v. Wallace, 142 U. S. 293, 12 S. Ct. 227, 35 L. Ed. 1018.

The requirement of Pol. Code Dak. c. 28, § 62, that the treasurer shall sell all lands "which shall be liable for taxes," does not make his position like that of a sheriff who is commanded to sell the property of a debtor on execution, since the treasurer's warrant requires him to sell the specific property against which the tax is levied.—Id.

The original provision, as enacted in Comp. Laws Dak. 1862, required the treasurer to "sell all lands on which taxes of any description for the preceding year or years shall have been delinquent and remain due." In Pol. Code Dak. 1877, c. 28, § 62, this language was changed so as to require him to sell "all lands, town lots, or other real property which shall be liable for taxes of any description for the preceding year or years which shall remain due and unpaid," and the words were added, "and no taxable property shall be exempt from levy and sale for taxes." Held that, as the Code of 1877 introduced into the tax laws the new provision (chapter 28, § 56) that taxes due upon personal property should constitute a lien upon the owner's realty, the change in section 62 was made in order to give effect thereto, and did not indicate a legislative intent to cast upon the treasurer the duty of determining what lands were taxable.—Id.

XII. FORFEITURES AND PENALTIES.

Appellate jurisdiction of action for assessment and taxation of land to avoid forfeiture, see Courts, —894(25).

Due process of law, see Constitutional Law, —199, 284, 308.

Equal protection of laws, see Constitutional Law, —229.

Ex post facto law, see Constitutional Law, —199.

Forfeiture of land titles for failure to list for taxation as violation of compact between states, see States, —6.

Review of decisions of state courts as to forfeiture for nonpayment of taxes, see Courts, —385(7).

—835. Nature and power to impose.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1650.

It is within the discretion of the legislature to determine the amount of a penalty to be imposed by statute for the nonpayment of taxes.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. State of Indiana, 17 S. Ct. 345, 165 U. S. 304, 41 L. Ed. 725.

—840. Penalties for nonpayment of tax in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1656.

Interest on unpaid taxes prior to a decree establishing liability therefor, in an action to collect such taxes, is properly refused where the assessment was made in gross upon 60.7

miles of railroad, only 55 miles of which were subject to taxation, since under such circumstances the owners were justified in contesting their liability to such assessment and taxation in gross, and, until there was an identification of the property subject to taxation and a determination of the amount of taxes due, it would have been inequitable to charge penalties for nonpayment. Decree 62 P. 987, 10 N. M. 416, affirmed.—United States Trust Co. v. Territory of New Mexico, 22 S. Ct. 172, 183 U. S. 535, 46 L. Ed. 315.

845. Actions for penalties.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1660, 1661.

The penalty of 25 per cent. imposed by Comp. Laws N. M. 1897, § 4035, upon any person who fails to render a true list of his property for taxation, will not be enforced in a proceeding to establish a lien for unpaid taxes, where no such penalty is claimed in the petition. Decree 62 P. 987, 10 N. M. 416, affirmed.—United States Trust Co. v. Territory of New Mexico, 22 S. Ct. 172, 183 U. S. 535, 46 L. Ed. 315.

846. Forfeiture of land delinquent.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1662-1672.

853. — Redemption.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1670.

Act Va. June 2, 1788, provided that, in view of the facts that sundry surveys had been made in the commonwealth, which included within their general courses smaller tracts of prior claimants, grants of such larger tracts shall reserve and exclude from their operation the smaller tracts of prior claimants included therein. Held, that the grantees do not have any "title or claim to" the reserved tracts, "legal or equitable, held or derived under any grant of the commonwealth," within the meaning of Acts Va. 1841-42, c. 13, p. 19, which allows persons having such title or claim to redeem land forfeited to the commonwealth for nonpayment of taxes, and hence they cannot so redeem.—Halsted v. Buster, 140 U. S. 273, 11 S. Ct. 782, 35 L. Ed. 484.

A decree in proceedings to redeem land alleged to have been forfeited to the state for failure to pay taxes under Code W. Va., c. 105, relating to the sale and redemption of lands vested in the state by forfeiture or purchase at sales for delinquent taxes, will not bind the true owner not made a party thereto, and having no notice thereof, and such proceeding and the deeds made thereunder will be set aside as a cloud on his title.—Simmons Creek Coal Co. v. Doran, 142 U. S. 417, 12 S. Ct. 239, 35 L. Ed. 1063.

Under the act of West Virginia of November 18, 1873, relating to sales by the state of lands forfeited or purchased at tax sales for the benefit of the school fund, the heirs of the former owner are entitled to redeem at any time before the sale, although the statute in terms gives the right of redemption only to the "former owner" or an incumbrancer.—Rich v. Braxton, 158 U. S. 375, 15 S. Ct. 1006, 39 L. Ed. 1022, affirming decree Braxton v. Rich (C. C.) 47 F. 178.

Privileges and immunities of citizens, see Constitutional Law, 8206, 207.

856. Nature and power to impose.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1673.

The so-called "inheritance tax" of the state of New York, being, in reality, a limitation on the power of a testator to bequeath his property, and not a tax on the property itself, may legally be imposed in the case of a legacy to the United States.—United States v. Perkins, 163 U. S. 625, 16 S. Ct. 1073, 41 L. Ed. 287, affirming judgment in re Merriam's Estate, 141 N. Y. 479, 36 N. E. 505.

The right of an individual citizen and resident of the state to direct the descent of his property by will or permit its descent to be regulated by the statute, as well as the right to receive the property of his testator or ancestor as legatee, devisee, or heir, is derived from and regulated by the state. Judgment, in re Plummer (Sur.) 62 N. Y. S. 1024, 30 Misc. Rep. 19, affirmed.—Plummer v. Coler, 20 S. Ct. 829, 178 U. S. 115, 44 L. Ed. 998.

857. Statutory provisions.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1674-1677.

859. — Constitutionality.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. § 1674.

The impairment of the borrowing power of the government as the remote effect of a state statute imposing a tax upon the transfer of a decedent's property, when the statute is applied to property consisting of United States bonds, is not sufficient to render such statute unconstitutional. Judgment, in re Plummer (Sur.) 62 N. Y. S. 1024, 30 Misc. Rep. 19, affirmed.—Plummer v. Coler, 20 S. Ct. 829, 178 U. S. 115, 44 L. Ed. 998.

Laws N. Y. 1896, c. 908, authorizing the imposition of a tax when property is transferred by deed, intended to take effect upon the death of the grantor, is not unconstitutional.—(1912) Keeney v. Comptroller of State of New York, 32 S. Ct. 105, 222 U. S. 525, 56 L. Ed. 299, 38 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1139, affirming judgment (1909) in re Keeney's Estate, 87 N. E. 428, 194 N. Y. 281.

Prohibiting a safe deposit company from permitting the removal of the contents of a safe deposit box after the death of the renter without retaining assets sufficient to pay the inheritance tax, as is done by Act Ill. July 1, 1909 (Laws 1909, p. 316) § 9, held constitutional.—National Safe Deposit Co. v. Stead, 34 S. Ct. 209, 232 U. S. 53, 58 L. Ed. 504, affirming judgment 95 N. E. 973, 250 Ill. 584, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 430.

The imposition of an inheritance tax by the domicile state on a fund kept in trust in a foreign state, over which the creator of the trust reserves absolute control and takes to himself the whole income, held not a violation of any constitutional guaranty.—Bullen v. State of Wisconsin, 36 S. Ct. 473, 240 U. S. 625, 60 L. Ed. 830, affirming judgment in re Bullen's Estate, 128 N. W. 109, 143 Wis. 512, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1114.

867. — Property of nonresidents or aliens.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1681-1684.

A state may tax the transfer, under the will of a nonresident, of debts due the decedent by its citizens. Decree, in re Blackstone's Estate, 64 N. E. 1118, 171 N. Y. 682, affirmed.—Blackstone v. Miller, 23 S. Ct. 277, 188 U. S. 189, 47 L. Ed. 439.

The beneficiaries under the will of a nonresident cannot invoke the federal constitution to prevent the taxation, under the New York inheritance tax law, of the transfer, under such will, of debts due the decedent by its citizens because the entire inheritance is taxable in the state of the decedent's domicile.—Id.

⚡868. — Situs of property.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1685-1687.

The transfer tax authorized by Laws N. Y. 1896, c. 908, when personal property is transferred by a resident of the state by deed intended to take effect at her death, may validly be imposed, although, at the time of the grantor's death, when the payment of the tax is required, the property is in another state, in the hands of a trustee holding the title and possession by virtue of such deed.—(1912) Keeney v. Comptroller of State of New York, 32 S. Ct. 106, 222 U. S. 525, 56 L. Ed. 299, 38 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1139, affirming judgment (1909) In re Keeney's Estate, 87 N. E. 428, 194 N. Y. 281.

⚡871. Exemptions.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1689-1699.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tax. §§ 1693-1699.

Laws N. Y. 1892, c. 399, imposing a tax on the transfer of property to corporations "not exempt by law from taxation," requires the imposition of the tax in the case of a legacy to the United States; the legislative intention being to allow exemption only in favor of corporations of the state, of a religious, educational, charitable, or reformatory purpose.—United States v. Perkins, 163 U. S. 625, 16 S. Ct. 1073, 41 L. Ed. 287, affirming judgment In re Merriam's Estate, 141 N. Y. 479, 36 N. E. 505.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. § 6; 36 Cent. Dig. Mun. Corp. § 1487.

Rev. St. tit. 65, §§ 5263–5268 (14 Stat. 221, c. 230), giving telegraph companies the right to construct and maintain telegraph lines over the public domain and along military or post roads of the United States, have no application to telephone companies, whose business is that of electrically transmitting articulate speech between different points.—City of Richmond v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co., 19 S. Ct. 778, 174 U. S. 761, 43 L. Ed. 1162, affirming decree 85 F. 19, 28 C. C. A. 659.

Rights of a telegraph company accepting provisions of Act July 24, 1866, to construct lines over post roads such as the streets of Richmond, Va., are subject to reasonable municipal regulations.—(1912) Western Union Tel. Co. v. City of Richmond, 32 S. Ct. 449, 224 U. S. 160, 56 L. Ed. 710, affirming decree (C. C. 1909) 178 F. 310.

Municipal power to make reasonable regulations as to occupancy of city streets by telegraph company under provisions of Act July 24, 1866, is not exceeded by an ordinance leaving to the determination of the city engineer and other officials the manner of regulation and the safety of the equipment.—Id.

Limiting, by ordinance, privilege of telegraph company as to conduits to 15 years, and providing for imposition of conditions at that time or order for removal, is not an attempt to make telegraph company contract itself out of the benefit of Act July 24, 1866.—Id.

Right to use city streets for telephone purposes under a charter giving telephone company, with consent of city council, right to construct telephone system in Louisville, Ky., was not made subject to municipal revocation by Const. Ky. §§ 156, 163, 164, 199, or Ky. St. §§ 2742, 2783, 2825, giving municipalities right to grant street franchises, or by Ky. St. § 573, enacted under the reserve power, repealing all special corporate privileges; the Constitution, while limiting the future power to sell street franchises, protecting the interests of public utility corporations whose charters had been theretofore granted conferring such rights, where work had begun thereunder.—City of Louisville v. Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co., 32 S. Ct. 572, 224 U. S. 649, 56 L. Ed. 934.

Right to use city streets for telephone purposes, given under perpetual charter of a telephone company, and to construct a telephone system in Louisville, Ky., was not revocable by the city, and did not expire when, by Ky. St. § 2742, Louisville was made a city of the first class.—Id.

An ordinance granting a right to maintain on city streets the poles of an incorporated telephone company is the grant of a property right, which is assignable, taxable, and alienable.—City of Owensboro v. Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co., 33 S. Ct. 988, 230 U. S. 58, 57 L. Ed. 1389.

The grant by ordinance to an incorporated telephone company, its successors and assigns, of the right to occupy the streets with its poles for the conduct of a public telephone business, is a grant of property right in perpetuity, unless limited by the grant or by some limitation imposed by the state, or the corporate powers of the city making the grant.—Id.

A municipal grant to an incorporated telephone company, its successors and assigns of the right to maintain its poles in the streets is not limited in duration to the corporate life of the grantee.—Id.

Telegraph company accepting provisions of Act July 24, 1866, is protected thereby from interference by a town which for 20 years acquiesced in the operation of its line, though the company was never granted formal permit, under Pub. St. Mass. 1882, c. 109, § 3.—Town of Essex v. New England Tel. Co. of Massachusetts, 36 S. Ct. 102, 239 U. S. 313, 60 L. Ed. 301, modifying decree (D. C.) New England Telegraph Co. of Massachusetts v. Town of Essex, 206 F. 926.

¶11. Rights in and use of railroad rights of way.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. § 7.

Railway rights of way are not made public property by charter provisions declaring the railways "public highways," so as to subject such rights of way to occupation by telegraph companies without the consent of the railway company, under Act July 24, 1866, c. 230, 14 Stat. 221 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3579], giving telegraph companies the right to construct, maintain, and operate telegraph lines through and over the public domain, and "over and along any of the military or post roads of the United States." Decree 123 F. 33, 59 C. C. A. 113, affirmed.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 133, 195 U. S. 540, 49 L. Ed. 312, 1 Ann. Cas. 517.

Railways are not "highways" within the meaning of a provision in the charter of a telegraph company giving it the right to occupy with its telegraph lines any of the roads, highways, streets, and waters within the state. Judgment 123 F. 33; 59 C. C. A. 113, affirmed.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 150, 195 U. S. 594, 49 L. Ed. 332, 1 Ann. Cas. 533.

◀14. Construction and maintenance.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. § 3.

Act July 1, 1862, authorizing the Union Pacific Railroad Company to construct and maintain a railroad and telegraph line, and granting it public lands, subject to a condition that the company should keep said railroad and telegraph line in repair and use, and at all times transmit dispatches over said telegraph line, made it imperative on the company to construct and operate a telegraph line as well as a railroad.—United States v. Union Pac. Ry. Co., 160 U. S. 1, 16 S. Ct. 190, 40 L. Ed. 319, reversing decree Union Pac. R. Co. v. United States, 59 F. 818, 8 C. C. A. 282.

The requirement that the company construct a telegraph line was not affected by Act July 2, 1864, c. 216, authorizing the Union Pacific Railroad Company, and other companies authorized to participate in the construction of roads from the Missouri river to the Pacific Ocean, to mortgage their respective railroads and telegraph lines, and requiring them to use their roads and telegraph as one continuous line.—Id.

Though the acts of 1862 and 1864 permitted the railroad company to make an "arrangement" with certain telegraph companies to place their lines upon and along the route of the railroad and its branches, such transfer to be deemed a fulfillment by the railroad companies of the provisions "in regard to the construction of said lines of telegraph," the making of such an "arrangement" did not affect the authority of congress, under its reserved power, to require the railroad company itself to maintain or operate in the future, by its officers and employees alone, telegraph lines on its main road and branches.—Id.

◀16. Sales, leases, and contracts and combinations between companies.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. § 10.

The agreement dated October 1, 1866, between the Union Pacific Railway Company, Eastern Division, and the Western Union Telegraph Company, in effect giving to the latter company the exclusive control of all telegraphic business on the route of the railway company, was in violation of Act July 24, 1866, giving every telegraph company organized under state laws, and accepting its provisions, the right to erect its poles and wires upon the post roads of the United States.—United States v. Union Pac. R. Co., 160 U. S. 1, 16 S. Ct. 190, 40 L. Ed. 319, reversing decree Union Pac. R. Co. v. United States, 59 F. 813, 8 C. C. A. 282.

The agreement dated July 1, 1881, between the Union Pacific Railroad Company and the Western Union Telegraph Company, was illegal, as in effect transferring to the latter company the telegraphic franchise granted the former by the United States, and as assuming to give to the latter company the exclusive commercial use of the wires of the railroad company.—Id.

Such agreement was not authorized by Act July 2, 1864, permitting an arrangement between the Union Pacific Railway Company and the United States Telegraph Company, to the rights and powers of which the Western Union Telegraph Company succeeded, whereby the line of the telegraph company might be transferred to the railway route.—Id.

The agreements dated September 1, 1869, and December 14, 1871, by which the Union Pacific Railroad Company leased to the Atlantic & Pacific Telegraph Company all the telegraph lines and telegraph property belonging to the former, were invalid, as attempting a transfer of its franchise to operate a telegraph line, and to collect tolls for the use thereof.—Id.

◀17. Indebtedness, securities, liens, and mortgages.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. § 11.

Where one who puts up telegraph wires on poles for a telegraph company has attempted to secure a statutory lien by filing notice thereof, his surrender of the possession of the realty of the corporation, under a written agreement that his lien shall not be interfered with thereby, is a waiver of his right to a common-law lien on such realty, as such agreement refers to his statutory lien.—Vane v. Newcombe, 132 U. S. 220, 10 S. Ct. 60, 33 L. Ed. 310, affirming (C. C.) Bankers' & Merchants' Tel. Co. of Indiana v. Bankers' & Merchants' Tel. Co. of New York, 27 F. 536.

One who puts up wires on poles for a telegraph company, by perfecting his claim for a lien under the statute, waives his right to a common-law lien on the personalty of the corporation.—Id.

One who puts up telegraph wires on poles for a telegraph company does not have a lien under Act Ind. March 6, 1883 (Laws Ind. 1883, p. 140), giving a lien for performing labor in erecting any structure on land, section 3 of which act requires a "substantial description" of the lot or land on which the structure is erected to be given in the notice of such lien filed, where his notice simply claims a lien on the property of the telegraph company in a designated county.—Id.

◀22. Reorganization and consolidation of companies.

The right to use city streets for telephone purposes, possessed by a telephone company under its charter, passed to the new corporation formed by consolidation under Ky. St. § 558.—City of Louisville v. Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co., 32 S. Ct. 572, 224 U. S. 649, 56 L. Ed. 834.

The street rights of the constituent telephone companies consolidated under Act Ky. April 5, 1893 (Laws 1893, c. 171), passed to the consolidated company by the provision vesting such company with all the property and effects of the constituent corporations without deed or transfer, and binding it for all their contracts and liabilities.—City of Owensboro v. Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co., 33 S. Ct. 988, 230 U. S. 58, 57 L. Ed. 1389.

¶29. Statutory and municipal regulations in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. § 15.

The act of 1862 showing an intention on the part of congress that the railroad companies accepting national aid thereunder should exercise the franchises granted thereby through their own officers and employees exclusively, and there being an express reservation of the power of adding to, altering, amending, or repealing the act, "having due regard for the rights of the companies named therein," congress had full power, as against the Union Pacific Railway Company, to pass Act Aug. 7, 1888, c. 772, 25 Stat. 382 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3583], requiring railroad and telegraph companies accepting national aid to operate their telegraph lines by themselves alone.—United States v. Union Pac. R. Co., 160 U. S. 1, 16 S. Ct. 190, 40 L. Ed. 319, reversing decree (C. C.) Union Pac. R. Co. v. United States, 59 F. 813, 8 C. C. A. 282.

¶33. Charges.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. § 21; 10 Cent. Dig. Const. Law, § 347.

Acts Cong. July 1, 1862, July 2, 1864, and May 7, 1878 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3567], entitled the government to retain and apply on the debt due it by the Union Pacific Railroad Company all sums due for services rendered in its behalf by such company. The railroad company constructed and owned a telegraph line along its road, as did the Western Union Telegraph Company, and by agreement the wires of the railroad company were operated and used by the telegraph company. Held, that the government could not recover sums paid by it on account of government messages delivered to the telegraph company for transmission, on the ground that they in part passed over the wires of the railroad company, there being no evidence that any part of them were sent over such wires rather than over the wires of the telegraph company, nor any requirement in that regard.—United States v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 160 U. S. 53, 16 S. Ct. 210, 40 L. Ed. 337.

Rentals received by a telephone company from private telephone systems installed by it must, together with the expenses thereof, be excluded from consideration in inquiring into the reasonableness of the rates which telephone companies doing business in the District of Columbia are prohibited from exceeding by a provision in the District appropriation act of June 30, 1898 (30 Stat. 525, 538, c. 540). Decree, Manning v. Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co., 18 App. D. C. 191, reversed.—Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co. v. Manning, 22 S. Ct. 881, 186 U. S. 238, 46 L. Ed. 1144.

The prohibition against charging or receiving "more than $50 per annum for the use of a telephone on a separate wire," which is made by the District appropriation act of June 30, 1898 (30 Stat. 525, 538, c. 540), does not require a telephone company to furnish at that rate such additional equipment as wall cabinet and desk, auxiliary bells, etc., for which separate charges had theretofore been made.—Id.

Municipal authority to enter into a contract fixing unalterably, during the term of the franchise, charges for telephone service, and disabling itself from exercising the charter power of regulation, must, at the very least, necessarily be implied from the controlling statutes, even if it be conceded that anything less than a clear and affirmative legislative expression is a sufficient foundation upon which to rest an authority of this nature. Decree (C. C. 1907) 155 Fed. 554, affirmed.—Home Telephone & Telegraph Co. v. City of Los Angeles, 29 S. Ct. 50, 211 U. S. 265, 53 L. Ed. 176.

Charter authority to regulate telephone service and to fix and determine the charges therefor does not empower a municipality to enter into a contract fixing unalterably, during the terms of the franchise, the charges for such service, and disabling itself from exercising the power of regulation.—Id.

Municipal authority to contract away the charter power to regulate telephone rates cannot be gathered from the provisions of Act March 11, 1901 (St. Cal. 1901, p. 285, c. 103), under which the telephone company obtained its franchise from the city, that application for a franchise must be filed, and, in the discretion of the council, published; that the city is entitled to a percentage of the receipts; that the grantee must give bond to perform every term and condition of the franchise; that no condition shall be inserted which restricts competition, or favors one person against another; and that the franchise must be sold to the highest bidder, especially since the first section of the act provides that franchises "shall be granted upon the conditions in this act provided, and not otherwise."—Id.

No valid objection to intrusting a municipal council with the power to regulate telephone rates can be based upon the theory that the council is not an impartial tribunal because it is, in effect, made a judge in its own case, or that the judgment and sense of justice of the councilmen will be distorted by their dependence upon the will of the people which results from a provision in the city charter empowering 25 per cent. of the electors to recall a member of the council and require him again to stand for election.—Id.

The presumption in favor of the correctness of telephone rates established by a state commission obtains, although the data upon which the commission acted may have been insufficient, so long as the rates adopted were not based entirely upon arbitrary conjecture. Decree (C. C. 1907) Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co. v. Railroad Commission of Louisiana, 156 F. 823, reversed.—Railroad Commission of Louisiana v. Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co., 29 S. Ct. 357, 212 U. S. 414, 53 L. Ed. 577.

The burden of showing what part, if any, of the depreciation fund accumulated by a telephone company from its receipts, was added to the capital, upon which dividends are to be paid, rests upon the company seeking to enjoin, as confiscatory and unreasonable, the enforcement of rates established by a state commission.—Id.

No part of the depreciation fund can be added to the capital, upon which the company is entitled to a fair return from rates established by a state commission.—Id.

Enforcement of municipal ordinance fixing telephone rates should not be enjoined as confiscatory before giving the ordinance a trial to show its actual effect.—City of Louisville v. Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Co., 32 S. Ct. 741, 225 U. S. 430, 56 L. Ed. 1151.

¶54. Limitation of liability.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. § 39-47.

Stipulations, forming part of the terms under which messages are sent by a telegraph company, that it will not be liable in any case for errors in cipher or obscure messages, and that no employé of the company is authorized to vary this restriction, are not unreasonable or against public policy.—Primrose v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 154 U. S. 1, 14 S. Ct. 1098, 38 L. Ed. 883.

A regulation of a telegraph company requiring the sender of a message to have it repeated, at an additional charge of one-half the regular rate, in order to hold the company liable for mistakes or delays in transmitting or delivering, or for not delivering, the message, whether happening by negligence of its servants or otherwise, is reasonable and valid.—Id.

Where a message is written by the sender on a telegraph company's blank having on its face, above the message and below the signature, brief and clear notices that the message is to be sent subject to terms printed on the back of the blank limiting the company's liability, such terms, so far as not inconsistent with law, form part of the contract between him and the company under which the message is transmitted, although he testifies that he does not remember reading them.—Id.

⚡58. Actions for damages.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. §§ 43-72.

⚡67. — Grounds and elements of compensatory damages in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Tel. & T. §§ 64-68.

Plaintiff sued for damages for delaying delivery of a message instructing the addressee to buy for plaintiff 10,000 barrels of petroleum, the market price of which, when the message ought to have been delivered, was $1.17 per barrel, but when received by addressee had advanced to $1.35 per barrel. The addressee did not purchase. Held, that the plaintiff could recover only nominal damages.—Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Hall, 124 U. S. 444, 8 S. Ct. 577, 31 L. Ed. 479.

A telegraph company is not liable to the sender of a message for losses on purchases of wool caused by a mistake in transmitting it, where it was in cipher, wholly unintelligible to the company and its agents, and they were not informed of the nature, importance, or extent of the transaction to which it related, or of the probable consequences, if it were transmitted incorrectly, although they knew that the sender was a wool merchant, and that the person addressed was in his employ.—Primrose v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 154 U. S. 1, 14 S. Ct. 1098, 38 L. Ed. 883.

19. Purchase of outstanding title or claim.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Ten. in C. §§ 55-59.

A tenant in common may purchase the common property at public sale under a power in a trust deed, if he takes no unfair advantage of his co-owners. Decree (1906) 27 App. D. C. 348, affirmed.—Starkweather v. Jenner, 30 S. Ct. 382, 216 U. S. 524, 54 L. Ed. 602, 17 Ann. Cas. 1187.

An agreement between tenants in common to buy in jointly the common property at a public sale under a power in a deed of trust is not a fraud upon the rights of the remaining co-tenants, if there is no resort to any artifice to deter others from bidding.—Id.

24. Trees and timber.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Ten. in C. §§ 65, 66.

Where plaintiff, who had an agreement for the purchase of an undivided interest in land to be conveyed to him upon payment therefor, but which gave him no right to cut timber without the consent of the owners of the remaining interest, nevertheless proceeds to cut and remove the timber, he cannot maintain an action of replevin against such co-tenants who have seized and hold the timber.—Bohlen v. Arthurs, 115 U. S. 482, 6 S. Ct. 114, 29 L. Ed. 454.

Where a purchaser at execution sale of timber land acquires only an undivided one-third of the land, but takes possession of and claims the whole tract, and converts the timber thereon, he may be compelled to account by a prior mortgagee of the undivided two-thirds.—McGahan v. National Bank of Rondout, 156 U. S. 218, 15 S. Ct. 347, 39 L. Ed. 403.

33. Agreements between cotenants.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Ten. in C. § 25.

Defendant leased his mine, and W., claiming as co-owner, gave plaintiff a quitclaim of a one-twelfth interest therein. An agreement drawn up by plaintiff was entered into by defendant, the lessee, and W., that the lessee should have one-third of the proceeds, and the remaining two-thirds should be divided between defendant and W. Defendant subsequently bought W.'s interest. Plaintiff insisted that his one-twelfth was not subject to the burden of the lease, because it was so agreed, as defendant knew. Held, the issue being whether plaintiff was entitled to one-twelfth of the two-thirds or one-twelfth of the whole proceeds of the mine was properly presented by a charge that the question was whether there was any agreement that plaintiff's interest should become effectual at once on the execution of the quitclaim, and if the jury found that it was so agreed, and that plaintiff should be entitled to whatever should arise under the lease according to the proportion and interest conveyed by the quitclaim, then he was entitled to recover.—Rucker v. Wheeler, 127 U. S. 85, 8 S. Ct. 1142, 32 L. Ed. 102.

38. Actions between cotenants.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Ten. in C. §§ 100-104, 107-118; 45 Cent. Dig. Replev. §§ 11, 65.

Under Code Miss. 1880, §§ 2506, 2512, a tenant in common who has been ousted by his co-tenant may maintain ejectment against him, and recover rents and profits in the same action.—Clay v. Field, 115 U. S. 260, 6 S. Ct. 36, 29 L. Ed. 375.

A delay of four years, during which there has been a large appreciation in the value of the property, is fatal to any right to require a tenant in common to give his co-tenants the benefit of his purchase of the common property at a public sale under a power in a trust deed. Decree (1906) 27 App. D. C. 348, affirmed.—Starkweather v. Jenner, 30 S. Ct. 382, 216 U. S. 524, 54 L. Ed. 602, 17 Ann. Cas. 1187.

The United States may acquire territory by treaty. Decree (1905) 25 App. D. C. 510, affirmed.—Wilson v. Shaw, 27 S. Ct. 233, 204 U. S. 24, 51 L. Ed. 351.

5. Acquisition of territory.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, §§ 2, 3.

The legal title and possession of the United States to the Philippine Islands, derived from the cession in the treaty of peace with Spain, whose sovereignty and possession under claim of title had existed for many years prior to the war with the United States, is unaffected by the continuance in insurrection against the United States of those who had been previously in insurrection against Spain.—The Diamond Rings, 22 S. Ct. 59, 183 U. S. 176, 46 L. Ed. 138.

Subsequent ratification by Congress is a sufficient answer to the contention that the title of the United States to the Isthmian or Panama Canal zone was not acquired as provided in Act June 28, 1902, c. 1302, 32 Stat. 481 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1905, p. 707], by treaty with the Republic of Columbia. Decree (1905) 25 App. D. C. 510, affirmed.—Wilson v. Shaw, 27 S. Ct. 233, 204 U. S. 24, 51 L. Ed. 351.

Failure to define the exact boundary of the Isthmian or Panama Canal zone in Treaty Nov. 18, 1903 (33 Stat. 2234), with the Republic of Panama does not affect the title of the United States, where the description is sufficient for identification, and the boundaries have been practically identified by the concurrent action of the two nations alone interested.—Id.

The title of the United States to the Isthmian or Panama Canal zone, under Treaty Nov. 18, 1903, 33 Stat. 2234, with the Republic of Panama, is no less perfect because of the omission from that treaty of some of the technical terms used in ordinary conveyances of real estate.—Id.

A municipal corporation is not totally dissolved as a mere consequence of military occupation or territorial cession.—Vilas v. City of Manila, 31 S. Ct. 416, 220 U. S. 345, 55 L. Ed. 491.

6. Construction and operation of treaties of cession.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, § 3.

The powers of the commissioners appointed by the respective governments under the treaty of March 30, 1867 (15 Stat. 539), whereby the United States acquired Alaska from Russia, to effect a transfer of the property were simply ministerial, and their action in making inventories of what was government and what private property was not conclusive of title, but was merely a matter of convenience for determining prima facie what property the United States should appropriate to itself for the time being, and what should be left to individual proprietors.—Kinkead v. United States, 150 U. S. 483, 14 S. Ct. 172, 37 L. Ed. 1152.

By the treaty of March 30, 1867 (15 Stat. 539), whereby the United States acquired Alaska from Russia, it was the intention of the parties, as shown particularly in section 6, that title to immovable buildings erected by the Russian-American Company upon land belonging to the Russian government should pass with the land to the United States.—Id.

Public property belonging to the city of Manila as a municipal corporation cannot be regarded as having passed to the United States under the cession by Spain of the Philippine Islands for a cash consideration, under the treaty of Paris (Act Dec. 10, 1898, 30 Stat.

1754), of all "buildings, wharves, barracks, forts, structures, public highways, and other immovable property which, in conformity with law, belong to the public domain, and as such belong to the crown of Spain"—especially in view of the further stipulation protecting and safeguarding the property and property rights of municipal corporations precisely as were those of individuals.—Vilas v. City of Manila, 31 S. Ct. 416, 220 U. S. 345, 55 L. Ed. 491.

7. Political status of territory acquired in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 4.

It must be presumed that the legislative department of the government, which within its lawful sphere is but the expression of the political conscience of the people of the United States, will be faithful to its duty under the constitution, and therefore will terminate the occupation by the United States of territory which has been temporarily acquired, and which is demonstrated to be unfit to be incorporated into the United States, if it would be a violation of duty under the constitution to hold it permanently.—Downes v. Bidwell, 21 S. Ct. 770, 182 U. S. 244, 45 L. Ed. 1088.

The treaty with Spain by which Porto Rico and other territory was ceded to the United States, and by article 9 of which it is declared that the civil rights and political status of the native inhabitants therein "shall be determined by the congress," shows an express purpose, not only to leave the status of the territory to be determined by congress, but to prevent the treaty from operating to the contrary.—Id.

The government of the United States has the power to acquire and hold territory without immediately incorporating it into the United States.—Id.

An alien people cannot be incorporated into the United States by the treaty-making power by a mere cession, without the express or implied approval of congress.—Id.

Conditions which preclude incorporation into the United States, without consent of congress, of territory acquired by treaty, may be inserted in the treaty of cession by the treaty-making power, and will have the force of the law of the land if the treaty be not repudiated by congress.—Id.

Incorporation into the United States of territory acquired by treaty of cession, in which there are conditions against the incorporation of the territory until congress provides therefor, will not take place until in the wisdom of congress it is deemed that the acquired territory has reached that state where it is proper that it should enter into and form a part of the American family.—Id.

The regulation of the revenue of conquered territory, even after the treaty of cession, remains with the executive and military authority, in the absence of congressional legislation.—Id.

The civil government of the United States cannot extend immediately and of its own force over territory acquired by war, even when possession is confirmed by treaty, but such territory must necessarily, in the first instance, be governed by the military power under the control of the president as commander in chief, until civil government is put in operation by the action of the appropriate political department, at such time and in such degree as that department may determine.—Id.

The intention of congress that Porto Rico is not to be incorporated into the United States, for the present at least, is shown by the act of April 12, 1900 (31 Stat. 77, c. 191), for temporarily providing revenue and a civil government for that island and for other purposes.—Id.

⇒ 8. Application of Constitution and laws of United States to territory acquired.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 5.

In Act Cong. Feb. 9, 1889, c. 120, 25 Stat. 658 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3630], for the punishment of the carnal and unlawful knowledge of a female under the age of 16 years, the exception from the operation of the act of "the territories" applies only to those regions in which an organized system of civil government has been erected, and not to the district of Oklahoma.—In re Lane, 135 U. S. 443, 10 S. Ct. 760, 34 L. Ed. 219.

The provisions of the federal constitution relating to trials by jury for crimes and to criminal prosecutions apply to the territories of the United States.—Thompson v. State of Utah, 18 S. Ct. 620, 170 U. S. 343, 42 L. Ed. 1061, reversing judgment State v. Thompson, 50 P. 409, 15 Utah, 488.

Porto Rico, after its cession to the United States by the treaty with Spain, April 11, 1899, though it had not been formally embraced by Congress within the customs union of the states, was no longer "foreign country," within the Dingley tariff act of July 24, 1897 (30 Stat. 151, c. 11), providing for duties on articles "imported from foreign countries."—De Lima v. Bidwell, 21 S. Ct. 743, 182 U. S. 1, 45 L. Ed. 1041.

Porto Rico and the United States were foreign countries with respect to each other, within the meaning of the revenue laws, while the island was in the military occupation of the United States, before its cession to the United States by treaty.—Dooley v. United States, 21 S. Ct. 762, 182 U. S. 222, 45 L. Ed. 1074; Armstrong v. Same, 21 S. Ct. 827, 182 U. S. 243, 45 L. Ed. 1086.

Places subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, but which are not incorporated into it, and hence are not within the United States in the completest sense of those words, are recognized by the provision of Const. U. S. Amend. art. 13, prohibiting slavery within the United States "or any place subject to their jurisdiction."—Downes v. Bidwell, 21 S. Ct. 770, 182 U. S. 244, 45 L. Ed. 1088.

The United States, within the meaning of the clause of the constitution (article 1, § 8) requiring duties to be uniform "throughout the United States," as in the other phrase respecting commerce "among the several states," must be understood to mean the states whose people united to form the constitution and such as have since been admitted to the Union upon an equality with them.—Id.

The island of Porto Rico by the treaty of cession became territory appurtenant to the United States, but not a part of the United States, within the revenue clauses of the constitution, such as article 1, § 8, requiring duties, imports, and excises to be uniform "throughout the United States."—Id.

The imposition of duties upon imports from Porto Rico by the act of congress known as the "Foraker Act," approved April 12, 1900 (31 Stat. 77, c. 191), temporarily providing a civil government and revenues for that island, was a constitutional exercise of the power of congress.—Id.

Porto Rico, though not a foreign country in an international sense, since it was subject to the sovereignty of and was owned by the United States after the treaty of cession, continued to be foreign to the United States in a domestic sense, because it had not been incorporated into the United States, but was merely appurtenant thereto as a possession.—Id.

Provisions of the constitution of the United States which are applicable are in force in Porto Rico, whether the island be incorporated into the United States or not.—Id.

Diamond rings brought into the United States from the island of Luzon, in the Philippine islands, subsequent to the proclamation of the ratification of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain, are not imported from a foreign country within the meaning of the tariff act of July 24, 1897, providing for duties on articles so imported.—The Diamond Rings, 22 S. Ct. 59, 183 U. S. 176, 46 L. Ed. 138.

The tax imposed upon goods imported into Porto Rico from New York under the provisions of the Foraker act of April 12, 1900 (31 Stat. 77, c. 191), is not a tax or duty on articles exported from the United States within the meaning of Const. U. S. art. 1, § 9, declaring that no tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state, since the goods are not exported to a foreign country.—Dooley v. United States, 22 S. Ct. 62, 183 U. S. 151, 46 L. Ed. 128.

The constitutional provision that "all duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States" (Const. U. S. art. 1, § 8) does not apply to the tax imposed by the Foraker act of April 12, 1900 (31 Stat. 77, c. 191), upon goods imported into Porto Rico from New York.—Id.

A duty on imports to Porto Rico, within the power of congress under Const. U. S. art. 1, § 8, "to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises," is imposed by the Foraker act of April 12, 1900 (31 Stat. 77, c. 191) as temporary legislation for the island, since the tax is for the benefit of Porto Rico, and can be abolished by the legislative assembly of Porto Rico at will.—Id.

Criminal proceedings by grand and petit juries as prescribed by Const. U. S. Amends. 5, 6, were not substituted for the existing criminal procedure in the Hawaiian Islands by their annexation, "as a part of the territory of the United States, and subject to the sovereign dominion thereof," by the Newlands resolution of July 7, 1898 (30 Stat. 750), accepting the cession theretofore made by the Republic of Hawaii, and continuing the municipal legislation of such islands not inconsistent with such resolution "nor contrary to the Constitution of the United States," until Congress should otherwise determine.—Territory of Hawaii v. Mankichi, 23 S. Ct. 787, 190 U. S. 197, 47 L. Ed. 1016.

So far as the right of the government to appeal from a judgment of acquittal in a court of first instance in the Philippine Islands was recognized by military order No. 58, as amended by Act Philippine Commission Aug. 10, 1901, it was taken away by the provision for immunity from second jeopardy for the same criminal offense, contained in Act Cong. July 1, 1902, c. 1369, § 5 (32 Stat. 691), for the temporary civil government of the Philippine Islands, notwithstanding the recognition in section 9 of that act (32 Stat. 695) of the established jurisdiction of the insular courts.—Kepler v. United States, 24 S. Ct. 797, 195 U. S. 100, 49 L. Ed. 114, 1 Ann. Cas. 655; Secundino Mendezona v. Mendezona, Same, 24 S. Ct. 808, 195 U. S. 158, 49 L. Ed. 136.

The right of trial by jury was not extended by the federal Constitution, without legislation and of its own force, to the Philippine Islands, ceded to the United States by Spain, and not incorporated into the United States by congressional action.—Dorr v. United States, 24 S. Ct. 808, 195 U. S. 138, 49 L. Ed. 128, 1 Ann. Cas. 697.

Congress, under the power to govern territory of the United States, implied in the right to acquire it, and expressly conferred by Const. U. S. art. 4, § 3, was not bound to include the right of trial by jury in the system of laws enacted by Act July 1, 1902, c. 1369 (32 Stat. 691), for the temporary civil government of the Philippine Islands, ceded to the United States by Spain, and not incorporated into the United States by congressional action.—Id.

License fees imposed on certain lines of business by Pen. Code Alaska, c. 429, tit. 2, § 460 (30 Stat. 1253, 1337), as amended by Act June 6, 1900, c. 786 (31 Stat. 321, 330), are not "excises" levied "to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare," which, under Const. U. S. art. 1, § 8, must be uniform throughout the United States, although the proceeds are, by section 463 of such Code, to be paid into the treasury of the United States, and are not specifically appropriated to the expenses of the territory; but such fees must be deemed local taxes, imposed under the plenary power of Congress over the territories, for the purpose of defraying the expense of the territorial government, where the total sum derived from these and all other revenues of the territory does not equal the cost of maintaining such government.—Binns v. United States, 24 S. Ct. 816, 194 U. S. 486, 48 L. Ed. 1087; Wynn-Johnson v. Shoup, 24 S. Ct. 820, 194 U. S. 496, 48 L. Ed. 1091.

The collection of duties on imports to Manila, which was not authorized by the President's order of July 12, 1898, after the exchange of ratifications of the treaty of peace with Spain, was not ratified by Act July 1, 1902, c. 1369, § 2, 32 Stat. 691, 692 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1906, p. 391], ratifying such order and the action of the authorities of the government of the Philippine Islands taken in accordance with its provisions.—Lincoln v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 455, 197 U. S. 419, 49 L. Ed. 816, reversing judgment 40 Ct. Cl. 1; Lincoln v. United States, 26 S. Ct. 728, 202 U. S. 484, 50 L. Ed. 1117.

Alaska was so incorporated into the United States by the treaty under which it was acquired, and by such subsequent congressional legislation as Act July 20, 1868, c. 186, § 107, 15 Stat. 167 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2277], concerning internal revenue taxation, and Act July 27, 1868, c. 237, 15 Stat. 240, extending the laws of the United States relating to customs, commerce, and navigation over Alaska and establishing a collection district therein, as to render repugnant to Const. U. S. Amend. 6 the provision of Act June 6, 1900, c. 786, § 171, 31 Stat. 358, that in trials for misdemeanors in Alaska six jurors shall constitute a legal jury.—Rasmussen v. United States, 25 S. See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 4.

The provisional adoption by congress of the Nebraska Criminal Code for Oklahoma Territory did not make horse stealing, as defined by that Code, when committed within the territory, an offense against the United States.—United States v. Pridgeon, 153 U. S. 48, 14 S. Ct. 748, 38 L. Ed. 631, answering questions certified in re Pridgeon, 57 F. 200.

The adoption by Act May 2, 1890, creating Oklahoma Territory, of the Criminal Code of Nebraska as a provisional Code for the territory, superseded, as to so much of the Indian Territory as was thereby included in Oklahoma, the provision of Act Feb. 15, 1888, punishing horse stealing in the Indian Territory.—Id.

Laws enacted by the new sovereignty, and not the Spanish laws, were meant by the provision of the treaty of peace with Spain of December 10, 1898 (30 Stat. 1759, art. 9), that Spanish subjects in the Philippine Islands shall have the right to carry on their industry, commerce, and professions, being subject in respect thereof to "such laws as are applicable to other foreigners."—Bosque v. United States, 28 S. Ct. 501, 209 U. S. 91, 52 L. Ed. 698.

The right to practice law was not embraced in the provision of the treaty of peace with Spain of December 10, 1898 (30 Stat. 1759, art. 8), that the cession of sovereignty cannot, in any respect, impair the property rights which, by law, belong to the peaceful possession of property of all kinds.—Id.

United States*, 136 U. S. 1, 10 S. Ct. 792, 34 L. Ed. 481, affirming United States v. Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 5 Utah, 361, 15 P. 473; Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 143 U. S. 135, 12 S. Ct. 375, 36 L. Ed. 103, reversing judgment State v. Boyd, 81 Neb. 682, 48 N. W. 739, 51 N. W. 602.

Congress could lawfully delegate, by Act March 2, 1901, c. 803 (31 Stat. 910), to such persons as should be appointed by the President, the power to legislate for the Philippine Islands, including the power to enact the libel law passed on October 24, 1901.—Dorr v. United States, 24 S. Ct. 808, 195 U. S. 138, 49 L. Ed. 128, 1 Ann. Cas. 697.

Congress has full power to legislate in respect to the arid lands in the territories by virtue either of the provision of Const. U. S. art. 4, § 3, that Congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting, the territory or other property belonging to the United States, or by virtue of the power vested in the national government to acquire territory by treaty, and is subject to no other restrictions than those expressly named in the Constitution.—State of Kansas v. State of Colorado, 27 S. Ct. 655, 206 U. S. 46, 51 L. Ed. 956.

Congress had the power to enact Rev. St. U. S. 1901, § 906 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 677), under which territorial legislation must be given, by every court within the United States, the same faith and credit which it has by law or usage in the court of the territory enacting it. Judgment (Tex. Civ. App. 1907) 99 S. W. 190, affirmed.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Sowers, 29 S. Ct. 397, 213 U. S. 55, 53 L. Ed. 695.

Congress had the power to enact so much of the federal employer's liability act (Act June 11, 1906, c. 3073, § 1, 34 Stat. 232 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 891]) as provides that every common carrier engaged in trade or commerce in any territory of the United States shall be liable for the death or injury of any of its employees which may result from the negligence of any of its officers, agents, or employees. Judgment, Gutierrez v. El Paso & N. E. R. Co. (Tex.) 117 S. W. 426, affirmed.—El Paso & N. E. Ry. Co. v. Gutierrez, 30 S. Ct. 21, 215 U. S. 87, 54 L. Ed. 106.

§14. Territorial extent and boundaries.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 10.

A suit by the United States against a state to determine a controversy as to the boundaries between the state and territory of the United States is properly brought in equity, and not at law.—United States v. State of Texas, 143 U. S. 621, 12 S. Ct. 488, 36 L. Ed. 285.

§15. Construction and operation of organic act in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, §§ 11, 13.

General prohibitions in Act July 30, 1896, c. 818, 24 St. 170, against the enactment by territorial Legislatures of local or special laws in certain enumerated cases, have no application where specific permission to the contrary is granted by the organic act applying to a particular territory.—Municipality of Ponce v. Roman Catholic Apostolic Church in Porto Rico, 28 S. Ct. 737, 210 U. S. 296, 52 L. Ed. 1068.

§17. Governmental powers in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 12.

The power of the territory of Washington to accept a deed of land as a site for the seat of government, and the erection of a capital building, even if not incident to the organization of the territorial government, is implied from the provisions of Organic Act March 2, 1853 (10 Stat. 177, c. 90) § 13, granting a sum of money "for the erection of suitable buildings at the seat of government." Judgment, 91 P. 15, 46 Wash. 535, affirmed.—Sylvester v. State of Washington, 30 S. Ct. 25, 215 U. S. 80, 54 L. Ed. 101.

§18. Application and operation in territories of acts of Congress.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, §§ 14, 15.

Funding bonds issued by Arizona in place of county bonds, under Act Cong. June 6, 1896 (29 Stat. 262, c. 339), are not invalid because the county, after requesting their issue, withdrew the request before the bonds were issued, since the request or consent of the county was not requisite to their issue under the statute. Judgment 60 P. 895, 7 Ariz. 62, affirmed.—Schuerman v. Territory of Arizona, 22 S. Ct. 406, 184 U. S. 342, 46 L. Ed. 580.

The authority of the territory of Arizona to issue funding bonds under Act Cong. June 6, 1896 (29 Stat. 262, c. 339), which provides that certain indebtedness "may be funded * * * until January 1, 1897," is not limited to the issuance of the funding bonds before that date, but is limited to the issue of such bonds for indebtedness that had accrued prior to that date.—Id.

Alaska is a territory of the United States within Act June 29, 1906, extending the provisions of the interstate commerce act to carriers of passengers or property from one state or territory to any other state or territory, or from one place in a territory to another in the territory.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. United States ex rel. Humbolt S. S. Co., 32 S. Ct. 556, 224 U. S. 474, 56 L. Ed. 849, affirming judgment United States v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 37 App. D. C. 263.

§20. Legislative power and exercise thereof in general.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 17.

Authority to legislate concerning personal injuries and rights of action therefor was conferred on the territory of New Mexico by Organic Act Sept. 9, 1850, c. 49, § 9 Stat. 449, extending such authority to all rightful subjects of legislation consistent with the Constitution of the United States, although such act also provides that the Constitution and all laws of the United States which are not locally inapplicable shall have the same force and effect within the territory as elsewhere within the United States. Judgment (Tex. Civ. App. 1907) 99 S. W. 190, affirmed.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Sowers, 29 S. Ct. 397, 213 U. S. 55, 53 L. Ed. 695.

Act March 3, 1899, tit. 2, § 43, providing that an indictment in Alaska must charge but one crime and in one form only, is not a law "establishing the executive and judicial departments" in Alaskan courts within Act Aug. 24, 1912, § 3, and is not beyond the amendatory power of the territorial Legislature because of the declaration in the section that all such laws shall continue in force until amended or repealed by act of Congress.—United States v. Wigger, 35 S. Ct. 42, 235 U. S. 276, 59 L. Ed. 226.

§23. Executive officers and agents.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 20.

As the office of auditor of public accounts is not a township, district, or county office, but a general office, for the benefit of the entire territory, so much of the acts of Utah of January 20, 1852, and February 22, 1878, as provide a mode for the appointment of that officer by the territorial legislature, or by election by the people, is inconsistent with Act Cong. Sept. 9, 1850, authorizing the governor to appoint all officers "not herein otherwise specially provided for," and making special provision for the appointment of "township, district, and county officers," though section 6 of that act provides "that the legislative power of said territory shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation consistent with the constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act"; and acquiescence of the people, legislature, and officers of the territory in such acts is immaterial.—Clayton v. People of the Territory of Utah, ex rel. Dickson, 132 U. S. 632, 10 S. Ct. 190, 33 L. Ed. 455; Jack v. Same, 132 U. S. 643, 10 S. Ct. 194, 33 L. Ed. 459.

As the office of territorial treasurer is a general office, for the benefit of the entire territory, so much of the acts of Utah of January 20, 1852, and February 22, 1878, as provide a mode for the appointment of that officer by the territorial legislature, or by election by the people, is inconsistent with Act Cong. Sept. 9, 1850.—Jack v. People of the Territory of Utah ex rel. Dickson, 132 U. S. 643, 10 S. Ct. 194, 33 L. Ed. 459.

The board of loan commissioners created under Rev. St. Ariz. 1887, par. 2039, though that statute was amended and approved by Act Cong. June 25, 1890 (26 Stat. 175), derive their authority from the territory, and not from congress, and they are therefore subject to the general provision of Rev. St. Ariz. par. 2932, subd. 2, which provides for action by a majority of three or more public officers to whom a joint authority is given. Judgment 60 P. 895, affirmed.—Schuerman v. Territory of Arizona, 22 S. Ct. 406, 184 U. S. 342, 46 L. Ed. 580.

§32. Actions by or against territories.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Territories, § 25.

The government which Organic Act April 12, 1900, established at Porto Rico is not taken out of the general rule exempting a government sovereign in its attributes from suit without its consent by section 7.—People of Porto Rico v. Rosaly y Castillo, 33 S. Ct. 352, 227 U. S. 270, 57 L. Ed. 507.

Porto Rico cannot invoke immunity in suit without its consent to defeat an action in which it petitioned to be made a party defendant and in which it was made a party against plaintiff's opposition.—People of Porto Rico v. Ramos, 34 S. Ct. 461, 232 U. S. 627, 58 L. Ed. 763.

Any right of Porto Rico to claim immunity from suit in a federal court without its consent is lost, where defendant's treasurer appears by its Attorney General and participates in the suit, by answering and stipulating for trial and not moving to dismiss until eight months after the action is begun.—Richardson v. Fajardo Sugar Co., 36 S. Ct. 476, 241 U. S. 44, 60 L. Ed. 879.

Rev. St. § 1007 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 714] provides that, where a writ of error may be a supersedeas, defendant may obtain the supersedeas by serving the writ, by lodging a copy for the adverse party in the clerk's office within 60 days, Sundays exclusive, after judgment rendered, and giving the security required by law; but, if he desires to stay process on the judgment, he may, having served his writ, give the security required by law "within 60 days after the rendition of such judgment." Section 1012 makes the provisions as to writs of error applicable to appeals from the circuit courts. Held, that the exclusion of Sundays applies to the time for filing a supersedeas bond, as well as to the time for lodging the writ of error or taking the appeal.—Town of Danville v. Brown, 128 U. S. 503, 9 S. Ct. 149, 32 L. Ed. 507.

Under Texas statutes relating to the sale of school lands (Acts July 8, 1879, and April 6, 1881), whereby the county surveyor, after receiving an application to purchase lands, cannot receive another application for purchase of the same lands until the expiration of 90 days, and the failure of the applicant within that time to make payment, etc., when the ninetieth day falls on Sunday, and default is made by the applicant, the lands are again open for sale on the Monday following, and not on the preceding Saturday.—Monroe Cattle Co. v. Becker, 147 U. S. 47, 13 S. Ct. 217, 37 L. Ed. 72.

10. Interference with employment or occupation, or injury to business.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Torts, § 10.

An attorney for persons having claims against the government on account of a readjustment of their salaries as postmasters under Act June 12, 1866, Act March 3, 1883, c. 142, 22 Stat. 600 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2619], and Act Aug. 4, 1886, c. 903, 24 Stat. 307, has no right of action against the postmaster general because, in sending drafts to the claimants on account of their claims, he informed them that no attorney's services were necessary to the presentation of such a claim, that congress desired all the proceeds to reach the person really entitled thereto, and that the claims were sustained or rejected according to the evidence furnished by the records of the department.—Spalding v. Vilas, 161 U. S. 483, 16 S. Ct. 631, 40 L. Ed. 780.

Nor was the postmaster general liable because he informed the claimants that they were under no legal obligation to respect any transfer, assignment, or power of attorney which Rev. St. § 3477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320], declared null and void.—Id.

12. Interference with or injuries in contractual relations.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Torts, § 12.

A railroad company which, by bribing the officials of a rival company, obtains control of the latter's stock, causes the calling in of its engineering parties so as to stop construction work, spreads abroad notices which break down the credit of the contractor and result in the seizure of his tools, and by such means prevents the completion of the road in time to earn a land grant, and then by false representations to the legislature secures a forfeiture of the lands and a subsequent grant to itself, is liable to such contractor for the damage caused by these wrongful acts, and such damages may be enforced in equity against the lands in its hands, without questioning the validity of the legislature's action.—Angle v. Chicago, St. P. M. & O. Ry. Co., 151 U. S. 1, 14 S. Ct. 240, 38 L. Ed. 55, reversing decree (C. C.) 39 F. 912.

22. Joint and several liability.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Torts, §§ 29, 31.

Where cargo is damaged by collision, the owner may pursue both vessels or either; and in case he proceeds against one only, and both are held in fault, he may recover his entire damages of the one sued.—The Beaconsfield, 158 U. S. 808, 15 S. Ct. 860, 39 L. Ed. 993.

TOWAGE.

Scope-Note.

[INCLUDES the employment of tugs or vessels of any kind to expedite the progress of other vessels, and mutual rights, duties, and liabilities of tugs and tows, and their respective owners, charterers, and masters.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Towage, §§ 11-23.

A tug, with 15 barges in 4 tiers, proceeded at 3 knots an hour down a river with a channel 600 feet wide, but with flats on both sides, on a night stormy and so dark that much of the time they were steering by guesswork, but without taking soundings. Having failed for half an hour to get a regular mark, they grounded, and one of the barges, coming down on the tug, was sunk by it. One minute only elapsed between the grounding and the collision. Tugs did not expect persons to be on the decks of tows. Held, that the tug was responsible for the accident.—The Adelia, 154 U. S. 593, 14 S. Ct. 1171, 21 L. Ed. 672.

⚡15. — Actions for damages.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Towage, §§ 30-38.

In a suit against a propeller for injuries to a barge which the master of the propeller had agreed to tow from one point to another, which injuries were alleged to have been caused by improper and unseamanlike conduct on the part of the master of the propeller, the court found that the master took the north passage, when the south passage was the usual and safest passage at that season of the year; that, having gained shelter, he left it, and pulled into the open water, where the barge was exposed to the full force of the wind, and the propeller was unable to manage the barge, which resulted in its total loss; and that the propeller was in fault for not towing the barge to a place of safety after the latter had signaled for help. Held, that the findings were sufficient to justify a decree holding the propeller liable for the loss of the barge.—The Burlington v. Ford, 137 U. S. 386, 11 S. Ct. 138, 34 L. Ed. 731.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Towage, § 39.

A claim by a tow against her tug for damages from coming into collision with a third vessel because of negligent towage is a claim in tort, standing upon the same ground as a claim of the third vessel for damages against the tug.—The John G. Stevens, 18 S. Ct. 544, 170 U. S. 113, 42 L. Ed. 969.

A lien upon a tug for damages to her tow by negligent towage, bringing the tow into collision with a third vessel, is to be preferred to a statutory lien for supplies furnished the tug in her home port before the collision.—Id.

When a township has been created by law as a territorial division of the state, with no express grant of corporate powers, and with no definition or restriction of the purposes for which it is created, the legislature may at any time declare it to be a corporation, and confer upon it such corporate powers, appropriate to be vested in a territorial corporation for the benefit of its inhabitants, as the legislature may think fit.—*Folsom v. See 45 Cent. Dig. Towns, §§ 9-14.

An order by the board of county supervisors vacating certain towns theretofore established, and directing that "the next town meeting shall be held in the town of Superior," sufficiently shows, in a suit to recover under a tax title, that the two towns vacated were to become a part of the town of Superior, it appearing that the latter town thereafter exercised jurisdiction of the territory in question.—Bardon v. Land & River Imp. Co., 157 U. S. 327, 15 S. Ct. 650, 39 L. Ed. 719, affirming decree (C. C.) Land & River Imp. Co. v. Bardon, 45 F. 706.

A town cannot ratify an unauthorized act of an officer or agent at a town meeting except by a vote passed pursuant to a previous notice.—Town of Bloomfield v. Charter Oak Bank, 121 U. S. 121, 7 S. Ct. 865, 30 L. Ed. 923.

24. — Record of proceedings.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Towns, §§ 34, 35.

Under the statutes of Connecticut, requiring a vote of a town meeting duly notified to authorize the borrowing of money, or making of other contract, on behalf of the town by a town officer, an action cannot be maintained against a town on a promissory note given by a town treasurer for money borrowed in pursuance of a vote of a town meeting without evidence that the subject was specified in the notice of the meeting. The statement in the record of the meeting that the meeting was "legally warned" is not sufficient for this purpose.—Town of Bloomfield v. Charter Oak Bank, 121 U. S. 121, 7 S. Ct. 865, 30 L. Ed. 923.

28. Appointment or election, qualification, and tenure of officers.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Towns, §§ 43-61.

The removal of a township treasurer from one township "across the line" into another township will not, in the absence of statute, vacate the office.—Salamanca Tp. v. Wilson, 109 U. S. 627, 3 S. Ct. 344, 27 L. Ed. 1056.

The officers of a town organized under the Illinois township organization law are one supervisor, two justices of the peace, and one town clerk; and where the supervisor has resigned December 30, 1870, and one of the justices, March 2, 1871, his successor not being elected until April 4, 1871, there is on April 3d a "vacancy" in the office of supervisor, for the purpose of filling it under 1 Gross St. (3d Ed.) 1869, pp. 750, 751, c. 103d, art. 7, § 1, and a vacancy in the office of the retiring justice, for the purpose of appointment by the town clerk and the other justice, as the remaining officers of the appointing board, under section 2 of the same act.—Town of Oregon v. Jennings, 119 U. S. 74, 7 S. Ct. 124, 30 L. Ed. 323.

III. PROPERTY, CONTRACTS, AND LIABILITIES.

Impairing obligation of contracts, see Constitutional Law, 238.

39. Unauthorized or illegal contracts.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Towns, §§ 73, 74; 36 Cent. Dig. Mun. Corp. §§ 580, 686.

Under Act Ind. March 5, 1883, providing that a township trustee who contracts a debt in the name or in behalf of his township, contrary to Rev. St. Ind. 1881, §§ 6006, 6007 (Rev. St. 1894, §§ 8081, 8082), requiring him, before doing so, to procure an order from the county commissioners, shall be liable on his official bond, to the holder of any contract or other evidence of such indebtedness, for the amount thereof, recovery can be had only for the actual amount of indebtedness contracted by him, and which was within his authority, as trustee, to contract, except for sections 6006, 6007, Rev. St. Ind. 1881 (sections 8081, 8082, Rev. St. 1894); and therefore a complaint alleging that he executed certificates of indebtedness of the township for a large amount of school supplies, without any allegation that they were suitable or necessary for the township, or were worth the face of the certificates, or that the certificates were taken in good faith, is insufficient.—State of Indiana v. Glover, 155 U. S. 513, 15 S. Ct. 186, 39 L. Ed. 243.

IV. FISCAL MANAGEMENT, PUBLIC DEBT, SECURITIES, AND TAXATION.

Taxes for highway purposes, see Highways, 121-140.

47. Constitutional and statutory provisions.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Towns, §§ 81-84.

Laws Ohio 1880, p. 157, authorizing any township having a population of 3,683 to issue bonds in the sum of $40,000 to construct a line of railway, seven miles in length, between termini to be determined by the township trustees, violates Const. Ohio, art. 8, § 6, forbidding the general assembly to authorize a township to raise money for, or loan its credit to or in aid of, any company, corporation, or association.—Pleasant Tp. v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 138 U. S. 67, 11 S. Ct. 213, 34 L. Ed. 864.

52. Bonds and other securities.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Towns, §§ 90-94; 36 Cent. Dig. Mun. Corp. §§ 1902, 1915.

Act Mo. March 23, 1868, authorized counties to subscribe, in behalf of their townships, to the capital stock of any railroad company "building or promising to build a railroad into, through, or near such township," and to issue bonds therefor. The bonds in suit were issued in payment of a subscription to the stock of a company which did not propose to build its road into or through the township, but from a point nine miles distant to a further distance. Held, that the determination of the qualified voters, at the election held therefor, and the local authorities, that the proposed road was near the township, is conclusive on the courts.—Kirkbride v. Lafayette County, 108 U. S. 208, 2 S. Ct. 501, 27 L. Ed. 705.

The organic laws of New Jersey authorize the inhabitants of townships "to vote, grant, and raise such sum or sums of money for the maintenance and support of the poor * * * and for other necessary charges and legal objects and purposes thereof, as are or shall be by law vested in the inhabitants" of such townships. They are also to elect five persons "who shall be denominated the 'township committee,' * * * which committee shall have authority, and it is hereby rendered their duty, to examine, inspect, and report to the annual or other town meetings, the accounts and vouchers of the township officers, and to superintend the expenditure of any moneys raised by tax for the use of the township. The committee also has authority to fill vacancies in township offices, and call special meetings, but they have no authority to act for the township. The township has no permanent presiding officer, but only a temporary chairman, who presides over that town meeting alone by which he was appointed. Held, that Act N. J. March 4, 1864, which authorized the township of Mullica to pay bounties offered volunteers by issuing its bonds, authorized the township committee to execute the bonds.—Midleton v. Inhabitants of Mullica Tp., 112 U. S. 433, 5 S. Ct. 198, 28 L. Ed. 785.

61. Rights and remedies of taxpayers.

See 45 Cent. Dig. Towns, § 104.

The assignment by a railroad company of the right to sue for and enforce the payment of a tax, voted by a township to be imposed for the benefit of such company, upon the performance of certain conditions, does not carry such right discharged of the equities between the company and the taxpayers, and after such assignment the company is a necessary party defendant in a suit brought by the taxpayers to enjoin the collection of the tax.—Sully v. Drennan, 113 U. S. 287, 5 S. Ct. 453, 28 L. Ed. 1007.

I. MARKS AND NAMES SUBJECTS OF OWNERSHIP.

◀3. Arbitrary or descriptive character of marks or words.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 4-7.

A word used to distinguish a known quality of goods cannot be adopted as a trade-mark and appropriated by a single person as against a general public.—Columbia Mill Co. v. Alcorn, 150 U. S. 460, 14 S. Ct. 151, 37 L. Ed. 1144, affirming judgment (C. C.) 40 F. 676.

The word "Columbia," placed on packages of flour, not intended to indicate origin, manufacture, or ownership, but merely to designate a class or grade, is not a valid trade-mark.—Id.

The word "Ruberoïd" is not the subject of exclusive appropriation as a trade-mark for a flexible waterproof roofing, since, even though the roofing contains no rubber, the word is descriptive, and not indicative of origin or ownership.—(1911) Standard Paint Co. v. Trinidad Asphalt Mfg. Co., 31 S. Ct. 456, 220 U. S. 440, 55 L. Ed. 536, affirming decree (1908) Trinidad Asphalt Mfg. Co. v. Standard Paint Co., 163 F. 977, 90 C. C. A. 195.

The word "Chartreuse" was susceptible of exclusive appropriation as a trade-mark by the Carthusian monks of the Monastery of La Grande Chartreuse to designate a liqueur made and sold by them for generations.—(1911) Baglin v. Cusenier Co., 31 S. Ct. 669, 221 U. S. 580, 55 L. Ed. 863, reversing decree (1908) 164 F. 25, 90 C. C. A. 499.

The words "The American Girl" are a subject of exclusive appropriation as a trade-mark for women's shoes.—Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. v. Wolf Bros. & Co., 36 S. Ct. 269, 240 U. S. 251, 60 L. Ed. 629, affirming decree Wolf Bros. & Co. v. Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., 206 F. 611, 124 C. C. A. 409.

◀6. Letters of the alphabet.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 10.

A trade-mark cannot be acquired in the letters "LL," as applied to sheetings, as those letters have been generally understood and used by different manufacturers for many years as signifying a particular grade or quality of sheetings.—Lawrence Mfg. Co. v. Tennessee Mfg. Co., 138 U. S. 537, 11 S. Ct. 396, 34 L. Ed. 997; affirming decree (C. C.) 31 F. 776.

◀8. Fictitious or fanciful names.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 12.

The words "La Favorita" do not indicate quality, and are a valid trade-mark, as applied to a grade of flour selected, though not manufactured, by those who have acquired the right to use the term.—Menendez v. Holt, 128 U. S. 514, 9 S. Ct. 143, 32 L. Ed. 526, affirming decree (C. C.) Holt v. Menendez, 23 F. 869.

The name "Hunyadi," being neither descriptive nor geographical, but purely arbitrary and fanciful, as applied to medicinal waters, is the proper subject of a trade-mark. Decree 91 F. 536, 33 C. C. A. 291, reversed.—Saxlehner v. Eisner & Mendelson Co., 21 S. Ct. 7, 179 U. S. 19, 45 L. Ed. 60.

◀9. Geographical names.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 13.

"Columbia," being a geographical name, cannot be appropriated as an exclusive trade-mark.

—Columbia Mill Co. v. Alcorn, 150 U. S. 460; 14 S. Ct. 151, 37 L. Ed. 1144, affirming judgment (C. C.) 40 F. 676.

The use of the name "Pocahontas Coal" by the selling agents for the owners of coal mined at or near a town called Pocahontas will not create an exclusive right in such agents to the use of the name for all the coal from that field, or deprive the mine owners of the right to use the same name. Decree, Coffman v. Castner, 87 F. 457, 31 C. C. A. 55, affirmed.—Castner v. Coffman, 20 S. Ct. 842, 178 U. S. 168, 44 L. Ed. 1021.

The enhancement of the reputation of coal from a certain field by the careful inspection and grading thereof by the selling agents, who sell it under the name of the place where it is mined, gives them no exclusive right to such name as a trade-mark.—Id.

The geographical name "Elgin" cannot be registered as a lawful trade-mark, so as to give the Elgin Watch Company an exclusive right to the use of that word as the name of watches manufactured by it in that place, although the secondary signification acquired by the word in connection with its use on Elgin watches may be sufficient to entitle the Elgin Company to protection against the use of the word by others in such a way as to constitute a fraud. Decree, Illinois Watch-Case Co. v. Elgin Nat. Watch Co., 94 F. 667, 35 C. C. A. 237, reversing (C. C.) 89 F. 487, affirmed.—Elgin Nat. Watch Co. v. Illinois Watch-Case Co., 21 S. Ct. 270, 179 U. S. 665, 45 L. Ed. 365.

The exclusive right to the use of the word "Vichy," under which the waters of the springs of a commune in France of that name have been known for centuries, belongs to the owner of such springs as against every one whose waters are not drawn therefrom, or, at least, from the same hydrographical region, which may be called generally the basin of Vichy. Decree 107 F. 459, 46 C. C. A. 418, 85 L. R. A. 830, affirmed.—La Republique Française v. Saratoga Vichy Spring Co., 24 S. Ct. 145, 191 U. S. 427, 48 L. Ed. 247.

—10. Names of inventors, manufacturers, or proprietors.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 14.

The terms "Goodyear Rubber Company," and "Goodyear's Rubber Manufacturing Company," and other similar terms, are not capable of exclusive appropriation as a trade-mark; the term "Goodyear Rubber" being descriptive of a well-known class of goods produced by the process known as "Goodyear's Invention."—Goodyear's Rubber Mfg. Co. v. Goodyear Rubber Co., 128 U. S. 598, 9 S. Ct. 166, 32 L. Ed. 535, reversing decree Goodyear Rubber Co. v. Goodyear Rubber Mfg. Co. (C. C.) 21 F. 276.

—11. Names of patented articles.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 15.

Plaintiffs obtained a patent for an embossed design which they placed on the ends of spools containing their thread. Held, that after the patent expired, and the design became common property, they were not entitled to relief against defendants, who used a similar design on their spools, on the ground that, owing to plaintiffs' former monopoly of the design, its use by defendant was incidentally a misrepresentation as to the origin of the thread.—Coats v. Merrick Thread Co., 149 U. S. 562, 13 S. Ct. 966, 37 L. Ed. 847, affirming decree (C. C.) 36 F. 324, 1 L. R. A. 616.

Where, during the life of a monopoly created by a patent, the name, whether it be arbitrary or be that of the inventor, has become by his consent, either expressed or tacit, the identifying and generic name of the patent, this name passes to the public with the cessation of the monopoly created by the patent, and another, availing himself of this public dedication to make the machine, and use the generic dedication, can do so in all forms, with the fullest liberty.—Singer Mfg. Co. v. June Mfg. Co., 163 U. S. 169, 16 S. Ct. 1002, 41 L. Ed. 118, affirming decree (C. C.) 41 F. 208.

One using the generic name of the article after the expiration of the patent must do so in such a way as not to deprive others of their rights, or to deceive the public, and therefore must accompany the name with such indications that the article is of his manufacture as will unmistakably inform the public of that fact.—Id.

The right to use the word "patent" as part of the name of an article for which a patent has been obtained ceases on the expiration of the patent. Decree, Rahtjen's American Composition Co. v. Holzapfel's Composition Co., 101 F. 257, 41 C. C. A. 329, reversed.—Holzapfel's Compositions Co. v. Rahtjen's American Composition Co., 22 S. Ct. 6, 183 U. S. 1, 46 L. Ed. 49.

—13. Names of copyrighted works.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 16.

After expiration of copyright to the Webster dictionaries, the further use of the word "Webster" to designate dictionaries could not be acquired by registration as a trade-mark.—G. & C. Merriam Co. v. Syndicate Pub. Co., 35 S. Ct. 708, 237 U. S. 618, 59 L. Ed. 1148, dismissing appeal 207 F. 515, 125 C. C. A. 177.

—14. Marks or names of places of business.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 17.

The insignia of the Carthusian monks—a globe, cross, and seven stars—with the words "Gde. Chartreuse" underneath, could be registered as a valid trade-mark for a liqueur made by those monks at their monastery of La Grande Chartreuse, as could also a label bearing the inscription "Liqueur Fabriquée à la Gde. Chartreuse," with the same ecclesiastical symbols and a facsimile of the signature of a former procurer of the order.—(1911) Baglin v. Cusenier Co., 31 S. Ct. 669, 221 U. S. 580, 55 L. Ed. 863, reversing decree (1906) 164 F. 25, 90 C. C. A. 499.

—17. Color of articles, packages, wrappers, or labels.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 20.

The description of a trade-mark for wire rope as "a red or other distinctively colored streak applied to or woven in a wire rope" is too indefinite to be the subject of registration under Act March 3, 1881, c. 138, 21 Stat. 502 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3401], as a trade-mark. Decree, 134 F. 571, 67 C. C. A. 418, affirmed.—A. Leach & Sons Rope Co. v. Broderick & Bascom Rope Co., 26 S. Ct. 423, 201 U. S. 166, 50 L. Ed. 710.

—20. Novelty of mark or name.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 22.

Where the mode in which plaintiffs and their assignor packed their cigars under the trade-mark "La Normandi," the kind of boxes used, the number in a box, the number in each bunch, the particular color of ribbon, and the size and shape of the cigars, were old in the trade prior to the adoption of plaintiffs' trade-mark, and cigars thus made, and resembling plaintiffs', had been sold widely prior thereto, under the name "La Normande," the use of the words "La Normanda" will not be enjoined to protect plaintiff.—Stachelberg v. Ponce, 128 U. S. 686, 9 S. Ct. 200, 32 L. Ed. 569, affirming decree (C. C.) 23 F. 430.

—21. Priority of use.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 24.

Evidence that a firm manufacturing flour had occasionally, during a period of three years, used the same term as employed by complainant for a similar manufacture will not defeat complainant's right, where none of the witnesses are able to testify that any flour so designated by that firm has been on sale for over 20 years.—Menendez v. Holt, 128 U. S. 514, 9 S. Ct. 143, 32 L. Ed. 526, affirming decree Holt v. Menendez (C. C.) 23 F. 869.

Complainants have no trade-mark in the word "Tycoon," as applied to a certain kind of tea, it appearing that the word was in common and general use, as descriptive of a certain class of teas, for many years before complainants' adoption of it.—Corbin v. Gould, 133 U. S. 308, 10 S. Ct. 312, 33 L. Ed. 611.

A valid trade-mark cannot be acquired in a word which has been previously appropriated and used by other parties as a brand for like goods.—Columbia Mill Co. v. Alcorn, 150 U. S. 460, 14 S. Ct. 151, 37 L. Ed. 1144, affirming judgment (C. C.) 40 F. 676.

—22. Truth and good faith of representations.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 25.

A trade-mark of a medicine which is put forth with a misrepresentation to the public as to the manufacturer of the article, and as to the place where it is manufactured, both of which particulars were originally circumstances to guide the purchaser, is invalid.—Manhattan Medicine Co. v. Wood, 108 U. S. 218, 2 S. Ct. 436, 27 L. Ed. 706.

No right to a trade-mark which includes the word "patent" and which describes the article as "patented" can arise when there is and has been no patent; nor is the claim a valid one for the other words used, where it is based upon their use in connection with that word. Decree, Rahtjen's American Composition Co. v. Holzappel's Composition Co., 101 F. 257, 41 C. C. A. 329, reversed.—Holzappel's Compositions Co. v. Rahtjen's American Composition Co., 22 S. Ct. 6, 183 U. S. 1, 46 L. Ed. 49.

II. TITLE, CONVEYANCES, AND CONTRACTS.—29. Foreign trade-marks and trade-names.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 32.

The right to a trade-mark once lost by permitting infringers in this country to use it until the word has become generic is not regained here by a change of the law of the country of its origin, by which the owner's right to it is established there after it has been held to be public property for many years. Decree, 91 F. 536, 33 C. C. A. 291, reversed.—Saxlehner v. Eisner & Mendelson Co., 21 S. Ct. 7, 179 U. S. 19, 45 L. Ed. 60.

—31. Extent of rights acquired.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 35.

First appropriator of words as a trade-mark for flour by confining his use thereof to certain territory, so that his flour was wholly unknown in the Southeastern States under the trade-mark, held to lose right to enjoin use of the trade-mark by another manufacturer who in good faith had built up an extensive trade in those states so that the trade-mark had come to mean its flour.—Hanover Star Milling Co. v. Metcalf, 36 S. Ct. 357, 240 U. S. 403, 60 L. Ed. 713, reversing decree Metcalf v. Hanover Star Milling Co., 204 F. 211, 122 C. C. A. 483, and affirming decree Hanover Star Milling Co. v. Allen & Wheeler Co., 208 F. 513, 125 C. C. A. 515.

—32. Abandonment and extinguishment.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 36.

The supposition, on the part of a foreign owner of a trade-mark, that a person having the exclusive contract for the sale of his goods in this country will protect it against infringers, but who is not authorized to abandon it, will not relieve him from the effect of his laches when infringers are allowed to use the word for many years, until it becomes a generic name. Decree, 91 F. 536, 33 C. C. A. 291, reversed.—Saxlehner v. Eisner & Mendelson Co., 21 S. Ct. 7, 179 U. S. 19, 45 L. Ed. 60.

An abandonment of a trade-mark by a party having exclusive sale of the goods to which it was applied, under a contract with the owner, which he reserved the right to cancel upon notice, is not binding upon him unless it was done with his knowledge and acquiescence.—Id.

Failure to prevent others from appropriating the word "Hunyadi" as a name for mineral waters until it had become a generic name does not show an abandonment of the right of the owner of a trade-mark in that word, when he made every effort in his power to put a stop to the use of it by other persons.—Id.

To establish the defense of abandonment, it is necessary to show, not only acts indicating a practical abandonment, but an actual intent to abandon, since acts which, unexplained, would be sufficient to establish an abandonment, may be answered by showing that there never was an intention to give up and relinquish the right claimed.—Id.

The laches of the owner of a trade-mark in the word "Hunyadi" is sufficient to defeat his rights therein when, by 20 years of inaction, he has permitted the use of the word by infringers in this country, who have been using it under licenses from the Hungarian government, until the name has become generic as indicative of the whole class of medicinal waters for which it is used.—Saxlehner v. Eisner & Mendelson Co., 21 S. Ct. 7, 179 U. S. 19, 45 L. Ed. 60, reversing decree, 91 F. 536, 33 C. C. A. 291; Same v. Nielsen, 21 S. Ct. 16, 179 U. S. 43, 45 L. Ed. 77, reversing decree, 91 F. 1004, 34 C. C. A. 690.

Equity will not enforce the right to an exclusive use of the word "Vichy" in connection with mineral waters, which by long adverse use has become generic, as against persons using that word to denote a water not drawn from springs in a commune in France of that name, where no attempt whatever was made to simulate the labels on the imported water, and the two waters not only differ in their ingredients and taste, but one is a still, and the other is an effervescing, water. Decree, 107 F. 459, 46 C. C. A. 418, 65 L. R. A. 830, affirmed.—La Republique Française v. Saratoga Vichy Spring Co., 24 S. Ct. 145, 191 U. S. 427, 48 L. Ed. 247.

The liquidation in the French courts of the properties of the Carthusian monks who had long made a liqueur by a secret process at their monastery of La Grande Chartreuse did not invest the liquidator with foreign trade-mark rights, so as to preclude the monks, after they have removed to Spain, where they still make and sell the liqueur in accordance with the original secret formula, from obtaining relief against unfair competition or the infringement of their register of trade-marks in the United States by the French liquidator or those claiming under him.—(1911) Baglin v. Cusenier Co., 31 S. Ct. 669, 221 U. S. 580, 55 L. Ed. 863, reversing decree (1906) 164 F. 25, 90 C. C. A. 499.

The adoption by the Carthusian monks after their expulsion from France and removal to Spain, of a new designation for the liqueur manufactured by them according to a secret process is not such an abandonment of their old marks as will preclude relief against infringement in the United States by the French liquidator of their properties, or those claiming under him, where such change was made in order to save the French market for their product, and they have continuously asserted their rights against infringers.—Id.

33. Assignability of trade-marks in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 37.

The fact that a trade-mark bears the owner's name and portrait does not render it unassignable.—Dr. S. A. Richmond Nervine Co. v. Richmond, 159 U. S. 293, 16 S. Ct. 30, 40 L. Ed. 155.

34. Requisites and validity of assignments.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 38.

The inventor of a proprietary medicine organized a corporation, to which he conveyed the property therein, together with the trade-mark previously used by him in connection with it. He was made general manager of the company, with a salary, and, after operating the business for some time, devised a new trade-mark consisting of a portrait of himself, surrounded by four hemispheres, in connection with his own name. This was adopted by the corporation, and engravings of it made, and a large number of cartoons and wrappers purchased. Bottles were also ordered, having the trade-mark blown in them. These were all paid for with the company's funds, and charged to its expense account. Circulars were sent out to the trade, giving notice of the change, and stating that it would go into effect on the 1st of May following. On the 13th of May the corporation made an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Held, that at that time, although no formal assignment of the trade-mark had been made to the corporation by the designer, it was nevertheless the owner thereof, and the property in the same passed to the assignee, and to a subsequent purchaser from him.—Dr. S. A. Richmond Nervine Co. v. Richmond, 159 U. S. 293, 16 S. Ct. 30, 40 L. Ed. 155.

36. Change in or dissolution of partnership.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 41.

A retiring partner, who assents to the continuation of the business by the other partners at the same place and under the same name, retains no interest in the good will, such as will give him a right to use a trade-mark belonging to the firm, especially where the evidence tends to show that it was verbally agreed that he surrendered all interest in the trade-mark.—Menendez v. Holt, 128 U. S. 514, 9 S. Ct. 143, 32 L. Ed. 526, affirming decree (C. C.) Holt v. Menendez, 23 F. 869.

37. Insolvency or bankruptcy.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 42; 4 Cent. Dig. Assign. f. b. c. § 529; 28 Cent. Dig. Insolv. § 68.

The inventor of a proprietary medicine organized a corporation, to which he conveyed the property therein, together with the trade-mark previously used by him in connection with it. He was made general manager of the company, with a salary, and, after operating the business for some time, devised a new trade-mark, consisting of a portrait of himself, surrounded by four hemispheres, in connection with his own name. This was adopted by the corporation, and engravings of it made, and a large number of cartoons and wrappers purchased. Bottles were also ordered, having the trade-mark blown in them. These were all paid for with the company's funds, and charged to its expense account. Circulars were sent out to the trade, giving notice of the change, and stating that it would go into effect on the 1st of May following. On the 13th of May the corporation made an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Held, that at that time, although no formal assignment of the trade-mark had been made to the corporation by the designer, it was nevertheless the owner thereof, and the property in the same passed to the assignee, and to a subsequent purchaser from him.—Dr. S. A. Richmond Nervine Co. v. Richmond, 159 U. S. 293, 16 S. Ct. 30, 40 L. Ed. 155.

III. REGISTRATION, REGULATION, AND OFFENSES.

43. Right to registration.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 43, 49.

Marks which, like ordinary surnames, are not the subject of exclusive appropriation as a common-law trade-mark, can be registered as trade-marks under the Act of Feb. 20, 1905, § 5, proviso 4, when in actual and exclusive use for ten years next preceding the passage of the act.—Thaddeus Davids Co. v. Davids, 34 S. Ct. 648, 233 U. S. 461, 58 L. Ed. 1046, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 322, reversing decree 192 F. 915, 114 C. C. A. 355.

45. Effect of registration.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 51, 53.

One who, by 10 years, actual and exclusive use, is entitled under Act February 22, 1905, § 5, proviso 4, to register as a trade-mark a mark not subject to appropriation by the common-law trade-mark, becomes on registration the owner of the trade-mark entitled to the protection given by sections 16 and 19.—Thaddeus Davids Co. v. Davids, 34 S. Ct. 648, 233 U. S. 461, 58 L. Ed. 1046, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 322, reversing decree 192 F. 915, 114 C. C. A. 355.

The protection against colorable imitation given to owner of registered trade-mark by Act Feb. 20, 1905, § 16, includes trade-marks registerable under fourth proviso by virtue of the ten-year clause, though not subject to appropriation as a common-law trade-mark if not used contrary to section 21 in unlawful business or with intent to deceive.—Id.

IV. INFRINGEMENT AND UNFAIR COMPETITION.

(A) WHAT CONSTITUTES INFRINGEMENT.

55. Knowledge or intent.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 63.

The infringer of a trade-mark is not exonerated from liability to a suit for an injunction by reason of the fact that he acted innocently.—Saxlehner v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 21 S. Ct. 16, 179 U. S. 42, 45 L. Ed. 77.

56. Imitation.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 65-74; 15 Cent. Dig. Damag. § 196.

57. — In general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 65.

It is no defense that the name of one of the infringing firm accompanied the brand on the goods sold by them, instead of the name of complainants.—Menendez v. Holt, 128 U. S. 514, 9 S. Ct. 143, 32 L. Ed. 526 affirming decree (C. C.) Holt v. Menendez, 23 F. 869.

The use of one only of the words which constitute a trade-mark may be sufficient to constitute an infringement, without appropriating all the words included in it. Decree 91 F. 536, 33 C. C. A. 291, reversed.—Saxlehner v. Eisner & Mendelson Co., 21 S. Ct. 7, 179 U. S. 19, 45 L. Ed. 60.

◀58. — Marks, devices, or symbols.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 66, 67.

Complainant marks its plug tobacco with a star of tin, a half inch in diameter, having a hole in the center. Defendant affixes to its plug tobacco, which differs in size and weight from that of complainant, a round piece of gilded paper, three-fourths of an inch in diameter, having on it a red star, under which is the word "Light," representing the word "Starlight," which distinguishes it from defendant's "Moonlight" and "Sunlight" tobacco; and on one side, also, is the word "Trade," and on the other, the word "Mark." There is no evidence of actual deception. Held, that defendant's mark is not calculated to mislead.—Jaggett & Myers Tobacco Co. v. Finzer, 128 U. S. 182, 9 S. Ct. 60, 32 L. Ed. 395.

Where one making sewing machines placed thereon a device calculated and intended to lead the public to think that they were made by the company engaged in the manufacture of sewing machines bearing similar marks, it is immaterial that he used on his machines the words "New York S. M. Mfg. Co. Warranted," while the name of the company, which was placed by it on its machines in the same place, was "The Singer Manufacturing Co."—Singer Mfg. Co. v. Bent, 163 U. S. 205, 16 S. Ct. 1016, 41 L. Ed. 131, reversing decree (C. C.) 41 F. 214.

A mark consisting of a surname registered by virtue of the ten-year clause of Act Feb. 20, 1905, § 5, proviso 4, is not imitated contrary to section 16, where a person bearing the same name uses it in his own business, though dealing in similar goods, when not used in a manner to mislead as to the ownership of the goods.—Thaddeus Davids Co. v. Davids, 34 S. Ct. 648, 233 U. S. 461, 58 L. Ed. 1046, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 322, reversing decree 192 F. 915, 114 C. C. A. 355.

◀59. — Names.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 68-72.

One using the generic name of the article after the expiration of the patent must do so in such a way as not to deprive others of their rights, or to deceive the public, and therefore, must accompany the name with such indications that the article is of his manufacture as will unmistakably inform the public of that fact.—Singer Mfg. Co. v. June Mfg. Co., 163 U. S. 169, 16 S. Ct. 1002, 41 L. Ed. 118, reversing decree (C. C.) 41 F. 208.

The trade-mark "Davids" being a surname registered under the 10-year clause of Act Feb. 20, 1905, § 5, proviso 4, placed at the top of a registrant's labels on ink manufactured by it, is imitated contrary to section 16 by persons bearing the same surname who put "C. I. Davids" in the same position on their ink labels and at the bottom thereof put "Davids Mfg. Co."—Thaddeus Davids Co. v. Davids, 34 S. Ct. 648, 233 U. S. 461, 58 L. Ed. 1046, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 322, reversing decree 192 F. 915, 114 C. C. A. 355.

◀60. — Packages, bottles, wrappers, or labels.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 73, 74.

Liability for infringement of a label and bottle is not avoided by the infringer's use of an additional label which is a mere importer's private mark. Decree 91 F. 536, 33 C. C. A. 291, reversed.—Saxlehner v. Eisner & Mendelson Co., 21 S. Ct. 7, 179 U. S. 19, 45 L. Ed. 60.

◀61. Use of trade-mark or trade-name for different goods.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 76.

The French liquidator of the properties of the Carthusian monks of the monastery of La Grande Chartreuse, or those claiming under him, may not use the word "Chartreuse," the monks' trade-mark for a liqueur made and sold by them in connection with the sale in the United States of a liqueur not made by the monks, as the name of, or as descriptive of, the liqueur, or without clearly distinguishing it from the monks' product.—(1911) Baglin v. Cusenier Co., 31 S. Ct. 669, 221 U. S. 580, 55 L. Ed. 863, reversing decree (1906) 164 F. 25, 90 C. C. A. 499.

◀65. Deception of public.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 64.

The imitation which under Act Feb. 20, 1905, § 16, is an infringement of a registered trade-mark must be calculated to mislead the public as to the origin of the goods, where the mark could only have been registered under fourth proviso of section 5 as having been in actual and exclusive use for ten years.—Thaddeus Davids Co. v. Davids, 34 S. Ct. 648, 233 U. S. 461, 58 L. Ed. 1046, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 322, reversing decree 192 F. 915, 114 C. C. A. 355.

(B) WHAT COMPETITION UNLAWFUL

◀68. Nature of unfair competition.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 72.

Complainants sold a medicine called "Brown's Iron Bitters," compounded by one Brown, and defendants subsequently began to sell a medicine called "Brown's Iron Tonic," prepared under a different formula by another Brown, who in good faith gave it his name. The bottles, wrappers, and labels of defendants bore no resemblance to those of the complainant, and the medicine itself was distinguished from that manufactured by complainants in circulars issued by defendant. Held that, as there was no evidence of fraud or intent to deceive the public, there is no ground for equitable relief.—Brown Chemical Co. v. Meyer, 139 U. S. 540, 11 S. Ct. 625, 35 L. Ed. 247, affirming decree (C. C.) 31 F. 453.

Plaintiffs obtained a patent for an embossed design which they placed on the ends of spools containing their thread. Held that, after the patent expired and the design became common property, they were not entitled to relief against defendants, who used a similar design on their spools on the ground of their prior monopoly.—Coats v. Merrick Thread Co., 149 U. S. 562, 13 S. Ct. 966, 37 L. Ed. 847, affirming decree (C. C.) 36 F. 324, 1 L. R. A. 616.

◀70. Imitation or simulation.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 81.

Plaintiffs sell their six-cord sewing thread on wooden spools containing 200 yards each, upon the head of which appears a circular label having a gold border, on which are the firm name and the words "Best Six Cord," and a dark center, on which appear the figures and words "200 Yds.," in light gold color. Since 1873 they have embossed on the space surrounding the label, which is the color of the natural wood, the number of the thread, with intervening spaces filled with crossed lines. A patent was granted for this embossed design in 1870, which expired in seven years. Defendants sold their thread on similar spools, having a similar label, on the border of which appears only the firm name, while the words "Best Six Cord" appear in the center of the label, inclosing a star, with the number of the thread below. The number of the thread was also embossed on the edge of the head surrounding the label, with stars in the intervening spaces. It was shown that black and gilt labels had been used by other makers for many years on six-cord thread, without objection from plaintiffs, and to such an extent that the public would not accept as six-cord thread any otherwise labeled; and it was also shown that defendants' general advertising devices, and the packages in which their spools were packed, were so different from those used by plaintiffs that it would be impossible to mistake the one for the other. Held, that defendants' label does not amount to a representation that their thread is that of the plaintiffs, so as to entitle the latter to an injunction.—Coats v. Merrick Thread Co., 149 U. S. 562, 13 S. Ct. 966, 37 L. Ed. 847, affirming decree (C. C.) 36 F. 324, 1 L. R. A. 616.

The owner of a trade-mark or trade-name in the words "Hunyadi Janos," for a natural bitter water, is not entitled, in the absence of fraud or unfair competition, to enjoin a manufacturer of an artificial bitter water from advertising and labeling the product, "Artificial Hunyadi"—especially since the word "Hunyadi" has become a generic name for mineral waters of a certain type, coming from a more or less extensive district, if not from anywhere in Hungary. Decree (1907) 157 F. 745, 85 C. C. A. 321, affirmed.—Saxlehner v. Wagner, 30 S. Ct. 298, 216 U. S. 375, 54 L. Ed. 525.

A manufacturer of roofing under the name of "Ruberoid" does not make out a case of unfair competition against another manufacturer of roofing using the word "Rubbero" to designate its product, where the only imitation by the latter of the former's goods lies in the similarity of names, since to grant equitable relief in such case would be to give the full effect of a trade-mark to a word which cannot be appropriated as such.—(1911) Standard Paint Co. v. Trinidad Asphalt Mfg. Co., 31 S. Ct. 456, 220 U. S. 446, 55 L. Ed. 536, affirming decree (1908) Trinidad Asphalt Mfg. Co. v. Standard Paint Co., 163 F. 977, 90 C. C. A. 195.

Manufacturer who had built up extensive trade for flour labeled "Tea Rose," so that those words had come to mean its flour, held entitled, irrespective of technical trade-mark rights, to enjoin sales by rival manufacturer in packages so closely resembling its packages that they were calculated to deceive ordinary and casual purchasers.—Hanover Star Milling Co. v. Metcalf, 36 S. Ct. 357, 240 U. S. 403, 60 L. Ed. 713, reversing decree Metcalf v. Hanover Star Milling Co., 204 F. 211, 122 C. C. A. 483, and affirming decree Hanover Star Milling Co. v. Allen & Wheeler Co., 208 F. 513, 125 C. C. A. 515.

71. Use of trade-mark or trade-name for purpose of competition.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 82.

Using the name of a manufacturer of pills under a secret formula upon pills made by a competitor is not saved from being unfair because it is accompanied by a statement that the latter makes the pills, even if it be conceded that he is using the other's formula.—(1911) Jacobs v. Beecham, 31 S. Ct. 555, 221 U. S. 263, 55 L. Ed. 729, affirming decree (1908) Beecham v. Jacobs, 159 F. 129, 86 C. C. A. 623.

73. Right to use of name.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 84.

A manufacturer of typewriters under the names "Remington" and "Remington Standard" is not entitled to protection against the adoption by persons bearing respectively the surnames "Remington" and "Sholes" of the name "Remington-Sholes" for their typewriters, and the giving of that name to the corporation formed for their manufacture and sale, where the only confusion in the minds of the public as to the origin of the product results from the similarity in names, and not from the manner of their use.—Howe Scale Co. of 1886 v. Wyckoff, Seamans & Benedict, 25 S. Ct. 609, 198 U. S. 118, 49 L. Ed. 972, reversing decree Wyckoff, Seamans & Benedict v. Howe Scale Co. of 1886, 122 F. 348, 58 C. C. A. 510, which reverses (C. C.) Wyckoff v. Howe Scale Co. of 1886, 110 F. 520.

Unfair competition does not arise out of the use in a corporate name of the surnames of one or more of the incorporators, where such use by the individuals themselves or in a partnership would not be open to that charge.—Id.

The successor to the business and good will of a safe and lock company, with the right to use the surname of the founder, which has a commercial value, while entitled to protection against the use, in the sale of safes made by the sons of such founder, who were members of the original corporation, of any name, mark, or advertisement, indicating that the seller is the successor of the original company, or that its goods are the product of that company or its successors, and against any interferences with the good will, cannot have an injunction totally restraining the use of such surname, and thus interfering with the right of the founder's sons to continue in the safe business and use their own name in so doing, after being released from their contract obligation not to engage in any competing business east of the Mississippi river for a limited time. Decree, Hall Safe & Lock Co. v. Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co. (1906) 143 F. 231, 74 C. C. A. 361, reversed.—Donnell v. Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co., 28 S. Ct. 288, 208 U. S. 267, 52 L. Ed. 481.

The purchaser of all the property and assets as a going concern, together with the business, good will, and trade rights of a safe and lock manufacturing company which was to wind up its affairs, has the right to use the surname of the founder, where that name had acquired a commercial value, and to be protected by an injunction against a rival safe-making corporation organized by the sons of the founder, who were members of the original corporation, forbidding the use of the surname of such founder, either alone or in combination, in the corporate name, on safes, or in advertisements, unless accompanied by information that the corporation is not the original corporation or its successor, or that the article is not the product of such original company or its successor. Judgment, Hall's Safe Co. v. Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co. (1906) 146 F. 37, 76 C. C. A. 495, 14 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1182, modified.—Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co. v. Hall's Safe Co., 28 S. Ct. 350, 208 U. S. 554, 52 L. Ed. 616.

A later competitor whose use of his own name on his goods will lead the public to understand the goods are the product of an established firm known under that name must take reasonable precautions to prevent mistake.—L. E. Waterman Co. v. Modern Pen Co., 35 S. Ct. 91, 235 U. S. 88, 59 L. Ed. 142, affirming decree 197 F. 534, 117 C. C. A. 30.

A corporation long engaged in the sale of fountain pens as "Waterman's" and "Waterman's Ideal" under the name of "L. E. Waterman Co.," the origin of whose product is confused by the use of the name "Waterman" in connection with the fountain pen business by the selling agent of a firm calling itself "A. A. Waterman & Co.," deriving its name from a man who started in business long after the first corporation, will be protected against such use except in the form "Arthur A. Waterman & Co." with the suffix "Not connected with the L. E. Waterman Co." prominently displayed.—Id.

The right of a later competitor to use his own name on his goods if he does not lead the public to believe that they are the product of an already well established concern may be transferred to a partnership with whatever good will the assignee has, though by the partnership agreement he is only to remain a partner a little over a year and then start a business in a Western territory or to become selling agent for such territory.—Id.

75. Deception of public.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 85.

An injunction against the use of terms which cannot be protected as trade-marks will not be granted where it does not appear that defendant has thereby represented to the public that the goods sold by him are those manufactured by plaintiff, but has persistently warned the public that it has no connection with plaintiff.—Goodyear's Rubber Mfg. Co. v. Goodyear Rubber Co., 128 U. S. 598, 9 S. Ct. 166, 32 L. Ed. 535, reversing decree Goodyear Rubber Co. v. Goodyear's Rubber Mfg. Co. (C. C.) 21 F. 276.

A trade-mark cannot be acquired in the letters "LL," as applied to sheetings, the letters being used to signify a particular grade of sheetings; and the fact that plaintiff has used those letters for many years on its sheetings does not entitle it to injunction against another corporation which uses them on its sheetings, on the ground of defendant's fraud by selling its goods as those of plaintiff, where the brands are entirely dissimilar in appearance, and there is no evidence of fraudulent intent.—Lawrence Mfg. Co. v. Tennessee Mfg. Co., 138 U. S. 537, 11 S. Ct. 396, 34 L. Ed. 997, affirming decree (C. C.) 31 F. 776.

Where one making sewing machines placed thereon a device calculated and intended to lead the public to think that they were made by the company engaged in the manufacture of sewing machines bearing similar marks, it is immaterial that he used on his machines the words "New York S. M. Mfg. Co. Warranted," while the name of the company, which was placed by it on its machines in the same place, was "The Singer Manufacturing Co."—Singer Mfg. Co. v. Bent, 163 U. S. 205, 16 S. Ct. 1016, 41 L. Ed. 131, reversing decree (C. C.) 41 F. 214.

(C) ACTIONS.

Jurisdiction of federal courts, see Courts, 292.

Laches, See Equity, 85.

80. Statutory provisions.

Application to defeat a suit for infringement of a trade-mark under a grant from the Spanish governor general, of the rule laid down by the Philippine Commission Act No. 666, § 9, denying recovery if complaining party is guilty of imposing on the public, does not give retroactive effect as against such grant, contrary to general principles of interpretation and to the treaty of Paris of April 11, 1899, art. 13.—Ubeda v. Zialcita, 33 S. Ct. 165, 226 U. S. 452, 57 L. Ed. 296.

83. Defenses.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 92-97.

84. — In general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 93, 97.

It is no defense that the name of one of the infringing firm accompanied the brand on the goods sold by them, instead of the name of complainants.—Menendez v. Holt, 128 U. S. 514, 9 S. Ct. 143, 32 L. Ed. 526, affirming decree Holt v. Menendez (C. C.) 23 F. 869.

85. — Misrepresentations of plaintiff.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 94.

The use of the term "Syrup of Figs" to designate a laxative medicinal preparation, together with printed statements and designs upon the bottles containing the compound and on the cartons and wrappers, calculated to induce the public falsely to believe that fig juice is an important element in the composition of such preparation, whose operative laxative element is senna, involves such deceit and misrepresentation as will deprive the manufacturer of equitable relief against the sale by another of a medicinal preparation named, marked, and packed in imitation of the older medicine, for the purpose and with the design and intent of deceiving purchasers and inducing them to buy the new preparation instead of the old one. Decree 102 F. 334, 42 C. C. A. 383, which affirms (D. C.) 95 F. 132, reversed.—Clinton E. Worden & Co. v. California Fig Syrup Co., 23 S. Ct. 161, 187 U. S. 516, 47 L. Ed. 282.

The use of the word "patent" to indicate a medicine made by a secret formula, when the medicine is in fact not patented, is not such fraud as defeats the right of the manufacturer to relief in equity against unfair competition.—(1911) Jacobs v. Beecham, 31 S. Ct. 555, 221 U. S. 263, 55 L. Ed. 729, affirming decree (1908) Beecham v. Jacobs, 159 F. 129, 86 C. C. A. 623.

The continued use of circulars and labels which suggest the foreign origin of a product, after its manufacture had been begun in this country, and the use of the name of the original proprietor for some time after the business had been transferred to his son, are not such fraud as defeats the right of a manufacturer to relief in equity against unfair competition.—Id.

Prohibition against any action founded on infringement of a trade-mark under Philippine Commission Act No. 666, § 9, where complaining party is guilty of imposition on the public, defeats an infringement suit by a person infringing an earlier trade-mark of a third person.—Ubeda v. Zialcita, 33 S. Ct. 165, 226 U. S. 452, 57 L. Ed. 296.

The provisions of the Philippine Commission Act No. 666, § 14, making Spanish certificate of registration of a trade-mark conclusive evidence of title, are subject to section 9, prohibiting actions founded on infringement of trade-mark when the complaining party has been guilty of imposing on the public.—Id.

The display on hosiery of a trade-mark containing the word "Notaseme," descriptive of the article, amounts to a misrepresentation, where such word was excluded from the trade-mark as registered.—Straus v. Notaseme Hosiery Co., 36 S. Ct. 288, 240 U. S. 179, 60 L. Ed. 590, reversing decree Notaseme Hosiery Co. v. Straus, 215 F. 361, 131 C. C. A. 503.

86. — Laches.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 95.

The right to an injunction against the intentional use of complainant's trade-mark is not lost by laches, though the infringement began in 1869, and the action was not brought until 1882, especially where it does not appear that the trade-mark has acquired an increased value from defendant's use; but an accounting will not be granted.—Menendez v. Holt, 128 U. S. 514, 9 S. Ct. 143, 32 L. Ed. 526, affirming decree Holt v. Menendez (C. C.) 23 F. 869.

A right of action for fraudulent use of labels in this country is not defeated on the ground of laches by failure for many years to assert it, when, during that time, the owner was making repeated, persistent, and, for a long time, unsuccessful, efforts in his own country to establish his rights.—Saxlehner v. Eisner & Mendelson Co., 21 S. Ct. 7, 179 U. S. 19, 45 L. Ed. 60, reversing decree 91 F. 536, 33 C. C. A. 291; Same v. Nielsen, 21 S. Ct. 16, 179 U. S. 43, 45 L. Ed. 77, reversing decree 91 F. 1004, 34 C. C. A. 690.

No exemption from the defenses of laches to a suit by the French Republic and its lessee of the Vichy springs to enforce an exclusive right to the use of the word "Vichy" in connection with mineral waters as against persons using that word to denote waters not drawn from springs in the commune of France of that name was effected by the declaration in article 8 of the treaty with France of June 11, 1887 (25 Stat. 1376), that "the commercial name shall be protected in all the countries of the Union without obligation of deposit, whether it forms part or not of a trade or commercial mark." Decree 107 F. 459, 46 C. C. A. 418, 65 L. R. A. 830, affirmed.—La Republique Francaise v. Saratoga Vichy Springs Co., 24 S. Ct. 145, 191 U. S. 427, 48 L. Ed. 247.

90. Jurisdiction and venue.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 100.

A federal court has no jurisdiction of a suit for the infringement of a trade-mark by a citizen of the same state as the complainant, unless such infringement consists in using the trade-mark by the defendant upon goods intended to be transported to a foreign country or used in lawful commercial intercourse with an Indian tribe.—Ryder v. Holt, 128 U. S. 525, 9 S. Ct. 145, 32 L. Ed. 529.

Act March 3, 1881, c. 138, § 7, 21 Stat. 503 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3403], conferring upon the United States courts jurisdiction over suits arising from the wrongful use of a trade-mark used in foreign commerce, does not impair the jurisdiction of the state courts over suits for the infringement of trade-marks.—in re Keasbey & Mattison Co., 160 U. S. 221, 16 S. Ct. 273, 40 L. Ed. 402.

93. Evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 104-106.

Conceding the burden of proof to rest upon the manufacturer of a medicine under a secret formula, when suing to restrain the use of his trade-name by an alleged infringer, to show that the latter's medicine is not made by his formula, there is at least a prima facie presumption of a difference between the two formulas.—(1911) Jacobs v. Beecham, 31 S. Ct. 555, 221 U. S. 263, 55 L. Ed. 729, affirming decree (1908) Beecham v. Jacobs, 159 F. 129, 86 C. C. A. 623.

The burden rests upon defendant when sued for an unfair use of the plaintiff's trade-name to justify his use of it.—Id.

97. Permanent injunction.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, §§ 110, 111.

The use of the words "Pères Chartreux" instead of "Carthusian Monks" in following the form of label which the court suggested might properly be used, printed in any language, as descriptive of the liqueur manufactured by those claiming under the French liquidator of the properties of the Carthusian monks who had removed to Spain, and were there continuing to make their liqueur under the original secret formula, should not be punished as a contempt of the injunction decree granting relief to the monks against unfair competition and infringement of their trade-marks.—(1911) Baglin v. Cusenier Co., 31 S. Ct. 669, 221 U. S. 580, 55 L. Ed. 863, reversing judgment (1908) 164 F. 25, 90 C. C. A. 499.

Owner of registered trade-mark in the surname "Davids," as applied to inks, held entitled to enjoin persons bearing the same surname and violating Act Feb. 20, 1905, § 16, against colorable imitation by the use of the words "Davids Mfg. Co." and the word "Davids" at the top of their labels in connection with the sale of ink.—Thaddeus Davids Co. v. Davids, 34 S. Ct.

648, 233 U. S. 461, 58 L. Ed. 1046, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 322, reversing decree 192 F. 915, 114 C. C. A. 355.

All the protection to which a corporation long engaged in selling fountain pens as "Waterman's" and "Waterman's Ideal" under the name of "L. E. Waterman Co." is entitled against the use of the name "Waterman" by a selling agent of a firm calling itself "A. A. Waterman & Co." is afforded by a decree permitting such use only in the form "Arthur A. Waterman & Co." with the suffix "Not connected with the L. E. Waterman Co." prominently displayed.—L. E. Waterman Co. v. Modern Pen Co., 35 S. Ct. 91, 235 U. S. 88, 59 L. Ed. 142, affirming decree 197 F. 534, 117 C. C. A. 30.

98. Damages and profits.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trade-Marks, § 112.

Owner of valid trade-mark can recover profits acquired by infringer from infringing sales.—Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. v. Wolf Bros. & Co., 36 S. Ct. 269, 240 U. S. 251, 60 L. Ed. 629, affirming decree Wolf Bros. & Co. v. Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., 206 F. 611, 124 C. C. A. 409.

Impossibility of apportionment between profits from use of simulated trade-mark and those due to intrinsic merit excuses owner of trade-mark from showing what part of infringer's profits were attributable to the use of the infringing mark.—Id.

Unfair imitation of a label does not charge the user with liability for profits, where the imitation has reference to a device which by reason of misrepresentation has lost its protection as a trade-mark.—Straus v. Notaseme Hosiery Co., 36 S. Ct. 288, 240 U. S. 179, 60 L. Ed. 590, reversing decree Notaseme Hosiery Co. v. Straus, 215 F. 361, 131 C. C. A. 503.

Where purchasers of hosiery from an unfair imitator of a label, which had lost its protection as a trade-mark by reason of misrepresentation consisting in displaying the hosiery with the word "Notaseme" thereon, in spite of the fact that such word had been disallowed on the trade-mark, were not induced to buy on account of the imitation, the imitator is not liable to the trade-mark owner for profits.—Id.

¶2. Power to make.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, § 1.

It is competent for congress by legislation to enforce or give efficacy to the provisions of the treaty of Paris between the United States and Spain, by which the United States agreed to assume and discharge the obligations that might, under international law, result from the fact of its occupation of Cuba, for the protection of life and property there.—Neely v. Henkel, 21 S. Ct. 302, 180 U. S. 109, 45 L. Ed. 448, affirming judgment (C. C.) In re Neely, 103 F. 631; Neely v. Henkel, 21 S. Ct. 308, 180 U. S. 126, 45 L. Ed. 457, affirming judgment (C. C.) In re Neely, 103 F. 626.

Conditions which preclude incorporation into the United States without consent of congress of territory acquired by treaty may be inserted in the treaty of cession by the treaty-making power, and will have the force of the law of the land, if the treaty be not repudiated by congress.—Downes v. Bidwell, 21 S. Ct. 770, 182 U. S. 244, 45 L. Ed. 1088.

¶6. Modification, abrogation, or dissolution.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, § 6.

The treaty of the United States with Japan of June 17, 1857, provided that Americans committing offenses "in Japan" should be tried by the American consul general. The treaty of July 29, 1858, provided that Americans committing offenses "against Japanese" should be so tried, and that the treaty of 1857 was revoked, as all its provisions were incorporated in the treaty of 1858. Held that, as the treaty of 1857, in so far as it allowed a trial for offenses committed "in Japan," without regard to nationality of the person against whom they might be committed, was not incorporated in the treaty of 1858, such provision was not revoked.—Ross v. McIntyre, 140 U. S. 453, 11 S. Ct. 897, 35 L. Ed. 581, affirming order In re Ross (C. C.) 44 F. 185.

¶7. Construction and operation in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, § 7.

The meaning of the treaty of peace with Spain by which the Philippine Islands were ceded to the United States cannot be controlled by a senate resolution adopted, after the ratification of the treaty, by a vote of less than two-thirds of a quorum, that it was not intended to incorporate the inhabitants of the Philippines into citizenship of the United States, or to permanently annex those islands.—The Diamond Rings, 22 S. Ct. 59, 183 U. S. 176, 46 L. Ed. 138.

A convention in a treaty which is operative upon both of the signatory powers, and is intended for their mutual protection, should be interpreted in a spirit of uberrima fides, and in a manner to carry out its manifest purpose. Judgment, Motherwell v. United States, 107 F. 437, 48 C. C. A. 97, reversed.—Tucker v. Alexandroff, 22 S. Ct. 195, 183 U. S. 424, 46 L. Ed. 264.

¶8. Construction and operation of particular provisions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, § 8; 45 Cent. Dig. Tax, § 1678.

The treaty of July 4, 1868, between the United States and Mexico, provided that all claims of citizens of the United States against the Mexican government should be submitted to a commission to be created under the treaty. The treaty further provided that each government might "name one person to attend the commission as agent on its behalf," and that the result of the proceedings should be "a full, perfect, and final settlement" as between the parties. Held that, after an award was made, the government could negotiate for a retrial of any claim decided by the commission, withholding the amount of such claim pending the negotiations, and a citizen of one country had no right of property in the sum awarded him not subject to the control of his government.—Frelinghuysen v. United States, 110 U. S. 63, 3 S. Ct. 462, 28 L. Ed. 71.

Article 11 of the convention between the United States and Belgium, relating to consular officers, concluded March 9, 1880, provides that consuls "shall have exclusive charge of the internal order of the marchant vessels of their nation, and shall alone take cognizance of all differences which may arise, either at sea or in port, between the captains, officers, and crews, without exception, particularly with reference to the adjustment of wages and the execution of contracts. The local authorities shall not interfere except when the disorder that has arisen is of such a nature as to disturb tranquility and public order on shore, or in the port." Held that, under this provision, the local authorities are not deprived of jurisdiction of a homicide committed on board of a Belgian steamship, moored to the dock in a port of the United States, arising out of an affray between two Belgians, both belonging to the crew of the vessel, although it occurred below deck, and was only witnessed by other members of the crew.—Mali v. Keeper of the Common Jail, 120 U. S. 1, 7 S. Ct. 385, 30 L. Ed. 565, affirming judgment In re Wildenbus (C. C.) 28 F. 924.

The treaty with Spain by which Porto Rico and other territory was ceded to the United States, and by article 9 of which it is declared that the civil rights and political status of the native inhabitants therein "shall be determined by the Congress," shows an express purpose, not only to leave the status of the territory to be determined by Congress, but to prevent the treaty from operating to the contrary.—Downes v. Bidwell, 21 S. Ct. 770, 182 U. S. 244, 45 L. Ed. 1088.

A member of the Russian naval service, sent to the United States as one of the force ordered to take possession and serve as the crew of a protected cruiser built for the imperial Russian government, who deserts before the crew is organized as such, and without ever setting foot upon the vessel, is nevertheless a deserter from a Russian ship of war, within the meaning of the treaty of 1832 with Russia, authorizing the arrest and surrender of deserters from ships of war of that country, although such cruiser had not yet been commissioned as a member of the Russian navy.—Tucker v. Alexandroff, 22 S. Ct. 195, 183 U. S. 424, 46 L. Ed. 264, reversing judgment Motherwell v. United States, 107 F. 437, 48 C. C. A. 97, which affirms (D. C.) United States v. Motherwell, 103 F. 198.

A vessel which has been launched, but is still in process of construction under a contract to build a protected cruiser for the imperial Russian government, is a Russian ship of war, within the meaning of the provision of the treaty of 1832 with Russia, which authorizes the arrest and surrender of deserters from the ships of war of that country, although under such contract the vessel may be rejected for deficient speed or excessive draft, and during her construction is at the risk of her contractors until actually accepted or actual possession taken, where the contract also provides that the vessel shall be constantly subject to inspection by a board appointed by the Russian ministry of marine, and that, whether finished or unfinished the vessel and all materials intended for her construction, when brought upon the premises of the contractors, shall immediately become the exclusive property of the Russian ministry of marine.—Id.

The production by a Russian vice consul of official documents showing that a person sought to be arrested and detained as a deserter from a Russian ship of war formed part of her crew, required by the treaty with Russia of 1832 as a condition of receiving the assistance of the local authorities, is waived by petitioner for a writ of habeas corpus to inquire into a detention under such proceedings, by his admission, upon the hearing accompanying the offer of the passport under which he entered the United States, that he came to the United States as a member of the Russian navy, detailed to become one of the crew of such cruiser, and that he came for that express purpose.—Id.

Stipulations securing equality with the natives to the citizens of each of the contracting parties in respect of protection and security of person and property, contained in treaty Nov. 18, 1871, 17 Stat. 845, between the United States and Italy, do not require a state to give nonresident alien relatives of an Italian subject a right of action for damages for his death, although such action is afforded to native resident relatives and though the existence of such an action may indirectly promote his safety. Judgment (1907) 65 A. 1077, 216 Pa. 402, 116 Am. St. Rep. 778, affirmed.—Maiorano v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 29 S. Ct. 424, 213 U. S. 268, 53 L. Ed. 792.

The protection accorded to the property or rights of private individuals by the treaty of peace with Spain (Act Dec. 10, 1898, art. 8 [30 Stat. 1758]) does not extend to the office of solicitor of the courts of first instance of the capital of Porto Rico, lawfully purchased in perpetuity, prior to the occupancy of Porto Rico by the military authorities of the United States, and the cession of that island to the United States. Judgment, Sanchez v. United States (1907) 42 Ct. Cl. 458, affirmed.—Sanchez v. United States, 30 S. Ct. 361, 216 U. S. 167, 54 L. Ed. 432.

Equality of rights and privileges with citizens of the United States as to security for persons and property assured by Italian treaty held not infringed by Consol. Laws, N. Y. c. 31, § 14, providing that citizens of the United States only shall be employed in public works and citizens of New York state given preference.—Heim v. McCall, 36 S. Ct. 78, 239 U. S. 175, 60 L. Ed. 207, affirming judgment 108 N. E. 1095, 214 N. Y. 629.

§9. Time of taking effect.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, § 9.

The date when a treaty is to go into effect is to be fixed, not by its provision that it is to become operative 10 days after exchange of ratifications, but by an act of Congress, where the Senate has added an amendment to the treaty, declaring that it shall not take effect until approved by Congress. Judgment (C. C.) American Sugar Refining Co. v. United States, 136 F. 508, reversed.—United States v. American Sugar Refining Co., 26 S. Ct. 717, 202 U. S. 563, 50 L. Ed. 1149.

§10. Retroactive operation.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, § 10; 45 Cent. Dig. Tax, § 167a.

A retrospective operation will not be given to the provision of Act Dec. 17, 1903, c. 1, § 33 Stat. 3 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1905, p. 393], that the treaty with Cuba of December 11, 1902, shall become effective on the tenth day after the exchange of ratifications, because such ratifications had in fact been exchanged some time before the statute was enacted. Judgment (C. C.) American Sugar Refining Co. v. United States, 136 F. 508, reversed.—United States v. American Sugar Refining Co., 26 S. Ct. 717, 202 U. S. 563, 50 L. Ed. 1149.

§11. Operation as to laws inconsistent with or repugnant to treaty provisions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, § 11.

Where an act of congress is passed in violation of an existing treaty with a foreign nation, the courts of the United States will not hold the act invalid on that account. Such question is not for the courts, but is for international negotiation.—Edye v. Robertson, 112 U. S. 580, 5 S. Ct. 247, 28 L. Ed. 798, affirming (C. C.) 18 F. 135, 21 Blatchf. 460.

Plaintiff imported centrifugal and molasses sugars, the produce and manufacture of San Domingo, similar to sugars produced in Hawaii, which are by treaty admitted free of duty, and contended that they should be admitted free, under article 9 of the treaty with the Dominican republic (15 Stat. 475), which provides that no higher or other duty shall be imposed on the importation into the United States of any article, the growth, produce, or manufacture of the Dominican republic, than on like articles, the growth, produce, or manufacture of any other foreign country. Held, that the treaty is a pledge that there shall be no discriminating legislation, against the importation of the articles mentioned, in favor of articles of like character imported from any other country, and, as it was never designed to prevent special concessions on sufficient considerations touching the importation of specific articles, plaintiff must pay duty.—Whitney v. Robertson, 124 U. S. 190, 8 S. Ct. 456, 31 L. Ed. 386; Kelly v. Hedden, 124 U. S. 196, 8 S. Ct. 459, 31 L. Ed. 389.

The act of congress under which duties on centrifugal and molasses sugars from San Domingo are collected, authorized their exaction, and was passed after the treaty with the Dominican republic, and, if there be any conflict between the stipulations of the treaty and the requirements of the law, the latter must control.—Whitney v. Robertson, 124 U. S. 190, 8 S. Ct. 456, 31 L. Ed. 386.

The fact that the Chinese exclusion act of October 1, 1888, c. 1064, 25 Stat. 504 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1318], violates existing treaties with China, is no objection to its validity. Treaties are of no higher dignity than acts of congress, and may be modified or repealed by congress in like manner.—Chae Chan Ping v. United States, 130 U. S. 581, 9 S. Ct. 623, 32 L. Ed. 1068, affirming in re Chae Chan Ping (C. C.) 36 F. 431, 13 Sawy. 486.

It is no objection to an act of congress that it contravenes a treaty between the United States and a foreign power. The statute is a law equally with the treaty, and, if subsequent, and conflicting with the treaty, supersedes it.—Horner v. United States, 143 U. S. 570, 12 S. Ct. 522, 36 L. Ed. 266.

The provisions of an act of congress passed in the exercise of its constitutional authority must prevail even if they contravene the express stipulations of an earlier treaty.—Fong Yue Ting v. United States, 149 U. S. 698, 13 S. Ct. 1016, 37 L. Ed. 905.

State pilotage laws, as applied to a British vessel coming from a foreign port, do not conflict with a treaty provision that "no higher or other duties or charges shall be imposed in any ports of the United States on British vessels than those payable in the same ports by vessels of the United States," because of the exemption of coastwise steam vessels of the United States from pilotage, resulting from Rev. St. U. S. § 4444 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3037], or of any lawful exemption of coastwise vessels, created by the state laws. Judgment (Tex. Civ. App.) 68 S. W. 320, affirmed.—Olsen v. Smith, 25 S. Ct. 52, 195 U. S. 332, 49 L. Ed. 224.

A later treaty will not be regarded as repealing an earlier statute by implication unless the two are absolutely incompatible, and the statute cannot be enforced without antagonizing the treaty.—Johnson v. Browne, 27 S. Ct. 539, 205 U. S. 309, 51 L. Ed. 816, 10 Ann. Cas. 636, affirming order (C. C. 1906) Browne, Ex parte, 148 F. 68.

An act of Congress passed after a treaty takes effect must be respected and enforced despite any previous or existing treaty provision on the same subject. Judgment, Sanchez v. United States (1907) 42 Ct. Cl. 458, affirmed.—Sanchez v. United States, 30 S. Ct. 361, 216 U. S. 167, 54 L. Ed. 432.

A resident unnaturalized Italian not trading in firearms cannot claim that his right under the treaty with Italy of February 26, 1871, to carry on trade on the same terms as natives, is infringed by P. L. Pa. 1909, 466, prohibiting the killing of wild birds or animals by such a person and making it unlawful for him to own or be possessed of a shotgun or rifle.—Patson v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 34 S. Ct. 281, 232 U. S. 138, 58 L. Ed. 539, affirming judgment Commonwealth v. Patson, 79 A. 928, 231 Pa. 46.

The equality of rights and privileges with natives of United States as to security for persons and property which citizens of Italy are assured by Treaty of Feb. 26, 1871, art. 3, is not infringed by P. L. Pa. 1909, 466, prohibiting such person from killing any wild bird or animal, and making it unlawful for him to own or be possessed of a shot gun or rifle.—Id.

13. Performance and enforcement of provisions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, §§ 13-15.

The treaty of July 4, 1868, between the United States and Mexico, provided that all claims of citizens of the United States against the Mexican government should be submitted to a commission to be created under the treaty. The treaty further provided that each government might "name one person to attend the commission as agent on its behalf" and that the result of the proceedings should be "a full, perfect, and final settlement" as between the parties. Held that, after an award was made, the government could negotiate for a retrial of any claim decided by the commission, withholding the amount of such claim pending the negotiations; and a citizen of one country had no right of property in the sum awarded him not subject to the control of his government.—Frelinghuysen v. United States, 110 U. S. 63, 3 S. Ct. 462, 28 L. Ed. 71.

Under the treaty of July 4, 1868, between the United States and Mexico, awards against the Mexican republic were made, among others, in favor of Benjamin Weil and La Abra Silver Mining Company, which were afterwards alleged by the Mexican government to have been secured by fraud. Congress authorized the secretary of state to receive all moneys paid by Mexico to the United States, and to disburse the same ratably, and requested the president to investigate the alleged frauds, withholding the moneys awarded to Weil and the mining company, if he thought fit, until the cases should finally be decided in such a way as the two governments should agree or congress should direct. President Hayes, finding evidence of fraud, advised further investigation by congress, but reported that, in the absence of instructions from congress, he should deem it his duty to order the claims paid. Congress took no action, and several installments of the claims were paid. President Arthur, having further examined the cases, negotiated a new treaty with Mexico for a rehearing upon the disputed awards, and ordered the secretary of state to withhold moneys coming to his hands on account of those claims, while the treaty was pending. Held, that the order was a proper one, and that the secretary of state could not be compelled to pay the money to the claimants.—Id.

An agreement made a fortnight before the treaty of Washington, of 1871, and by which the owners of a ship and cargo taken by the armed rebel cruiser, the Florida, employed a person, whether an attorney at law or not, to use his best efforts to collect their "claim arising out of the capture," and authorized him to employ such attorneys as he might think fit to prosecute it, and promised to pay him "a compensation equal to 25 per cent. of whatever sum shall be collected on the said claim," applies to a sum awarded to them by the court of commissioners of Alabama claims, established by Act Cong. June 23, 1874, c. 459, and is not affected by section 18 of that act, providing that that court should allow, out of the amount awarded on any claim, reasonable compensation to the counselor and attorney for the claimant, and issue a warrant therefor, and that all other liens or assignments, either absolute or conditional, for past or future services about any claim, made or to be made before judgment in that court, should be void.—Bachman v. Lawson, 109 U. S. 659, 3 S. Ct. 479, 27 L. Ed. 1067.

Under act Cong. June 2, 1886, providing for closing the business and paying the expenses of the court of commissioners of Alabama claims, and for other purposes, the expenses of the tribunal of arbitration at Geneva cannot be deducted from the Geneva award fund, since said expenses were provided for by Act Cong. Dec. 21, 1871, were never chargeable to this fund, and were not specified, in the act of June 2, 1886, in the items to be deducted therefrom.—United States v. Weld, 127 U. S. 51, 8 S. Ct. 1000, 32 L. Ed. 62.

When, by agreement between the United States and a foreign nation, the claim of a citizen of the United States against such foreign nation is laid before arbitrators "on the part of the government of the United States," money paid to the secretary of state of the United States on the award of such arbitrators, and by him withheld from the claimant, is withheld by the government; and such claimant is not entitled to interest on the same for the time it is withheld, under the rule that the United States is not liable for interest on claims against it, in the absence of a stipulation or express statutory provision to that effect.—United States v. Bayard, 127 U. S. 251, 8 S. Ct. 1156, 32 L. Ed. 159.

An answer of the secretary of state to a petition asking the payment to relator as assignee of one-half of each of certain awards made by the commission established by treaty with Mexico, July 4, 1868, that he finds it impossible to recognize relator's claims to the moieties of the said awards, without ignoring the conflicting claims of one P., between whom and relator litigation in respect to the award has for a long time been pending; and that he is willing to pay whatever sums may be due on the said moieties on an order and acquittance signed by all the rival claimants, which he submits is as much as could be done by him without embroiling the United States in a litigation in which it has no interest,—presents adequate ground for refusal to pay, and is not demurrable.—Bayard v. United States, 127 U. S. 246, 8 S. Ct. 1223, 32 L. Ed. 116.

The court of commissioners of Alabama claims gave judgment for a person who had previously been declared an insolvent debtor under the Massachusetts law. Held, that the title of the assignee accrued before the recovery of judgment by the debtor on his claim, and the transfer of the claim to the assignee in insolvency, either by operation of law or voluntary assignment, is not forbidden by Rev. St. § 3477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320], prohibiting the transfer of claims against the United States.—Butler v. Goreley, 146 U. S. 303, 13 S. Ct. 84, 36 L. Ed. 981, affirming judgment Goreley v. Butler, 147 Mass. 8, 16 N. E. 734, and distinguishing St. Paul & D. R. Co. v. United States, 112 U. S. 733, 5 S. Ct. 366, 28 L. Ed. 861.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Treaties, § 16.

The quarantining of a French steamship because of the existence of an infectious or contagious disease at the port of arrival, under the authority of Acts La. 1898, No. 192, § 8, does not conflict with the provisions of article 15 of the treaty with Greece (assuming that such treaty is applicable because France must be treated as "the most favored nation" in Louisiana ports), that vessels therefrom, when accompanied by a proper bill of health, shall be subjected to no other quarantine than such as may be necessary for the visit of the health officers of the port of arrival, unless such vessel is subsequently infected or a general quarantine has been established against all ships coming from the port of departure. Judgment 25 So.

The right of citizens of Prussia under the treaty of May 1, 1828, art. 1 (8 Stat. 378), to attend to their affairs in the United States, and for that purpose to enjoy the same security and protection as natives in the country where in they reside, is not violated by the refusal of a state court, on grounds of public policy, to apply the doctrine of comity so as to subject by attachment to the payment of an indebtedness due a German corporation from a German subject, a fund within the state to which one of its own citizens asserts a claim, where the effect of judgment in favor of the corporation would be to remove the fund to a foreign country, there to be administered in favor of the foreign creditors. Judgment, The Disconto Gesellschaft v. Terlinden (1906) 106 N. W. 821, 127 Wis. 651, 115 Am. St. Rep. 1063, affirmed.—The Disconto Gesellschaft v. Umbreit, 23 S. Ct. 337, 208 U. S. 570, 52 L. One owning a herd of cattle in Colorado sold them on credit with the understanding that he should form a live stock corporation to take them off the purchaser's hands. Articles of incorporation were filed in Iowa July 24th, and in Colorado August 10th. The corporation was authorized to commence business August 1st, but on July 27th the cattle were seized for taxes claimed to be due from the original owner. There had been no formal sale to the corporation. Afterwards the claim for taxes was paid, and the cattle released. The corporation brought an action against the tax officers in the nature of trespass de bonis asportatis to recover damages for the seizure and for the extortion of money. Held, that at the time of the seizure the corporation had no title or possession which would enable it to maintain such an action, and that, as the alleged extortion was but an element of the damages flowing from the trespass, the case could not be continued for the purpose of recovering the money alone.—Wilson v. Haley Live Stock Co., 153 U. S. 39, 14 S. Ct. 768, 38 L. Ed. 627.

(D) DAMAGES.¶50. Entry on and injuries to real property.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. §§ 124, 126.

Where, in an action of trespass, it appears that there were three distinct acts of trespass by the defendant, resulting from blasting operations conducted in the proximity of plaintiff's dwelling house, and resulting in injury to his house on two occasions, and an injury to his wife on the other occasion, and that two of such acts of trespass are barred by the statute of limitations, including that which resulted in his wife's injury, the case will not be regarded as one of a continuing nuisance, but one of three distinct trespasses upon his property. Judgment, Jackson v. Emmons (1906) 25 App. D. C. 146, affirmed.—Waters v. Emmons, 27 S. Ct. 778, 203 U. S. 578, 51 L. Ed. 325.

I. RIGHT OF ACTION AND DEFENSES.

5. Title to support action.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. to T. T. § 6-16.

11. — Title from common source.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. to T. T. § 14.

In the statutory action of trespass to try title, as existing in Texas, it is unnecessary for plaintiff to deraign title beyond a common source, and he may prove a common source by introducing certified copies of defendant's title deeds; and defendant cannot question the validity of his grantor's title when he does not claim under a paramount title. It is no defense, therefore, to show an outstanding title emanating from the common source before either plaintiff's or defendant's title emanated therefrom.—Cooke v. Avery, 147 U. S. 375, 13 S. Ct. 340, 37 L. Ed. 209.

II. PROCEEDINGS.

31. Pleading.

35. — Issues, proof, and variance.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. to T. T. § 50-52.

In an action of trespass to try title under the Texas laws, defendant pleaded (1) not guilty; (2) for allowance of value of improvements; (3) title outstanding in a third person. Held, that the plea of the general issue was waived by the special plea of outstanding title, and that defendant, therefore, could not prove title in himself, or disprove the title relied upon by plaintiff.—Cooke v. Avery, 147 U. S. 375, 13 S. Ct. 340, 37 L. Ed. 209.

37. Evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. to T. T. § 53-62.

40. — Documentary evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. to T. T. § 55-61.

Under Rev. St. Tex. 1879, art. 4802, making it unnecessary for plaintiff in trespass to try title to deraign title beyond a common source, it is immaterial whether or not a deed to a common grantor, introduced by plaintiff, is a forgery, when it appears that defendants rely for their title on their deed from the common grantor.—Cox v. Hart, 145 U. S. 376, 12 S. Ct. 962, 36 L. Ed. 741.

47. Judgment.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. to T. T. § 69-71.

In Texas there is a prima facie presumption that property acquired after marriage is community property; and therefore, in an action of trespass to try title, brought against a husband and wife and their mortgagee, in respect to lands so acquired, the decision being in plaintiff's favor, it was proper to enter judgment against all the defendants for the recovery of title and possession. The mortgagee, however, was properly omitted in the recovery of damages, and it was error to enter a personal judgment against the wife for damages for use and occupation and for costs, in the absence of special circumstances justifying the subjection of her separate estate to such liability.—Cooke v. Avery, 147 U. S. 375, 13 S. Ct. 340, 37 L. Ed. 209.

48. Execution and enforcement of judgment.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. to T. T. § 72.

Rev. St. Tex. 1879, arts. 4813-4820, provide that in trespass to try title, when the lands are adjudged to plaintiff, he shall be entitled to a writ of possession within one year on paying the adjudged value of improvements made in good faith; in default whereof defendant may retain the land upon paying within six months the adjudged value thereof without the improvements; in default whereof a writ of possession shall issue to plaintiff. Held, that on the expiration of both options without action by either party plaintiff is entitled to recover the lands without paying for the improvements, and defendants cannot have an execution against him for their value.—Cox v. Hart, 145 U. S. 376, 12 S. Ct. 962, 36 L. Ed. 741.

III. DAMAGES, USE AND OCCUPATION, IMPROVEMENTS, AND TAXES.

55. Improvements.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. to T. T. § 87-90.

59. — Proceedings for recovery of compensation.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Tresp. to T. T. § 90.

In an action of trespass to try title on the question of the right to compensation for improvements, it having appeared at the trial that defendant had not received his deed or paid the consideration for the lands one year or more before the commencement of the suit, as required by the statute, he offered to prove that he was in possession under a verbal contract to convey, and that he immediately entered upon possession, and commenced the erection of improvements, in good faith, and before he knew of the judgment lien under which plaintiff claimed. Held, that the court properly excluded this evidence, as it did not appear from the offer that any of the improvements were made before the date of the deed, or exactly when, except that it was before defendant obtained actual knowledge of the lien.—Cooke v. Avery, 147 U. S. 375, 13 S. Ct. 340, 37 L. Ed. 209.

Where a defendant files several pleas to the declaration on which issues are joined, a general verdict for defendant cannot be sustained if error was committed on any one issue in the admission of evidence.—State of Maryland v. Baldwin, 112 U. S. 490, 5 S. Ct. 278, 28 L. Ed. 822.

In an action by a state bank, defendant pleaded the statute of limitations, and obtained a verdict on that issue, but the judgment was reversed because certain evidence introduced by plaintiff had not been properly submitted to the jury. Afterwards defendant set up the additional defense of want of corporate character in plaintiff. Having introduced his evidence under the plea of the statute, he was then allowed, against plaintiff's objection and exception, as the bill of exceptions showed, to introduce certain papers showing that plaintiff had been changed from a state to a national bank, which evidence was insufficient to support the plea, and immaterial. Plaintiff then moved to strike out this evidence, which the court refused, stating that in his opinion it was a complete defense. Thereupon plaintiff said that, if the court was going to direct a verdict against him on that ground, it would be useless for him to offer his evidence in respect to the statute of limitations, to which the court assented, and directed the verdict accordingly. Held, that the admission of the evidence objected to was clearly prejudicial, since plaintiff was thereby induced to refrain from offering the evidence, which upon the former appeal was held to be sufficient to go to the jury on the question of limitations.—Michigan Ins. Bank v. Eldred, 143 U. S. 293, 12 S. Ct. 450, 36 L. Ed. 162.

Rulings under which evidence was admitted, which were correct when made, because relevant to an issue of fraud raised by the pleadings, held not erroneous when such allegations are abandoned, or held by the court not to be supported.—Tevis v. Ryan, 34 S. Ct. 481, 233 U. S. 273, 58 L. Ed. 957, affirming judgments 108 F. 461, 13 Ariz. 120, and 114 P. 557, 13 Ariz. 282.

¶54. — Restriction to special purpose.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 126-128.

Deeds introduced in rebuttal merely for the purpose of contradicting testimony of the defendant as to statements made by the grantees therein cannot be availed of, on appeal, as proof that the land in controversy was not within an exception in the deed under which plaintiff claims.—Maxwell Land Grant Co. v. Dawson, 151 U. S. 586, 14 S. Ct. 458, 38 L. Ed. 279, reversing judgment 7 N. M. 133, 34 P. 191.

(B) ORDER OF PROOF, REBUTTAL, AND REOPENING CASE.

Criminal prosecutions, see Criminal Law, 680-684.

Evidence admissible in rebuttal by reason of admission of similar evidence of adverse party, see Evidence, 155.

Proof of facts preliminary to introduction of secondary evidence, see Evidence, 180-182.

63. Admission in rebuttal of evidence proper in chief.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 151-153.

Where plaintiff in a civil action calls his attorney as a witness, but his testimony at the time it is offered is rejected by the court sua sponte as incompetent, and, on overruling plaintiff's motion for a new trial, it is ruled by the court that the testimony was competent, but was inadmissible because offered in rebuttal, instead of in chief, there is reversible error, the discretion of the trial justice as to the order of evidence not having been exercised at the right time.—French v. Hall, 119 U. S. 152, 7 S. Ct. 170, 30 L. Ed. 375.

64. Evidence in reply or surrebuttal.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 154, 155.

In an action to recover royalties under a patent, after the introduction of alleged anticipating patents by defendant and rebutting evidence by plaintiff, it is in the discretion of the court to refuse defendant's offer of further evidence to show why its contention as to the question of novelty is correct.—St. Paul Plow Works v. Starling, 140 U. S. 184, 11 S. Ct. 803, 35 L. Ed. 404, affirming judgment Starling v. St. Paul Plow Works (C. C.) 29 F. 790.

If books are not offered in evidence when the defense is made, the fact that portions of them are brought to the attention of the jury on plaintiff's rebuttal does not entitle defendant, after the rebuttal testimony is closed, to present in evidence the whole matter of these books. If he has a right to introduce any testimony at all, it must be confined to the new matter brought out in rebuttal.—Chateaugay Ore & Iron Co. v. Blake, 144 U. S. 476, 12 S. Ct. 731, 36 L. Ed. 510.

65. Reopening case for further evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 156-163.

68. — After close of evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 158-163.

In a suit for specific performance of a contract whereby defendant railroad company agreed to let plaintiff company into the joint use of its bridge across the Missouri river between the states of Iowa and Nebraska, it was within the discretion of the trial court to deny a motion, made at final argument, after the testimony had been closed, to admit evidence that plaintiff had never complied with the Nebraska statutes prescribing the conditions on which it was entitled to enter the state, and that therefore the contract was not mutually enforceable.—Union Pac. Ry. Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. Ed. 265, affirming decree 51 F. 309, 2 C. O. A. 174, 10 U. S. App. 98.

(C) OBJECTIONS, MOTIONS TO STRIKE OUT, AND EXCEPTIONS.

Criminal prosecutions, see Criminal Law, 695-698.

Necessity for purpose of review, see Appeal and Error, 206, 260.

Objections to admission of deposition, see Depositions, 102-108.

73. Right to object.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 169-182, 252; 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. § 856.

75. — Estoppel or waiver.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 171-182, 252.

In an action against an elevated railroad for damages to plaintiff's property, the court sustained defendant's objection to evidence of the permanent injury, and ruled that damages should be recovered for injuries to the time of the trial, and the trial proceeded on that theory, defendant making no objection. Held, that defendant, by acquiescing in this ruling, waived the right to object to the exclusion of evidence that the value of plaintiff's property had increased, or to the refusal to charge that damages could be recovered only for permanent injury, or for injuries to the time the action was begun.—New York El. R. Co. v. Fifth Nat. Bank, 135 U. S. 432, 10 S. Ct. 743, 34 L. Ed. 231, affirming Fifth Nat. Bank v. New York El. R. Co. (C. C.) 28 F. 231.

80. Sufficiency and scope of objection.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 193-227.

82. — General or specific.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 194-210.

An objection to the admission or exclusion of evidence must be specific and state the grounds of the objection.—Stebbins v. Duncan, 108 U. S. 32, 2 S. Ct. 313, 27 L. Ed. 641.

In an action for the value of ores taken by defendants from plaintiffs' mine and converted to their own use, where the taking is admitted, testimony by one of the plaintiffs as to a conversation by him with defendants before the suit, wherein they admitted the conversion, cannot be excluded on an objection which states no grounds therefor, and such grounds cannot be stated for the first time after trial.—Patrick v. Graham, 132 U. S. 627, 10 S. Ct. 194, 33 L. Ed. 460.

84. — Scope and questions raised.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 211-218, 220-222; 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 791.

Where the admission of articles of incorporation are objected to "as immaterial, irrelevant, and incompetent evidence," the specific objection that the articles were not sufficiently authenticated to render them admissible, and that the certificates were made by deputy officers, will not be considered.—Noonan v. Caledonia Gold Min. Co., 121 U. S. 393, 7 S. Ct. 911, 30 L. Ed. 1061, affirming judgment Caledonia Gold Min. Co. v. Noonan, 3 Dak. 189, 14 N. W. 426.

In an action to recover duties paid under protest the inquiry was whether the goods were dutiable under Schedule K of the act of March 3, 1883, as "knit goods, made on knitting frames," as assessed by the collector, or under Schedule N, as "bonnets, hats, and hoods for men, women, and children," etc., as claimed by the importers. One of the latter, as a witness, was asked whether in 1882, when a bill was pending before congress to exclude woolen goods from the provision for caps and other articles made on frames, his firm addressed a letter to the member from their district, protesting against the passage of the law. Objection was made because of immateriality, because witness had no right to state the contents of the letter, and because the letter itself was the best evidence. The objection was overruled, the witness answered in the affirmative, and was then shown what purported to be a copy of the letter, and was asked if it was a copy. Plaintiffs objected, without specifying any grounds. The objection was overruled, an exception taken, and the copy was then read in evidence. Held, that plaintiffs were precluded from contending that the paper was read in evidence without any proof that it was a copy of the letter, for there was no exception based on that ground.—Toplitz v. Hedden, 146 U. S. 252, 13 S. Ct. 70, 36 L. Ed. 961, affirming judgment (C. C.) 33 F. 617.

The objection to the testimony of the witness as to signatures to a special tax bill in suit is not an objection to the admission in evidence of the tax bill itself. Judgment, Heman v. Allen, 57 S. W. 559, 156 Mo. 534, affirmed.—Shumate v. Heman, 21 S. Ct. 645, 181 U. S. 402, 45 L. Ed. 916, 922.

§99. Exceptions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 253-259.

§103. — Sufficiency and scope.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 256-258.

After a question had been put and answered, defendant's counsel objected thereto, and asked the exclusion of the testimony, and that objection be noted, and thereupon the judge declared the evidence competent. Held, that an exception to the evidence was sufficiently taken.—Lucas v. United States, 163 U. S. 612, 16 S. Ct. 1168, 48 L. Ed. 282.

§105. Effect of failure to object or except.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 260-266; 20 Cent. Dig. Evid. § 2430; 22 Cent. Dig. Ex. & Ad. § 1855; 35 Cent. Dig. Mon. Recd. § 75; 50 Cent. Dig. Wits. § 850.

In an action by a state bank, defendant pleaded the statute of limitations, and obtained a verdict on that issue, but the judgment was reversed because certain evidence introduced by plaintiff had not been properly submitted to the jury. Afterwards defendant set up the additional defense of want of corporate character in plaintiff. Having introduced his evidence under the plea of the statute, he was then allowed, against plaintiff's objection and exception (as the bill of exceptions showed), to introduce certain papers showing that plaintiff had been changed from a state to a national bank, which evidence was insufficient to support the plea, and immaterial. Plaintiff then moved to strike out this evidence, which the court refused, stating that in his opinion it was a complete defense. Thereupon plaintiff said that, if the court was going to direct a verdict against him on that ground, it would be useless for him to offer his evidence in respect to the statute of limitations, to which the court assented, and directed the verdict accordingly. But the bill of exceptions failed to show any exception to either of these rulings. Held that, notwithstanding this omission, the court could consider these matters in order to ascertain whether the admission of the papers was prejudicial.—Michigan Ins. Bank v. Eldred, 143 U. S. 293, 12 S. Ct. 450, 36 L. Ed. 162.

Uncontradicted testimony, though not the best evidence, must be considered when admitted without objection.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. C. H. Albers Commission Co., 32 S. Ct. 316, 223 U. S. 573, 56 L. Ed. 556, reversing judgment 99 P. 819, 79 Kan. 59.

V. ARGUMENTS AND CONDUCT OF COUNSEL.

On motion to dismiss appeal, see Appeal and Error, § 824.

Review of proceedings, see Appeal and Error, § 1060.

§109. Scope and effect of opening statement.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 91, 270, 287, 288, 295.

In an action for money had and received, the trial court, at the close of plaintiff's testimony, refused to allow the introduction of evidence by defendant, unless it related to matters not embraced in the latter's opening to the jury, upon the ground that the facts covered by such opening did not constitute a defense to the action. Defendant assured the court that his opening included a statement that the money in suit had been "accounted for and paid over," and said that he had no other facts to offer, not embraced in his opening. Thereupon a verdict was directed for plaintiff. Held that, as there was evident misunderstanding between the court and defendant as to what was contained in the latter's opening, he should have been allowed to proceed upon the assurances made, especially as the case, according to the court's own statement, was a "book-keeper's puzzle and problem," and the evidence offered was admissible under the answer.—Butler v. National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, 144 U. S. 64, 12 S. Ct. 581, 36 L. Ed. 346.

§113. Statements as to facts, comments, and arguments.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 275-309.

§121. — Comments on evidence or witnesses.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 294-298, 300.

In an action against a woman for alienating the affections of plaintiff's husband, the court admitted the record of proceedings for a divorce previously obtained by plaintiff, for the sole purpose of proving the fact of divorce, and forbade the reading or stating to the jury any averments of the petition reflecting on defendant. It also admitted in evidence the statute of the state in which such proceedings were had, for the sole purpose of showing the law under which the divorce was granted. Plaintiff's counsel, in their argument to the jury, used such record and statute for the general purposes of their case, stated the averments of the petition which assailed defendant's character, and put them in juxtaposition with such statute and the testimony of certain witnesses, to produce the impression that the divorce was granted on the ground of adultery between defendant and plaintiff's husband. Held such misconduct of counsel as to require reversal.—Waldron v. Waldron, 156 U. S. 361, 15 S. Ct. 383, 39 L. Ed. 453.

§131. Objections and exceptions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 312-314.

Where defendant excepted to a misuse of the evidence by counsel in argument, when first made, the fact that the same misuse was afterwards made, without exception, does not disentitle defendant to reversal.—Waldron v. Waldron, 156 U. S. 361, 15 S. Ct. 383, 39 L. Ed. 453.

§133. Action of court.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 316.

Where counsel put in evidence a letter from the surety company in an action on a bond reading in the letter head "capital and surplus over $1,000,000," his statement that "there is no room for sympathy for the poor defendant" does not call for reversal, where the judge charged the jury that the case was not one for sentimental consideration.—Graham v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 148, 231 U. S. 474, 58 L. Ed. 319, affirming judgment 188 F. 651, 110 C. C. A. 465.

◀136. — Questions of law or fact in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 318, 320, 321, 323-327; 39 Cent. Dig. Plead. § 75; 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. § 861.

Where a sheriff selling property under a chattel mortgage receives, by direction of the mortgagee's attorney, a deposit of money as security for certain bids, and thereafter transfers such deposit to the mortgagee, the question whether the transfer from the sheriff to the mortgagee was not the transfer of a security, but a payment on account by the sheriff, the acceptance of which would not operate as a ratification of the attorney's action, is one of fact as to the intention of the parties to the transfer, and as such is a question for the jury.—Teague v. Maddox, 150 U. S. 128, 14 S. Ct. 46, 37 L. Ed. 1025.

A case which turns upon the proper conclusions to be drawn from a commercial correspondence, in connection with other facts and circumstances, is properly referred to a jury, although the construction of written instruments is ordinarily a question for the court. Judgment Higgins v. Fidelity Ins. Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 108 F. 475, 46 C. C. A. 509, affirmed.—Rankin v. Fidelity Ins. Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 23 S. Ct. 553, 189 U. S. 242, 47 L. Ed. 792.

◀139. — Weight and sufficiency of evidence in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 332, 333, 338-341, 366.

Where there is any evidence tending to support the issues in the case, although slight, it should be submitted to the jury, and it is error to order a nonsuit or direct a verdict.—Van Stone v. Stillwell & Bierce Mfg. Co., 142 U. S. 128, 12 S. Ct. 181, 35 L. Ed. 961.

Testimony by plaintiff that the frog in which he was injured was unblocked at the time of the accident is sufficient to carry the question to the jury, though a number of witnesses testify that, just after the accident, the frog was found to be properly blocked.—Union Pac. Ry. Co. v. James, 163 U. S. 483, 16 S. Ct. 1109, 41 L. Ed. 236.

A demurrer to the evidence may be sustained, a nonsuit granted defendant, or a verdict may be directed in favor of either of the parties when the testimony is insufficient to support a different verdict.—McGuire v. Blount, 26 S. Ct. 1, 199 U. S. 142, 50 L. Ed. 125, affirming judgment 121 F. 1020, 56 C. C. A. 682.

The trial court properly refused to charge as a matter of law that the evidence established the defense of contributory negligence, where the testimony on that question was such as to leave fair ground for difference of opinion.—Delk v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 31 S. Ct. 617, 220 U. S. 580, 55 L. Ed. 590, reversing judgment St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Delk, 158 F. 931, 86 C. C. A. 95, 14 Ann. Cas. 233.

◀141. — Uncontroverted facts or evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 336.

A peremptory instruction is properly given on behalf of the carrier in an action against it to recover for a loss to a shipment of cattle, alleged to have been occasioned by its negligence, where the undisputed evidence is of such a character as would make it the duty of the court to set aside the verdict if the case had been given to the jury, and the verdict rendered in favor of the plaintiffs. Judgments, Empire State Cattle Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 147 F. 457, 77 C. C. A. 601, and Minnesota & D. Cattle Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 147 F. 463, 77 C. C. A. 607, affirmed.—Empire State Cattle Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 28 S. Ct. 607, 210 U. S. 1, 52 L. Ed. 931, 15 Ann. Cas. 70.

◀143. — Conflicting evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 342, 343.

A peremptory instruction to find for defendant should not be given, where plaintiff's evidence would warrant a verdict in his favor, and defendant's evidence contradicting it does not make out a clear and indisputable case.—City of Lincoln v. Power, 151 U. S. 436, 14 S. Ct. 387, 38 L. Ed. 224.

It is the duty of the court to submit a question of fact to the jury, where the evidence in regard thereto is conflicting.—District of Columbia v. Robinson, 21 S. Ct. 283, 180 U. S. 92, 45 L. Ed. 440, affirming judgment 14 App. D. C. 512.

(B) DEMURRER TO EVIDENCE.

Review of discretion, see Appeal and Error, ¶ 973.

¶158. Motion to strike out or exclude evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 358.

A motion to strike out evidence on a certain topic, which practically comprehends all the evidence, is, in effect, a demurrer to the evidence, and any lack of precision in the motion is cured by the subsequent direction of a verdict.—Berbecker v. Robertson, 152 U. S. 373, 14 S. Ct. 590, 38 L. Ed. 484.

(C) DISMISSAL OR NONSUIT.

Presumptions on appeal or writ of error, see Appeal and Error, ¶927.

¶160. Power of court.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 368.

Where the court has authority under statute to enter judgments of peremptory nonsuit, and plaintiff's evidence is not sufficient to entitle him to a verdict, it is not error to order a nonsuit against his will.—Coughran v. Bigelow, 17 S. Ct. 117, 164 U. S. 301, 41 L. Ed. 442.

¶162. Time for motion.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 370.

The presiding judge cannot be required, on motion for a nonsuit at the conclusion of plaintiff's evidence, to rule on the question whether the evidence is sufficient to sustain the action, unless defendant consents to rest his case and submits the whole case for determination on that evidence.—Columbia & P. S. R. Co. v. Hawthorne, 144 U. S. 202, 12 S. Ct. 591, 36 L. Ed. 405, reversing judgment 3 Wash. T. 353, 19 P. 25.

(D) DIRECTION OF VERDICT.

Review of rulings, see Appeal and Error, ¶ 212, 886, 997.

¶167. Nature and grounds.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 341, 376-395.

¶168. — In general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 341, 376-390.

A case which fairly depends on the effect or weight of testimony should not be withdrawn from the jury unless the testimony be of such a conclusive character as to compel the court, in the exercise of a sound judicial discretion, to set aside a verdict returned in opposition to it.—Phoenix Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Doester, 106 U. S. 30, 1 S. Ct. 18, 27 L. Ed. 65; Inhabitants of Montclair Tp. v. Dana, 107 U. S. 162, 2 S. Ct. 403, 27 L. Ed. 436; Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lathrop, 111 U. S. 612, 4 S. Ct. 533, 28 L. Ed. 536.

A statutory rule making the question of fraud or good faith a question for the jury does not prevent the court from giving a peremptory instruction when the evidence is substantially all one way.—People's Sav. Bank v. Bates, 120 U. S. 556, 7 S. Ct. 679, 30 L. Ed. 754.

It is proper for the court to direct a verdict, when it would be its duty to set aside a different one, if rendered.—North Pennsylvania

R. Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank of Chicago, 123 U. S. 727, 8 S. Ct. 266, 31 L. Ed. 287.

While questions of negligence and contributory negligence are ordinarily questions of fact for the jury, yet, when the undisputed evidence is so conclusive that the court would be compelled to set aside a verdict in opposition thereto, it may withdraw the case from the jury, and direct a verdict.—Elliott v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 150 U. S. 245, 14 S. Ct. 85, 37 L. Ed. 1068.

A question as to the existence of negligence should not be withdrawn from the jury unless the conclusion follows, as matter of law, that no recovery can be had upon any view which can be properly taken of the facts which the evidence tends to establish.—Gardner v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 150 U. S. 349, 14 S. Ct. 140, 37 L. Ed. 1107.

¶169. — Verdict for defendant.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 341, 381-387, 389.

A verdict for defendant is properly directed, where the evidence is insufficient to sustain a verdict for plaintiff and it would be the duty of the court to set aside such verdict if rendered.—Randall v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 109 U. S. 478, 3 S. Ct. 322, 27 L. Ed. 1003.

In an action to recover money, plaintiff, to avoid the plea of the statute of limitations, replied a new promise within the statutory time, and offered in evidence a deposition taken under a commission to prove the new promise. Defendant objected to the deposition, but did not state any ground of objection. The bill of exceptions set forth that the court ruled out the deposition because of its informality. The deposition appeared to be regular in form, and the evidence contained in it as to the new promise was material and competent. Held that, the court below having instructed the jury that plaintiff had not offered sufficient evidence of a new promise to be submitted to the jury, and directed a verdict for defendant, and there being evidence on both sides for the consideration of the jury on the other issues on proper instructions, a judgment for defendant should be reversed.—Spaulds v. Cooley, 113 U. S. 278, 5 S. Ct. 449, 28 L. Ed. 984.

A verdict should not be directed by the court, unless, as a matter of law, no recovery can be had under any proper view of the facts which the evidence tends to establish.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Cox, 145 U. S. 593, 12 S. Ct. 905, 36 L. Ed. 829.

¶170. — Verdict for plaintiff.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 390-394.

Where the bill of exceptions contained all the evidence and defendant did not ask to go to the jury on any question of fact, and the questions were wholly questions of law, and a verdict for the defendant would have been set aside, it was proper to direct a verdict for the plaintiff.—Anderson County Com'rs v. Beal, 113 U. S. 227, 5 S. Ct. 433, 28 L. Ed. 966.

The court may direct a verdict for plaintiff, where there is no evidence on which to found a verdict for defendant.—Marshall v. Hubbard, 117 U. S. 415, 6 S. Ct. 806, 29 L. Ed. 919.

Where, in an action to recover an excess of duties paid under protest on certain goods, the undisputed evidence was that the articles were used for a certain purpose, and defendant offered no evidence on that subject in contradiction of that put in by plaintiff, and at the close of the evidence defendant asked the court to direct a verdict in his favor, it was proper for the court to direct a verdict for plaintiff; there being no question of fact for the jury, and defendant not having asked to go to the jury.—Robertson v. Edelhoff, 132 U. S. 614, 10 S. Ct. 186, 33 L. Ed. 477.

◀175. Operation and effect of motion or request.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 399, 400.

◀177. — By both parties.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 400.

In an action by the assignee of a corporation to recover the amount due on unpaid corporate stock, defendant set up that he had offered to pay for his stock, but that the corporate officers had refused to receive payment or to issue the stock, and, as against the prima facie case made by the plaintiff, testified that he had several times offered to pay the secretary, who refused to receive the money; and the secretary testified that he refused the offer under the direction of the president, but the president, being called by plaintiff, denied that he had ever given such instructions. The testimony being closed, counsel for both parties conceded that there was no question for the jury, each moved for the direction of a verdict in his favor, and defendant's motion was granted. Held, that defendant might well be regarded as having abandoned the defense, in so far as it depended upon this evidence, and as having taken the position that plaintiff's evidence did not make out a case. — Potts v. Wallace, 146 U. S. 689, 13 S. Ct. 196, 36 L. Ed. 1135.

The request by both parties for peremptory instructions in their favor does not amount to a submission of the facts to the court, so as to exclude the right of the plaintiffs to have the case go to the jury in accordance with subsequent special requests asked on their behalf. Judgments, Empire State Cattle Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 147 F. 457, 77 C. C. A. 601, and Minnesota & D. Cattle Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 147 F. 463, 77 C. C. A. 607, affirmed.—Empire State Cattle Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 28 S. Ct. 607, 210 U. S. 1, 52 L. Ed. 931, 15 Ann. Cas. 70.

◀179. Refusal of juror to obey direction.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 404.

Where the evidence is such that the court may take the case from the jury, and direct a certain verdict, it is not error to direct a juror to agree with his fellows in such verdict. Judgment 7 C. C. A. 426, 58 F. 670, affirmed.—W. B. Grimes Dry-Goods Co. v. Malcolm, 17 S. Ct. 158, 164 U. S. 483, 41 L. Ed. 524.

◀181. Exceptions to rulings.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 406.

A bill of exceptions showed that instructions numbered 1 and 2, were requested by plaintiff, and refused, and that others, numbered 3 and 4, adverse to him, were given; and the court stated that "plaintiff's counsel presented his requests in writing before the charge of the court began. The court instructed the jury to find for defendant, without notice to plaintiff's counsel that the requests would not be given, and there was no opportunity for counsel to except to the failure of the court to charge as requested until the instructions were given to the jury. The exceptions, therefore, contained in Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4, were not taken or noted during the trial." The bill also stated that "the court instructed the jury to return a verdict for defendant. The jury returned a verdict in accordance with said instructions, and judgment was thereupon entered, * * * and to said instructions, verdict, and judgment the plaintiff, by his counsel, excepted, and now excepts," etc. Held, that it sufficiently appeared that the general instruction to find for defendant was excepted to at the proper time.—Dunlap v. Northeastern R. Co., 130 U. S. 649, 9 S. Ct. 647, 32 L. Ed. 1058.

In the absence of an exception to the direction of a general verdict, an objection that the same was based upon a special verdict previously rendered upon an immaterial issue cannot be reviewed.—Maddock v. Magone, 152 U. S. 368, 14 S. Ct. 588, 38 L. Ed. 482.

◀185. Statement and review of evidence by judge.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 408.

An instruction to a jury may properly summarize the facts in evidence, and state that any and all such facts, if believed by the jury, are to be considered in connection with the other evidence in the case. Judgment 14 App. D. C. 512, affirmed.—District of Columbia v. Robinson, 21 S. Ct. 283, 180 U. S. 92, 45 L. Ed. 440.

◀186. Comments by judge on evidence in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 409, 410.

In the courts of the United States, the judge, in submitting a case to the jury, may, in his discretion, comment upon the evidence and call their attention to parts of it which he deems important.—Vicksburg & M. R. Co. v. Putnam, 18 U. S. 545, 7 S. Ct. 1, 30 L. Ed. 257.

A statement by the court that the meaning of the term "scalps," as used in the contract between the parties, has not been developed by the testimony, being mere comment on the evidence, is not erroneous, as in effect withdrawing the evidence on such subject from the jury, and wholly annulling its force.—Hansen v. Boyd, 161 U. S. 397, 16 S. Ct. 571, 40 L. Ed. 746, reversing judgment Boyd v. Hanson (C. C.) 41 F. 174.

191. — In general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 420-431, 435; 4 Cent. Dig. Assault, § 60; 8 Cent. Dig. Brok. § 122; 9 Cent. Dig. Carr. §§ 1337, 1499; 23 Cent. Dig. Fraud, § 74; 24 Cent. Dig. Fraud. Conv. § 942; 32 Cent. Dig. Libel, § 371; 37 Cent. Dig. Neglig. §§ 356-360; 41 Cent. Dig. R. R. §§ 1383, 1644, 1748; 43 Cent. Dig. Seduct. § 51; 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 259.

Where, in an action against a railroad company for personal injuries to a passenger, it is a controverted question whether the injury is temporary or permanent, it is error to instruct the jury on the assumption that the injury will be permanent.—Vicksburg & M. R. Co. v. Putnam, 118 U. S. 545, 7 S. Ct. 1, 30 L. Ed. 257.

Where the issue in a case was whether a certain land certificate came into the hands of one B., and the evidence as to such fact was contradicted, a charge assuming such alleged fact to be proven was properly refused.—White v. Van Horn, 159 U. S. 3, 15 S. Ct. 1027, 40 L. Ed. 53.

Instructions should not be given assuming that a contract is in force, if its validity has been denied and its execution is claimed to have been abandoned. Judgment, Snyder v. Stribling (1907) 89 P. 222, 18 Okl. 168, affirmed.—Snyder v. Rosenbaum, 30 S. Ct. 73, 215 U. S. 261, 54 L. Ed. 186.

192. — Uncontroverted facts or evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 432-434.

When testimony has been introduced that drawbars slip sometimes even upon a straight track, and there is no evidence to contradict it, it is not error to charge that "he [the deceased] knew, as he was an experienced man, that drawbars do slip sometimes even upon a straight track; * * * and the sharper the curve the greater was the danger of their slipping."—Tuttle v. Detroit, G. H. & M. Ry. Co., 122 U. S. 189, 7 S. Ct. 1166, 30 L. Ed. 1114.

193. Opinion or belief of judge as to facts.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 436-438; 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 259.

It is a settled rule in the federal courts that it is not error for the judge to express his opinion on the facts when the matters of fact are ultimately submitted to the jury, and the rules of law are properly stated.—Vicksburg & M. R. Co. v. Putnam, 118 U. S. 545, 7 S. Ct. 1, 30 L. Ed. 257; United States v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 123 U. S. 113, 3 S. Ct. 77, 31 L. Ed. 138; Rucker v. Wheeler, 127 U. S. 85, 8 S. Ct. 1142, 32 L. Ed. 102; Lovejoy v. United States, 128 U. S. 171, 9 S. Ct. 57, 32 L. Ed. 389; Doyle v. Union Pac. Ry. Co., 147 U. S. 413, 13 S. Ct. 333, 37 L. Ed. 223.

In an action by a church against a railroad company, to recover damages for a nuisance, the court charged that plaintiff was entitled to a verdict if the use of defendant's engine house and repair shop rendered it "impossible" for plaintiff to occupy its building with comfort, or the noise, smoke, and cinders created a "constant" disturbance, or the voice of the preacher "could not be heard," or the smoke and cinders were thrown into the church in such quantities as to "cover the seats with soot," or discomfort and inconvenience was caused to the congregation "tending necessarily to destroy" the use of the building as a house of worship. Held that, although these expressions be considered as indicating an opinion upon the facts, they were not beyond the limits of the court's discretion.—Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Fifth Baptist Church, 137 U. S. 568, 11 S. Ct. 185, 34 L. Ed. 784.

194. Weight and sufficiency of evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 413, 435, 439-441, 446-454, 456-466; 4 Cent. Dig. Assault, § 59; 9 Cent. Dig. Carr. § 1337; 24 Cent. Dig. Fraud. Conv. § 942; 37 Cent. Dig. Neglig. §§ 356-360; 41 Cent. Dig. R. R. §§ 1194, 1383, 1644, 1748; 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 259; 49 Cent. Dig. Willa, § 776.

A instruction to the effect that evidence was introduced tending to show certain facts is not open to objection as a charge upon the weight of evidence.—Williams v. Conger, 8 S. Ct. 933, 125 U. S. 397, 31 L. Ed. 778.

Where the evidence shows, beyond doubt, that deceased was killed by being run over by defendant's car, a statement by the court to the jury that there is no dispute that he was so run over and killed is not substantially prejudicial to defendant.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Gentry, 163 U. S. 353, 16 S. Ct. 1104, 41 L. Ed. 186.

197. Determination of questions of law.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 467-470.

199. — Submission to jury.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 467-470.

An instruction submitting to the jury the question whether gravel was obtained as an incident to the legal exercise of the power to grade a street is not erroneous, as submitting a question of law, where the jury are told that what is meant by the legal power to grade is a power exercised by commissioners jointly. Judgment 14 App. D. C. 512, affirmed.—District of Columbia v. Robinson, 21 S. Ct. 283, 180 U. S. 92, 45 L. Ed. 440.

(B) NECESSITY AND SUBJECT-MATTER.

202. Duty of judge in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 474, 477, 482.

When the trial judge directs the verdict, answer to points or requested instructions becomes unnecessary and useless.—Goodlett v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 122 U. S. 891, 7 S. Ct. 1254, 30 L. Ed. 1230.

207. Purpose and effect of evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 498, 499, 501.

A requested instruction that an affidavit produced by defendant on cross-examination to impeach the credibility of the witness who made it, may be considered, in connection with the affiant's deposition, as evidence against the plaintiff of the facts therein stated under oath, with like effect as his deposition,—should be given where such affidavit is introduced in evidence by plaintiff on the cross-examination of another witness. Judgment 107 F. 834, 46 C. C. A. 668, reversed.—Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Hillmon, 23 S. Ct. 294, 188 U. S. 208, 47 L. Ed. 446.

(C) FORM, REQUISITES, AND SUFFICIENCY.

Conformity to state practice, see Courts, ⑥—352.

⑥—222. Written instructions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 514-523.

⑥—227. — Reading or delivery to jury.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 523.

A general verdict cannot be upheld where there are several issues tried, and error is committed in charging the jury on any one of them.—State of Maryland v. Baldwin, 112 U. S. 490, 5 S. Ct. 278, 23 L. Ed. 822.

⑥—229. Repetition.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 513.

To repeat an instruction in different language in another portion of the charge is not reversible error.—Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Ives, 144 U. S. 408, 12 S. Ct. 679, 36 L. Ed. 485, affirming judgment Ives v. Grand Trunk R. Co. (C. C.) 35 F. 176.

⑥—231. Sufficiency as to subject-matter.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 524-560, 568.

⑥—236. — Credibility of witnesses.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 531-533.

A requested instruction stating that there was no testimony tending to contradict a witness as to a certain point, and that "the jury would not be justified in finding to the contrary," assumes the credibility of the witness, and its modification by striking out the last clause, and inserting instead a clause that "the weight to be given his testimony is a proper question for the jury," is not error, as tending to discriminate against the witness.—Davis v. Coblens, 19 S. Ct. 832, 174 U. S. 719, 43 L. Ed. 1147.

⑥—238. — Matters of law.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 552-556.

When the court has given an instruction correctly defining adverse possession, it is reversible error for it to further state that it proposes to "go outside of what is there stated," and give one on its own motion, and then to give a definition which omits the elements of actuality and exclusiveness.—Ward v. Cochran, 150 U. S. 597, 14 S. Ct. 230, 37 L. Ed. 1195.

⑥—239. — Amount of recovery.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 557-560.

Charging the jury in a negligence case that damages could not be considered in excess of the sum claimed in the declaration cannot prejudice the defendant, where the court was careful to say that the sum claimed should not be taken as a criterion to act upon, but only as a limit beyond which the jury could not go. Judgment 25 App. D. C. 278, affirmed.—McDermott v. Severe, 28 S. Ct. 709, 202 U. S. 600, 50 L. Ed. 1162.

⑥—243. Inconsistent or contradictory instructions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 564, 565.

Where instructions on a material issue in a cause are contradictory, error is committed.—Deserant v. Cerillos Coal R. Co., 20 S. Ct. 967, 178 U. S. 409, 44 L. Ed. 1127, reversing judgment Same v. Cerillos Coal R. Co., 55 P. 290, 9 N. M. 495.

An instruction in an action for personal injuries which combines the idea of possibility of injury to the plaintiff which could not be foreseen by defendant, with the hypothesis that the possibility was known to the defendant or should have been known, is properly refused as contradictory.—Sweeney v. Erving, 33 S. Ct. 416, 228 U. S. 233, 57 L. Ed. 815, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 905, affirming judgment 35 App. D. C. 57.

⑥—244. Undue prominence of particular matters.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 577-581.

An instruction that defendant is not liable if plaintiff saw the cars coming, and knew that there was danger of collision, or should have seen and known it in time to escape by leaving his wagon, and if, notwithstanding such danger, he remained in his wagon, in order to save his wagon or horses, was properly refused as singling out particular circumstances, and omitting all reference to others of importance.—Rio Grande W. Ry. Co. v. Leak, 163 U. S. 280, 16 S. Ct. 1020, 41 L. Ed. 160.

A trial judge may direct the jury's attention to a portion of the testimony if he leaves the decision of the case to them.—Graham v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 148, 231 U. S. 474, 58 L. Ed. 319, affirming judgment 188 F. 651, 110 C. C. A. 465.

(D) APPLICABILITY TO PLEADINGS AND EVIDENCE.

Review as dependent on prejudicial nature of error, see Appeal and Error, ⑥—1066.

⑥—249. Application of instructions to case.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 505, 584-612; 23 Cent. Dig. Fraud, § 74; 32 Cent. Dig. Label, § 372.

⑥—250. — In general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 584-586.

The court should not instruct the jury that in estimating damages in an action under Employers' Liability Act April 22, 1908, to parents of the employé killed, they may consider loss of any care during the life of the employé, where there is no allegation or evidence as to such loss.—American R. Co. of Porto Rico v. Didricksen, 33 S. Ct. 224, 227 U. S. 145, 57 L. Ed. 456.

⑥—251. — Pleadings and issues.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 587-595; 32 Cent. Dig. Label, § 372.

That undue influence was not expressly pleaded in defense of a contract does not preclude instructions defining it, if facts are pleaded and found which amount to it. Judgment, Snyder v. Stribbling (1907) 89 P. 222, 18 Okl. 168, affirmed.—Snyder v. Rosenbaum, 30 S. Ct. 73, 215 U. S. 261, 54 L. Ed. 186.

A requested instruction, containing elements of damage that would not properly be applicable if recovery should be based solely on some of the grounds of action, was properly refused.—Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 36 S. Ct. 300, 240 U. S. 264, 60 L. Ed. 636.

⑥—252. — Facts and evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 505, 596-612; 3 Cent. Dig. Bridges, § 121; 23 Cent. Dig. Fraud, § 74; 32 Cent. Dig. Label, § 372; 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 259.

Instructions not supported by the evidence are properly refused.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Paine, 119 U. S. 561, 7 S. Ct. 323, 30 L. Ed. 513.

A declaration was made up of the common money counts and two special counts. The evidence, as put in, entitled plaintiff to a recovery on one, if not both, of the special counts. The court instructed the jury "that, so far as the pleadings are concerned, there is no difficulty in plaintiff recovering, under the declaration, a verdict for the amount that is due him." Held that, although a recovery could not have been had on the common counts, there was no prejudicial error in the instructions.—Struthers v. Drexel, 122 U. S. 487, 7 S. Ct. 1293, 30 L. Ed. 1216.

It is erroneous for a judge to put, in his instructions to the jury, hypothetically before them facts not suggested by or opposed to the evidence in the case, and the refusal of such instructions is not error.—White v. Van Horn, 159 U. S. 3, 15 S. Ct. 1027, 40 L. Ed. 55.

Instructions, though correct as propositions of law, are properly refused, in the absence of evidence on which such instructions could be based.—Coffin v. United States, 162 U. S. 864, 16 S. Ct. 943, 40 L. Ed. 1109.

An instruction, not based on the evidence, is erroneous, and should not be given.—Mitchell v. Potomac Ins. Co., 22 S. Ct. 22, 183 U. S. 42, 46 L. Ed. 74, affirming judgment 16 App. D. C. 241.

To charge the jury that the authority of a bank cashier to draw a draft in his official capacity in his individual favor may be implied from the course of previous business is error which requires the reversal of a judgment which sustains the right of a collecting bank to retain the proceeds in payment of his individual debt, where such draft was in fact not drawn to his individual order, but by him as cashier to his order as cashier, and indorsed for deposit to his credit as cashier. Judgment, Gale v. Chase Nat. Bank, 108 F. 987, 46 C. C. A. 683, reversed.—Rankin v. Chase Nat. Bank, 23 S. Ct. 372, 188 U. S. 557, 47 L. Ed. 594.

Charges to juries must be confined to the issues and must be predicated on facts in proof.—(Ill. 1907) Wilmington Star Min. Co. v. Fulton, 27 S. Ct. 412, 205 U. S. 60, 51 L. Ed. 708.

Evidence tending to justify the inference that a mine employé who was allowed to enter a roadway without warning knew, before entering, that it had not been cleared of gas, does not require the giving of a requested instruction in an action for the death of such employé as the result of an explosion, which is based on the assumption that such employé, when killed, was willfully endangering the lives or health of others, or the security of the mine or its machinery, or was recklessly disregarding his personal safety.—Id.

Absence of evidence on which to base a finding that the facts were as assumed in the requested instruction justifies its rejection.—Sweeney v. Erving, 33 S. Ct. 416, 228 U. S. 233, 57 L. Ed. 815, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 905, affirming judgment 35 App. D. C. 57.

The refusal of a requested instruction that if defendant, a general contractor, failed to make payments as called for by the plaintiff's subcontract, there was a breach, was not error, where the subcontract did not specify the amount of the payments, except that they were to be a specified percentage of the cost of the work completed; there being no evidence to show that the cost was ascertained.—Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 36 S. Ct. 300, 240 U. S. 284, 60 L. Ed. 636.

Refusal of instruction on question of assumption of ordinary risks with no application to the facts of the case which involves question of extraordinary hazard held not error.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. De Atley, 36 S. Ct. 564, 241 U. S. 310, 60 L. Ed. 1016, reversing judgment 167 S. W. 933, 159 Ky. 687.

253. Instructions excluding or ignoring issues, defenses, or evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 613-623; 7 Cent. Dig. Bills & N. § 1899; 44 Cent. Dig. St. R. R. § 259.

An instruction which excludes certain relevant evidence from the consideration of the jury is erroneous, and is properly refused.—Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Ives, 144 U. S. 408, 12 S. Ct. 679, 36 L. Ed. 485, affirming judgment Ives v. Grand Trunk R. Co. (C. C.) 35 F. 176.

Requested instruction, in action under Employers' Liability Act by head brakeman of a "manifest train," whose injury was due to the working of a train at both ends at the same time, held properly refused as ignoring question of knowledge of plaintiff and of the negligence of the rear-end switching crew.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Proffitt, 36 S. Ct. 620, 241 U. S. 462, 60 L. Ed. 1102, affirming judgment 218 F. 23, 134 C. C. A. 37.

(E) REQUESTS OR PRAYERS.

Criminal prosecutions, see Criminal Law, 824-834.

Review of rulings, see Appeal and Error, 216, 702, 1067.

255. Necessity in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 627-641.

An omission to charge on an issue cannot be urged, where no instruction thereon was asked.—Carter v. Carusi, 112 U. S. 478, 5 S. Ct. 281, 28 L. Ed. 820.

256. Further or more specific instructions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 628-641; 24 Cent. Dig. Fraud. Conv. § 958.

Where the court properly charges the jury, so far as it goes, a party, if he wishes more specific instructions, should ask for them at the trial.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Mares, 123 U. S. 710, 8 S. Ct. 321, 31 L. Ed. 296, affirming judgment Mares v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 3 Dak. 336, 21 N. W. 5.

A judgment will not be reversed upon the ground that an instruction is argumentative or ambiguous, and calculated to mislead, when the party aggrieved fails to ask to have the same modified or additional instructions given.—Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Mackey, 157 U. S. 72, 15 S. Ct. 491, 39 L. Ed. 624.

Failure of trial court to specify in its charges matters to which its attention was not called is not ground for reversal.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Skaggs, 36 S. Ct. 249, 240 U. S. 66, 60 L. Ed. 528, affirming judgment Skaggs v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 147 N. W. 1135, 125 Minn. 532.

260. Instructions already given.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 651-659; 4 Cent. Dig. Assault, § 62; 9 Cent. Dig. Carr. § 1407; 24 Cent. Dig. Fraud. Conv. § 958; 32 Cent. Dig. Libel, § 372.

It is not error to refuse a requested charge substantially embraced in one which is given.—Iron Silver Min. Co. v. Cheesman, 116 U. S. 529, 6 S. Ct. 481, 29 L. Ed. 712; Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Muskegon Nat. Bank, 122 U. S. 501, 7 S. Ct. 1221, 30 L. Ed. 1100; Anthony v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 132 U. S. 172, 10 S. Ct. 53, 33 L. Ed. 301; Ayers v. Watson, 137 U. S. 584, 11 S. Ct. 201, 34 L. Ed. 803; Brown v. United States, 150 U. S. 93, 14 S. Ct. 37, 37 L. Ed. 1010; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Babcock, 154 U. S. 190, 14 S. Ct. 978, 38 L. Ed. 953; Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland v. Courtney, 22 S. Ct. 833, 186 U. S. 342, 46 L. Ed. 1193, affirming judgment 103 F. 599, 43 C. C. A. 331; Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Watson, 23 S. Ct. 681, 190 U. S. 287, 47 L. Ed. 1057, affirming judgment 112 F. 402, 50 C. C. A. 230.

Where the court charged that plaintiff could not recover for use and occupation unless defendant had the exclusive use and occupation of plaintiff's lands, and stocked them to their full capacity, there was no error in refusing defendant's requested charge as to his liability in case the lands were depastured by cattle, only part of which belonged to him.—

Lazarus v. Phelps, 156 U. S. 202, 15 S. Ct. 271, 39 L. Ed. 397.

A requested instruction is properly refused where the instructions given and not objected to embodied everything contained in the instruction refused that was adapted to the testimony and to the consideration which the jury might give to its various phases. Judgment (1906) 28 App. D. C. 498, affirmed.—Pickford v. Talbott, 29 S. Ct. 75, 211 U. S. 199, 53 L. Ed. 146.

Refusal to give a requested instruction, that a coal company's electric hauling system was in charge of a mine foreman for whose negligence towards another employé the company would not be liable, is not error, where the court submitted to the jury the question whether the coal company had intrusted such system to the mine foreman or to an electrical engineer, not accountable to such foreman.—Myers v. Pittsburgh Coal Co., 34 S. Ct. 559, 233 U. S. 184, 58 L. Ed. 906, reversing judgment Pittsburgh Coal Co. v. Myers, 203 F. 221, 121 C. C. A. 427.

—261. Erroneous requests.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 484, 660, 671, 673, 675; 4 Cent. Dig. Assault, § 62.

A requested instruction combining two propositions, one of which is erroneous, is properly denied.—Sweeney v. Erving, 33 S. Ct. 416, 228 U. S. 233, 57 L. Ed. 815, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 905, affirming judgment 35 App. D. C. 57.

A requested instruction on the question of the assumption of risk held properly refused, where couched in such general terms that it was not calculated to give the jury an accurate understanding of the law on that subject.—Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Earnest, 33 S. Ct. 654, 229 U. S. 114, 57 L. Ed. 1096, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 172.

—266. Manner of giving instructions asked.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 664-667.

The court is not required to give requested instructions in the identical words used therein, but it is sufficient if they are substantially given.—(Sup. N. M.) Cunningham v. Springer, 27 S. Ct. 301, 204 U. S. 647, 51 L. Ed. 662, 9 Ann. Cas. 897, affirming judgment (N. M. 1905) 82 P. 232.

(F) OBJECTIONS AND EXCEPTIONS.

Criminal prosecutions, see Criminal Law, —841-845.

Necessity of motion for new trial for purpose of review, see Appeal and Error, —292.

Necessity of objection or request for purpose of review, see Appeal and Error, —214-216.

—273. Time for objection or exception.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 680-682.

Exceptions to the giving or refusing of instructions must be made before the submission of the case to the jury and their retirement, or they will not be considered.—United States v. Carey, 110 U. S. 51, 3 S. Ct. 424, 28 L. Ed. 67.

The supreme court cannot consider an instruction not preserved by bill of exceptions, though appellant's counsel was not present to except when the instruction was given, in response to a question asked by the jury upon coming into court, after they had retired.—Stewart v. Wyoming Cattle Rancho Co., 128 U. S. 383, 9 S. Ct. 101, 32 L. Ed. 439.

Omissions to reserve exceptions to instructions cannot be cured by a motion for a new trial, so as to render them reviewable on appeal.—Reagan v. Aiken, 138 U. S. 109, 11 S. Ct. 283, 34 L. Ed. 892; Lewis v. United States, 146 U. S. 370, 13 S. Ct. 136, 36 L. Ed. 1011.

Exceptions to the giving or refusal of instructions, first taken after verdict or trial, will not be considered.—Reagan v. Aiken, 138 U. S. 109, 11 S. Ct. 283, 34 L. Ed. 892.

When a bill of exceptions sets out an instruction given by the court, following it with the words, "to which defendant excepted," it will be presumed that the exception was taken at the trial, and while the jury were at the bar, although there was no explicit statement to that effect.—New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. Jopes, 142 U. S. 18, 12 S. Ct. 109, 35 L. Ed. 919.

Rule that party cannot wait until after verdict, and then object to failure to instruct on some matter to which court's attention has not been called, is not altered by Gen. St. Minn. 1913, § 7830.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Skaggs, 36 S. Ct. 249, 240 U. S. 66, 60 L. Ed. 528, affirming judgment Skaggs v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 147 N. W. 1135, 125 Minn. 532.

Error in instructing, in action under Employers' Liability Act, that jury should consider plaintiff's negligence in comparison with that of defendant, does not call for reversal of judgment for plaintiff, where the court read the applicable provisions of the statute to the jury, and properly charged thereon, and no request was made for correction of the first part of the charge.—Id.

—275. Taking and noting exception.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 686.

Sending the jury out before counsel had stated all of his exceptions to the charge is not reversible error, where the judge allowed all the exceptions to be noted in open court.—Gandia v. Pettingill, 32 S. Ct. 127, 222 U. S. 452, 56 L. Ed. 267.

—276. Sufficiency and scope of objections or exceptions to instructions given.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 687-694.

—277. — Form and requisites in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 687, 688.

The rule that exceptions to instructions should be precise and pointed, so as not to require the court to search for errors through long passages, does not apply when it is necessary or useful to cite an entire passage in order to form a just view of the error complained of.—Hicks v. United States, 150 U. S. 442, 14 S. Ct. 144, 37 L. Ed. 1137.

—278. — General or specific.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 686, 689.

A general exception to an entire charge, and each and every part thereof, cannot be sustained. Such exception should point out the particular part or error which is complained of, so the trial judge may correct it, if he desires.—Burton v. West Jersey Ferry Co., 114 U. S. 474, 5 S. Ct. 960, 29 L. Ed. 215; White v. Barber, 123 U. S. 392, 8 S. Ct. 221, 31 L. Ed. 243; Block v. Darling, 140 U. S. 234, 11 S. Ct. 832, 35 L. Ed. 476; Van Stone v. Stillwell & Bierce Mfg. Co., 142 U. S. 128, 12 S. Ct. 181, 35 L. Ed. 961; Holder v. United States, 150 U. S. 91, 14 S. Ct. 10, 37 L. Ed. 1010.

—280. — Scope and questions raised.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 691-693.

A general exception to a charge covering a number of the elements of damages in a negligence suit does not cover the specific objection that the language of the court permitting a recovery for a pecuniary loss directly resulting from the injury would allow the infant plaintiff to recover compensation for his time before as well as after he had reached his majority, although, during infancy, his father is entitled to recover any wages he may earn. Judgment 25 App. D. C. 278, affirmed.—McDermott v. Severe, 26 S. Ct. 709, 202 U. S. 600, 50 L. Ed. 1162.

A general exception to an instruction dealing with the measure of damages in a negligence suit held not to cover specific objection that it erroneously conveys to the jury an intimation that a finding that the plaintiff's damages amounted to the sum named in it is justified by the evidence.—Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Earnest, 33 S. Ct. 654, 229 U. S. 114, 57 L. Ed. 1096, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 172.

281. — Instructions correct in part.
See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 694.

A general exception to the charge, or portions thereof, is of no avail, unless the same is entirely erroneous.—Cooper v. Schlesinger, 111 U. S. 148, 4 S. Ct. 360, 28 L. Ed. 382; Mobile & M. Ry. Co. v. Jurey, 111 U. S. 584, 4 S. Ct. 566, 28 L. Ed. 527; Anthony v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 132 U. S. 172, 10 S. Ct. 53, 33 L. Ed. 301; Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Mackey, 157 U. S. 72, 15 S. Ct. 491, 39 L. Ed. 624; Newport News & M. V. Co. v. Pace, 158 U. S. 36, 15 S. Ct. 743, 39 L. Ed. 887.

A general exception noted at the end of a charge containing a number of instructions which embody separate and distinct propositions, though it states that the party excepts to each instruction, is not sufficiently specific to challenge the correctness of any particular instruction; and raises no question for review where any of the propositions contained in the charge are correct. Judgment, Dunham v. Holloway, 41 P. 140, 3 Okl. 244, affirmed.—Holloway v. Dunham, 18 S. Ct. 784, 170 U. S. 615, 42 L. Ed. 1165.

A general exception to an entire instruction, some parts of which are not objectionable, does not entitle the exceptor to take advantage of a mistake in some single proposition therein.—Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Earnest, 33 S. Ct. 654, 229 U. S. 114, 57 L. Ed. 1096, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 172.

282. Sufficiency and scope of exceptions to failure or refusal to instruct.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 695, 696.

A general exception to the refusal of the court to give instructions asked for is not sufficient.—Moulton v. American Life Ins. Co., 111 U. S. 335, 4 S. Ct. 466, 28 L. Ed. 447; Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Union Trust Co. of New York, 112 U. S. 250, 5 S. Ct. 119, 28 L. Ed. 708; Burton v. West Jersey Ferry Co., 114 U. S. 474, 5 S. Ct. 960, 29 L. Ed. 215; Union Ins. Co. v. Smith, 124 U. S. 405, 8 S. Ct. 534, 31 L. Ed. 497; Chateaugay Ore & Iron Co. v. Blake, 144 U. S. 476, 12 S. Ct. 731, 36 L. Ed. 510; Bogk v. Gassert, 149 U. S. 17, 13 S. Ct. 738, 37 L. Ed. 631, affirming judgment Gassert v. Bogk, 19 P. 281, 7 Mont. 585; Newport News & M. V. Co. v. Pace, 158 U. S. 36, 15 S. Ct. 743, 39 L. Ed. 887; Union Pac. Ry. Co. v. Callaghan, 161 U. S. 91, 16 S. Ct. 493, 40 L. Ed. 628.

An exception to the modification by the court, in its general charge, of a particular proposition submitted by one of the parties, without stating specifically the modification to which objection is made, is too vague and indefinite.—Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Union Trust Co., 112 U. S. 250, 5 S. Ct. 119, 28 L. Ed. 708.

In an action to recover for personal injuries, plaintiff asked six instructions, of which the court gave two, declined to give one, and declined to give the other three except as covered by the general charge. The whole charge was incorporated into the bill of exceptions, which concluded: "To which refusal and charge * * * plaintiff excepted, and tendered this bill of exceptions," etc. Held, that this exception was insufficient, under rule 4 of the supreme court rules (3 S. Ct. v.).—Jones v. East Tennessee, V. & G. R. Co., 157 U. S. 682, 15 S. Ct. 719, 39 L. Ed. 856.

An exception to the refusal to give a requested instruction is sufficient to raise the question of the propriety of that portion of the general charge which affirms the contrary of such request. Judgment 107 F. 834, 46 C. C. A. 668, reversed.—Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Hillmon, 23 S. Ct. 294, 188 U. S. 208, 47 L. Ed. 446.

284. Effect of failure to object or except.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 693-695.

Where erroneous evidence is admitted, and the court fails to cure the error by a sufficient charge, a failure to except to the charge is not a waiver of the original exception to the admission of this evidence.—Boyd v. United States, 142 U. S. 450, 12 S. Ct. 292, 35 L. Ed. 1077, reversing judgment United States v. Boyd (C. C.) 45 F. 851.

(G) CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION.

Criminal prosecutions, see Criminal Law, 282, 823.

285. Rules of construction in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 698, 699.

Words contained in an instruction should not be subjected to "a nice criticism," when the meaning of the instruction is plain and obvious, and cannot mislead the jury.—Baltimore & P. R. Co. v. Mackey, 157 U. S. 72, 15 S. Ct. 491, 39 L. Ed. 624.

295. Construction and effect of charge as a whole.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 708-717; 32 Cent. Dig. Libel, § 378.

General language in a charge, which might have misled, separated from the context, but not when considered in proper connection with the rest of the instruction, is not ground for reversal.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Babcock, 154 U. S. 190, 14 S. Ct. 978, 38 L. Ed. 958.

Portions of a charge, which, considered alone, are objectionable, are not erroneous if, when construed with the whole charge, the objections are not apparent.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Lynch, 19 S. Ct. 878, 173 U. S. 701, 43 L. Ed. 1185, affirming judgment 79 F. 268, 24 C. C. A. 570.

Modification of a requested instruction as to damages in an action by a father for death of his minor children by adding that "the amount of damages cannot be fixed by the evidence, but must be the result of your own judgment," cannot be regarded as open to the objection that the jurors were thereby informed that they possessed the power capriciously to fix the amount of the damages, when read in connection with prior instructions to the effect that the measure of damages was the net value to the father of the services of his children during their minority—especially where the trial court is not asked to remove the supposed ambiguity. Judgment (1907) 89 P. 212, 18 Okl. 197, affirmed.—Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. Deselms, 29 S. Ct. 270, 212 U. S. 159, 53 L. Ed. 453.

Whether instructions could have misled the jury is to be ascertained by reviewing all the instructions together and the tendencies of the evidence.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Padgett, 35 S. Ct. 481, 238 U. S. 668, 59 L. Ed. 777, affirming judgment Padgett v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 83 S. E. 633, 99 S. C. 356.

—296. Error in instructions cured by withdrawal or giving other instructions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 705-713, 715, 716, 718; 9 Cent. Dig. Carr. § 1406; 32 Cent. Dig. Land. & Ten. § 1260; 34 Cent. Dig. Mast. & S. § 1208; 43 Cent. Dig. Seduc. § 4.

In an action where a preponderance only of the evidence is required, an instruction that the testimony must "decidedly" preponderate is not prejudicial error where the court in the same sentence charges that the evidence need not be so convincing as to make the effect beyond reasonable doubt.—Ætna Life Ins. Co. v. Ward, 140 U. S. 76, 11 S. Ct. 720, 35 L. Ed. 371.

Error in an instruction to the jury, in that it makes a city liable for injuries caused by a defect in sidewalks, regardless of negligence, is not ground for reversal, where an instruction immediately following makes the right of recovery for such injuries dependent on finding negligence on the part of the city in repairing or covering the defect.—City of Lincoln v. Power, 151 U. S. 436, 14 S. Ct. 387, 38 L. Ed. 224.

In an action for death by wrongful act, a statement by the judge to the jury that in a previous case he had given instructions that the damages were not restricted to the pecuniary loss suffered by the widow and next of kin is not error when he further stated that since that time the state supreme court, whose opinion was binding on him, had construed the statute as allowing for pecuniary loss only, and that they must confine their award accordingly.—Louisville, E. & St. L. R. Co. v. Clarke, 152 U. S. 230, 14 S. Ct. 579, 38 L. Ed. 422.

An apparent assumption in certain paragraphs or sentences of a charge that facts have been proven which are in dispute is not to be considered as error where the court, in other paragraphs, has repeatedly warned the jury that the responsibility of determining the facts is upon them, and that they are not bound by the court's opinion thereon.—Coffin v. United States, 162 U. S. 664, 16 S. Ct. 943, 40 L. Ed. 1109.

Detached and incidental remarks of the court in charging the jury with reference to the obligation of an employer to furnish proper machinery and appliances for his employé, which failed to state that this obligation is satisfied by the exercise of reasonable precaution, are not grounds for reversal, where the true rule on this point was given to the jury in other parts of the charge. Judgment 116 F. 23, 53 C. C. A. 497, affirmed.—Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. v. Tennessee, 24 S. Ct. 99, 191 U. S. 326, 48 L. Ed. 201.

Error in refusing to instruct the jury that parties who differed as to the medium of payment under a contract would be bound by a stipulation, by way of compromise, to extinguish, by a payment in United States currency, a larger amount due under the contract, estimated in Porto Rican currency, is not cured by instructing the jury, in the general charge, that the compromise evidenced by the agreement must be treated as ineffectual as to the particular items to which it related unless it was found that the minds of the parties had met on an entirely new and independent contract.—City of San Juan v. St. John's Gas Co.,

Charging the jury that, unless an accident to a railway brakeman was caused solely by the negligence of the conductor, the defendant railway company was liable, even if erroneous in that "sole cause" is not synonymous with "proximate cause," does not prejudice the defendant, where further instructions, given at its request, were to the effect that, if the conductor's negligence was the proximate cause of the accident, there could be no recovery, and the court's attention was not specifically drawn to the objection to the word "sole." Judgment (Ariz. 1905) 80 P. 337, affirmed.—Gila Valley, G. & N. Ry. Co. v. Lyon, 27 S. Ct. 145, 203 U. S. 465, 51 L. Ed. 276.

The inadvertent use of the word "beneficiaries" in instructing as to damages, in an action for death tried on the correct theory, held not prejudicial in view of the course of the trial and other instructions given.—Phoenix Ry. Co. v. Landis, 34 S. Ct. 179, 231 U. S. 578, 58 L. Ed. 377, affirming judgments 108 P. 247, 13 Ariz. 80, and 112 P. 844, 13 Ariz. 279.

Instructing the jury in an action under the Employers' Liability Act April 22, 1908, for the death of a railway fireman by the falling of his engine through a burning trestle, that if a servant is injured through defective instrumentalities it is prima facie evidence of the master's negligence, and that the master assumes the burden of showing due care, was not reversible error where the charge stated that the burden of proving negligence was on the plaintiff throughout.—Southern Ry.-Carolina Division v. Bennett, 34 S. Ct. 566, 233 U. S. 80, 58 L. Ed. 860, affirming judgment (S. C.) Bennett v. Southern Ry.-Carolina Division, 79 S. E. 710.

An instruction, that draft received for collection with bills of lading and bill of sale with instructions to deliver on payment must be regarded as paid so as to render collecting bank accountable if it permits the drawees on accepting the draft to take over the shipment, held no ground for reversal, where court charged that proceeds of sale were to be payment only if they equalled the amount of the draft.—Russo-Chinese Bank v. National Bank of Commerce of Seattle, Wash., 36 S. Ct. 652, 241 U. S. 403, 60 L. Ed. 1065, affirming judgment 206 F. 646, 124 C. C. A. 434.

Verdict contrary to law or evidence ground for new trial, see New Trial, —65.

(A) GENERAL VERDICT.

325. Polling jurors.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 765-767.

While a party has an undoubted right to poll a jury, a denial of such right is not jurisdictional so as to render a judgment rendered on the verdict returned a nullity, and where, by reason of illness, after a verdict had been signed by all the jury and sealed, a juror was unable to appear in court at the time the remaining jurors were polled, a judgment entered on such verdict, conceding it to have been erroneous, could only be set aside on direct proceedings for review. Judgment 12 App. D. C. 122, reversed.—Humphries v. District of Columbia, 19 S. Ct. 637, 174 U. S. 190, 43 L. Ed. 944.

326. Form and language in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 768, 783.

A verdict which speaks of "evaluating" instead of "valuing," is not therefore insufficient to support a judgment.—Snyder v. United States, 112 U. S. 216, 5 S. Ct. 118, 28 L. Ed. 697.

332. Amount of recovery.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 784-787.

333. — In general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 784, 786.

The omission of the word "dollars," in a verdict for plaintiff in assumpsit, is not such a defect as to prevent entry of judgment on it.—Hopkins v. Orr, 124 U. S. 510, 8 S. Ct. 590, 31 L. Ed. 523.

338. Amendment or correction.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 791-801.

339. — By jury.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 791-794; 43 Cent. Dig. Sales, § 705.

A jury presented a sealed verdict for the plaintiff, but left a blank space therein for the amount of the recovery. They stated to the court that they intended to find in the amount testified to by the plaintiff, but, as none of them were able to remember the exact sum, they had agreed to ask the court to inform them thereof from his minutes of the evidence. Thereupon the court gave them the amount, and the foreman, in open court, inserted the same with the assent of all the jurors. Held, that there was no error in this proceeding.—Clark v. Sidway, 142 U. S. 682, 12 S. Ct. 327, 35 L. Ed. 1157.

343. Construction and operation.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 809-812.

Where several issues are distinctly raised by the pleadings, and the verdict unequivocally states that the jury "find all issues in favor of the defendant," such finding cannot be controlled as to one of the issues by statements of fact in parts of the answer which set up, as independent defenses, matters in avoidance, or in a bill of exceptions relating to one of those defenses only.—Glenn v. Sumner, 132 U. S. 152, 10 S. Ct. 41, 33 L. Ed. 301.

345. Objections and exceptions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 816-820.

The objection that the verdict was not signed by the foreman, as required by Code Civ. Proc. Mont. § 270, is waived where, at the time the verdict was rendered, the jury was polled, at defendant's request, and each of the jurors answered that the verdict was theirs, whereupon plaintiff moved for judgment, which was ordered accordingly, and no objection or request that the verdict should be signed was made at the time by defendant.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Umlin, 158 U. S. 271, 15 S. Ct. 840, 39 L. Ed. 977.

(B) SPECIAL INTERROGATORIES AND FINDINGS.

Finding inconsistent with verdict in action to determine mining claims, see Mines and Minerals, 338.

Review of rulings involving discretion of lower court, see Appeal and Error, 974.

349. Power and duty of court to require special findings.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 823-827.

Under a statute providing that the jury "may be required by the court, in any case in which they render a general verdict, to find specially upon particular questions of fact," the submission of such questions of fact is in the discretion of the court. 7 C. C. A. 428, 58 F. 670, affirmed.—W. B. Grimes Dry-Goods Co. v. Malcolm, 17 S. Ct. 158, 164 U. S. 483, 41 L. Ed. 524.

350. Questions to be submitted.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 828-833.

The court need not require the jury to answer a special interrogatory which inquires into a fact only incidental to the issue, and which was, besides, undefined and uncertain as to time. Judgment (1906) 87 P. 311, 17 Okl. 344, affirmed.—Drumm-Flato Commission Co. v. Edmisson, 28 S. Ct. 367, 208 U. S. 534, 52 L. Ed. 606.

356. Failure to answer interrogatories or make findings.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 849-854.

Certain questions, covering only a part of the material issues, with the answers thereto, were returned as a special verdict. There was no general verdict nor bill of exceptions showing the evidence adduced. The judgment recited that it was rendered against the defendants "upon the special verdict of the jury, and facts conceded or not disputed upon the trial." Held, that the special verdict was insufficient to sustain the judgment, and it must be reversed, and a new trial had.—Hodges v. Easton, 106 U. S. 408, 1 S. Ct. 307, 27 L. Ed. 169.

358. Inconsistent findings.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 856.

The findings of the jury upon special issues of fact submitted to them for their determination, where warranted by the evidence, control conflicting findings made under the instructions of the court. Judgment, Aldridge v. Fardee, 60 S. W. 789, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 254, affirmed.—Fardee v. Aldridge, 23 S. Ct. 514, 189 U. S. 429, 47 L. Ed. 883.

X. TRIAL BY COURT.

Hearing in equity, see Equity, 376-392.
Review of proceedings, see Appeal and Error, 285, 846-850, 1071.

(A) HEARING AND DETERMINATION OF CAUSE.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 879-907.

Review of rulings, see Appeal and Error, 1054.

(B) FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW.

388. Duty to make in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 908-911, 915.

No finding of facts need be made where the question before the court for decision is the sufficiency of the averments of a counterclaim as a defense. Judgment 53 P. 201, 5 Ariz. 409, affirmed.—Daggs v. Phoenix Nat. Bank, 20 S. Ct. 732, 177 U. S. 549, 44 L. Ed. 882.

395. Sufficiency in general.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 927-934, 939.

Where there is a general finding by the court for defendants on all the issues of fact, no error can be assigned as to a special finding.—Meath v. Board of Mississippi Levee Com'rs, 109 U. S. 268, 3 S. Ct. 284, 27 L. Ed. 930.

Findings of fact are not to be construed with the strictness of special pleadings. They are sufficient if, taken together with the pleadings, enough can be seen to justify the judgment, notwithstanding want of precision and the intermixture of matters of fact with conclusions of law.—O'Reilly v. Campbell, 116 U. S. 418, 6 S. Ct. 421, 29 L. Ed. 669.

396. Conformity to pleadings, issues, and proofs.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 935-938.

In the absence of a statutory rule to the contrary, the defense of a statute of limitations, which is not raised either in pleading or on the trial, or before judgment, cannot be availed of; and a finding by the court that the action is barred is erroneous.—Retzer v. Wood, 109 U. S. 185, 3 S. Ct. 164, 27 L. Ed. 900.

398. Inconsistent findings and conclusions.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 946, 947.

Plaintiff, who with others held an option on a mine, in consideration of $5,000 furnished by defendant, agreed to deliver to him, at its original cost, $5,000 worth of stock in a corporation about to be formed to work the mine. The court found as facts that $6,000 was paid for the option and $50,000 for the mine; that the corporation was organized with 100,000 shares of stock, and subsequently assumed certain debts previously incurred by the option holders, and also borrowed of them certain sums of money, debts and loans together amounting to $14,127; but that this sum, as well as the $6,000 paid for the option, was repaid out of the net earnings of the company; and also found that the original cost of the entire stock was $50,000, or 50 cents per share. On this basis 10,000 shares of stock were actually delivered to defendant, and plaintiff seeks to recover a portion thereof, claiming that the actual cost was 62½ cents per share. Held, that the finding that the cost was 50 cents per share was a finding of fact, and not inconsistent with the other findings, and, in the absence of exceptions, conclusive as to defendant's right to the 10,000 shares.—Egan v. Clasbey, 137 U. S. 654, 11 S. Ct. 231, 34 L. Ed. 822, affirming judgment Egan v. Same, 5 Utah, 154, 13 P. 430.

400. Amendment or correction.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 949, 950.

An amendment of its findings of fact may properly be made by the court of claims in order to make its findings conform to the truth, though final judgment has already been entered, but while its record has not yet passed out of its control by the allowance of an appeal. Judgment, St. Louis & M. V. Transp. Co. v. United States, 33 Ct. Cl. 251, affirmed.—United States v. St. Louis & M. V. Transp. Co., 22 S. Ct. 350, 184 U. S. 247, 46 L. Ed. 520.

401. Additional findings.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 951, 952.

The trial court, in denying a motion for a new trial, where it is claimed that it had omitted to find on material issues of fact in the case, may make such additional findings responsive to the issues presented as will cure the omission.—North v. Peters, 138 U. S. 271, 11 S. Ct. 348, 34 L. Ed. 936.

404. Construction and operation.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 957-962.

Plaintiff, who with others held an option on a mine, in consideration of $5,000 furnished by defendant, agreed to deliver to him, at its original cost, $5,000 worth of stock in a corporation about to be formed to work the mine. The court found that the original cost of the entire stock was 50 cents per share. On this basis 10,000 shares of stock were actually delivered to defendant, and plaintiff seeks to recover a portion thereof, claiming that the actual cost was 62½ cents per share. Plaintiff averred that defendant, by a subsequent contract, had agreed to deliver to him the claimed excess of stock, but after returning 525 shares refused to turn over the rest. Defendant denied such agreement, and counterclaimed for the 525 shares. The court found that these shares were delivered at plaintiff's request to enable him to fill a sale which he had made, and to give 25 shares to another person, and was subject to the final adjustment of their stock account. Held that, in the absence of exceptions, this was conclusive of defendant's right to recover the stock.—Egan v. Clasbey, 137 U. S. 654, 11 S. Ct. 231, 34 L. Ed. 822, affirming judgment Egan v. Same, 5 Utah, 154, 13 P. 430.

Under Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 525, 570], which provide that in cases tried before the circuit court without a jury its findings of fact shall be "either general or special," they cannot be both; and where the circuit court has made a general finding, a recital of the evidence in the bill of exceptions, together with a statement that the court thereafter made the following findings of fact and judgment thereon, followed by an opinion of the court assigning reasons for its conclusions, cannot be treated as a special finding, so as to enable the supreme court on appeal to determine whether the facts found support the judgment, nor can the general finding be disregarded.—British Queen Min. Co. v. Baker Silver Min. Co., 139 U. S. 222, 11 S. Ct. 523, 35 L. Ed. 147.

A specific finding by the trial court that the contract sued on was sustained by the evidence negatives its inducement by fraud, as alleged by defendant, and renders a finding thereon unnecessary.—Fox v. Haarstick, 156 U. S. 674, 15 S. Ct. 457, 39 L. Ed. 576, affirming judgment Haarstick v. Fox, 9 Utah, 110, 33 P. 251.

XI. WAIVER AND CORRECTION OF IRREGULARITIES AND ERRORS.

Error waived in appellate court, see Appeal and Error, 1078.

Review of proceedings, see Appeal and Error, 169-294, 1025-1074.

408. Irregularities in conduct of trial.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 970.

In a suit to quiet title to lands, any alleged error in a statement by the court that it would take notice of a certain patent, and that the lands in controversy were included therein, was cured by the subsequent introduction in evidence of the patent and maps, from which it fully appeared that the land was so included. Judgment, United Land Ass'n v. Pacific Imp. Co. (1902) 69 P. 1064, 139 Cal. 370, affirmed.—United Land Ass'n v. Abrahams, 28 S. Ct. 569, 208 U. S. 614, 52 L. Ed. 645.

410. Rulings as to admissibility of evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 974-979.

412. — Admission.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 182, 974-977.

An objection to the admissibility of telegrams in evidence because they were copies is waived by failure to insist upon a ruling on the objection and reserve the question. Judgment 113 F. 1021, 51 C. C. A. 688, reversed.—United States v. McCoy, 24 S. Ct. 528, 193 U. S. 593, 48 L. Ed. 805.

416. Rulings as to weight and sufficiency of evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, §§ 980-983.

418. — Demurrer to evidence.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 981.

A demurrer to the evidence is waived by the defendant by the introduction of evidence in defense after the demurrer is overruled.—(Sup., Okl., 1908) McCabe & Steen Const. Co. v. Wilson, 28 S. Ct. 558, 209 U. S. 275, 52 L. Ed. 788.

419. — Dismissal or nonsuit.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 982.

Defendant, by introducing evidence after his motion for a nonsuit has been erroneously overruled, waives the error.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Mares, 123 U. S. 710, 8 S. Ct. 321, 31 L. Ed. 296, affirming judgment Mares v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 3 Dak. 336, 21 N. W. 5.

The denial of a motion to dismiss a complaint cannot be assigned as error if the defendant did not rest, but introduced evidence.—Sigafus v. Porter, 21 S. Ct. 34, 179 U. S. 116, 45 L. Ed. 113, reversing judgment 84 F. 430, 28 C. C. A. 443.

420. — Direction of verdict.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 983.

Where an instruction to find for defendant is asked at the close of plaintiff's evidence, and erroneously denied, and defendant then introduces evidence, and fails to renew his request, error in the refusal is waived.—Grand Trunk

R. Co. v. Cummings, 106 U. S. 700, 1 S. Ct. 493, 27 L. Ed. 266; Accident Ins. Co. of North America v. Crandal, 120 U. S. 527, 7 S. Ct. 685, 30 L. Ed. 740, affirming judgment Crandal v. Accident Ins. Co. (C. C.) 27 F. 40; Union Ins. Co. v. Smith, 124 U. S. 405, 8 S. Ct. 534, 31 L. Ed. 497; Robertson v. Perkins, 129 U. S. 233, 9 S. Ct. 279, 32 L. Ed. 686, reversing Perkins v. Robertson (C. C.) 29 F. 842; Union Pac. Ry. Co. v. Callaghan, 161 U. S. 91, 16 S. Ct. 493, 40 L. Ed. 628; Hansen v. Boyd, 161 U. S. 397, 16 S. Ct. 571, 40 L. Ed. 746, reversing judgment Boyd v. Hanson (C. C.) 41 F. 174.

425. Misconduct of or affecting jury.

See 46 Cent. Dig. Trial, § 972.

Error in permitting the whole of a memorandum book to go to the jury, part thereof, not put in evidence, being inadmissible, and prejudicial to the party objecting, is not cured by directing the jury not to examine such part.—Bates v. Preble, 151 U. S. 149, 14 S. Ct. 277, 38 L. Ed. 106.

Under How. Ann. St. Mich. § 5573, providing that express trusts may be created for the beneficial interest of any persons when such trust is fully expressed and clearly defined on the face of the instrument creating it, where a conveyance is made in trust for several persons it is not necessary to specify the interest that each is to take, since, in the absence of anything to the contrary, their interests will be presumed to be equal.—Loring v. Palmer, 118 U. S. 321, 6 S. Ct. 1073, 30 L. Ed. 211.

Though the deed conveying land to one as trustee does not state the purposes or beneficiaries of the trust, where these can be plainly gathered from the contract to convey and letters between the parties relating thereto, this is sufficient, under How. Ann. St. Mich. § 5573, subd. 5, providing that an express trust may be created for the beneficial interest of any person when such trust is fully expressed and clearly defined on the face of the instrument creating it.—Id.

Various parties rendered services to an Indian tribe in pressing a claim against the United States under arrangements which made their right to compensation contingent on success, but these services did not result in the collection of any money. Afterwards the tribe made a contract with other parties for services to be directed to the same end, and to be paid for by a percentage of the amount realized. The contract, however, contained a stipulation that these parties should "adjust the claims of all parties who have rendered service heretofore in the prosecution of said claim upon the principles of equity and justice, according to the value of the service so rendered." Held, that this provision was not a mere stipulation to indemnify the Indian tribe against the claims of the class of persons named, but was a stipulation in favor of the latter, and created a trust, which they could enforce against the contractors by a suit in equity.—McKee v. Latrobe, 159 U. S. 327, 16 S. Ct. 15, 40 L. Ed. 169.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 43.

When an undisclosed principal places property in the hands of his agent to indemnify the agent against personal liability on a contract made by the agent in his own name, but for the benefit of the undisclosed principal, no trust is created in favor of the creditor.—Ware v. Galveston City Co., 111 U. S. 170, 4 S. Ct. 337, 28 L. Ed. 393.

635. Agreements to hold or convey to use of another.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 45-50.

A conveyance with the understanding that the grantee, in assuming title and control of the property with discretion as to a sale, is to pay out of his own means obligations of the grantor, and, after sale and satisfaction of debts, to share with him the excess, if any, of the proceeds of sale, creates a trust and not a mortgage.—Flagg v. Walker, 113 U. S. 659, 5 S. Ct. 697, 28 L. Ed. 1072.

Defendant, a one-third owner in a gold mine, purchased the outstanding interests with money furnished by a firm of which S. was a member, and deeded the entire mine by warranty deeds to S., trustee, who executed a declaration of trust, reciting that he held such mine upon trust to receive the rents, issues, and profits, and apply the same, first, to the payment of all expenses of operating the mine, keeping it in repair, and taxes, thereafter to the payment of the money advanced for the purchase of the two-thirds interest, with interest thereon, etc., and then to reconvey to defendant. Held, that S. was a mere trustee and not a purchaser, and, upon the profits proving inadequate to satisfy the claim for advances, the mine was liable therefor.—Gisborne v. Charter Oak Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, 142 U. S. 326, 12 S. Ct. 277, 35 L. Ed. 1029, affirming decree Charter Oak Life Ins. Co. v. Gisborne, 5 Utah, 319, 15 P. 253.

638. Acceptance by trustee.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 54-56.

Evidence that on a conveyance in trust the deed was received and kept by the trustee for a time, and then delivered to his cestui que trust, is proof that the deed was delivered, and the trusteeship accepted.—Hitz v. National Metropolitan Bank, 111 U. S. 722, 4 S. Ct. 613, 28 L. Ed. 577.

643. — Parol evidence.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 62-65.

Where parol evidence is necessary, and is admitted to establish a trust under a deed which shows no such trust, the same kind of evidence is admissible to defeat it.—Newhall v. Le Breton, 119 U. S. 259, 7 S. Ct. 225, 30 L. Ed. 381.

644. — Weight and sufficiency.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 66-63.

On October 29, 1877, land was sold under a mortgage to the mortgagees. The mortgagor remained in possession for about a year, and then, on notice to quit, relinquished possession without protest, and never made any claim to the land until 1893, when he filed a suit to redeem. He testified that on the day of the sale he objected to proceeding with it because no bidders were present but the mortgagees, and that they then orally assured him that, if he would permit them to go through the form of a sale, they would hold the property for his benefit, and reconvey when their debt was satisfied. This testimony was expressly contradicted by the mortgagees. Held, that the mortgagor's subsequent conduct was inconsistent with any such trust arrangement, and his suit must fail. Decree 8 App. D. C. 230, affirmed.—Levis v. Kengla, 18 S. Ct. 309, 169 U. S. 234, 42 L. Ed. 723.

646. Termination.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 83-87.

Premature payment to the beneficiaries in a testamentary trust will not be ordered, in the absence of circumstances for which the testatrix made no provision, if the postponement directed by the will does not offend against some principle of positive law or public policy.—Shelton v. King, 33 S. Ct. 686, 229 U. S. 90, 57 L. Ed. 1086, affirming decree King v. Shelton, 36 App. D. C. 1.

(B) RESULTING TRUSTS.

63½. Effect of statute of frauds and statutes prohibiting parol trusts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 93.

Where one of two adverse claimants to a mining claim furnishes to the other part of the expense of procuring patent, and allows him to obtain patent in his own name under a parol agreement to convey a half interest in the mine to the claimant furnishing the money, there is no resulting trust that will take the transaction out of the statute of frauds, where it is not clearly shown by the pleadings that the money was furnished before the patent was obtained.—Ducie v. Ford, 138 U. S. 587, 11 S. Ct. 417, 34 L. Ed. 1091, affirming judgment 8 Mont. 233, 19 P. 414.

⚡68. Failure, lapse, or other extinguishment of trust.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 94.

When a deed of land is made to trustees of a society for a burial ground, upon the termination of the trust, a resulting trust arises to the grantor and his heirs.—Hopkins v. Grimshaw, 17 S. Ct. 401, 165 U. S. 342, 41 L. Ed. 739.

A trust in corporate stock held to fail both as to dividends and principal and a resulting trust in favor of the donor to have arisen on the death, before January 1, 1910, of the beneficiary in a trust created in favor of the donor's married daughter by an instrument dated March 27, 1909.—Chater v. Carter, 35 S. Ct. 859, 238 U. S. 572, 59 L. Ed. 1462.

⚡70. Intention of grantee to hold for or convey to another.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 95-97.

Suit having been brought by a devisee to set aside a will, an agreement was made by all the devisees under which it was to be dismissed, and for the purpose of making an equal division of the property it was agreed that D., on account of advancements to the other devisees, should bid in certain land for the benefit of his minor children. D. being administrator, and therefore unable to bid at the sale, the land was bid in by S. for D.'s children, and an absolute deed was made to him by D. D. entered into possession for his children. Subsequently S., without consideration, conveyed the land to G., who brought ejectment against D. and recovered judgment, on which he agreed not to issue execution until D. could prosecute a suit to test his rights to the property. Held, that G. held the land under a resulting trust for D.'s children, and should be enjoined from causing execution to issue on the judgment in ejectment.—Albright v. Oyster, 140 U. S. 493, 11 S. Ct. 916, 35 L. Ed. 534, affirming decree (C. C.) Oyster v. Oyster, 28 F. 909.

⚡71. Payment of consideration for conveyance to another.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 102-120.

⚡81. Relationship between parties.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 115-118.

The fact that property purchased by a husband, and which was conveyed to his wife, was so conveyed on an express agreement as to the disposition she should make of it, does not destroy the trust arising from the transaction in favor of the husband; and, in case of the wife's death without having fulfilled the agreement, he may enforce such trust against her heirs. Judgment Meech v. Smithsonian Inst., 8 App. D. C. 490, reversed.—Smithsonian Institution v. Meech, 18 S. Ct. 396, 169 U. S. 398, 42 L. Ed. 793.

⚡85. Evidence to establish trust.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 123-137.

⚡89. Weight and sufficiency.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 134-137.

Where it is established that the consideration for property conveyed to a wife was paid by her husband, no arbitrary rule exists as to the amount or kind of evidence required to overcome the presumption of fact that the conveyance was intended as a provision for the benefit of the wife alone; and satisfactory proof of a contemporaneous agreement that the wife should by will dispose of the property after her death in a certain manner is sufficient to raise a resulting trust in favor of the husband. Judgment Meech v. Smithsonian Institution, 8 App. D. C. 490, reversed.—Smithsonian Institution v. Meech, 18 S. Ct. 396, 169 U. S. 398, 42 L. Ed. 793.

(C) CONSTRUCTIVE TRUSTS.

⚡92½. Statute of frauds and statutes prohibiting parol trusts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 141.

The statute of frauds is not violated by a decree declaring a trust in land conveyed in violation of an oral contract under which, in consideration of the support of the grantor and his wife for life, the title should be conveyed by will or otherwise to the promisee, and which has been partially performed by delivery of possession of the premises on the one hand, and on the other by furnishing support to the owners according to the contract, since the relief rests, not upon the parol contract, but upon the equities arising out of the subsequent acts and conduct of the promisor. Decree 15 App. D. C. 164, affirmed.—Whitney v. Hay, 21 S. Ct. 537, 181 U. S. 77, 45 L. Ed. 758.

⚡95. Fraud or other wrong in acquisition of property in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 145-147.

Plaintiff and defendant filed on separate and adjoining tracts of land, and made improvements thereon. Defendant, without the knowledge of plaintiff, obtained permission to amend his declaratory statement so as to include the tract on which plaintiff had settled, and thus bought that tract, and had it included in his patent. Held, that the filing having been allowed and the patent obtained on false representations that defendant was occupying and had improved plaintiff's land, defendant will be deemed a trustee for plaintiff, and restrained from bringing ejectment for the land.—Sanford v. Sanford, 139 U. S. 642, 11 S. Ct. 666, 35 L. Ed. 290, affirming decree 19 Or. 1, 13 P. 602.

The mere grant of licenses or permits to cut timber on certain described lands in the public domain did not make the cutting of timber on other lands by the licensees the act of trustees ex maleficio, so as to enable the United States to resort to a court of equity for redress. Decree 133 F. 274, 66 C. C. A. 652, affirmed.—United States v. Bitter Root Development Co., 26 S. Ct. 318, 200 U. S. 451, 50 L. Ed. 550.

⚡98. Breach of oral agreement as to lands to be purchased.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 150, 151.

⚡100. Judicial sale.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 151; 21 Cent. Dig. Execution, § 726.

A decree provided that land held in trust should be sold by a master; that, of the proceeds $505,000 should be paid to one of the cestuis que trustent for advances made by him; that half of the balance should also be paid to him; that the other half should be applied to pay $83,000 to a creditor of the other cestui que trust, and the surplus, if any, to such other cestui que trust. The creditor entered into a secret agreement with a third person, whereby the latter, in consideration of the assignment to him of such creditor's interest in the decree, agreed to pay him, or bid enough as against any other purchaser to secure full payment to him of his debt. Held, that such agreement was not an abuse of the process of the court, and did not create a trust in favor of the other parties in interest as to the amount so agreed to be paid.—Green v. Bogue, 158 U. S. 478, 15 S. Ct. 975, 39 L. Ed. 1061.

An executor, who, at the foreclosure sale under a mortgage given by one of the devisees of her interest in the testator's estate, purchases the same for himself, there being no trace of fraud in the matter, does not hold the property in trust for her.—Allen v. Gillette, 127 U. S. 589, 8 S. Ct. 1331, 32 L. Ed. 271.

A payment of a bequest by an executor to a missionary society, out of funds that have been paid to him as an attorney by a client to be used in completing a purchase of land, but which the attorney misappropriates to cover up his defalcation as executor, does not make the society liable as a trustee ex maleficio to such client for the amount received by it from such attorney, where the society has no knowledge of the misappropriation and proceeds to expend the money in good faith before it has any notice thereof. Decree 92 F. 745, 34 C. C. A. 649, affirmed.—Holly v. Domestic & Foreign Missionary Soc. of Potestant Episcopal Church, 21 S. Ct. 395, 180 U. S. 284, 45 L. Ed. 531.

Plaintiff and defendant, interested in mining property, had an understanding that, if the interest of certain of their associates could be purchased, they would buy together, but no specified price was agreed on. The parties did not have resources sufficient to make the purchase, and one H., for whose benefit the purchase was particularly to be made, did not consent to the arrangement. Held that, on the proposed arrangement being carried out by the defendant and H., plaintiff did not acquire any interest in the property purchased, as there is no relation of trust or confidence between mining partners which is violated by the sale and conveyance by one partner to a stranger or to one of the associates of his share in the property and business of the association.—Bissell v. Foss, 114 U. S. 252, 5 S. Ct. 851, 29 L. Ed. 126.

The owner of a part interest in a mining claim is a co-tenant with the other owners; and if, without their knowledge, he procures a patent in his own name, he becomes a trustee for them, and equity will enforce the trust in their favor.—*Turner v. M. held certain corporate stock as trustee for B., and the latter requested him by letter to execute an acknowledgment that he held it in trust for S., stating that S. had paid B. "its cost and interest." M. executed an acknowledgment that he so held the stock "under an arrangement with B.," and "in conformity with an arrangement between B., S., and myself." This he sent to B., requesting him to return it for any alterations needed to make it conform to his wishes. When S. afterwards called on him to account for the stock so held, M. claimed that it was and had always been held subject to advances made by him to B. Held, that this claim could not be sustained upon the face of the transaction, and in view of further evidence that S. paid to B. the full amount paid upon the stock, which was never repaid, and that when M. executed the acknowledgment of trust in favor of S. he knew that B. was in extreme financial embarrassment.—McComb v. Frink, 149 U. S. 629, 13 S. Ct. 993, 37 L. Ed. 876, affirming decree Snyder's Adm'r v. McComb's Ex'r, 39 F. 292.

After services had been rendered by various parties in pressing an Indian claim for money against the United States, the tribe entered into a new contract with different parties, agreeing to give them 30 per cent. of any amounts obtained; with a stipulation that they should adjust, upon principles of equity and justice, all claims by persons who had previously rendered services in prosecuting the claim. Held, that money received by the contractors as compensation constituted a trust fund for the persons described, who could sue in equity to enforce their claims, though not mentioned by name in the stipulation.—McKee v. Lamon, 159 U. S. 317, 16 S. Ct. 11, 40 L. Ed. 165.

Those only who answer the description "surviving children," on the execution of a trust deed providing for the grantor's children by his first wife, are meant by a clause directing that in the event of the death without issue of any of the above-mentioned children his share should be sold and the proceeds divided among grantor's surviving children.—*Frosch v. ¶165. — Power to remove.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 216.

Where the authority given to one of several heirs appointed trustee under a will is substantially that of an agent to manage real estate, a power given the other heirs to remove him "by their unanimous resolution," with the concurrence of the widow, "for good and sufficient cause," and appoint another in his stead, may be exercised without resort to a court of equity; the power to determine the sufficiency of the cause being subject only to the restraining power of a court of equity against the abuse of it.—May v. May, 17 S. Ct. 824, 167 U. S. 310, 42 L. Ed. 179, affirming decree 5 App. D. C. 552.

The filing of a bill by the trustee under a will asking the instructions of the court as to the execution of the trust does not suspend the power to remove him given to the beneficiaries by the will, but only subjects their action to the supervision of the court.—Id.

¶166. — Grounds.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 217, 218.

Neglect to invest money in his hands is a breach of trust in a trustee, and is ground sufficient for his removal.—Cavender v. Cavender, 114 U. S. 464, 5 S. Ct. 955, 29 L. Ed. 212, affirming (C. C.) 8 F. 641, 3 McCrary, 158.

A court of equity may remove a trustee, and appoint another in his stead, whenever such a state of mutual ill feeling, growing out of his behavior, exists between him and the beneficiaries that his continuance in office would be detrimental to the execution of the trust, though there be no dishonesty.—May v. May, 17 S. Ct. 824, 167 U. S. 310, 42 L. Ed. 179, affirming decree 5 App. D. C. 552.

¶169. Appointment and succession of new trustee.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 222-224.

A testamentary trust survives the death of the trustee where the will provides that, if the executrix, who was also named as trustee, should die or for any cause should become unable to act in the trust, a new trustee should be appointed by the court, so that the trusts thereby created should be at all times preserved and carried into effect. Decree (1905) 25 App. D. C. 514, affirmed.—Cruit v. Owen, 27 S. Ct. 71, 203 U. S. 368, 51 L. Ed. 227.

The death or resignation of the trustees named in a will, who are directed to pay and see to the application of a bequest to an educational institution, to be held and used as an endowment for the purposes of colonial research, does not cause the trust to fail, but the court may appoint their successors. Judgment, Colbert v. Speer, 24 App. D. C. 187, affirmed.—Speer v. Colbert, 28 S. Ct. 201, 200 U. S. 130, 50 L. Ed. 403.

IV. MANAGEMENT AND DISPOSAL OF TRUST PROPERTY.

¶181. Collection of outstanding property.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 234, 235, 323.

Where land is conveyed to trustees as security for a loan of trust funds, and they lease it to the grantor, they can consent to a judicial sale of it, divested of their interest, in proceedings to subject the grantor's interest to claims of creditors.—Robb v. Vos, 155 U. S. 13, 15 S. Ct. 4, 39 L. Ed. 52.

¶188. Sale and conveyance.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 240-279; 40 Cent. Dig. Powers, §§ 82-98.

¶198. — Purchase by trustee.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 258-266.

A purchase of trust property by the trustee for his own benefit at a public sale is not void, but voidable, and will be considered as affirmed on the failure of the cestui que trust to object thereto within a reasonable time after obtaining knowledge of the facts.—Hammond v. Hopkins, 143 U. S. 224, 12 S. Ct. 418, 36 L. Ed. 134.

Where the executors and trustees of a will purchased the trust property at a public sale, the fact that, after recording the deeds made to them as individuals, the executors conveyed three of the lots by deeds purporting to be given by them as executors, cannot be considered as evidence that they still assumed to deal with the property in that character, for the purpose of deceiving the legatees, when it appears that other lots from the same square were conveyed by them as individuals, and that all the deeds were drawn by a scrivener who had been accustomed to draw deeds for them as executors before the sale. It will be presumed that the old form was preserved through the scrivener's inadvertence.—Id.

Testator, owning a half interest with his brother in a brickmaking business, and in several squares of land used in connection therewith, and in a square on which was located his brother's homestead, all being situated in an unimproved part of the city, constituted his brother and his son his executors and trustees, directing them to carry on the brick business, support and educate his family from the profits, and at a fixed time to divide and distribute his estate among his children. Having performed all requirements up to the time for the division, the executors sold, not the testator's undivided interest, but the whole title. The two squares containing the brickyards were advertised and sold together, as the brick business. The square containing the homestead was sold separately, as an entirety. The executors, through a third person, bought these, together with other lands belonging to the estate, for their own benefit. The deeds to the ostensible purchaser recited a consideration of one dollar, and those from him to the trustees stated the actual sum paid at the sale. The sale was in May, and the deeds were not recorded until November. At the time of the sale there were no graded streets in the vicinity, the land was much cut up by the excavations for clay, and from the evidence it appeared doubtful whether a larger sum would have been realized by a subdivision and sale in lots. Held, in a suit commenced 19 years afterwards, and after the death of both trustees, that these facts alone were insufficient to show a conspiracy between them to obtain the lands for themselves at an inadequate price, or to prove actual fraud or bad faith.—Id.

The fact that neighboring squares, sold at the same time, and purchased partly by the trustees and partly by others, after subdivision into lots, brought considerably more than the squares sold as entireties, was insufficient to show an intentional attempt to acquire the latter for an inadequate price, especially when the evidence disclosed considerable differences in the lands, and a special value as to one of the purchasers.—Id.

L. died intestate, leaving as his next of kin and heirs at law nine brothers and sisters. His estate was all in personality, save an undivided one thirty-seventh interest in a portion of a congressional land grant under a contract between a railroad company and a syndicate of nine persons, of which L. was a member. To save expense of administration, the estate being very large, it was agreed that B., who was a confidential friend of L., should distribute the estate. B. estimated L.'s interest in the land grant as worth $10,000, and undertook to dispose of it for that sum, and, after unsuccessful negotiations, bought it for the syndicate of which he was a member. He sent to each heir a statement of account, and a check for his or her share of the estate, including the proceeds of such sale, demanding a release from further liability. Shortly thereafter, in answer to letters from two of the heirs, B. expressed his willingness to give up the interest in the lands on payment of the amount paid to the heirs therefor, but demanded that they decide at once, as the lands were in litigation. Subsequently B. twice renewed his offer, but nothing was done for two years, when, the litigation having been successfully ended, and the lands risen in value, the heirs again opened the correspondence by asking further particulars, when B. declined to renew his offer, in view of the lapse of time, the formation of a new company, and the change of circumstances. B. at all times acted in good faith, and did not at any time conceal the circumstances from the heirs, who knew of the condition of the lands and the litigation respecting them. Held that, while the sale was voidable, B. having purchased from himself as trustee, the heirs, by their unexplained delay in the circumstances, must be considered to have ratified the sale.—Hoyt v. Latham, 143 U. S. 553, 12 S. Ct. 568, 36 L. Ed. 259, reversing Latham v. Barney, 14 Fed. 433.

200. — Conveyance and delivery of property.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 267-289; 16 Cent. Dig. Deeds, § 402.

An order approving a trustee's sale, without notice to the beneficial owners of the property, is improvident.—Kenaday v. Edwards, 134 U. S. 117, 10 S. Ct. 523, 33 L. Ed. 853.

201. — Payment or recovery of purchase money.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 270.

Property devised for life, with remainder in fee, was sold by a trustee for the benefit of the devisees under 11 Stat. 118, allowing such sales, the proceeds to be held as realty according to the terms of the will. By the decree the proceeds were to be applied to improving other property devised on the same conditions. The purchaser gave his notes for the price. Afterwards the District of Columbia, without the trustee's consent, bought this property from the purchaser, paying in bonds of the District, whose cash value was less than the price fixed by the judicial sale. Held, that though the money received by the purchaser should have been given to the trustee, to be applied by him to improvements, yet for so much as was actually expended by such purchaser on improvements the District was an equitable assignee of the purchaser's rights, and entitled in equity to a deed from the trustee on payment of the difference between the price fixed by the judicial sale and the cash value of the bonds.—District of Columbia v. McBlair, 124 U. S. 320, 8 S. Ct. 547, 31 L. Ed. 449.

202. — Application of proceeds.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 271, 272.

A trustee, receiving money from the sale of trust property, must account for it, regardless of the validity of the title by which such property was held.—Griffith v. Godey, 113 U. S. 89, 5 S. Ct. 383, 28 L. Ed. 934.

205. Lease.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 280-282.

The receipt of rent by the beneficiary in a trust, after the expiration of a lease containing a covenant to renew, in ignorance of the invalidity of such lease under the statute of frauds, is not such part performance as calls for the specific performance of such covenant, especially where her action was unknown to the trustees, who had substantially refused to renew on the old basis, and took place while negotiations were pending between them and the lessee relative to the terms of a continued occupation of the land. Decree, Baltimore & O. Ry. Co. v. Winslow, 18 App. D. C. 438, reversed.—Winslow v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 23 S. Ct. 443, 188 U. S. 646, 47 L. Ed. 635.

209. Contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 297-300.

210. — In general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 297, 299, 300.

A trustee who makes a contract for the benefit of the trust estate, even though the contract is within the scope of his authority, and he describes himself as trustee, renders himself individually liable in an action at law, and must resort to the fund for reimbursement.—Taylor v. Mayo, 110 U. S. 330, 4 S. Ct. 147, 28 L. Ed. 163.

The owner of land borrowed money from an insurance company, executing deeds of trust thereon as security. Subsequently he conveyed this and other land to the agent, who took possession, and received from the company advances sufficient to complete improvements thereon, and pay off all the incumbrances, including the debt of the former owner to itself. The company in good faith and without negligence believed that the agent, as holder of the legal title, was authorized to so raise and secure such loans. Held, that the company had a valid lien for its advances, and that the former owner's only equity was an accounting between the company and its agent, and the right to redeem on payment of the balance found due the company.—Ballock v. Hooper, 146 U. S. 363, 13 S. Ct. 128, 36 L. Ed. 1008, affirming decree 6 Mackey, 421.

231. Individual interest in transactions.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 330-335.

Trustees who invest trust funds in notes owned by a firm of real estate brokers in which one trustee is a partner, paying full face value, must account for commissions received by the firm from the makers of the notes when the loans were made which the notes represented.—Magruder v. Drury, 35 S. Ct. 77, 235 U. S. 106, 59 L. Ed. 151, reversing decree 37 App. D. C. 519.

233. Waste, conversion, or embezzlement by trustee.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 339.

A trustee sold his own stock in a corporation for a large price, and transferred the trust stock to the same purchaser without receiving anything therefor. The object of the purchaser was to secure a controlling interest in the corporation; but the sale of the trustee's stock was subject to an obligation to repurchase at the end of a given time at an advance of 30 per cent. Held, that the price received by the trustee was not the measure of damages for his conversion of the trust stock, and the cestui que trust could only recover what he actually paid for the stock, with interest.—McComb v. Frink, 149 U. S. 629, 13 S. Ct. 993, 37 L. Ed. 876, affirming decree (C. C.) Snyder's Adm'r's v. McComb's Ex'x, 39 F. 292.

236. Reimbursement and indemnity to trustee.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 325½, 326, 334.

Where a defendant admits that he holds land in trust for plaintiff, in an action to recover title and possession, a court of equity will require plaintiff to pay him for his improvements on the land.—Case v. Kelly, 133 U. S. 21, 10 S. Ct. 216, 33 L. Ed. 513.

237. Ratification of unauthorized acts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 325, 344.

A mine was conveyed to a trustee to operate, and apply the profits to its expenses and the payment of certain debts, and then to reconvey to defendant. After the trustee had mined some $20,000, the vein, which had theretofore produced abundantly, suddenly ran out, and in fruitless efforts to find the lost vein $52,000 indebtedness was created. These efforts were all approved by defendant. Held, that such expenses were properly chargeable upon the property under the terms of the declaration of trust, and that defendant, having approved of such expenditures, could not complain.—Gisborn v. Charter Oak Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, 142 U. S. 326, 12 S. Ct. 277, 35 L. Ed. 1029, affirming decree Charter Oak Life Ins. Co. v. Gisborne, 5 Utah, 319, 15 P. 253.

238. Cotrustees.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 345-349.

239. — Joint or several authority.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 346.

Recognition by all the trustees of a lease for five years of a portion of the realty included in the trust estate, executed by one of their number, even assuming that it could cure the invalidity of such lease under the statute of frauds, must have been founded upon full knowledge of all the facts, in order to have that effect. Decree, Baltimore & O. Ry. Co. v. Winslow, 18 App. D. C. 438, reversed.—Winslow v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 23 S. Ct. 443, 188 U. S. 646, 47 L. Ed. 635.

A valid lease of real property containing a covenant to renew cannot be made by one of the trustees in whom the title to the property is vested, as such an act is of a nature to require the deliberate discretion and judgment of all the trustees.—Id.

240. — Joint or several liability.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 347.

Where a testator devises certain property to trustees for specified purposes, it is the duty of each trustee and of the court to carry out the trust; and a trustee cannot relieve himself of his duty by an agreement with a co-trustee to only look after certain parts of trust property.—Hayes v. Pratt, 147 U. S. 557, 13 S. Ct. 503, 37 L. Ed. 279.

An abandonment of discretionary power by a trustee to a co-trustee, which will make the former liable for the latter's defalcation, is not shown by the mere fact that the latter collected and misappropriated funds belonging to the estate, and that some ministerial duties under the trust may have been relinquished to him, where it does not appear when or how he obtained control of the fund which he misappropriated, or that it may not have been done shortly before his death and the discovery of the defalcation. Decree 16 App. D. C. 107, affirmed.—Colburn v. Grant, 21 S. Ct. 737, 181 U. S. 601, 45 L. Ed. 1021.

The fact that no intention to hold a trustee for the defalcation of a co-trustee was ever disclosed until more than two years after the former's death, and nearly six years after the latter's death, tends to show that the effort to so hold him was an afterthought, not entitled to the approval of a court of equity.—Id.

243. Successive trustee.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 350.

One who has surrendered his position as trustee cannot thereafter confer any of his original powers on another appointed to succeed him, who is made, by the order appointing him, subject to the control of the court touching the trust.—Kenaday v. Edwards, 134 U. S. 117, 10 S. Ct. 523, 33 L. Ed. 853.

245. Actions between, by, or against trustees.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 352-373; 7 Cent. Dig. Bills & N. § 1395; 37 Cent. Dig. Parties, § 52.

268. — Costs.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 377.

Where one brings adversary proceedings to take the possession of trust property from those entitled to it, in order that he may distribute it to those who claim adversely, and fails in his purpose, he cannot claim a right to be reimbursed of his expenses out of the trust fund, or to a contribution from the persons whose property he sought to misappropriate.—Hobbs v. McLean, 117 U. S. 567, 6 S. Ct. 870, 29 L. Ed. 940.

V. EXECUTION OF TRUST BY TRUSTEE OR BY COURT.◀ 271. Rights and powers of trustee.
See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 380, 381.

A devisee, charged with making such gift, and provision for the testator's mother and sister "as in her judgment will be best," must exercise a proper and honest judgment in determining the nature and amount of the gift and provision to be made, having due regard to the amount of the estate, and the circumstances of the beneficiaries.—Colton v. Colton, 127 U. S. 300, 8 S. Ct. 1184, 32 L. Ed. 138, reversing decree (C. C.) 21 F. 594.

◀ 273. Right to income and accumulations.
See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 388.

The surplus income after paying annuities must accumulate as part of the trust estate until the time for distribution arrives, when it must be distributed to those entitled to the main fund, where the trust provides that the trustee is to devote sufficient of the income toward paying the annuities, and, on the termination of the trust, is to distribute the trust fund to those entitled to the annuities.—Fitchie v. Brown, 29 S. Ct. 106, 211 U. S. 321, 53 L. Ed. 202.

VI. ACCOUNTING AND COMPENSATION OF TRUSTEE.◀ 295. Property to be included.
See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 414.

By the terms of a written declaration of trust in a certain mine the beneficiary was entitled, whenever the mine should be "sold or otherwise disposed of," to a portion of the proceeds of "such sale or other disposition." Held, that the trustee, having conveyed the property, was bound to account to the beneficiary for the proceeds, although payment to him was made, not in cash, but in shares of the stock of the company to which he conveyed.—Irvine v. Dunham, 111 U. S. 327, 4 S. Ct. 501, 28 L. Ed. 444.

◀ 296. Release from liability.
See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 415.

A trustee having, in a declaration of trust, engaged to pay money out of his own means to keep down the interest of the debts of the cestui que trust, until such time as a sale would be expedient, the subsequent disregarding by the cestui que trust of a conveyance upon which the declaration was based, and his resuming possession of the property, releases the trustee from his engagement.—Flagg v. Walker, 113 U. S. 659, 5 S. Ct. 697, 28 L. Ed. 1072.

◀ 307. Charges.
See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 423, 429.◀ 308. — In general.
See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 423.

The estate of a trustee who has failed to account for an investment in real estate will be held liable in the sum originally realized therefrom, where that sum is definitely fixed, and it is impossible to determine with precision the ultimate fate of the investment. Decree 24 App. D. C. 573, reversed.—Darlington v. Turner, 26 S. Ct. 630, 202 U. S. 195, 50 L. Ed. 992.

Trust in mining claim, see Mines and Minerals, ◀ 46.

(A) RIGHTS OF CESTUI QUE TRUST AS AGAINST TRUSTEE.◀ 334. Establishment of existence of trust.
See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, § 496.

One seeking to establish a resulting trust in real property is entitled to the legal title, and not merely to a decree for an accounting, where the evidence shows that his money alone has been paid for such premises, and that, while such money was used in the purchase with his assent, he was unaware that the title was taken in his agent's name. Judgment 16 App. D. C. 595, affirmed.—Brainard v. Buck, 22 S. Ct. 458, 184 U. S. 99, 46 L. Ed. 449.

◀ 344. Persons entitled to enforce trust.
See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 509-512.

A grant of land made by congress to Michigan, to aid in building a canal, was transferred to the Portage Lake & Lake Superior Ship Canal Company. Another grant to build a wagon road was transferred to F. W. Anthony, a certain number of acres being payable on the completion of every two miles. Anthony transferred, for a sum agreed upon, through trustees, to the canal company, the land he had already earned, and his contract rights. The company then executed a trust deed to the Union Trust Company to secure an issue of bonds. A certain amount of money was borrowed on the bonds, the proceeds going to Anthony. Previous to the arrangement with Anthony, the company had given mortgages on its canal grant. These mortgages were foreclosed, and the company declared bankrupt. The trust company filed a bill to foreclose its mortgage. The decree found that the mortgages covered, in addition to the canal grant, the earned land purchased from Anthony, but that as to the residue of the road lands they had only a possible equity. Under this decree, the mortgaged property was sold and the sale duly confirmed. Afterwards the vendees released to J. C. Ayer the equity they had acquired to the unearned wagon road lands. Ayer arranged with Anthony, and so acquired title to the balance of the road lands. Held, that a bill could not be maintained by one of the holders of the bonds issued under the deed to the Union Trust Company to decree Ayer trustee of the road lands for the benefit of holders of the bonds.—Richter v. Jerome, 123 U. S. 233, 8 S. Ct. 106, 31 L. Ed. 132.

Persons who, with full knowledge of the facts, have received the securities into which have gone the illicit gains of the engineer in charge of a public improvement, must account to the United States for the securities traced to their possession. Decree, 172 F. 1, 90 C. C. A. 587, affirmed.—United States v. Carter, 30 S. Ct. 515, 217 U. S. 286, 54 L. Ed. 769, 19 Ann. Cas. 594.

Where a defendant, who had obtained large sums of money from the United States by fraud, invested the same in securities which he subsequently transferred to his codefendants, who, with knowledge of the source from which they were derived and the charges of fraud by the United States, received and concealed the same until compelled to surrender them to the court at suit of the government, such codefendants are accountable for the value of any of the securities so received and not produced, and are not entitled to a deduction therefrom on account of salaries agreed to be paid them for their services in caring for the property.—Id.

358. Identification of property.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 523, 553.

Trust funds deposited by a trustee in his individual bank account are dissipated if the fund is at time wholly depleted, and cannot be treated as reappearing in sums subsequently deposited to the same account.—Schuyler v. Littlefield, 34 S. Ct. 466, 232 U. S. 707, 58 L. Ed. 806, affirming decrees in re Brown, 193 F. 24, 113 C. C. A. 348 and In re A. O. Brown & Co., 193 F. 80, 113 C. C. A. 354.

A trustee transferred the estate to his successors on receiving a written agreement, signed by them as trustees, to apply to the payment of his claims against the fund any surplus moneys that should come into their hands. Held, that the relation established between the contracting parties was not that of trustee and cestui que trust, so as to give jurisdiction to a court of equity, but the contractors became personally liable to an action at law for failure to perform their engagement.—Taylor v. Mayo, 110 U. S. 330, 4 S. Ct. 147, 28 L. Ed. 163.

A suit against a bank for improperly disposing of a special deposit, made by a third person, as agent for plaintiff, is to charge defendant with a breach of trust, and is therefore of equitable cognizance.—Manhattan Bank v. Walker, 130 U. S. 267, 9 S. Ct. 519, 32 L. Ed. 959, reversing (C. C.) Walker v. Manhattan Bank, 25 F. 247.

A suit by a creditor of an insolvent national bank against the receiver thereof to recover money alleged to be due, on the theory that dividends had not been declared on the proper basis, involves the administration of the trust, and is therefore properly brought in equity. A suit in equity may be maintained by one who, by a broker, has sold stock on an exchange, against the governing committee of the exchange and a person who has bought the same amount of stock from another party, but who, by the rules of the exchange, is to be deemed a purchaser of the former stock, but has refused to take it, where the relief sought is a recovery of damages from him for his refusal to take the stock, and also the enforcement of rights in an alleged trust fund which has been deposited with the governing committee of the exchange by him and by the broker as margins on said stock. Decree 96 F. 648, 38 C. C. A. 473, reversed.—Clews v. Jamieson, 21 S. Ct. 845, 182 U. S. 461, 45 L. Ed. 1183.

A remedy by bill of interpleader on the part of the holder of a trust fund against rival claimants thereof does not preclude a suit in equity by one of such claimants to establish his rights in the trust fund.—Id.

Equity may have jurisdiction of a suit to enforce a right in a trust fund, though the only relief sought is a recovery of money.—Id.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 568-573.

Where a person, for his own benefit, locates land scrip fraudulently obtained from another under such circumstances that in equity he will be held a trustee under an implied trust for the other, the law raises an obligation on the part of the cestui que trust to use reasonable diligence in applying to the courts for relief.—*Felix v. As against the legal title obtained by payment of the purchase money under a Pennsylvania land warrant by one not named therein, a statute subsequently passed (Act Pa. April 22, 1856), forbidding the assertion of any implied or resulting trust, after the lapse of five years, unless it was acknowledged in writing, is not available to a stranger, claiming under a title afterwards originating, as a defense in ejectment.—Murphy v. Packer, 152 U. S. 398, 14 S. Ct. 636, 38 L. Ed. 489.

A suit against executors to establish a trust in real estate and stock held by the testator in his own name, upon the ground that it was bought with the proceeds of property purchased by testator at a foreclosure sale under a mortgage in which plaintiff had an interest, was barred by laches; plaintiff having delayed for more than 11 years after the purchase, and until the testator's mind had become impaired, to make demand of him, though he had for 8 years known that the testator repudiated his claim, and had during that time seen and conversed with him frequently. Wood v. Fox, 32 P. 48, 3 Utah, 380, affirmed.—Whitney v. Fox, 17 S. Ct. 713, 166 U. S. 637, 41 L. Ed. 1145.

Delay in commencing a suit to establish a resulting trust is not such laches as will bar the relief sought, where complainant first learned the facts shortly before the death of the resulting trustee, and after the death of the latter's wife, who was complainant's sister, and who conveyed the premises to him and was by him permitted to remain thereon until her death, took and retained possession with no reason to believe that his title was not perfect until ejectment was brought against him, when he discovered that the legal title to the premises did not pass to his sister under the will of her husband because it was after-acquired property, and commenced the suit within a year after the ejectment suit was begun. Judgment 16 App. D. C. 595, affirmed.—Brainard v. Buck, 22 S. Ct. 458, 184 U. S. 99, 46 L. Ed. 449.

The refusal of a trustee to execute a deed of an interest in a mining location in compliance with the trust agreement is a repudiation of the trust, which, if known to the complainants, opens the door to the defense of laches to a suit to enforce the trust. Decree (N. M.) 66 P. 552, 55 L. R. A. 658, affirmed.—Patterson v. Hewitt, 25 S. Ct. 35, 195 U. S. 309, 49 L. Ed. 214.

366. Parties.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 574-583.

In an action to enjoin the collection of the proceeds of a life policy fraudulently conveyed to trustees, the cestui que trust need not be joined as defendants; the claim being adverse to the trust.—Vetterlein v. Barnes, 124 U. S. 169, 8 S. Ct. 441, 31 L. Ed. 400.

371. Pleading.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 588-599.

A former member of a "community" sought by bill in equity, brought more than 50 years after he had left it in order to marry, to recover a share of the property, alleging fraud and false representations upon the part of the originator of the society in inducing the members to give up their property, and that the property was accepted and held by the originator and his successors in trust for the common benefit of the members. Held, upon demurrer, that the bill could not be maintained on the ground of an express trust, as the allegations of the bill plainly showed that the property was designed to be held for the benefit of the members as a community, and not as individuals.—Speidel v. Henrici, 120 U. S. 377, 7 S. Ct. 610, 30 L. Ed. 718, affirming decree (C. C.) 15 F. 753.

Where a blank deed and a power of attorney of inalienable, unlocated land scrip was procured from an Indian by fraud, and the scrip was afterwards located, a bill which alleges that the scrip was sold by the Indian in 1861, that the fraud was not discovered until 1887, when her heirs became citizens of the United States, but which fails to allege why the fraud was not discovered before, and which fails to show any concealment by the purchaser, or that the Indian did not receive full value for the land, is insufficient in a suit to have the present holders of the land decreed trustees for the heirs of the Indian.—Felix v. Patrick, 145 U. S. 317, 12 S. Ct. 862, 36 L. Ed. 719, affirming decree (C. C.) 36 F. 457.

The rule that proceeds of property obtained by theft or fraud may be reclaimed in a suit in equity against the voluntary assignee or one holding in bad faith cannot successfully be invoked to sustain a bill, filed on behalf of the United States, charging the cutting, carrying away, and conversion of timber from the public domain, where the allegations wholly fail to identify any specific, definite property as the proceeds of the timber wrongfully or fraudulently taken. Decree 133 F. 274, 66 C. C. A. 652, affirmed.—United States v. Bitter Root Development Co., 28 S. Ct. 318, 200 U. S. 451, 50 L. Ed. 550.

⚡374. Scope and extent of relief.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Trusts, §§ 607-612.

A bill was filed for the settlement of a trust and the redemption of real estate in the hands of the trustee from liens for money advanced by him for the purposes of the trust. Plaintiffs had conveyed said real estate to defendant (trustee) in consideration of the assumption by the latter of the debts of plaintiffs. It was understood that the conveyance was to be absolute for all purposes, and that defendant should dispose of such property at pleasure, and according to his best judgment. It was further provided that, after a disposition of the property, and reimbursing defendant for payments for plaintiffs, any excess remaining should be divided between them. The bill prayed for a reconveyance of the property still in the hands of defendant. Held, that plaintiffs were not entitled to a sale of the property.—Flagg v. Walker, 113 U. S. 659, 5 S. Ct. 697, 28 L. Ed. 1072.

In an action against I. & B. and S. to declare a trust in favor of plaintiff, the bill alleged that five notes of $2,000 each, and a mortgage, by S. to I. & B. were deposited with such firm in trust for plaintiff's benefit to secure S.'s indebtedness to him. I. & B. filed separate answers under oath to specific interrogatories, stating that the notes were delivered to them as security for advances by them to S., with an understanding that when their debt was paid they would transfer them and the mortgage to whoever S. directed; that S. still owed them $6,000; and that they were willing to transfer the securities to plaintiff on payment of such sum. About the time the papers were delivered to I. & B., S. wrote plaintiff that he had delivered them, and that "I. & B. hold these notes in trust, and will, at the proper time, transfer them" to parties he might designate. S. testified that he read such letter to B. when he delivered to him the papers. Another witness stated that when he asked B., six days before the date of the letter, why he took the mortgage, he said he did not take it on his own account, but in trust for another. B. denied, as a witness, that such letter was ever read to or by him, or that he ever gave assent to plaintiff's claim. Six months after the notes were delivered, plaintiff wrote S. that, "as I understand you and B., the mortgage was given with the intention of protecting my interests as well as B. When B.'s claim was satisfied, the transfer of the property to be made to me." S. testified that, about the same time, B., in a conversation with him and plaintiff, spoke of his prior claim, and plaintiff made no denial of it. Held, that defendants were to be first paid out of such securities, and that a decree giving the two notes last due to plaintiff was as favorable to him as the facts justify.—Finley v. Isett, 154 U. S. 561, 14 S. Ct. 1164, 19 L. Ed. 273.

One seeking to establish a resulting trust in real property is entitled to the legal title, and not merely to a decree for an accounting, where the evidence shows that his money alone has been paid for such premises, and that, while such money was used in the purchase with his assent, he was unaware that the title was taken in his agent's name. Judgment 16 App. D. C. 595, affirmed.—Brainard v. Buck, 22 S. Ct. 458, 184 U. S. 99, 46 L. Ed. 449.

The right of a toll road company to take any tolls whatever, and not merely the right given by its special charter to take higher tolls than those allowed to toll road companies organized under a general act then in force, expired with the lapse of 50 years from the date of such special charter, which provided that the privileges therein granted should continue for 50 years, subject to a right of purchase on behalf of the public after 20 years, or at any time thereafter; there being no reference in the charter to the general act. *Decree, State v. That a turnpike company, claiming, under its charter, exemption from legislation reducing its rates of toll below a certain limit, has collected tolls according to reduced rates fixed by a subsequent statute, is not a recognition by it of the right of the Legislature to amend or repeal its charter at will.—*Covington & L. 3. Authority over places acquired or reserved within states for public purposes.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 3; 13 Cent. Dig. Courts, § 1375.

The legislature of a state may cede to the United States exclusive jurisdiction over places needed by the general government in the execution of its powers, and such cession may be accompanied with any conditions not inconsistent with the effective use of the property for the public purposes intended.—Ft. Leavenworth R. Co. v. Lowe, 114 U. S. 525, 5 S. Ct. 995, 29 L. Ed. 264; Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. McGlinn, 114 U. S. 542, 5 S. Ct. 1005, 29 L. Ed. 270.

At the time of the cession by the state of Kansas to the United States of exclusive jurisdiction over the Ft. Leavenworth Military Reservation, then owned by the United States, there was a railroad running through the territory included in the cession. Held, that a law of the state, making a railroad company whose road was not inclosed by a lawful fence liable to the owner of cattle killed or wounded by its engines or cars for the full value of the animals killed and the full damage to those wounded, whether the killing or wounding was caused by negligence or not, continued in force in the reservation after the cession.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. McGlinn, 114 U. S. 542, 5 S. Ct. 1005, 29 L. Ed. 270.

A state, in ceding to the United States jurisdiction over land purchased by the latter for a navy yard and naval hospital, without the "consent" of the state, within Const. art. 1, § 8, imposed a condition that such jurisdiction should be retained by the United States only so long as the place was used for said purposes. Subsequently, a part of the land was leased by the United States authorities to a city of the state for market purposes, with a provision that the city should patrol and police the same. Held, that the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States was suspended while the lease remained in force so that the state courts had jurisdiction of a controversy between individuals in respect to the right of possession of a market stand located on the premises.—Palmer v. Barrett, 162 U. S. 399, 16 S. Ct. 837, 40 L. Ed. 1015, affirming judgment Barrett v. Palmer, 135 N. Y. 336, 31 N. E. 1017, 31 Am. St. Rep. 835, 17 L. R. A. 720.

As the constitution gives to congress exclusive jurisdiction over places purchased within a state, for forts, arsenals, etc., only when the purchase is "by consent" of the state (article 1, § 8), a state may, in ceding jurisdiction over a place purchased, without such consent, for a navy yard and naval hospital, impose the condition that such jurisdiction shall be retained by the United States only so long as the place is used for those purposes.—Id.

The general government has power, in legislating for the protection of its own property situated with the several states, analogous to the police powers of a state, and may declare what are nuisances, as affecting such property, and provide for their abatement.—Camfield v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 864, 167 U. S. 518, 42 L. Ed. 260, affirming judgment 68 F. 101, 13 C. C. A. 359.

Exclusive legislative power which Congress possesses over the Norfolk Navy Yard excludes giving any operation or effect, within limits of such navy yard, to the provisions of Virginia Code, 1904, pp. 696, 697, § 1294h, subds. 5, 6, imposing a penalty upon telegraph companies for failure to deliver a message to the addressee. Judgment (1907) 57 S. E. 587, 107 Va. 60, reversed.—Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Chiles, 29 S. Ct. 613, 214 U. S. 274, 53 L. Ed. 994.

Damages for mental anguish from negligent failure to deliver in the city of Washington a telegram from the company's office in South Carolina cannot be recovered in an action in a South Carolina court under authority of Civ. Code S. C. 1902, § 2223, without infringing on the exclusive control of the United States over the District of Columbia.—Western Union Tel. Co. v. Brown, 34 S. Ct. 955, 234 U. S. 542, 58 L. Ed. 1457, reversing judgment Brown v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 75 S. E. 542, 92 S. C. 354.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 12.

An indictment charges an offense under Rev. St. U. S. § 1782 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1212], making it a misdemeanor for a United States Senator to receive compensation for services rendered before any department, in relation to any proceedings in which the United States is interested, where it avers that the accused, being such a senator, received compensation for services rendered before the Post-office Department for the purpose of inducing a decision favorable to his client in a fraud order inquiry pending before that Department. Judgment (D. C.) United States v. Burton, 131 F. 552, reversed.—Burton v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 243, 196 U. S. 283, 49 L. Ed. 482.

An averment in an indictment, charging a United States Senator with having received certain checks at St. Louis, Missouri, as compensation for services rendered before the Post-office Department, in violation of Rev. St. U. S. § 1782 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1212], and alleging the payment to him of the money thereon at that place, is not supported by evidence that the checks, drawn on a St. Louis trust company, were received by him in the city of Washington, and were by him there indorsed and deposited with a local bank, and were afterwards paid at St. Louis, and that the amount of each check was, immediately upon deposit, credited by the Washington bank to the account of defendant, who had the right to draw against the account without waiting for payment at St. Louis.—Id.

The powers of the federal government were not exceeded by the enactment of Rev. St. U. S. § 1782 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1212], making it a misdemeanor for a United States Senator to receive or agree to receive compensation for services rendered before any department, in relation to any proceeding in which the United States is interested.—Burton v. United States, 26 S. Ct. 688, 202 U. S. 344, 50 L. Ed. 1057, 6 Ann. Cas. 392.

The authority of the Senate of the United States over its members is not interfered with by Rev. St. U. S. § 1782 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1212], making it a misdemeanor for a United States Senator to receive or agree to receive compensation for services rendered before any department, in relation to any proceeding in which the United States is interested, and declaring that any one convicted under its provisions shall be incapable of holding any office of honor, trust, or profit under the government of the United States.—Id.

The discharge, by a Senator of the United States, of his legitimate duties, is not interfered with by Rev. St. U. S. § 1782 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1212], making it a misdemeanor for a United States Senator to receive or agree to receive compensation for services rendered before any department in relation to any proceeding in which the United States is interested.—Id.

Senators of the United States do not hold their places "under the government of the United States," within the meaning of the declaration in Rev. St. U. S. § 1782 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1212], that any one convicted under its provisions shall be incapable of holding any office of honor, trust, or profit under that government.—Id.

A fraud-order inquiry pending before the Post-Office Department is a proceeding in which the United States, although having no direct money or pecuniary interest in the result, is "directly or indirectly interested," within the meaning of Rev. St. U. S. § 1782 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1212], making it a misdemeanor for a United States Senator to receive or agree to receive compensation for services rendered before any department, in relation to any proceeding in which the United States is so interested.—Id.

The agreement to receive, and the receipt of, the forbidden compensation, are made two separate and distinct offenses by Rev. St. U. S. § 1782 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1212], making it a misdemeanor of a United States Senator to receive or agree to receive compensation for services rendered before any department, in relation to any proceeding in which the United States is interested.—Id.

22. Legislative power and exercise thereof in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 14.

It is competent for congress to legislate concerning guano islands discovered by citizens of the United States, and to extend the criminal jurisdiction of the United States courts to such islands.—Jones v. United States, 137 U. S. 202, 11 S. Ct. 80, 34 L. Ed. 691.

State laws in respect to the general reclamation of arid lands cannot be overridden by Congress in the exercise of its power under Const. U. S. art. 4, § 3, to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting, the territory or other property belonging to the United States.—State of Kansas v. State of Colorado, 27 S. Ct. 655, 206 U. S. 46, 51 L. Ed. 956.

The reclamation of arid lands not the property of the United States, nor situated within the limits of a territory, was not comprehended in the grant to Congress by Const. U. S. art. 4, § 3, of the power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting, the territory or other property belonging to the United States.—Id.

23. Congressional investigations and commissions.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 15.

The senate has jurisdiction to enter upon an inquiry in respect to the truth of charges in the public press as to alleged dealings of senators in the stock of a corporation whose business was affected by a pending tariff bill; and it is not essential to the jurisdiction that the preamble and resolution shall declare that the proceeding is taken for the purpose of censure or expulsion.—In re Chapman, 17 S. Ct. 677, 166 U. S. 661, 41 L. Ed. 1154.

Under Rev. St. § 102, making it a misdemeanor punishable by indictment to refuse to give testimony upon "any matter under inquiry" before either house of congress or any committee thereof, the words quoted are to be construed as meaning any matters within the jurisdiction of the two houses which are before them for consideration, and proper for their action, and any questions pertinent thereto or facts or papers bearing thereon.—Id.

Rev. St. § 102, making it a misdemeanor punishable by indictment to refuse to give testimony upon "any matter under inquiry" before either house of congress or any committee thereof, is not so connected with section 103, which declares that witnesses are not privileged to refuse to give testimony on the ground that it may tend to disgrace or render them infamous, that, if the latter section be held unconstitutional, the former must fall with it.—Id.

25. Presidential electors.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 16.

Pub. Acts Mich. 1891, No. 50, providing for the election of presidential electors by congressional districts, does not violate Const. art. 2, § 1, which declares that "each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the congress," since, by the construction placed on the constitution contemporaneously with and for many years after its adoption, such constitutional provision conferred on the state legislature plenary power to prescribe the method of choosing electors, and did not require the state, in appointing electors, to act as a unit.—McPherson v. Blacker, 146 U. S. 1, 13 S. Ct. 3, 36 L. Ed. 869, affirming judgment Same v. Secretary of State, 92 Mich. 377, 52 N. W. 469, 31 Am. St. Rep. 587, 16 L. R. A. 475.

The fact that all the states gradually adopted a uniform method of popular election for presidential electors by general ticket, and that such system has prevailed among the states for many years, has not deprived the legislature of any state of its power to adopt a different method.—Id.

The power thus confided to the states by the constitution has not ceased to exist because the original expectation of the framers of the constitution in respect to the independence of electors may be said to have been frustrated in practice.—Id.

The power of a state to change its mode of choosing presidential electors was not taken away by the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, because of the additional rights and guaranties therein secured to citizens in respect to voting at national elections, although at the time of their adoption all the states chose their electors by elections at large.—Id.

26. President.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 17.

Under Const. art. 2, § 3, declaring that the president of the United States "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed," the president has power, through the attorney general, to direct a United States marshal to accompany and protect from a threatened assault a justice of the supreme court while in the discharge of his official duties.—Cunningham v. Neagle, 135 U. S. 1, 10 S. Ct. 658, 34 L. Ed. 55, affirming (C. C.) In re Neagle, 39 F. 833, 5 L. R. A. 78.

—35. Appointment, qualification, and tenure of officers.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 23.

The government has power, through the head of a department, to take bond from a disbursing officer, though there be no law or general regulation requiring it; and a bond is none the less a voluntary bond because demanded by the superior officer, if not illegally extorted.—Moses v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 682, 166 U. S. 571, 41 L. Ed. 1119.

Where a person was holding two offices under the United States, in one of which the salary was $3,000, and the other, of which was paid by fees, at the time of the taking effect of the provision of Act July 31, 1894, c. 174, § 2 (28 Stat. 162, 205), that no person, unless specially authorized thereto by law, who holds an office, the salary or annual compensation attached to which amounts to the sum of $2,500, shall be appointed to or hold any other office, such act did not, ex proprio vigore, create a vacancy in either office, but left the incumbent to his election as to which he would retain; and where he had already tendered his resignation of the salaried office, although it was not accepted until afterwards, such act constituted an exercise of the right of election, which prevented a vacancy in the other office.—United States v. Harsha, 19 S. Ct. 294, 172 U. S. 567, 43 L. Ed. 556, certifying case, 56 F. 953, 6 C. C. A. 178.

The general power of the President to remove a federal official for any reason he may think sufficient, even though such official was appointed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, is not restricted, as regards general appraisers of merchandise, to a removal for "inefficiency, neglect of duty, or malfeasance in office" by the provision in Customs Administrative Act June 10, 1890, c. 407, § 12, 26 Stat. 136 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1931], which authorizes the appointment of such officials, that they "may be removed from office at any time by the President" for those causes. Judgment 36 Ct. Cl. 34, affirmed.—Shurtleff v. United States, 23 S. Ct. 535, 189 U. S. 311, 47 L. Ed. 828.

A federal official, sought to be removed from office by the President for any of the causes specified by Congress as grounds for such removal, is entitled to notice and hearing.—Id.

The removal of a federal official by the President without notice or opportunity to defend will be presumed to have been made for other causes than those specified by Congress as grounds for his removal.—Id.

The protection of the President's order of July 27, 1897, against removals from the civil service, except upon written charges, with opportunity for defense, extends to an employé in the office of the United States Surveyor General for the state of Idaho, certified by the Secretary of the Interior as within the terms of Act Jan. 16, 1883, c. 27, § 6, 22 Stat. 406 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1222], and the executive order of May 6, 1896, made in pursuance thereof, extending the departmental service classified under that act so as to include all executive officers and employes outside of the District of Columbia, whether compensated by a fixed salary or otherwise, who are serving in a clerical capacity, or whose duties are, in whole or in part, of a clerical nature.—United States v. Wickersham, 26 S. Ct. 469, 201 U. S. 390, 50 L. Ed. 793.

—36. Appointment or employment and tenure of agents, clerks, and employes in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 23.

The existence of a collector of customs under Rev. St. U. S. § 2550 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1745], for the Georgetown district, which is defined in section 2550 as comprising "all the waters and shores of the Potomac river within the state of Maryland and the District of Columbia, from Pomonkey creek to the head of the navigable waters of that river," precludes the Secretary of the Treasury from appointing, with a right to compensation, a disbursing agent for the funds appropriated for a post office at Washington, under section 3658 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2430], which authorizes such appointments only where there is no collector at the place of location of a public work. Judgment, 39 Ct. Cl. 338, affirmed.—Bartlett v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 433, 197 U. S. 230, 49 L. Ed. 735.

The courts have no power, by mandamus or otherwise, to review the action of the head of an executive department of the government in removing a clerk from office, on the ground that the removal was not in accordance with the civil service rules requiring notice to be given and an opportunity to reply to charges, where the charge is that the clerk wrote and caused to be published a newspaper article derogatory to the President.—United States v. Taft, 27 S. Ct. 143, 203 U. S. 461, 51 L. Ed. 269.

The power of appointment to the classified civil service of the United States carries with it the power of removal, which is unrestricted, except as controlled by the Civil Service Act Cong. Jan. 16, 1883, c. 27, 22 Stat. 403 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1224], which does not limit the power of removal, except for the single cause of failure to contribute money or services to a political party.—Id.

—39. Compensation of officers, agents, clerks, and employes, and fees.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 5, 24-28.

The receiver of public moneys for a district of land subject to sale is not entitled to the military bounty-land fees received by him during his term of office, over and above the amount required, with his commissions on cash sales of public lands, to make up his salary of $2,500 per year.—United States v. Brindle, 110 U. S. 688, 4 S. Ct. 180, 28 L. Ed. 286.

Where the disbursing officers, supposing that a retired naval officer was entitled to more pay than in fact the law allowed, have overpaid him, the excess is a proper subject of counterclaim in an action by the officer to recover salary accruing after the overpayments.—United States v. Burchard, 125 U. S. 176, 8 S. Ct. 832, 31 L. Ed. 662.

P. presented his credentials, showing that he had been duly elected, was placed on the roll, sworn in, took his seat, was recognized as the sitting member, voted, served on committees, and drew the salary up to the time the house declared the seat vacant because he had not been duly elected. Held, that P. was the predecessor of the person appointed to fill the vacancy, within the meaning of Rev. St. § 51 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 20], which provides that the person appointed or elected to fill a vacancy in either house of congress, after the commencement of the congress to which the member whose seat has become vacant was elected or appointed, shall be compensated and paid from the time the compensation of his predecessor ceased, and such person would be entitled to compensation from the date the seat was declared vacant.—Page v. United States, 127 U. S. 67, 8 S. Ct. 1026, 32 L. Ed. 65.

The United States cannot recover, as paid under a mistake of law, money paid as salary to one who, if not de jure, was at least de facto, an officer.—Badeau v. United States, 130 U. S. 439, 9 S. Ct. 579, 32 L. Ed. 997.

Defendant notified the secretary of the treasury that a legacy tax was due the United States, and made a contract to collect it, under Act Cong. May 8, 1872, authorizing the secretary to employ persons to assist in collecting money due the United States. The revenue officers knew of the tax before. When it was due, the executor, without any knowledge of defendant, wrote the secretary of the treasury about it, and afterwards paid it over to the proper officer. The latter handed the money to defendant, who had previously called upon him to assist in the collection. Defendant forwarded it to the secretary, with the representation that he had collected it, and received his commission. Held, that defendant, having performed no service, was not entitled to the commission, and the United States could recover it.—Sanborn v. United States, 135 U. S. 271, 10 S. Ct. 812, 34 L. Ed. 112.

A contract with the secretary of the treasury, under this act, to pay a certain per cent. on all taxes collected of the persons named in the contract, does not entitle the person agreeing to make the collection to his per cent. on taxes collected by the government officers.—Id.

A supervising architect of the treasury, receiving a salary of $5,000 a year, is precluded by Rev. St. §§ 1763-1765 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 1205-1207], from recovering extra compensation, not expressly authorized by law, for professional services rendered to the government outside the scope of his official duty.—Mullett v. United States, 150 U. S. 566, 14 S. Ct. 190, 37 L. Ed. 1184.

Under Act June 26, 1884, c. 121, § 27, 23 Stat. 59 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3061], providing that the "number and compensation of the clerks" employed by any shipping commissioner shall be approved by the secretary of the treasury, and Act June 19, 1886, c. 421, § 1, 24 Stat. 79 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2991], providing that the latter shall "allow and pay * * * compensation" to such clerks, a shipping commissioner cannot recover from the government the amount paid by him for clerk hire after he was formally notified by the secretary that his compensation would be limited to a certain amount per month, where it appears that upon the presentation of his vouchers containing the claim for clerk hire they were approved only to the amount so limited.—United States v. Gunnison, 155 U. S. 389, 15 S. Ct. 152, 39 L. Ed. 195.

Under the act of congress of June 26, 1884 (23 Stat. 59), which required the secretary of the treasury to fix the compensation of shipping commissioners and to audit and adjust their expenditures, the compensation of the commissioner for the port of New York was fixed at a specified salary and one-half the surplus of fees collected, after payment of salaries and expenses of the office, not to exceed in all $5,000 in any year. The act of June 19, 1886 (24 Stat. 19), abolished fees, but provided that commissioners theretofore paid, in whole or in part, by fees, should be paid the same compensation as they would have received prior to the passage of the act. Under this act the commissioner was allowed and paid a salary of $5,000, which amount he would have earned under the former act. Held, that he could not be required to pay from such salary the rent and other expenses incident to the maintenance of his office, but that such expenses were a proper charge against the United States.—United States v. Reed, 17 S. Ct. 919, 167 U. S. 604, 42 L. Ed. 317, affirming decree, 61 F. 414, 9 C. C. A. 563, and 69 F. 841, 13 C. C. A. 652.

Temporary employés of the government printing office, who have from the beginning been denied leaves of absence by a rule of the Public Printer ratified or approved by the legislation of Congress on this subject, were not affected by the provisions of Act Cong. July 19, 1897, c. 9 (30 Stat. 134), authorizing the Public Printer to pay employés, former employés, and the legal representatives of deceased former employés such sums as may be due for accrued and unpaid leaves of absence for the fiscal years 1887 to 1894, both inclusive, and appropriating a sum of money therefor.—United States v. Barringer, 23 S. Ct. 405, 188 U. S. 577, 47 L. Ed. 602.

Mere temporary employés in the government printing office are not entitled to leave of absence with pay, by virtue of the provisions of the sundry civil appropriation bill of June 11, 1896 (29 Stat. 453, c. 420 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2595]), recapitulating the previous statutes regulating this subject, which have from the beginning been construed by the Public Printer as excluding temporary employés from the provisions for leaves of absence.—Id.

The right of a disbursing clerk of the Treasury Department to compensation for services performed by him under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, as disbursing agent of the funds appropriated for a post office at Washington, depends solely upon the congressional legislation on that subject. Judgment, 39 Ct. Cl. 338, affirmed.—Bartlett v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 433, 197 U. S. 230, 49 L. Ed. 735.

A regular and duly qualified employé in the classified civil service of the United States is entitled to the compensation attached by law to his position during the period of his wrongful suspension by a subordinate officer.—United States v. Wickersham, 26 S. Ct. 469, 201 U. S. 390, 50 L. Ed. 798.

Compensation of an inspector of electric light plants in the Treasury Department, for services in installing an electric light plant for the buildings of the Interior Department, at the request of the Secretary of the Interior, and by the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, is forbidden by Rev. St. U. S. § 1765 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, § 1007), though valuable, and performed after hours, and in addition to regular duties, being the performance of extra services not specially required by law and for which it did not fix the remuneration, and not the filling of two distinct places, offices, or employments. Judgment 41 Ct. Cl. 357, affirmed.—Woodwell v. United States, 29 S. Ct. 576, 214 U. S. 82, 53 L. Ed. 919.

Compensation for special services of disbursing clerk of Interior Department, under appointment of Secretary of Interior as special disbursing agent of appropriations for the Government Hospital, is prohibited by Rev. St. § 1765 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1207), where appropriation acts did not provide for such compensation.—Evans v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 133, 226 U. S. 567, 57 L. Ed. 353, affirming judgments 44 Ct. Cl. 549 and 45 Ct. Cl. 169.

40. Authority and powers of officers and agents and exercise thereof.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 29.

Act Cong. July 13, 1861 (12 Stat. 255), provided that the president might declare the inhabitants of any state, or part of a state, in rebellion against the United States, to be in a state of insurrection, and that "thereupon all commercial intercourse by and between the same and citizens thereof and the citizens of the rest of the United States shall cease and be unlawful, so long as such condition of hostilities shall continue." Act Cong. July 2, 1864 (13 Stat. 375), provided that it should be lawful for the secretary of the treasury, with the approval of the president, to authorize agents to purchase for the United States any products of states declared in insurrection, at prices not exceeding three-fourths of their market value in New York. Held, that where cotton was brought from a state which had been declared to be in insurrection, before the president's proclamation removing the restriction on commerce, the purchasing agent had authority to purchase it for three-fourths of its value.—Cutler v. Kouns, 110 U. S. 720, 4 S. Ct. 274, 28 L. Ed. 305.

44. Accounting and settlement by officers.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 32.

Under Act Cong. July 2, 1864, the collection of captured and abandoned property within the districts dominated by the seceding states in the Civil War was given to the secretary of the treasury, and on him devolved the execution of the statute, through his appointed agents; and in the absence of fraud, positive violation of the statute, or contravention of public policy, a settlement made by the treasurer with an agent will not be set aside on mere technicalities, especially after the agent's remedy is barred by lapse of time.—United States v. Johnston, 124 U. S. 236, 8 S. Ct. 446, 31 L. Ed. 389.

The act of the postmaster general in directing payment for transportation of the mails, under statutes providing the rate and basis thereof, is an executive, and not a judicial, act, and is not conclusive in a case involving the settlement of such accounts.—Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 45, 164 U. S. 190, 41 L. Ed. 399.

46. Liabilities for official acts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 32.

47. — In general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 33.

The head of an executive department is not liable in damages on account of official communications made by him pursuant to an act of congress, and in respect of matters within his authority, by reason of any personal or malicious motive that prompted his action.—Spalding v. Vilas, 161 U. S. 483, 16 S. Ct. 631, 40 L. Ed. 780.

Nor was the postmaster general liable because he informed the claimants that they were under no legal obligation to respect any transfer, assignment, or power of attorney which Rev. St. § 3477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320], declared null and void.—Id.

An attorney for persons having claims against the government on account of a readjustment of their salaries as postmasters under Act June 12, 1866, c. 114, § 8 (14 Stat. 60), Act March 3, 1883, c. 119 (22 Stat. 487), and Act Aug. 4, 1886, c. 903, § 8 (24 Stat. 307), has no right of action against the postmaster general because, in sending drafts to the claimants on account of their claims, he informed them that no attorney's services were necessary to the presentation of such a claim, that congress desired all the proceeds to reach the person really entitled thereto, and that the claims were sustained or rejected according to the evidence furnished by the records of the department.—Id.

Ratification by the Executive Congress, and the treaty-making power, of the action of the military governor of Cuba in abolishing a hereditary office, with its emoluments, makes his act that of the United States, and exonerates him from all liability as for a tort in violation of the law of nations, or of a treaty of the United States. Judgment (D. C. 1906) 142 F. 858, affirmed.—O'Reilly De Camara v. Brooke, 28 S. Ct. 439, 209 U. S. 45, 52 L. Ed. 676.

49. — Jurisdiction and proceedings of state courts.

A state court has no jurisdiction of a criminal prosecution against a federal officer for an act in violation of a state statute, done as a part of his duty under valid federal authority. Order, In re Thomas, 87 F. 453, 31 C. C. A. 80, affirmed.—State of Ohio v. Thomas, 19 S. Ct. 453, 173 U. S. 276, 43 L. Ed. 699.

50. Liabilities of officers for negligence and misconduct.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 34.

An army engineer in charge of a harbor improvement, who secretly receives from the contractors a proportion of the abnormal profits realized by them in the execution of their contracts, may be required to account in equity to the United States for the share so received, without any showing of any specific abuse of discretion on his part, or of any actual loss to the government by fraud or otherwise. Decree (1906) 172 F. 1, 96 C. C. A. 587, affirmed.—United States v. Carter, 30 S. Ct. 515, 217 U. S. 286, 54 L. Ed. 769, 19 Ann. Cas. 594.

Recovery on behalf of the government against the engineer in charge of a public improvement, who secretly receives from the contractors a proportion of the abnormal profits realized by them in the execution of their contracts, is not confined to the property or securities into which such illicit gains may be traced, but for any deficiency the government may have a personal judgment.—Id.

51. Liabilities on official bonds.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. §§ 35, 36.

In an action on the bond of an officer of the United States intrusted with money for the purpose of disbursing it, the plaintiff cannot recover interest in the absence of evidence of a demand and refusal to pay or transfer or comply with some lawful order in respect to it.—United States v. Power, 106 U. S. 536, 1 S. Ct. 481, 27 L. Ed. 264; Same v. Knowles, 106 U. S. 537, 1 S. Ct. 482, 27 L. Ed. 264.

If a public officer permits money for the government to be paid in his absence to his agent, it is good payment to him, and he will be liable therefor on his bond.—Potter v. United States, 107 U. S. 126, 1 S. Ct. 524, 27 L. Ed. 530.

Rev. St. § 2263, providing that, before pre-emption entries can be made under section 2259, "proof of the settlement and improvement required shall be made to the register and receiver of the land district in which the lands lie," does not constitute those officers a tribunal, so that, without the presence of both, no business can be done; and it is no defense to an action on the official bond of the receiver to recover moneys paid for such pre-emptions that at the time they were received the register was absent from the land office.—Id.

The fact that a receiver of public money, to whom applicants for entry of public lands have paid the price thereof pending action upon their proofs, is removed from office, does not relieve him on his bondsmen from liability to account to the government for such payment. Judgment (Ariz.) 45 P. 341, 5 Ariz. 56, affirmed.—Smith v. United States, 18 S. Ct. 626, 170 U. S. 372, 42 L. Ed. 1074.

The fact that, at the time of the giving of bond by a receiver of public moneys, the land department had erroneously decided that money paid to receivers by entrymen in advance of action upon their proofs was held by such receivers as agents for the payees until final receipts were issued, does not relieve the receiver or his bondsmen from liability for such money.—Id.

A receiver of public money is accountable under his bond for money paid for entry of public lands by applicants pending action on their proofs, such advance payments being required by the regulations of the land department.—Id.

The sureties on the bond of the superintendent of the mint at New Orleans, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties according to the laws of the United States, must be deemed to have signed it in view of the requirement of Rev. St. U. S. § 3624 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2418], that interest on any unpaid balance due from one accountable for public moneys shall be computed from the time when he received such moneys.—Smythe v. United States, 23 S. Ct. 279, 188 U. S. 156, 47 L. Ed. 425, affirming judgment 107 F. 376, 46 C. C. A. 354, which is affirmed (C. C.) United States v. Smythe, 120 F. 30.

The destruction of moneys in the custody of the superintendent of the mint at New Orleans by a fire occurring without his fault or negligence is no defense to a suit upon his official bond, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties according to the laws of the United States, which require him safely to keep such moneys as come to his hands by virtue of his office.—Id.

The amount of treasury notes charred by fire, but in condition to be identified as to amount and date of issue, cannot be allowed as a credit in a suit on the official bond of the superintendent of the mint at New Orleans to recover the amount of a shortage in his accounts, where no claim for such credit was first presented to the accounting officers of the treasury as is required by Rev. St. U. S. §§ 951, 957 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 695, 698], in order to make a claim for a credit available on the trial.—Id.

The face value of treasury notes destroyed by fire while in the custody of the superintendent of the mint at New Orleans, and not the cost to the United States government of issuing new notes, is the measure of damages in an action on his official bond, conditioned for the safe-keeping of the moneys in his custody, to recover the amount of a shortage in his accounts caused by the destruction of such notes.—Id.

◀52. Criminal responsibility of officers, agents, and clerks.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 37.

Act Aug. 15, 1876, c. 287, § 6, 19 Stat. 169 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1215], prohibiting executive officers or employés of the United States from giving to or receiving from each other contributions for political purposes, was designed to promote efficiency and integrity in the discharge of official duties, and is a constitutional exercise of the authority conferred by article 1, § 8, of the constitution, to make all laws necessary to carry into effect the powers delegated to congress.—Ex parte Curtis, 106 U. S. 371, 1 S. Ct. 381, 27 L. Ed. 232.

A treasury agent, who has been convicted and fined by military commission for defrauding the United States, and has conceded that his debt to the government exceeds the fine, and been given credit on the debt to its amount, cannot subsequently maintain an action in the court of claims to recover the fine, either on the ground that it was illegally imposed, or that it was paid under duress.—Carver v. United States, 111 U. S. 609, 4 S. Ct. 561, 28 L. Ed. 540.

A contractor for a public work of the United States, who intentionally permits laborers employed thereon to work more than eight hours a day, under the mistaken assumption that an extraordinary emergency exists, intentionally violates the provisions of Act Aug. 1, 1892, c. 352, 27 Stat. 340 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2521], prohibiting such action, except in case of extraordinary emergency, and punishing intentional violations of the act with fine or imprisonment.—Ellis v. United States, 27 S. Ct. 600, 206 U. S. 246, 51 L. Ed. 1047, 11 Ann. Cas. 589.

A delay, not entirely unexpected, in obtaining the timber required for the construction of a pier at the Boston navy yard, does not create an "extraordinary emergency," within the meaning of the exception in Act Aug. 1, 1892, c. 352, 27 Stat. 340 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2521], forbidding a contractor upon any public work of the United States, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, to permit or require employes thereon to work more than eight hours each day.—Id.

Dredging a channel in Boston Harbor is not a public work of the United States, within the meaning of Act Aug. 1, 1892, c. 352, 27 Stat. 340 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2521], forbidding a contractor upon any public work of the United States, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, to permit or require employes thereon to work more than eight hours each day.—Id.

Masters, mates, engineers, firemen, crane-men, deck hands, and scowmen employed on tugs, dredges, and scows used in dredging a harbor channel are not laborers or mechanics within the meaning of Act Aug. 1, 1892, c. 352, 27 Stat. 340 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2521], forbidding contractors upon any public work of the United States or of the District of Columbia, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, to permit or require laborers and mechanics employed thereon to work more than eight hours each day.—Id.

The prohibition, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, except in case of extraordinary emergency, against requiring or permitting laborers or mechanics employed upon any of the public works of the United States or of the District of Columbia to work more than eight hours each day, which is made by Act Aug. 1, 1892, c. 352, 27 Stat. 340 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2521], is not repugnant to the federal Constitution.—Id.

Solicitation by letter intended to be received and read by a postoffice employé in the postoffice building, and which was so received and read in such building, is embraced by the provision of Civil Service Act Jan. 16, 1883, c. 27, § 12, 22 Stat. 403, 407 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 1217, 1223], that no person shall, in any room or building occupied in the discharge of official duties by any officer or employé of the United States mentioned in such act, solicit, "in any manner whatever," or receive, any contribution of money or any other thing of value for any political purpose whatever. Judgment (D. C. 1907) 154 F. 508, reversed.—United States v. Thayer, 28 S. Ct. 426, 209 U. S. 39, 52 L. Ed. 673.

The building of a public levee on the Mississippi river in the Eastern District of Louisiana cannot be said to present at all times an extraordinary emergency, within the meaning of Act Aug. 1, 1892, c. 352, 27 Stat. 340 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2521], regulating the hours of labor of laborers and mechanics on public works, and making it unlawful to require or permit such employes to work a longer time except in cases of extraordinary emergency.—(1911) United States v. Garbish, 32 S. Ct. 77, 222 U. S. 257, 56 L. Ed. 190, reversing judgment (C. C. 1910) 180 F. 502.

58½ [New, vol. 10 Key-No. Series]. Stipulation for release of property held by legal proceedings.

A stipulation executed by the United States district attorney on behalf of the government, conformably to Rev. St. U. S. §§ 3753, 3754 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2530), with a view to obtaining possession of vessels building for the United States, which were in the hands of a receiver appointed in proceedings under a state supply lien law, does not deprive the United States of any right which it had to assert claims to priority under the building contracts or rights existing by reason of the sovereignty of the United States, since the evident purpose of these sections is that neither the United States nor the claimants to the property shall lose any rights because of the release under the stipulation, but the rights of the parties shall continue to be such as they were before the change of possession.—(1910) United States v. Ansonia Brass & Copper Co., 31 S. Ct. 49, 218 U. S. 452, 54 L. Ed. 1107, modifying judgment S. H. Hawes & Co. v. Wm. R. Trigg Co. (1909) 65 S. E. 538, 110 Va. 165.

There is no room for the application of the doctrine governing cases where the United States claims an interest in property lawfully in possession of the court which is administering it—as in equity or in admiralty—and the government intervenes to protect its interest therein, that its rights must be adjudicated in recognition of rights and demands of others interested in the same property, where a vessel, building for the United States, in the hands of a receiver appointed under the state supply lien law, has been released to the United States under a stipulation which fully protects the rights of the United States, which claims the exclusive right and title to the vessel as far as the parts were completed and paid for.—Id.

60. Powers of particular boards or officers to contract.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 43.

Act Cong. July 13, 1861 (12 Stat. 255), provided that the president might declare the inhabitants of any state, or part of a state, in rebellion against the United States, to be in a state of insurrection, and that "thereupon all commercial intercourse by and between the same and citizens thereof and the citizens of the rest of the United States shall cease and be unlawful, so long as such condition of hostilities shall continue." Act Cong. July 2, 1864 (13 Stat. 375), provided that it should be lawful for the secretary of the treasury, with the approval of the president, to authorize agents to purchase for the United States any products of states declared in insurrection, at prices not exceeding three-fourths of their market value in New York. Held, that where cotton was brought from a state which had been declared to be in insurrection, before the president's proclamation removing the restriction on commerce, the purchasing agent had authority to purchase it for three-fourths of its value.—Cutler v. Kouns, 110 U. S. 720, 4 S. Ct. 274, 28 L. Ed. 305.

62. Appropriation or provision for payment as prerequisite of contract.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 45.

The act of congress of June 30, 1834, gave the executive department authority to purchase provisions in making treaties with the Indians, and, with a view to such treaties, made certain appropriations. Held, that Indian agents had no authority to bind the United States under that act beyond the appropriations.—United States v. Jones, 121 U. S. 89, 7 S. Ct. 850, 30 L. Ed. 861.

63. Express contracts in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 46.

A letter from the government engineer calling for sand in excess of the quantity approximately stated in the contract is not a new contract so as to entitle contractor to recover for profits he would have realized had he been permitted to furnish the quantity called for in the letter.—Smoot v. United States, 35 S. Ct. 540, 237 U. S. 38, 59 L. Ed. 829, affirming judgment 48 Ct. Cl. 427.

64. Proposals or bids for contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 47.

The acceptance of a design for a public building, submitted in the competition devised under Act March 2, 1901, c. 805, 31 Stat. 922, does not bind the government to commission the successful architects to construct the building provided for in the separate and independent act of February 9, 1903 (32 Stat. 806, c. 528), where the earlier act expressly directed that the plans and recommendations thereon were to be transmitted to Congress, and the program of competition called for the payment of a stipulated sum to each of the competing architects, in full compensation for their services in preparing and submitting designs, and explicitly stated that the statute did not provide for a building, but only for designs to be approved by Congress.—Lord v. United States, 30 S. Ct. 568, 217 U. S. 340, 54 L. Ed. 790, affirming judgment (1908) 43 Ct. Cl. 282.

A contract or a public work must be regarded as signed by the United States where it recites that it is made by the United States by a specified officer described as Chief of a Bureau of Yards and Docks, and is signed by such officer, with his official title appended.—(1912) United States v. McMullen, 32 S. Ct. 128, 222 U. S. 460, 56 L. Ed. 269, reversing judgment (1909) McMullen v. United States, 167 F. 460, 93 C. C. A. 96.

65. Formal requisites of contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 48.

Regulations established by the secretary of the treasury, pursuant to Act Cong. March 12, 1863, providing for the appointment of agents for receiving and collecting abandoned and captured property, provided that, in certain cases, "supervising special agents" might contract on behalf of the United States for the collection and delivery to them of such property; that any contract made in pursuance of such regulation must be in writing; and that no contract should be made on the part of the United States by such agents, except as authorized. Held, that a verbal contract for the collection and delivery of such property, made by an assistant special agent, gave no rights whatever against the United States.—Camp v. United States, 113 U. S. 648, 5 S. Ct. 687, 28 L. Ed. 1081.

H. wrote to the secretary of the navy offering to construct new boilers for certain vessels of the navy. The navy department answered by letter, accepting the offer according to the conditions thereof, and saying that the drawings and specifications would be furnished as soon as possible. Held, on a notification soon afterwards from the navy department to discontinue work on the boilers, that said letters did not constitute a "contract in writing," within the meaning of Rev. St. § 3744 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2510), providing that all contracts made with the secretary of the navy shall be "reduced to writing, and signed by the contracting parties, with their names at the end thereof."—South Boston Iron Co. v. United States, 118 U. S. 37, 6 S. Ct. 928, 30 L. Ed. 69.

Failure to reduce a contract made by authority of Secretary of Navy to a writing signed by the contracting parties as required by Rev. St. § 3744 (Comp. St. 1913, § 6895), does not preclude enforcement of contract by the government, though it is unenforceable against the government.—United States v. New York & Porto Rico S. S. Co., 38 S. Ct. 41, 239 U. S. 88, 60 L. Ed. 161, reversing judgment 209 F. 1007, 128 C. C. A. 668.

—66. Validity and sufficiency of contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 49.

Irreconcilable conflict between essential provisions of contract for construction of barges for the United States, which will prevent the contractor from recovering for failure to carry it out, held to exist where the specifications prescribe the weight and dimensions of the structural materials, while the contract provides for construction in accordance with specifications with modifications shown by proposals contained in contractor's bid.—(1912) United States v. Ellicott, 32 S. Ct. 334, 223 U. S. 524, 56 L. Ed. 535, reversing judgment (1908) Ellicott Machine Co. v. United States, 43 Ct. Cl. 469.

—67. Contractors' bonds.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 50.

Labor and materials used in the prosecution of a public work, whether furnished under the contract directly to the contractor to a subcontractor, must be deemed within the obligation of a surety company under a bond executed pursuant to Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523], conditioned for the prompt payment of the contractor to "all persons supplying it labor or materials in the prosecution of the work provided for in said contract," in view of the manifest purpose of that statute to protect those whose labor or material has contributed to the prosecution of the work.—United States, to Use of Hill, v. American Surety Co. of New York, 26 S. Ct. 168, 200 U. S. 197, 50 L. Ed. 437.

Those provisions, if any, governing procedure, contained in the amendment made by Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1907, p. 709), to Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), for the protection of persons furnishing materials and labor for the construction of public works, will not be given a retroactive effect so as to apply to existing causes of action, where such amendatory statute, which consists of but one section, contains various provisions dealing with substantive rights, which must be regarded as prospective in their operation.—United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. United States, 28 S. Ct. 537, 209 U. S. 306, 52 L. Ed. 804.

Persons who, in view of the financial embarrassment of a public contractor, undertake to superintend the completion of a public work and to furnish the necessary funds, for which they are to be paid by an assignment of the reserve fund in the hands of the government and by checks or payments under the original contract, are not subcontractors furnishing labor and materials for the fulfillment of such original contract, so as to be entitled to the protection of the bond executed pursuant to Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, § 1, 28 Stat. 278, (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523). Decree (1907) Hardaway & Prowell v. National Surety Co., 150 F. 465, 80 C. C. A. 283, affirmed.—Harda- way v. National Surety Co., 29 S. Ct. 202, 211 U. S. 552, 53 L. Ed. 321.

A surety on the bond of a public contractor is not liable on a claim for labor and materials furnished by the assignees of the contract where the contract of assignment obligates the assignor only to assign the reserve fund in the hands of the government, and to turn over the checks or payments under the original contract.—Id.

The additional phrase, "the person or persons supplying the contractor with labor and materials," used in the Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 948), amending Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), in describing the persons entitled to a copy of the contract and bond for the purpose of suit, does not change the rule that labor and materials used in the prosecution of a public work, though furnished to a subcontractor, are within the obligation of a bond conditioned, conformably to those statutes, for the prompt payment by the contractor to all persons supplying him with labor or materials in the prosecution of the work. Judgment (1908) 158 F. 1021, 86 C. C. A. 672, affirmed.—Mankin v. United States to Use of Ludowici-Celadon Co., 30 S. Ct. 174, 215 U. S. 533, 54 L. Ed. 315.

The recovery on the bond of a contractor for a public work for labor and materials furnished a subcontractor is not limited to the amounts remaining unpaid to the subcontractor when notice was given of outstanding claims, where the bond is conditioned, conformably to Acts Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), and Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 948), for the prompt payment by the contractor to all persons supplying him with labor or materials in the prosecution of the work.—Id.

A vessel building for the United States, the title to which passes to the government as fast as paid for, is a "public work" within the meaning of Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 948), requiring a bond from the contractor for the protection of persons furnishing labor or materials for the construction of public works.—(1910) Title Guaranty & Trust Co. of Scranton, Pa., v. Crane Co., 31 S. Ct. 140, 219 U. S. 24, 55 L. Ed. 72, affirming judgment Title Guaranty & Trust Co. v. Puget Sound Engine Works (1908) 163 F. 168, 89 C. C. A. 618.

The objection that the United States should have been made a party cannot avail to defeat the action on the bond of a contractor for a public work, given conformably to Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 948), for the protection of persons furnishing labor and materials, where the suit was begun in the name of the United States, to the real plaintiff's use.—Id.

The failure of plaintiff, in an action on the bond of a contractor for a public work, given conformably to Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 948), for the protection of laborers or materialmen, to apply, as provided in the statute, for a copy of the bond, and furnish an affidavit that labor or materials have been supplied by him for the prosecution of the work, is not fatal to the suit, where no action has been brought by the United States for more than six months from the completion of the work, and affidavits are made and copies filed by interveners, since, under the circumstances, the omission is only a formal defect.—Id.

Claims for cartage and towage to the place where a vessel is building for the United States, and for patterns furnished to the molding department of the builder, are within the obligation of the latter's bond, given conformably to Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 948), for the protection of laborers and materialmen.—Id.

Want of consideration cannot be urged to defeat an action on the bond of a public contractor, given conformably to Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 948), for the protection of laborers and materialmen, because it was not executed until ten days after the contract was made, especially where the bond was under seal.—Id.

Claims for labor and materials against a contractor for a public work may be assigned without losing the protection of the bond given conformably to Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 948), for the benefit of laborers and materialmen.—Id.

Each successful claimant in an action on the bond of a public contractor, given conformably to Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280, 28 Stat. 278 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523), as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905, c. 778, 33 Stat. 811 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 948), for the protection of laborers and materialmen, may be allowed the docket fee authorized by Rev. St. U. S. § 824 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 632), since the claims are several, and represent distinct causes of action in different parties, although consolidated in a single suit.—Id.

Work of quarrying stone and transporting it to a breakwater for federal government is within a bond of the contractor for the breakwater executed under act Aug. 13, 1894, conditioned for payment for labor and material.—United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 88, 231 U. S. 237, 58 L. Ed. 200, affirming judgment 189 F. 839, 111 C. C. A. 71.

Claiming an excessive amount from the bond of public contractor given under Act Aug. 13, 1894, to protect laborers and materialmen, does not defeat right to enforce the bond for amount fairly due.—Id.

A delay of five years in suing on bond of public contractor given under Act Aug. 13, 1894, to protect laborers and materialmen, will not defeat the suit, though pending such time the contractor became insolvent.—Id.

Compliance with formal requirements as to mode of canceling a contract for a public work, where the contractor fails to prosecute the work diligently in the judgment of the designated official, is not a prerequisite to an action on the contractor's bond, where he refuses to proceed with the work.—Graham v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 148, 231 U. S. 474, 58 L. Ed. 319, affirming judgment 188 F. 651, 110 C. C. A. 465.

An action on the bond of a public contractor by persons furnishing labor and material is prematurely brought, when begun within six months of final settlement of a contract, though after such settlement the United States neither had nor asserted any claim against the contractor or his sureties, since such right of action under Act Feb. 24, 1905, is conditioned on the fact that no suit shall be brought by the United States within such period.—United States ex rel. Texas Portland Cement Co. v.

McCord, 34 S. Ct. 550, 233 U. S. 157, 58 L. Ed. 893.

Intervention by other creditors after the six months' period does not cure premature bringing of original suit on bond of public contractor, which right of action, under Act Feb. 24, 1905, amending Act Aug. 13, 1894, is specially conditioned on the fact that no suit shall be brought by the United States within six months from the final settlement of the contract.—Id.

The intervention by other creditors in a suit on the bond of a public contractor under Act Feb. 24, 1905, by persons supplying labor or material, is not an original suit, so as to cure the prematurity of the original bill, where no service was had upon the intervention as required when original actions are begun by creditors.—Id.

The premature bringing of a suit on the bond of a public contractor within six months after final settlement, by persons furnishing labor and material, is not cured by filing an amended bill more than a year after such completion, since under Act Feb. 24, 1905, this right of action must be brought after six months but within a year from such final settlement.—Id.

Changes in a contract for the erection of a public building, though not contemplated in the contract, and made without the consent of the surety on the contractor's bond given under Act Feb. 28, 1899, do not release the surety as to persons supplying the contractor with labor and materials, so far as they are supplied under the original contract.—Equitable Surety Co. v. United States to Use of W. McMillan & Son, 34 S. Ct. 803, 234 U. S. 448, 58 L. Ed. 1394.

The requirement of Act Feb. 24, 1905, that the last publication of notice to creditors in a suit by a creditor on the bond of a public contractor must be at least three months before the time limited therefor, is not jurisdictional but directory.—United States, for Use of Alexander Bryant Co., v. New York Steam Fitting Co., 35 S. Ct. 108, 235 U. S. 327, 59 L. Ed. 253.

Surety on bond of contractor for public building held liable for damages sustained through contractor's default, though the government entered into an entirely new contract with a third person for different work.—United States v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 35 S. Ct. 298, 236 U. S. 512, 59 L. Ed. 696, affirming judgment United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. United States, 194 F. 611, 116 C. C. A. 187.

Surety on bond of public contractor can only be held for such interest as accrued from its own default after notice of default of principal.—Id.

The approval by the Treasury Department of a settlement with a public contractor adopted by the supervising architect held a "final settlement" of the contract, within Act Aug. 13, 1894, as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905, providing for suits on the contractor's bond within six months from final settlement.—Illinois Surety Co. v. United States to Use of Peeler, 36 S. Ct. 321, 240 U. S. 214, 60 L. Ed. 609, modifying judgment 215 F. 334, 131 C. O. A. 476.

Participation by an assignee in a suit by laborers and materialmen, brought in the name of the United States under Act Aug. 13, 1894, as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905, is not a fling of a claim on behalf of the assignor, on whose behalf there was an intervention, so as to warrant judgment for the assignor on a finding that the assignment was invalid.—Id.

68. Unauthorized or illegal contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 51.

A party to whom has been delivered, without sanction of law, material of old ships, property of the United States, to which he had no title whatever, by contract or otherwise, is accountable to the government for its full value, notwithstanding that his account has been settled by the officers of the navy department at a sum less than its full value.—Steele v. United States, 113 U. S. 128, 5 S. Ct. 396, 28 L. Ed. 952.

—69. Implied contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 52.

On trial of a claim against the United States for use of an extractor ejector patented by plaintiff's assignor, it appeared that the government made use of such invention, or of one afterwards devised by its employé without knowledge of the prior invention, and differing from it only in the use of a spiral instead of a flat spring; that such springs perform the same office, and attain the same result in the same way; that during the time covered by the claim the officers of the government specially charged with the duty of superintending the manufacture of muskets regarded such patentee as the inventor of such device; that the difference between the spiral and flat spring was immaterial; and that the use of his invention was with his and his assignee's permission, and with the understanding by such officers that the government would pay for it, as for other private property it might take, though they did not believe they had authority to agree on the price. Held, that there was an implied contract for compensation for the use of such device by the government.—United States v. Palmer, 128 U. S. 262, 9 S. Ct. 104, 32 L. Ed. 442; United States v. Berdan Firearms Mfg. Co., 156 U. S. 552, 15 Sup. Ct. 420, 39 L. Ed. 530.

The mere fact that the United States avails itself of the benefits of labor and expense incurred by counsel acting under contract with private parties, and having no reason to expect compensation from the government, in filing suits in the name of the United States to vacate land patents, is insufficient to raise an implied promise on the part of the latter to compensate them, though their clients refuse to do so or to proceed with the litigation, and the government itself then prosecutes the suits with other counsel.—Coleman v. United States, 152 U. S. 96, 14 S. Ct. 473, 38 L. Ed. 368.

The United States is liable on an implied contract to pay the chattel mortgagee of a traction engine for its use in the Reclamation Service in completing a contract which the chattel mortgagor had assigned to the United States, where the government's representatives knew of the mortgage, and represented that payment for the engine's use would be recommended, and the mortgagee left the engine, on such representations, and because its title under the mortgage was undisputed, especially as the government was authorized by Act June 17, 1902, § 7, to acquire any property necessary for the improvement.—United States v. Buffalo Pitts Co., 34 S. Ct. 840, 234 U. S. 228, 58 L. Ed. 1290, affirming judgment 193 F. 905, 114 C. C. A. 119.

—70. Construction and operation of contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 53.

The specifications of a contract for rebuilding a government building that had been destroyed by fire provided that certain walls left standing were to remain and be carried up to the required height. Before the plaintiff made his bid for the contract his agent examined the premises, at which those portions of the walls which were considered unfit for a superstructure had been removed by the agents of the government. During the progress of the work the walls were discovered to be further insufficient, and additional portions had to be removed, occasioning increased expense to plaintiff. The contract provided that there should be no extra charge for modifications, unless mutually agreed upon.

Held, that the contract must be construed with reference to the condition of the walls as left by the government, and when examined by the plaintiff preparatory to making his bid, and that he was entitled to recover for the expense occasioned by the further reduction of them.—United States v. Gibbons, 109 U. S. 200, 3 S. Ct. 117, 27 L. Ed. 906.

Under Act Cong. July 1, 1862, § 6, requiring the railroad companies to the Pacific to transport mails, troops, supplies, etc., "at fair and reasonable rates of compensation, not to exceed the amounts paid by private parties for the same service," the roads are entitled only to a quantum meruit, and not to a rate to be fixed in the first instance by the company in the limits prescribed.—Union Pac. Ry. Co. v. United States, 117 U. S. 355, 6 S. Ct. 772, 29 L. Ed. 920.

Under a contract with D. for 1,000,000 pounds of corn, K., who had just brought it from the states, delivered 63,000 pounds. It was rejected by the general commanding (and D. was so notified), but was used in the service, and was reported to the commissary general of subsistence as bought from D. at the lowest market rates, certified accounts being given at D.'s contract price. K. received and receipted for the price of the corn "as purchased in open market, by order," etc. The same day D. wrote, asking an extension of time, if he were expected to deliver the 1,000,000 pounds exclusive of this 63,000, and this was granted. D. was paid in full for all else he delivered under the terms of the contract. Held, that on the 63,000 pounds he had no claim for the difference between the contract and the market price.—Dold v. United States, 154 U. S. 645, 14 S. Ct. 1187, 24 L. Ed. 1103.

Under a contract to pay plaintiff a certain price for all stamps ordered and delivered by a certain date, which amount is to be full compensation for everything done under the contract, plaintiff agreeing to keep on hand stamps sufficient to meet all orders, the United States is not liable for stamps remaining on hand after expiration of the period, though manufactured and stored under supervision of a government agent.—Continental Bank-Note Co. of City of New York v. United States, 154 U. S. 671, 14 S. Ct. 1194, 26 L. Ed. 997.

The approval of the chief of engineers of the United States army, required by a contract for constructing a canal, which contains an express provision that the contract, "shall be subject to the approval" of such engineer, is a future approval of the contract as written, and cannot be satisfied by the engineer's previous acts, such as his authorization of the acceptance of the contractor's bid, and the furnishing of a blank on which to make the contract. Judgment 35 Ct. Cl. 199, affirmed.—Monroe v. United States, 22 S. Ct. 444, 184 U. S. 524, 46 L. Ed. 670.

Approval, by the engineer in charge of the work of constructing a dry dock for the United States, of the quarry from which the sandstone for the ashlar was to be taken, is not made final by the contract provision that such stone must be "of quality approved by the engineer," so as to forestall the latter's judgment of the stone actually furnished, or the judgment of any "other competent officer or person or persons" who, under the contract, might be designated by the navy department, with power to inspect or reject any material deemed unsuitable for the purpose intended; but the decision of such engineer as to quality is only final as to stone actually cut and delivered. Judgment 35 Ct. Cl. 514, affirmed.—United States v. Barlow, 22 S. Ct. 468, 184 U. S. 123, 46 L. Ed. 463.

The expense caused to contractors engaged in the construction of a dry dock for the United States, by the suspension of regular work, due to an unsuccessful experiment with the "water jet system" in driving piles, undertaken against their protest, in obedience to an improper order of the secretary of the navy, is properly allowed as for extra work, as well as the expenditure in the experiment.—Id.

The additional cost to contractors engaged in the construction of a dry dock for the United States of additions required by the navy department to be made in correcting a mistake in the performance of the contract, which had no relation to such mistake, but would have been required irrespective thereof, is properly allowed as for extra work.—Id.

A claim as for extra work of the additional cost to contractors engaged in a public work of replacing defective work at the command of the engineer in charge, which has been approved and accepted by his predecessor, will be disallowed, where the contract provides that all labor and materials shall be of the best kind and quality, and subject, not only to the approval of the engineer at a particular time, but to the approval of any engineer subsequently appointed with full power to reject any material or work which he may deem unsuitable for the purpose intended, and to cause any inferior work to be taken down, and satisfactorily replaced at the contractors' expense.—Id.

The written undertaking of the United States to take the fresh beef needed for army posts or camps in the interior of Cuba cannot be extended to cover the entire island whenever the supply of refrigerator beef should be insufficient, because of a prior conversation between the contractor and Commissary General of Subsistence, in which that officer stated that such was the purpose and intent of the department.—Simpson v. United States, 26 S. Ct. 54, 199 U. S. 397, 50 L. Ed. 245.

The camp at Los Quemados of the main body of United States troops in the vicinity of Havana, situated about 6 or 8 miles from that city, and about 2½ miles from the beach of Marianao, and connected with both points by rail, is not "situated in the interior of the island," within the meaning of an agreement on the part of the United States to take the fresh beef needed at posts or camps so situated, made pursuant to advertisements for proposals, in which the phrases "posts remote from the sea-coast" and "posts and camps in the interior of the island" were used as synonymous.—Id.

The United States, and not the government of the Philippine Islands, must be deemed the purchaser of paper to be used by the public printing office in those islands, where the division of insular affairs, under an order of the Secretary of War, conducted the negotiations for such purchase with no intimation that it was acting as the agent for the government of the Philippine Islands, other than can be inferred from the statement of the purpose for which the paper was intended, the contrary inference being supported by a reference to the "Philippine funds" as the source of payment, and by the subsequent correspondence and dealings, which showed that both parties regarded the contract as one made in the name of, and for the account of, the United States. Judgment, R. P. Andrews & Co. v. United States, 41 Ct. Cl. 48, affirmed.—United States v. R. P. Andrews & Co., 28 S. Ct. 100, 207 U. S. 229, 52 L. Ed. 185.

The United States should be charged the cabin rate, with the usual reduction for children under 10 years, for transportation to Spain as cabin passengers of the wives and children of Spanish military and civil officers in the Philippine Islands, under a contract for the transportation of such officers at that rate, and of such other persons as might be designated by the Secretary of War at the steerage rate. Judgment, J. M. Ceballos v. United States, 42 Ct. Cl. 318, reversed.—J. M. Ceballos & Co.

v. United States, 29 S. Ct. 583, 214 U. S. 47, 53 L. Ed. 904.

All noncombatants except the wives and children of military and civil officers were embraced in the words "other persons" in a contract with the United States for the transportation to Spain at the cabin rate of Spanish military and civil officers in the Philippine Islands, and at the steerage rate of such other persons as might be designated by the Secretary of War.—Id.

Provisions in schedule for construction of barges for the United States, giving in detail the weight and dimensions of structural materials, held not affected by provision in contract for construction of barges in accordance with specifications in such schedule.—United States v. Ellicott, 32 S. Ct. 334, 223 U. S. 524, 56 L. Ed. 535, reversing judgment Ellicott Machine Co. v. United States, 43 Ct. Cl. 469.

One contracting to complete unfinished public work in accordance with the original contract held not entitled to compensation for extra work, where the Secretary of the Interior has decided against his claim under provision in contract.—Plumley v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 139, 226 U. S. 545, 57 L. Ed. 342, modifying judgments 43 Ct. Cl. 266 and 45 Ct. Cl. 185.

Failure to comply with contract for public work, providing that the cost of changes must be agreed on in writing and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, defeats claims of contractor for compensation for extra work.—Id.

Obligation to furnish necessary cars held to rest on the contractor rather than the government under a contract to transport and deliver all the granite required for a public work to be furnished by the government f. o. b. on cars at the quarry.—Graham v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 148, 231 U. S. 474, 58 L. Ed. 319, affirming judgment 188 F. 651, 110 C. C. A. 465.

The damage incurred by persons contracting to repair a dam for the United States, because the existing dam had not been built as positively stated in the specifications, may be recovered from the government, notwithstanding general language in other paragraphs of the specifications that no claim shall be made for any excess or deficiency, and that bidders are expected to visit the site and ascertain the nature of the work.—Hollerbach v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 553, 233 U. S. 165, 58 L. Ed. 898, reversing judgment 47 Ct. Cl. 230.

The extra cost of inclosing certain machinery in casing, necessitated by the building of a plank walk across the top of a pipe, to protect the workmen from high-speed gearing, must be allowed the contractor for the construction of a pumping plant for the government, where the expense was made necessary by the government.—United States v. United Engineering & Construction Co., 34 S. Ct. 843, 234 U. S. 236, 58 L. Ed. 1294, affirming judgment United Engineering & Contracting Co. v. United States, 47 Ct. Cl. 489.

A contractor for a government pumping plant should be allowed the cost of repairs from breaking of certain pipes, due to the sudden increase in the pressure in the system, caused by the government without notice to the contractor and without his fault.—Id.

Cost of duplicate plant erected by United States contractor to provide for increased deliveries of sand made necessary by his previous delay in delivery is properly borne by the contractor.—Smoot v. United States, 35 S. Ct. 540, 237 U. S. 38, 59 L. Ed. 829, affirming judgment 48 Ct. Cl. 427.

Extra expense over what would have been necessary had the materials to be excavated been as represented by the government boring sheets should be allowed contractors relying on such borings, which the specifications falsely stated represented, as far as known, the materials to be excavated.—Christie v. United States, 35 S. Ct. 565, 237 U. S. 234, 59 L. Ed. 933, reversing judgment 48 Ct. Cl. 293.

The cost of increased excavation due to the angle of repose fixed by government engineer cannot be allowed contractors, where such angle was selected from experience in other work and would have been adequate but for extraordinary flood conditions.—Id.

The United States is not liable to contractors for a mistake in judgment by its officer, to whom is given direction of the work.—Id.

Contractors for dams and locks for the United States cannot be allowed cost of excavation of buried concrete forms made by contractors to recover the forms for reuse.—Id.

Cost of cofferdams made necessary by flood conditions cannot be allowed contractors for locks under "extra work" paragraph of their specifications, where, under other paragraphs, all cofferdams were to be built by contractors at their own expense.—Id.

Cost of last two of three unsuccessful temporary dams erected by a public contractor and the charges for superintendence held not chargeable to the United States under the contract.—United States v. Normile, 36 S. Ct. 122, 239 U. S. 344, 60 L. Ed. 319, reversing judgment Normile, Fastabend & McGregor v. United States, 49 Ct. Cl. 73.

Increased cost of labor and materials for public work due to the breaking out of war with Spain held not chargeable to the United States because of delay in notifying the contractors that they could begin work, where the notice was given in time to begin as early as contemplated.—Id.

A subcontractor for the construction of a public building for the United States held not bound by provisions contained in the general contract under which the general contractor was obliged to submit to delays, where the only reference from the subcontract to the general contract related to another matter.—Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 36 S. Ct. 300, 240 U. S. 264, 60 L. Ed. 636.

A provision in a subcontract for government work, relieving the subcontractor from liability for liquidated damages in case of delay caused by the general contractor, held not to preclude reimbursement under another clause in the subcontract for loss attributable to the general contractor's failure to provide materials.—Id.

Any uncertainty as to whether a roadway on plans was called for by a contract for construction of filtration plant for the United States so as to entitle contractor to payment for work on such roadway should be resolved in contractor's favor, where engineer in charge inspected the work and directed payment therefore as included in the contract.—White v. United States, 36 S. Ct. 532, 241 U. S. 149, 60 L. Ed. 929, reversing judgment 48 Ct. Cl. 169.

Any ambiguity in specifications for a foundation for a government building from use of word "building," instead of word "buildings," in specifications as to protection of adjoining property, could only give ground for dispute, and the extra cost of underpinning for adjoining buildings must be borne by the contractor where the contract makes decision of supervising architect final.—Merrill-Ruckgaber Co. v. United States, 36 S. Ct. 662, 241 U. S. 387, 60 L. Ed. 1058, affirming judgment 49 Ct. Cl. 553.

◀ 71. Assignment of contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 54.

Rev. St. § 3737 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2507], providing that a transfer of a contract by the person to whom it is given shall annul it so far as the United States is concerned, does not refer to a lease of land to be used for public purposes.—Freedman's Saving & Trust Co. v. Shepherd, 127 U. S. 494, 8 S. Ct. 1250, 32 L. Ed. 163.

◀ 72. Modification or rescission of contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 55.

The secretary of the navy may direct or consent to a change in a contract for the construction of a dry dock for the United States, which he was authorized by law to construct, although such contract provides that changes can only be made upon written order of the bureau of yards and docks, as, under Rev. St. U. S. § 420 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 239], the duties of the bureaus of the navy department are performed under his control, and their orders are considered as emanating from him, and have "full force and effect as such." Judgment 35 Ct. Cl. 514, affirmed.—United States v. Barlow, 22 S. Ct. 468, 184 U. S. 123, 46 L. Ed. 463.

An order of the secretary of the navy directing contractors, against their protest, to sink by the "water jet system" the piles required in the construction of a dry dock for the United States, is not a "change or modification," within the meaning of the contract, which will preclude the contractors from recovering the expense incurred in the unsuccessful experiment with such system because not agreed upon in writing by the parties.—Id.

A change in the place of dumping the spoil, made when reletting the contract for the dredging work in San Pablo Bay, prevents the United States from recovering under the original contract for the contractor's default, where, by such contract, the place of dumping the spoil was a specific requirement, which could only be modified by written agreement.—United States v. Axman, 34 S. Ct. 736, 234 U. S. 36, 58 L. Ed. 1198, affirming judgment 193 F. 644, 113 C. C. A. 512.

◀ 73. Performance or breach of contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 56.

Where claimant's bid to furnish oats to a military station at a certain rate was accepted for less than half the amount for which bids were invited, and the circular of information to bidders advised him that the bidder whose proposal was accepted would be required to enter into contract to perform it, he will be presumed to have known that he had a successful competitor in the bidding as to the rest of the oats needed; and the fact that his contract provided that he should supply the quantity stated in his bid, "or such other quantity, more or less, as may be required, from time to time, for the wants of such station," between certain dates, "in such quantities and at such times as the receiving officer may require," will not justify the contention that he was bound to deliver, and the United States to receive, in addition to his bid, all the oats needed at the station between the dates mentioned; and a refusal to receive oats in excess of the amount of his bid is not a breach of the contract.—Merriam v. United States, 107 U. S. 437, 2 S. Ct. 536, 27 L. Ed. 531.

Where a contract for a government work provides that payment shall not be made therefor until an agent, designated by the United States, has certified, after inspection, "that it was in all respects as contracted for," and the agent so appointed expressly refuses the certificate, on the ground that neither material nor workmanship is such as the contract requires, the contractor cannot recover therefor, in the absence of fraud or such gross mistake as would imply bad faith, or a failure to exercise honest judgment by the inspector.—Sweeney v. United States, 109 U. S. 618, 3 S. Ct. 344, 27 L. Ed. 1053.

The obligations of a contract for a public work, so far as applicable to a case of the contractor's default, including the right reserved to the government to secure some one else to complete the work, and charge the original contractor with the reasonable difference in cost, remained in force after the government, exercising its option, declared the contract null and void for the contractor's failure to perform, without prejudice to its right to recover for defaults therein or violations thereof.—United States v. McMullen, 32 S. Ct. 128, 222 U. S. 460, 56 L. Ed. 269, reversing judgment McMullen v. United States, 187 F. 460, 93 C. C. A. 96.

The right of the government under a contract for a public work to charge the contractor with the reasonable difference in cost in case of a reletting after his default is not defeated because this second contract does not appear to have completed the work intended to be accomplished by the first, where the work done under the new contract was work which the first contractor had agreed to perform.—Id.

One contracting to build a jetty in a harbor with crest blocks to be put in place on the jetty as the work proceeds held not entitled to relief by refusal of agent of the United States in charge to permit laying of the blocks, unless refusal is the result of fraud or gross mistake.—Ripley v. United States, 32 S. Ct. 352, 223 U. S. 695, 750, 56 L. Ed. 614.

Contractor for construction of jetty in a harbor, crest blocks to be put in place when in the judgment of the United States agent it was proper, held not to lose his right to damages from the refusal to allow them to be laid because of provisions of inspection by another inspector in making his decision final.—Id.

Strict construction by inspector under contract for construction of a jetty in a harbor so as to reject stones not measuring up to the requirements held not to entitle the contractor to damages from such rejection.—Id.

Decision of chief of engineers in allowing or disallowing items for expenses of inspection in the construction of a jetty during suspension of work because of yellow fever epidemic held conclusive on the court in the absence of fraud or gross mistake.—Id.

Damages by delay are not recoverable from the United States by a contractor for public work failing to notify Secretary of the Interior when delay occurred, as required by the contract.—Plumley v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 139, 226 U. S. 545, 57 L. Ed. 342, modifying judgments 43 Ct. Cl. 266, and 45 Ct. Cl. 185.

Defendant in suit on the bond of a public contractor to transport granite for a public work has no ground for complaint of an instruction to find in his favor, if the jury determine that the rough stone furnished by the government did not comply with the stipulation that it should be furnished in "net dimension blocks" as they find the meaning was understood by the parties.—Graham v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 148, 231 U. S. 474, 58 L. Ed. 319, affirming judgment 188 F. 651, 110 C. C. A. 465.

A contractor who unreasonably delays a public work under a supplemental contract fixing no definite time for performance cannot be charged by the rule of the original contract stipulating liquidated damages for delay, where the work was delayed under the original contract by the government's fault.—United States

v. United Engineering & Construction Co., 34 S. Ct. 843, 234 U. S. 236, 58 L. Ed. 1294, affirming judgment United Engineering & Contracting Co. v. United States, 47 Ct. Cl. 489.

Oral waiver by the Quartermaster General of the United States Army of the time limit in a contract for construction of a vessel is not forbidden by Act June 2, 1862, requiring contract for military supplies to be in writing.—Maryland Steel Co. of Baltimore County v. United States, 35 S. Ct. 190, 235 U. S. 451, 59 L. Ed. 312, reversing judgment Maryland Steel Co. v. United States, 48 Ct. Cl. 50.

The failure of a general contractor for government work to provide a foundation on which a subcontractor's work was to be superimposed held a failure to provide labor and materials within the meaning of the subcontract, entitling the subcontractor to reimbursement for loss by resulting delay.—Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 36 S. Ct. 300, 240 U. S. 264, 60 L. Ed. 636.

A provision in a subcontract that the general contractor will reimburse the subcontractor for loss resulting from delay in furnishing labor and materials entitles the subcontractor to reimbursement, where the delay is attributable to the action of the government.—Id.

Delay in the performance of a contract to manufacture armor plate, due to a lack of knowledge of the necessary scientific process, was not due to "unavoidable causes, such as fires, storms, labor strikes, actions of the United States, etc.," so as to entitle the contractor to a credit on liquidated damages.—Carnegie Steel Co. v. United States, 36 S. Ct. 342, 240 U. S. 156, 60 L. Ed. 578, affirming judgment 49 Ct. Cl. 403.

Encountering of submerged forest in excavating a channel for the United States held not to relieve contractor from liability to pay liquidated damages and additional costs of inspection if the work is not finished in time, where chief engineer refused to sanction any extension of time.—Maryland Dredging & Contracting Co. v. United States, 36 S. Ct. 545, 241 U. S. 184, 60 L. Ed. 945, affirming judgment 49 Ct. Cl. 710.

74. Rights and remedies of contractor and sureties.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 57.

The contractor for a public work must bear the loss occasioned during a typhoon by the pressure of the rock revetment and the action of wind and waves, although the storm would have done no damage had not the structure been previously weakened by a displacement of bulkhead and revetment by pressure from the inside fill, where the extent of the government's liability under the contract was expressly restricted to paying for the repair of any break caused by pressure resulting from the mud fill, and the contractor's responsibility expressly covered damage to the bulkhead or revetment arising from wave action, or from pressure of the revetment against the timber structure.—Atlantic, Gulf & Pacific Co. v. Government of Philippine Islands, 31 S. Ct. 138, 219 U. S. 17, 55 L. Ed. 70.

A contract prepared by the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, under Rev. St. § 3744 (Comp. St. 1913, § 6895), upon requisition of the Bureau of Equipment, should be reformed by the Court of Claims by striking out a clause which the latter bureau had agreed should be omitted, but which was inserted through inadvertence, though the contractor signed without careful reading.—Ackerlind v. United States, 36 S. Ct. 438, 240 U. S. 531, 60 L. Ed. 733, reversing judgment 49 Ct. Cl. 635.

75. Rights and remedies of United States on contracts in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 57.

The excess cost of completing a public work, recoverable by the United States under the contract in case of the failure of the contractor to "complete this contract as specified and agreed upon," cannot be recovered where there was time enough left to complete the work within the limit set by the contract when the government engineer gave the written notice of annulment for failure to prosecute the work "faithfully and diligently," provided for by another clause in the contract, under which was incurred only a forfeiture of reserved percentages, and money due.—(1911) United States v. O'Brien, 31 S. Ct. 406, 220 U. S. 321, 55 L. Ed. 481, affirming judgment (1908) 163 F. 1022, 80 C. C. A. 664.

Waiver of Quartermaster General of the United States Army in his discretion of the time limit in a contract for construction of a vessel carries with it a release of any claim by the government for liquidated damages under the contract for such delay after the waiver.—Maryland Steel Co. of Baltimore County v. United States, 35 S. Ct. 190, 235 U. S. 451, 59 L. Ed. 312, reversing judgment Maryland Steel Co. v. United States, 48 Ct. Cl. 50.

Interest from the date when a building should have been completely finished should be allowed to the government on advance payments made to the defaulting contractor.—United States v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 35 S. Ct. 298, 236 U. S. 512, 59 L. Ed. 696, affirming judgment United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. United States, 194 F. 611, 116 C. C. A. 187.

Delay of several years in pressing government's claim for return of advance payments to a contractor for a public building who fraudulently departed from the contract was not a waiver of the right to interest from the date when the work should have been finished.—Id.

76. Priority of United States as creditor.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 59.

The national bank act is a complete system of law for the formation and government of such banks. The provisions for the security of their circulation by a deposit of bonds, under Rev. St. §§ 5167, 5171 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3471], giving the United States a lien on all the assets of the bank to reimburse them for any deficiency after a sale of the bonds, and the authority of the secretary of the treasury to require security for public moneys deposited, under Id. § 5497 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3707], and the provision for the distribution of the entire assets of an insolvent bank, under Id. § 5236 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3508], without any preference to the United States, except the reimbursement for advances in redeeming the circulation, provided for in Id. § 5167, have the effect to withdraw national banks from the general provision of Rev. St. § 3466 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2314], giving the United States a priority over the claims of other creditors against the estate of an insolvent debtor; and where postal and money-order funds have been deposited by a deputy postmaster, without security, in a bank which subsequently becomes insolvent, a bill by the United States, claiming a priority over other creditors, will be dismissed.—Cook County Nat. Bank v. United States, 107 U. S. 445, 2 S. Ct. 561, 27 L. Ed. 537.

The lien of the federal government for partial payments, reserved in a contract for the construction of a revenue cutter, in accordance with the joint resolution of Congress of May 5, 1894, No. 24 (28 Stat. 582, 583 [U. S.

Comp. St. 1901, p. 2425]), which merely directs how contracts thereafter made shall provide with reference to liens upon such vessels, is one created only by the terms of the contract, and is not an express statutory lien by authority of the United States, which would be superior to any asserted rights under the lien laws of a state.—(1910) United States v. Ansonia Brass & Copper Co., 31 S. Ct. 49, 218 U. S. 452, 54 L. Ed. 1107, modifying judgment S. H. Hawes & Co. v. Wm. R. Trigg Co. (1909) 65 S. E. 538, 110 Va. 165.

The lien for partial payments, reserved by the federal government in a contract for the construction of a vessel, cannot be deemed to be intended to be superior to those of contractors for labor and material who have contributed to the work, where the contract required a bond to be given, conditioned for the faithful performance of the contract, and the prompt payment to other persons supplying labor and materials in the prosecution of the work.—Id.

78. Torts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 62.

The United States, while they may be sued, as on an implied contract, for the value of land actually appropriated to public use, when the title of plaintiff is admitted, are yet not subject to such suit when plaintiff's title has never been acknowledged, but, on the contrary, the government pleads that it has a paramount right to use the lands; for, in the latter case, the injury, if any, constitutes a tort by the government agents, for which the United States is not suable.—Hill v. United States, 149 U. S. 593, 13 S. Ct. 1011, 37 L. Ed. 862, reversing judgment 39 F. 172.

The government of the United States is not liable for the wrongful act of the register of the United States treasury in permitting a transfer of registered bonds of the United States belonging to a trust estate on insufficient evidence of authority in the holder to demand the transfer.—German Bank of Memphis v. United States, 148 U. S. 573, 13 S. Ct. 702, 37 L. Ed. 564.

III. FISCAL MANAGEMENT, PUBLIC DEBT, AND SECURITIES.

Assignment of unallowed claims by bankrupt, see Bankruptcy, 172.

81. Collection and custody of funds.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 64.

Act Cong. June 23, 1836 (5 Stat. 55), provided that the surplus above $5,000,000 which should be in the treasury January 1, 1837, should be deposited with the states in four installments, subject to be withdrawn at the public need. Three installments were duly paid, but the payment of the fourth was postponed by act of congress until January 1, 1839. At that date there was not a sufficient surplus in the treasury with which to pay the installment, and no part thereof was deposited with the states. Held, that the duty of the secretary in 1839 was to pay the installment if there was a sufficient surplus, but that, as he was unable then to make the payment, the obligation expired, and he could not be compelled at any subsequent time to do so unless authorized thereto by further legislation.—Ex parte Commonwealth of Virginia, 111 U. S. 43, 4 S. Ct. 333, 28 L. Ed. 346.

85. Appropriations.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 66.

The claim of sugar producers to be paid the amount of bounties allowed by Act Oct. 1, 1890, c. 1244, Schedule E (26 Stat. 583), in spite of the repeal of this act August 19, 1894, which forbade the payment of bounties, was such an equitable and honorable obligation on the part of the government as to authorize the appropriation by congress of money for the payment of such bounties, the producers having in good faith acted in reliance on the former act.—United States v. Realty Co., 163 U. S. 427, 16 S. Ct. 1120, 41 L. Ed. 215.

Public funds are not unconstitutionally appropriated for private use by Act Feb. 12, 1901, cc. 353, 354, 31 Stat. 767, 774, and Act Feb. 28, 1903, c. 856, 32 Stat. 900, for the elimination of grade crossings, and for a union railway station in the District of Columbia, which provide for the payment to the railway companies of a sum of money to be raised by a levy on the taxable property of the district in consideration of the removal of railroads from their present location, and of large expenditures of money by the railway companies, and the surrender by them of substantial rights. Decree 25 App. D. C. 221, affirmed.—Millard v. Roberts, 26 S. Ct. 674, 202 U. S. 429, 50 L. Ed. 1090.

90. Treasury notes, certificates, and other securities intended to circulate as money.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 70.

Act Cong. May 31, 1878, c. 146, 20 Stat. 87 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2397], providing that notes of the United States issued during the War of the Rebellion, under acts of congress declaring them to be legal tender in payment of private debts, and since the close of the war redeemed and paid in gold coin at the treasury, shall be reissued and kept in circulation, is constitutional, under the express power to borrow money and the power incidental thereto to provide a national currency.—Legal Tender Cases, 110 U. S. 421, 4 S. Ct. 122, 28 L. Ed. 204.

91. Bonds.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 71.

The 5-20 bonds issued under the authority of Act March 3, 1865, provided, in conformity to such act, that they were "redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after the 1st day of July, 1870, and payable on the 1st day of July, 1885." In conformity with Act Cong. July 14, 1870, providing for redemption of such bonds, and that the effect of calling such bonds for redemption would be that, in three months after the date of such call, interest on the bonds would cease, notice was given in 1878 that certain 5-20 bonds would be redeemed. Held, that the effect of such call was simply to make such bonds payable on demand, without interest, after the maturity of the call; and that after the expiration of the three months, and until the 1st of July, 1885, such bonds retained the character of negotiable instruments, bona fide purchasers of which would be protected.—Morgan v. United States, 113 U. S. 476, 5 S. Ct. 588, 28 L. Ed. 1044.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST UNITED STATES.

Jurisdiction of district courts, see Courts, 426.

Mandamus to compel ascertainment of, see Mandamus, 101.

93. Nature and grounds in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. §§ 72, 77.

Land was condemned for the use of the government, and the entire value of the condemned land was paid out under order of court to the heirs of the last tenant under a prior confiscation sale, neither the owner in fee nor his heirs appearing. Held, that if there was any error in such payment the United States was not chargeable therewith, since the court was not the agent of the government in such payment, and the government was under no obligation to see that the money was properly distributed.—United States v. Dunnington, 146 U. S. 338, 13 S. Ct. 79, 36 L. Ed. 996, modifying judgment Wallach v. Van Riswick, 92 U. S. 202, 23 L. Ed. 473.

94. Statutory provisions.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 73.

Any objections to the award, made by the senate in the matter of certain claims of the Choctaw Nation submitted to it under the treaty of 1855 (11 Stat. 611), are done away with by the subsequent acts of March 2, 1861 (12 Stat. 238), and of June 23, 1874 (18 Stat. 230), which recognize the validity of the award—the former by ordering a payment on account of the claim of the Choctaws under certain "articles of the treaty" of 1855, which treaty merely provided for a reference to the senate of the claims made under previous treaties, for settlement thereof; and the latter, by providing for the ascertainment of amounts due under that treaty.—Choctaw Nation v. United States, 119 U. S. 1, 7 S. Ct. 75, 30 L. Ed. 306.

The fact that congress has passed special acts allowing specified claims does not thereby make the United States liable for all similar claims.—United States v. Jones, 121 U. S. 89, 7 S. Ct. 850, 30 L. Ed. 861.

Congress will not be deemed to have intended to revive the act of March 3, 1863 (12 Stat. 820, c. 120), providing for the recovery by its owner, under certain conditions, of the value of property captured or abandoned during the Rebellion, by enacting the substance thereof in an act providing for the adjustment of a particular claim of that nature, where it has not, anywhere in such act, expressed that intention.—Austin v. United States, 155 U. S. 417, 15 S. Ct. 167, 39 L. Ed. 206, affirming judgment 25 Ct. Cl. 437.

Claims against the United States not enumerated in the sundry civil appropriation act of March 4, 1907, making the appropriation for payment in certain classes of cases of the amounts certified to be due by the treasury are not embraced by a clause providing that in all cases so certified the accounting officers shall follow the decisions of the United States Supreme Court or the Court of Claims in stating balances after the time for appeal has expired without regard to former settlements by their predecessors, whether this clause be regarded as a proviso or not.—Pennington v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 269, 231 U. S. 631, 58 L. Ed. 410, affirming judgment 48 Ct. Cl. 406.

95. Claims founded on contract.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 74.

A contract to furnish the quartermaster's department all the transportation needed between certain points, at certain rates for military, Indian, and government stores, will not justify a claim for compensation for Indian supplies never in the charge of the quartermaster's department for transportation, but transported under a contract by another person with the commissioner of Indian affairs, though, during the time, some Indian supplies are delivered by the commissioner to the quartermaster's department and by it turned over to claimant for transportation under his contract.—Hazlett v. United States, 115 U. S. 291, 6 S. Ct. 48, 29 L. Ed. 382.

The owners of a building who have received the entire sums which Congress has from year to year appropriated as full compensation for the rent of quarters secured for the Civil Service Commission by the Secretary of the Interior, in the discharge of his duty under Act Jan. 16, 1883, c. 27, 22 Stat. 403 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1217); cannot maintain suit against the government under Act March 3, 1887, c. 359, 24 Stat. 505 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 752), to recover the difference between such sums and the fair rental value of the building, including the basement, which was used without consent, on the theory that the claim is founded either upon a contract, express or implied, or upon the constitutional obligation to make just compensation for private property taken for public use, in view of Rev. St. U. S. §§ 3679, 3732 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2454, 2504), providing respectively that "no department of the government shall expend in any one fiscal year any sum in excess of appropriations made by Congress for that fiscal year, or involve the government in any contract for the future payment of money in excess of such appropriations," and that "no contract or purchase on behalf of the United States shall be made unless the same is authorized by law, or is under an appropriation adequate to its fulfillment," and of Act Cong. June 22, 1874, c. 388, 18 Stat. 133, and Act Cong. March 3, 1877, c. 106, 19 Stat. 363, 370 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2514), prohibiting contracts for the rental of property for government purposes until an appropriation therefor shall have been made in terms by Congress.—(1910) Hooe v. United States, 31 S. Ct. 85, 218 U. S. 322, 54 L. Ed. 1055, affirming judgment (1908) 43 Ct. Cl. 245.

Lack of statutory authority of the Postmaster General to contract for the purchase of pneumatic transportation devices is fatal to a claim asserting a purchase by the Postmaster General of claimant's inventions pertaining thereto.—Beach v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 20, 226 U. S. 243, 57 L. Ed. 205, affirming judgment 41 Ct. Cl. 110.

The retention by the Postmaster General of a proposal by the patentee of an invention for pneumatic transportation without in terms rejecting it held not a purchase under an express agreement to pay the sum mentioned as consideration, where the proposal was in response to an advertisement stating that the Postmaster had no authority to contract for such purchase, and where such proposal was not an assignment of the patents.—Id.

The United States is not suable in the Court of Claims for injuries to a vessel chartered for military purposes, where the injuries were received while performing services outside the contract on compulsion of government officers.—New Orleans-Belize Royal Mail & Cent. American S. S. Co. v. United States, 36 S. Ct. 76, 239 U. S. 202, 60 L. Ed. 227.

©96. Claims founded on tort in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 75.

A person who by the connivance of a clerk in the office of an assistant treasurer of the United States, had unlawfully obtained from that office money belonging to the United States, to replace it, paid to the clerk money which he obtained by fraud from a bank. Held, that, the clerk having had no knowledge of the means by which the latter money was obtained, the United States were not liable to refund the money to the bank.—State Nat. Bank v. United States, 114 U. S. 401, 5 S. Ct. 888, 29 L. Ed. 143, distinguishing United States v. State Bank, 96 U. S. 30, 24 L. Ed. 647.

The United States have never, either by the act of March 3, 1887, 24 Stat. 506, c. 359 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 752], or by any other law, permitted themselves to be sued for torts committed by their officers, as, for instance, a trespass on private lands; and the settled distinction in this respect cannot be evaded by framing the claim so as to count on an implied contract to compensate for use and occupation.—Hill v. United States, 149 U. S. 593, 13 S. Ct. 1011, 37 L. Ed. 862, reversing judgment (C. C.) 39 F. 172.

©97. Use or infringement of patents.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 76.

The mere fact of the use of a patented process in the construction of a pavement by a contractor with the government did not justify a claim that the government, by accepting and using the completed structure, had appropriated any property of the patentee.—Schillinger v. United States, 155 U. S. 163, 15 S. Ct. 85, 39 L. Ed. 108, affirming judgment 24 Ct. Cl. 278.

On trial of a claim against the United States based on a patent for "improvement in breech-loading firearms," it appeared that a certain board of military officers recommended the adoption of the gun having the patented device owned by plaintiff, and which it proposed to such board to furnish at prices specified; and that the government never bought any guns from it, and never manufactured a gun after the model recommended by such board. Held, that the claim was properly disallowed.—United States v. Berdan Firearms Mfg. Co., 156 U. S. 552, 15 S. Ct. 420, 39 L. Ed. 530.

One S., a patentee of street letter boxes, contracted to furnish them to the post office department, but the boxes proved unsatisfactory in use. The postmaster general himself then devised a new box, and made a new contract for four years, superseding the old one, under which S. modeled and manufactured the new boxes. Just before the expiration of the four years, S. applied for a patent on the new boxes, whereupon the postmaster general, by letter to the commissioner of patents protested against the allowance of any patent, and stated the facts in relation to the new box. After the expiration of the contract, the boxes were procured from others. A patent was finally issued on the application to an assignee thereof, but not until October 27, 1891, and thereupon such assignee sued in the court of claims to recover a certain amount for each box furnished after the expiration of the four years, alleging an implied contract by the United States to pay therefor. Held that, even if a patentee may sue for alleged infringements committed before the issuance of his patent, there was no merit in the claim, as the patentee was not the inventor of the box, and as the same had been in use for more than two years before the application.—Kirk v. United States, 163 U. S. 49, 16 S. Ct. 911, 41 L. Ed. 66.

An implied contract to pay for the use of a patent, arises out of its use by the United States with the patentee's consent.—(1912) United States v. Société Anonyme des Anciens Etablissements Cail, 32 S. Ct. 479, 224 U. S. 309, 56 L. Ed. 778, affirming judgment Société Anonyme des Anciens Etablissements Cail v. United States (1907) 43 Ct. Cl. 25.

Harvey process of treating armor plate and not the method described in the patent was covered by contract by which the United States agreed to pay royalty on all armor plate treated by the Harvey process, and used by the United States.—United States v. Harvey Steel Co., 33 S. Ct. 258, 227 U. S. 165, 57 L. Ed. 464, affirming judgment Harvey Steel Co. v. United States, 46 Ct. Cl. 298.

United States held liable on a contract to pay a royalty on armor plate treated by the Harvey process and used by it, though use of certain material was discontinued as unnecessary, where the United States was entitled under the contract to disclosure of inventor's process, and also to his instructions as to the application of the patent.—Id.

Obligation of United States under contract to pay a royalty on armor plate treated by the Harvey process held to arise whenever armor plate used by the United States was hardened by the Harvey process, where, under some contracts with the United States, the maker was permitted to use the Harvey process, if desired, while under other contracts the process used was to be satisfactory to the Navy Department.—Id.

98. Claims arising under revenue laws.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 78.

The first clause of section 4 of the act of March 2, 1891, provides for payment of a specific sum per acre to the legal owners for lands sold in the parishes of St. Helena and St. Luke's in South Carolina, under the direct tax act of 1861. The last clause provides for payment to the owners of lands sold under Act 1861, and bid in by the government, and resold, of the proceeds of such resale, in excess of the tax. Held, that this clause does not apply to the owners of lands named in the first clause.—McKee v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 92, 164 U. S. 287, 41 L. Ed. 437.

A mortgagee of lands, at the time of their sale under the direct tax act of 1861, is not within the refunding act of 1891, providing for payment of a specific sum to the "legal owner."—Glover v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 95, 164 U. S. 294, 41 L. Ed. 440.

Lands held by E. for life, with remainder in his children, were sold for direct taxes, under Act Feb. 6, 1863, and purchased by the United States. After the period for redemption, they were resold, purchased by E., and subsequently seized by his creditors. Held, that E.'s purchase was not a repurchase or redemption by the remainder-men, defeating their right to recover under Act 1891, providing for refunding a specific sum for certain lands sold for direct taxes, but excepting lands repurchased or redeemed by the owners, or those claiming under them.—United States v. Elliott, 17 S. Ct. 140, 164 U. S. 373, 41 L. Ed. 474.

100. Revolutionary war claims.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 80.

Act Cong. July 5, 1832 (4 Stat. 563), to reimburse the state of Virginia for certain judgments recovered against her in her own courts for officers' half pay, and to pay directly similar claims covered by the decision in Re Lilly's Adm'r (1830) 1 Leigh. 525, was limited to officers in the "Virginia line," and to certain regiments and corps specifically named, but the Albemarle Guards were not named. Held, that the act did not apply to claims by officers of the guards, and Col. Taylor's heirs could receive nothing thereunder.—Williams v. United States, 137 U. S. 113, 11 S. Ct. 43, 34 L. Ed. 590, affirming judgment 22 Ct. Cl. 116.

Laws Va. 1834, c. 6, p. 22, appointed John H. Smith a commissioner to continue an examination previously ordered of the Revolutionary documents of the state, and directed him to place any information discovered as to unsatisfied claims of the state against the United States before the governor, "whose decisions thereupon shall be final." The governor's decision thereunder on the Taylor claim speaks of Taylor "as colonel in the continental line from October 1, 1775, to the close of the war." Rev. St. § 906 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 677], provides that records and exemplifications of books kept in any public office of any state, when authenticated as provided in that section, "shall have such faith and credit given to them in every court and office in the United States as they have by law or usage in the courts or offices of the state." Held, that this section does not make a final award or judgment against the state either obligatory in law or conclusive as evidence against the United States; and hence the governor's finding that Taylor was a colonel in the continental line to the end of the war was not binding upon the United States.—Id.

Where a supernumerary surgeon's mate of the Virginia line accepted an appointment as surgeon's mate of the regiment of guards, January 9, 1779, as authorized by resolution of the continental congress of that date, and such regiment was discharged before the "end of the war" because its term of enlistment expired, he did not "continue in service until the end of the war," within the meaning of Res. Cong. Oct. 21, 1780, and March 22, 1783.—Williams v. United States, 154 U. S. 648, 14 S. Ct. 1188, 25 L. Ed. 309.

101. French spoliation claims.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. §§ 81, 108.

In an action against the executor of a citizen of France to recover an award made to him pursuant to the convention of January, 1890, between the United States and France, providing for the appointment of a commission to determine claims of French citizens against the United States, the admission of letters of counsel for claimants before the commission, and a letter of one of the commissioners, to show that no other claim than that of plaintiffs was considered by the commission, is harmless error; the nature of the award, and its beneficiaries, depending on considerations not to be in anywise affected by such evidence.—Burthe v. Denis, 133 U. S. 514, 10 S. Ct. 335, 33 L. Ed. 768.

The act of March 3, 1891, c. 540 (26 Stat. 908), making appropriations to pay certain French spoliation claims, contained a proviso that in all cases "where the original sufferers were adjudicated bankrupts the awards shall be made on behalf of the next of kin instead of to assignees in bankruptcy, and the awards in cases of individual claimants shall not be paid until the court of claims shall certify to the secretary of the treasury that the personal representatives on whose behalf the award is made represent the next of kin, and the courts which granted the administrations, respectively, shall have certified that the legal representatives have given adequate security for the legal disbursement of the awards." Held, that the payments thus directed to be made were intended by congress as payments by way of gratuity or of grace, and not of right; that the beneficiaries in every case should be the next of kin, to the exclusion of creditors, legatees, and assignees; that by the next of kin congress meant the next of kin living at the date of the act, who were to be ascertained according to the statutes of distribution of the respective states of the domicile of the original sufferers.—Blagge v. Balch, 162 U. S. 439, 16 S. Ct. 853, 40 L. Ed. 1032.

The provision in Act Aug. 23, 1894 (28 Stat. 487), for the ascertainment by the court of claims, upon sufficient evidence, of the person entitled to receive the amount appropriated to be paid to John A. Brimmer, Jr., on account of a French spoliation claim under Act March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 862, 900), did not authorize any appeal from the decision of the court of claims on that question.—United States v. Gilliat, 17 S. Ct. 16, 164 U. S. 42, 41 L. Ed. 344.

Congress by making an appropriation in Act March 3, 1899, c. 426 (30 Stat. 1161) in accordance with the report of the Court of Claims on certain French spoliation claims, to an administratrix "representing" a designated firm, and a similar appropriation to the same person as administratrix of the estate of a person designated as "the surviving partner" of such firm, cannot be deemed thereby to have determined that the next of kin of such surviving partner should share in the distribution, where such administratrix represented in the Court of Claims all the interested parties, and that court mistakenly supposed such surviving partner to have been a member of the firm at the time of the illegal seizures of its property, but must be regarded as having intended such appropriation for the next of kin of those composing the firm at the time of the seizures, without attempting to identify the particular persons belonging to that class. Decree 51 A. 169, 94 Md. 534, affirmed.—Buchanan v. Patterson, 23 S. Ct. 764, 190 U. S. 353, 47 L. Ed. 1093.

◀102. Civil war claims in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 82.

Where a person who has "promoted, encouraged, or sustained" the late so-called "Rebellion" has been granted full pardon and amnesty by the president, this does not entitle him to recover claims against the United States for supplies furnished prior to April 13, 1861, payment of such claims being prohibited by joint resolution No. 46, approved March 2, 1867; and this, independent of the provision of that resolution that a pardon shall not authorize such payments.—Hart v. United States, 118 U. S. 62, 6 S. Ct. 961, 30 L. Ed. 96.

◀103. Claims for proceeds of captured or abandoned property.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. §§ 83-87.

Since the adoption by congress of joint resolution No. 25 of March 30, 1868, providing that all moneys from sales of captured and abandoned property should be "covered into the treasury," such funds have been mingled with other public money, and as to them there is no trust imposed on the United States in favor of prospective claimants, even if there was such a trust prior thereto.—Rice v. United States, 122 U. S. 611, 7 S. Ct. 1377, 30 L. Ed. 793.

Under the captured and abandoned property act of March 12, 1863, the strict right of the government to confiscate as enemy's property all goods found within the Confederate lines was waived, and a right was given to any person whose property was seized and sold, and the proceeds turned into the treasury, in accordance with the provisions of the act, to recover the amount thereof on proving before the court of claims his ownership and his loyalty to the United States.—Briggs v. United States, 143 U. S. 346, 12 S. Ct. 391, 36 L. Ed. 180, reversing judgment 25 Ct. Cl. 126.

◀105. Claims under Indian treaties or statutes for relief of Indians.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 89.

One of the questions submitted to the senate for decision under the treaty made with the Choctaw Nation in 1855 (11 Stat. 611), relative to their claims under the treaty of 1830, being whether the Choctaws "are entitled to or shall be allowed" the proceeds of the sales of certain lands, the senate's award declaring that they shall be allowed the proceeds of such sales is not objectionable on the ground of the award not agreeing with the submission.—Choctaw Nation v. United States, 119 U. S. 1, 7 S. Ct. 75, 30 L. Ed. 306.

Nor is it invalid for lack of proper notice to the United States of the intention of the senate to give its decision, as the United States must be considered to have notice of proceedings taken by a branch of the legislative and treaty-making power of the government, in pursuance of laws or treaties of the United States.—Id.

The award is not invalid for uncertainty in allowing to the Choctaws a certain rate per acre for unsold lands, without naming the aggregate amount to be thereby allowed; the award itself providing for a reference to the secretary of the interior to state the account with the Choctaws on the principles of settlement explained therein.—Id.

Act Oct. 1, 1890, c. 1249 (26 Stat. 636), authorizing suit in the court of claims to determine certain treaty rights of the Shawnee and Delaware Indians, by section 3 allowed said Indians counsel, and authorized the court to decree compensation not to exceed 10 per cent. of the amount recovered. Held that, though literally referring only to section 2, which related to suits against the Cherokee Nation and the United States, for moneys unlawfully diverted by said Nation, said section should also be read in connection with section 4, authorizing the suit against the United States for moneys diverted from the tribal fund.—United States v. Blackfeather, 155 U. S. 180, 15 S. Ct. 64, 39 L. Ed. 114.

Under the Shawnee treaty of May 10, 1854, the tribe became entitled to a certain sum, payable in installments to them individually, the portions of orphan children to be appropriated by the president as he should deem best for them. The president decided to pay them in severalty, and the Shawnee council created guardians to whom a part of the money was paid. This never reached the orphans, and another part was embezzled by a United States officer. Held that, even if the tribe had any claim on the fund, it could not hold the United States liable for the embezzlements of its own appointed "guardians"; and, in the absence of a finding what part of the whole shortage these constituted, there was no basis for a decree against the government.—Id.

A forum for the adjudication of the claim according to legal principles is all that is provided by Act Feb. 15, 1909, authorizing the Court of Claims to determine suits on behalf of Indians against the United States for losses sustained by the opening of Indian reservations to public settlement.—United States v. Mille Lac Band of Chippewa Indians, 33 S. Ct. 811, 229 U. S. 498, 57 L. Ed. 1299, reversing judgment Mille Lac Band of Chippewas v. United States, 47 Ct. Cl. 415.

United States having disposed under the general land laws of lands of the Mille Lac Indian Reservation not filed on instead of selling them as pine or agricultural lands and holding the proceeds for the Indians as contemplated by Act Jan. 14, 1889, under which they were ceded to the United States, is liable to the Indians for the resulting loss, though such disposal was under directions given in joint resolutions December 19, 1893.—Id.

◀106. Indian depredation claims.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 90.

Act March 3, 1885, appropriated $10,000 to investigate certain Indian depredation claims, describing them as such as had been filed in the interior department, and approved in whole or in part, and as such "as are pending, but not yet examined." Held, that the act did not embrace cases of depredation for which claims had not been presented at the time of the passage of the act.—Johnson v. United States, 160 U. S. 546, 16 S. Ct. 377, 40 L. Ed. 529.

The question whether an Indian tribe, some of whose members have committed depredations on the property of persons subject to the authority of the United States, was "in amity" with the United States, within the meaning of the act of March 3, 1891, c. 538, 26 Stat. 851 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 758], so as to entitle the claimants to a judgment against the United States and the tribe for the value of the property, is a question of fact, depending on whether the tribe was in the relation of actual peace with the United States, and not on whether there was a subsisting treaty between it and the United States, which had never been formally abrogated by a declaration of war by either party.—Marks v. United States, 161 U. S. 297, 16 S. Ct. 476, 40 L. Ed. 706.

The fact that the Indian tribe which committed depredations was carrying on hostilities only to resist the opening of a military road does not render it a tribe "in amity with the United States," within the meaning of the act.—Leighton v. United States, 161 U. S. 291, 16 S. Ct. 495, 40 L. Ed. 703.

Act March 3, 1891, c. 538, 26 Stat. 851 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 758], giving jurisdiction to the court of claims of Indian depredation claims examined and allowed by the interior department, and requiring the court to determine the value of property taken or destroyed, and to render judgment in favor of the claimant against the United States, and against the tribe of Indians committing the wrong, does not make the fact of jurisdiction in the court conclusive of the fact that there is some liability on the part of the government.—Id.

Under the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1011), referring to the court of claims for adjudication the claims of certain Pottawatomie Indians "for the depredations committed by others" upon their property, which claims were reported to congress under the treaty of August 7, 1868 (15 Stat. 533), that court was authorized to give judgment, not only for depredations committed by whites, but also for those committed by other Indians. Judgment, Navarre v. United States, 33 Ct. Cl. 235, affirmed.—United States v. Navarre, 19 S. Ct. 326, 173 U. S. 77, 43 L. Ed. 620.

Under Act March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 851), for the adjudication of claims arising from Indian depredations, the court of claims is entitled to receive and consider as evidence any document on file in the governmental departments or in the courts, having a bearing on any material question arising in the consideration of the particular claim under adjudication.—Collier v. United States, 19 S. Ct. 330, 173 U. S. 79, 43 L. Ed. 621.

Depredations committed by Indians who belonged to a tribe in amity with the United States before they joined an independent band made up of Indians from different tribes, which was separate and distinct in its organization and action from the several tribes to which its members had belonged, and which was itself not in amity with the United States, will not sustain a claim against the United States under Act Cong. March 3, 1891, for depredations by Indians belonging to any band, tribe, or nation in amity with the United States.—Montoya v. United States, 21 S. Ct. 358, 180 U. S. 261, 45 L. Ed. 521.

Depredations committed by a band of Indians belonging to a tribe in amity with the United States, but who were peacefully making their way back to a former reservation, and committed no depredations until after they had been fired upon by the United States troops, whereupon they went upon the warpath, do not make the United States and the tribe liable therefor.—Connors v. United States, 21 S. Ct. 362, 180 U. S. 271, 45 L. Ed. 525.

107. Claims by subjects of foreign governments.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 91.

The convention of January, 1880, between the United States and France, provided for a commission to hear and determine all claims "on the part of . . . private individuals, citizens of France," on the government of the United States, arising out of acts committed by the civil or military authorities against the persons or property of such citizens during the late Civil War. Pursuant to the rule adopted by such commission, that if the claimant were dead his legal representative must appear for him, defendant filed the claim of his testator, joining with him as claimants the universal legatees, all of whom, except plaintiffs, who were citizens of France, were citizens of the United States. Held that, under the treaty, the commission could only allow such proportion of the claim as under the will would pass to plaintiffs, who are accordingly entitled to the whole award, to the exclusion of the other legatees.—Burthe v. Denis, 133 U. S. 514, 10 S. Ct. 335, 33 L. Ed. 768.

110. Interest.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 93.

When by agreement between the United States and a foreign nation, the claim of a citizen of the United States against such foreign nation is laid before arbitrators "on the part of the government of the United States," money paid to the secretary of state of the United States on the award of such arbitrators, and by him withheld from the claimant, is withheld by the government, and such claimant is not entitled to interest on the same for the time it is withheld, under the rule that the United States is not liable for interest on claims against it, in the absence of a stipulation or express statutory provision to that effect.—United States v. Bayard, 127 U. S. 251, 8 S. Ct. 1156, 32 L. Ed. 150.

By treaty with the Ohio Shawnees, Aug. 8, 1831, art. 7, it was agreed that the net proceeds of the ceded lands should constitute a fund on which the United States would pay the chiefs annually 5 per cent. "as an annuity" until dissolution of the fund by consent of the chiefs and people. A dissolution was had in 1852, and the amount resulting from actual sales was paid over to the chiefs. Held, that the annuity was not thereby terminated as to a balance thereafter remaining due on this account, and the court rightly allowed the claimant tribe interest thereon as "upon a contract expressly stipulating for the payment of interest." Rev. St. § 1091 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 747].—United States v. Blackfeather, 155 U. S. 180, 15 S. Ct. 64, 39 L. Ed. 114.

Under Acts July 27, 1861, and March 8, 1863, requiring the United States to indemnify the respective states for moneys expended in aiding in suppressing the Rebellion, the state of New York is entitled to reimbursement of interest paid by it on moneys borrowed for said purpose from its canal fund.—United States v. State of New York, 160 U. S. 508, 16 S. Ct. 402, 40 L. Ed. 551.

Interest paid by the state of New York on moneys borrowed by it for the purpose of raising, subsisting, and supplying troops to be employed in suppressing the Rebellion is included in the "costs, charges, and expenses properly incurred" for that purpose, for which the acts of July 27, 1861, and March 8, 1863, obliged the United States to indemnify the respective states.—Id.

Rev. St. § 966, provides that interest shall be allowed on all judgments recovered in a circuit or district court "in all cases where, by the law of the state in which such court is held, interest may be levied under process of execution on judgments recovered in the courts of such state." Rev. St. § 1091, provides that no interest shall be allowed on any claim against the government prior to the rendition of judgment thereon by the court of claims, unless it be a contract expressly stipulating for the payment of interest. V., a postmaster in South Carolina, was at the close of his term of office, in 1863, indebted to the government in a certain sum, for which judgment was rendered against him in the district court of that state in 1871. His salary was not readjusted under acts of 1864 and 1866, authorizing the postmaster general to make such readjustments once in two years; but it was readjusted, and a sum larger than the judgment was allowed him as increased salary, under act of 1883, which provided for the readjustment of salaries not already readjusted under act of 1866. Held, that upon the final settlement of V.'s account, in 1877, he was properly charged with interest on the judgment, and denied interest on the increased salary allowed him; the fact that there were mutual claims being no reason for disregarding the statutes as to interest.—United States v. Verdier, 17 S. Ct. 42, 164 U. S. 213, 41 L. Ed. 407.

◀111. Assignment.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. §§ 94-98.

An agreement made a fortnight before the treaty of Washington, of 1871, and by which the owners of a ship and cargo taken by the armed rebel cruiser, the Florida, employed a person, whether an attorney at law or not, to use his best efforts to collect their "claim arising out of the capture," and authorized him to employ such attorneys as he might think fit to prosecute it, and promised to pay him "a compensation equal to twenty-five per cent. of whatever sum shall be collected on the said claim," applies to a sum awarded to them by the court of commissioners of Alabama claims, established by Act Cong. June 23, 1874, c. 459, and is not affected by section 18 of that act, providing that that court should allow, out of the amount awarded on any claim, reasonable compensation to the counselor and attorney for the claimant, and issue a warrant therefor, and that all other liens or assignments, either absolute or conditional, for past or future services about any claim, made or to be made before judgment in that court, should be void.—Bachman v. Lawson, 109 U. S. 659, 3 S. Ct. 479, 27 L. Ed. 1067.

A voluntary mortgage for the security of a debt, and finally completed and made absolute by judicial sale, comes within Rev. St. § 3477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320], which provides that the assignment of a claim against the United States must be made in the presence of two attesting witnesses, after the allowance of the claim, the ascertainment of the amount due, and the issuing of a warrant for the payment thereof.—St. Paul & D. R. Co. v. United States, 112 U. S. 733, 5 S. Ct. 366, 28 L. Ed. 861; Flint & P. M. Ry. Co. v. United States, 112 U. S. 737, 5 S. Ct. 368, 28 L. Ed. 862.

Rev. St. §§ 3477, 3737 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2320, 2507], declaring void all transfers and assignments of claims against the United States, unless made after the allowance thereof, do not invalidate a partnership formed between a party to whom the government has given the contract and other persons whose means are required to carry it out; and written promises to such moneyed partners by the other to pay back out of the contract money his portion of the fund advanced do not bring the case within those sections.—Hobbs v. McLean, 117 U. S. 567, 6 S. Ct. 870, 29 L. Ed. 940.

Where a demand for rent due from the United States is assigned as security before the claim has been allowed, the assignee may assert his rights against persons named in warrants subsequently issued by the treasury therefor, and against a mortgagee of the premises not entitled to the rents, notwithstanding Rev. St. § 3477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320], providing that all assignments of any claim on the United States shall be absolutely void unless made after it has been allowed, and warrant issued for the payment thereof, as the object of the section is merely to prevent frauds on the treasury.—Freedman's Saving & Trust Co. v. Shepherd, 127 U. S. 494, 8 S. Ct. 1250, 32 L. Ed. 163.

The court of commissioners of Alabama claims gave judgment for a person who had previously been declared an insolvent debtor under the Massachusetts law. Held, that the title of the assignee accrued before the recovery of judgment by the debtor on his claim, and the transfer of the claim to the assignee in insolvency, either by operation of law or voluntary assignment, is not forbidden by Rev. St. § 3477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320], prohibiting the transfer of claims against the United States.—Butler v. Goreley, 146 U. S. 303, 13 S. Ct. 84, 36 L. Ed. 981, distinguishing St. Paul & D. R. Co. v. United States, 112 U. S. 733, 5 S. Ct. 366, 28 L. Ed. 861 and affirming judgment Goreley v. Butler, 147 Mass. 8, 16 N. E. 734.

The claims of deputy marshals for compensation are claims against the marshal personally, and not against the United States, and hence not within Rev. St. § 3477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320], prohibiting the assignment of the latter class of claims.—Douglas v. Wallace, 161 U. S. 346, 16 S. Ct. 485, 40 L. Ed. 727, affirming Wallace v. Douglass, 103 N. C. 19, 9 S. E. 453.

Act March 3, 1891, c. 538, 26 Stat. 851 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 758], conferring on the court of claims jurisdiction of Indian depredation claims, declared void all sales or assignments of any such claims, and contracts "heretofore made" for fees and allowances to claimants' attorneys, requiring these latter to be regulated by the court. Held, that the attorney of a claimant could not recover on a unilateral contract, made before the passage of the act, by which the claimant agreed to pay him one-half of what might be recovered on the claim, no money having been paid or appropriated by congress for the claim before the passage of the act, though the attorney had procured from the department of the interior a recommendation of payment of a certain sum on the claim.—Ball v. Halsell, 161 U. S. 72, 16 S. Ct. 554, 40 L. Ed. 622.

Rev. St. § 3477, providing that all transfers and assignments of claims against the United States shall be void unless "freely made and executed in the presence of at least two attesting witnesses, after the allowance of such claim," etc., was enacted to protect the government, and not the claimant, and does not apply to a case in which a court of competent jurisdiction, in an action by a creditor against the claimant, makes an order forbidding him to collect the claim, except through a receiver, who shall hold the proceeds subject to the order of such court.—Price v. Forrest, 19 S. Ct. 434, 173 U. S. 410, 43 L. Ed. 749.

So far as the contract for the prosecution of a claim against the United States makes the payment of the compensation for services rendered thereunder a lien upon the claim and upon any draft, money, or evidence of indebtedness which may be issued thereon, it is repugnant to Rev. St. U. S. § 3477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320], annulling assignments of such claims or of any part or interest therein, made in advance of the allowance of the claim. Decree 36 So. 689, 84 Miss. 465, affirmed.—Nutt v. Knut, 26 S. Ct. 216, 200 U. S. 13, 50 L. Ed. 348.

The illegality, under Rev. St. U. S. § 3477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2320], of a clause in a contract for the prosecution of a claim against the United States, making the payment of compensation for the services rendered thereunder a lien upon the claim and upon any draft, money, or evidence of indebtedness that may be issued thereon, does not invalidate so much of the contract as provides for the payment for such services of a sum equal to one-third of the amount allowed on the claim.—Id.

112. Auditing boards, commissions, or officers.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 99, 100.

Under Act Cong. Aug. 7, 1882, c. 451 (22 Stat. 734), authorizing the quartermaster general to examine and adjust a certain war claim, "consider the evidence heretofore taken on said claim before the commissioners of claims, and such other legal evidence as may be adduced" in behalf of either claimant or the United States, "and report the facts to congress to be considered with other claims reported," the quartermaster's report, recommending the payment of a certain sum, is not an award pursuant to arbitration, on which an action will lie.—Nutt v. United States, 125 U. S. 650, 8 S. Ct. 997, 31 L. Ed. 821.

The accounting officers of the treasury had no authority, under pre-existing laws, to re-examine the claim of the city of Louisville for a refund of internal revenue taxes collected on interest and dividends on its railroad stock and bonds, after the claim had been adjusted by the secretary of the treasury and the commissioner of internal revenue, to whom it was especially referred, by the act of June 16, 1890, and after payment of the award from funds subsequently appropriated therefor.—United States v. Commissioners of Sinking Fund of City of Louisville, 18 S. Ct. 358, 169 U. S. 249, 42 L. Ed. 735.

No authority to re-examine this claim was given to the commissioner of internal revenue by the subsequent act of February 25, 1893, which referred to him for final adjustment a further similar claim preferred by the same city.—Id.

Under Act Feb. 23, 1893, authorizing the commissioner of internal revenue, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, to audit and adjust a certain claim of Logan county, Ky., against the government, an adjustment of the claim by the commissioner, approved by the secretary of the treasury, while prima facie evidence of the amount due, may be re-examined and corrected by the courts, where the allowance was made through mistake.—Commissioners of Sinking Fund of Logan County, Ky., v. United States, 18 S. Ct. 361, 169 U. S. 255, 42 L. Ed. 737.

The Secretary of the Navy may accept a release to the government from the builders of a battleship, which leaves for determination in the courts claims for unliquidated damages growing out of the contract. Judgment, William Cramp & Sons Co. v. United States (1908) 43 Ct. Cl. 202, reversed.—William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Co. v. United States, 30 S. Ct. 392, 216 U. S. 494, 54 L. Ed. 587.

113. Presentation, allowance, and adjustment.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 101.

In an action against the executor of a citizen of France to recover an award made to him pursuant to the convention of January, 1880, between the United States and France, providing for the appointment of a commission to determine claims of French citizens against the United States, the admission of letters of counsel for claimants before the commission, and a letter of one of the commissioners, to show that no other claim than that of plaintiffs was considered by the commission, is harmless error; the nature of the award, and its beneficiaries, depending on considerations not to be in any wise affected by such evidence.—Burthe v. Den- is, 133 U. S. 514, 10 S. Ct. 335, 33 L. Ed. 768.

The failure of some of the claimants, under a judgment awarding a certain sum to unidentified Pottawatomie Indians, to furnish any evidence of their right to share therein until after the Indian Department, in pursuance of the judgment, has attempted to identify the claimants, and the fund has been distributed to the claimants thus identified, will preclude them from maintaining a suit against the government for the share which they should have received. Judgment 36 Ct. Cl. 427, affirmed.—Pam-To-Pee v. United States, 23 S. Ct. 142, 187 U. S. 371, 47 L. Ed. 221.

Claims for unliquidated damages on account of extra work caused by the federal government are not included in a release given to the United States by the builders of a battleship, of all and all manner of debts, dues, sum and sums of money, accounts, reckonings, claims, and demands whatsoever, in law or in equity, for or by reason of, or on account of, the construction of the vessel under the contract, provided that the release shall not be taken to include claims arising under the contract other than those which the Secretary of the Navy has jurisdiction to entertain, although the release, if in the form specified in the contract, would have extinguished all claims against the United States growing out of such contract. Judgment, William Cramp & Sons Co. v. United States (1908) 43 Ct. Cl. 202, reversed.—William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Co. v. United States, 30 S. Ct. 392, 216 U. S. 494, 54 L. Ed. 587.

114. Effect of allowance or disallowance.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 102.

The accounting officers of the treasury had no authority, under pre-existing laws, to re-examine the claim of the city of Louisville for a refund of internal revenue taxes collected on interest and dividends on its railroad stock and bonds, after the claim had been adjusted by the secretary of the treasury and the commissioner of internal revenue, to whom it was specially referred, by the act of June 16, 1890, and after payment of the award from funds subsequently appropriated therefor.—United States v. Commissioners of Sinking Fund of City of Louisville, 18 S. Ct. 358, 169 U. S. 249, 42 L. Ed. 735.

No authority to re-examine this claim was given to the commissioner of internal revenue by the subsequent act of February 25, 1893, which referred to him for final adjustment a further similar claim preferred by the same city.—Id.

115. Effect of recognition by executive department or officer.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 103.

Executive officers are not authorized to entertain and settle claims for unliquidated damages. Judgment, William Cramp & Sons Co. v. United States (1908) 43 Ct. Cl. 202, reversed.—William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Co. v. United States, 30 S. Ct. 392, 216 U. S. 494, 54 L. Ed. 587.

116. Effect of recognition by Congress.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 104.

The fact that congress has passed special acts allowing specified claims does not thereby make the United States liable for all similar claims.—United States v. Jones, 121 U. S. 69, 7 S. Ct. 850, 30 L. Ed. 861.

Act Cong. Aug. 30, 1890 (26 Stat. 1247), submitted to the court of claims a claim for the additional cost incurred in the construction of a vessel by reason of the changes in U plans and specifications required by the government, which delayed the completion of the work beyond the contract term, but contained the proviso that no allowance for any advance in the price of labor or material should be considered, unless such advance occurred during the prolonged term for completing the work rendered necessary by the delay resulting from the action of the government. Held, that the "prolonged term" during which an advance in the price of labor and material entitled to an allowance did not begin until the expiration of the contract term.—United States v. Bliss, 19 S. Ct. 216, 172 U. S. 321, 43 L. Ed. 463.

The enactment by Congress of the provision of Indian Appropriation Act March 3, 1903, c. 994, § 13, 32 Stat. 1010, 1011, for the presentation to, and decision on the merits by, the Court of Claims of a claim by a register of the land office for commissions for selling the lands ceded by the Osage Indians to the United States by the treaty of September 29, 1865 (14 Stat. 687), to be sold for their benefit, does not imply any admission that there is anything due the claimant. Judgment; (1904) 39 Ct. Cl. 321, affirmed.—Stewart v. United States, 27 S. Ct. 631, 206 U. S. 185, 51 L. Ed. 1017.

The mere recital that the claimant had a prior lien, contained in Act May 27, 1902, c. 887, 32 Stat. 207, 243, empowering the Court of Claims to hear and determine a claim against the government on account of a sale of real estate to satisfy unpaid internal revenue taxes, is not an admission of that fact, where it is manifest that Congress intended that the claim was to be judicially investigated, and determined according to all the facts as disclosed by the evidence adduced. Judgment (1906) 41 Ct. Cl. 89, affirmed.—Blacklock v. United States, 28 S. Ct. 228, 208 U. S. 75, 52 L. Ed. 396.

◀118. Payment.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. §§ 107, 144.

Payment to an attorney in fact, constituted such by power of attorney executed by the claimants before the allowance of their claim by congress or by the proper department, is good as between the government and such claimants, where the power of attorney has not been revoked at the time payment is made, notwithstanding the provisions of Act July 29, 1846 (9 Stat. 41), and Act Feb. 26, 1853 (10 Stat. 170), prohibiting payment to attorneys, unless the warrant of attorney was executed after the allowance of the claim.—Bailey v. United States, 109 U. S. 432, 3 S. Ct. 272, 27 L. Ed. 988.

The United States may, in their discretion, exercised through the proper officers, pay a debt due to the estate of a decedent either to the administrator appointed in the state of his domicile, or to the ancillary administrator duly appointed in the District of Columbia.—Wyman v. United States, 109 U. S. 654, 3 S. Ct. 417, 27 L. Ed. 1068.

Where, by special act of congress, money is made payable to certain minor children in Louisiana, a payment in the District of Columbia, to the attorney of their tutrix, appointed under the laws of Louisiana, is a valid payment.—Taylor v. Bemiss, 110 U. S. 42, 3 S. Ct. 441, 28 L. Ed. 64.

An action will not lie to recover money paid to defendant in discharge of a claim against the United States, pursuant to Act Cong. March 3, 1875 (18 Stat. 637, 646; Priv. Laws, c. 205), specifically naming him, on the ground that the act was passed by congress under the mistaken supposition that defendant was the sole heir and legatee of his deceased father's estate, and was loyal to the government during the Rebellion, unless congress takes some action.—United States v. Price, 116 U. S. 43, 6 S. Ct. 235, 29 L. Ed. 541.

A judgment roll of record in the court of claims, showing precisely the claim for which the judgment was recovered, is record evidence to the treasurer of the United States, when he pays the judgment, that he has paid the claim for which it was rendered. Judgment 13 App. D. C. 38, affirmed.—Roberts v. United States, 20 S. Ct. 376, 176 U. S. 221, 44 L. Ed. 443.

The general rule that the courts of one state will not aid the officers of another to withdraw funds or property of a decedent, without providing for local creditors, does not require the treasurer of the United States, authorized to adjust and pay over the amount found due a creditor of the United States, to prefer the latter's creditors resident in the District of Columbia over a receiver of personal property of such creditor appointed by a court of chancery of the state where he was domiciled and was personally served with process. Judgment, Borchertling v. United States, 35 Ct. Cl. 311, affirmed.—United States v. Borchertling, 22 S. Ct. 607, 185 U. S. 223, 46 L. Ed. 884.

Payment to a creditor of the United States by the secretary of the treasury after due notice of the appointment, by a court of chancery of the state where the creditor was domiciled and personally served with process, of a receiver of such creditor's personal property for the payment of an unsatisfied judgment against him, and of an order of such court restraining such creditor from receiving any part of the debt to his credit, is no defense to a claim by the receiver to recover from the United States in the court of claims the amount so paid.—Id.

An ex parte modification of an order of the supreme court of the District of Columbia enjoining a creditor of the United States from receiving or collecting the sum due him, so as to permit the payment of his creditors resident in that District, does not justify the treasurer of the United States in paying such creditors, where he had prior notice of the appointment, by a court of chancery in the state where the creditor of the government was domiciled and personally served with process, of a receiver of his personal property, and of an order restraining such creditor from receiving such debt to his credit.—Id.

◀119. Disposition of proceeds.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 108.

In 1849, one Price, who had been purser and fiscal agent for the navy, in California, on retiring from that office, advanced to his successor, out of his own funds, $75,000, for the use of the government. His successor, however, never returned the money to him nor accounted for it to the government, and the attorney general subsequently held that Price had no valid claim therefor against the government. By Act Feb. 23, 1891, congress directed the secretary of the treasury to "adjust, upon principles of equity and justice," the accounts of Price, crediting him with the sum in question, "and pay to said Price or his heirs" the sum found due. Held, that this act did not confer a mere gratuity, but was a recognition of a moral and equitable, if not legal, obligation; and that (Price having died after its passage, and before payment by the government) the use of the words "or his heirs" did not give the heirs a right to the money, to the exclusion of his creditors.—Price v. Forrest, 19 S. Ct. 434, 173 U. S. 410, 43 L. Ed. 749.

◀120. Making or presentation of false claims and other offenses relating to claims.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. §§ 109-111.

◀121. — Offenses.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 109.

Rev. St. § 5438, fixing a penalty for making or causing to be made any false deposition, for the purpose of obtaining or aiding to obtain payment or approval of any claim against the United States, was not repealed by Rev. St. § 4746, providing a penalty for knowingly procuring the making or presentation of any false or fraudulent affidavit pertaining to any pension claim or other matter within the jurisdiction of the commissioner of pensions.—Edgington v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 72, 164 U. S. 361, 41 L. Ed. 467.

Fraudulent documents used in support of a fraudulent claim against Rev. St. §§ 2304, 2307 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 1413, 1417), to a soldier's additional homestead right, are embraced within section 5421, making criminal presentation at any office or officer of the government of any deed or other writing in support of a claim with intent to defraud the United States, knowing the same to be fraudulent.—United States v. Davis, 34 S. Ct. 112, 231 U. S. 183, 58 L. Ed. 177.

123. — Criminal prosecutions.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 111.

On an indictment for presenting a fraudulent claim against the United States, under Rev. St. § 5438 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3874), and using a false affidavit on such presentation, the affidavit is admissible in evidence without formal proof that the justice of the peace before whom it was taken had duly qualified as such justice.—Ingraham v. United States, 155 U. S. 434, 15 S. Ct. 148, 39 L. Ed. 213.

To cancel patents to public lands, see Public Lands, 120.

125. Liability and consent of United States to be sued in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. §§ 113, 114.

The exemption of the United States from liability to be sued is limited to suits against it directly and by name, and does not apply to officers and agents of the United States, who, while holding land for public use, are sued in ejectment by persons claiming title thereto. In such cases a court of competent jurisdiction over the parties before it may inquire into the lawfulness of the possession of the United States, as held by such officers or agents, and give judgment according to the result of that inquiry. The difference in the essential features of a monarchical and republican form of government renders of little value the English decisions in support of the exemption of the sovereign in such cases.—United States v. Lee, 106 U. S. 196, 1 S. Ct. 240, 27 L. Ed. 171.

The United States have never, either by the act of March 3, 1887, c. 359, 24 Stat. 505 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 752], or by any other law, permitted themselves to be sued for torts committed by their officers, as, for instance, a trespass on private lands; and the settled distinction in this respect cannot be evaded by framing the claim so as to count on an implied contract to compensate for use and occupation.—Hill v. United States, 149 U. S. 593, 13 S. Ct. 1011, 37 L. Ed. 862, reversing judgment (C. C.) 39 F. 172.

The United States may properly appear as complainant in a bill to remove and enjoin obstructions to highways used in interstate commerce and in the transportation of mail.—In re Debs, 158 U. S. 564, 15 S. Ct. 900, 39 L. Ed. 1092.

An injunction cannot issue to restrain employes of the United States from using an article made by the United States in infringement of a patent, and which is owned by and in the possession of the government, the United States being an indispensable party.—Belknap v. Schild, 161 U. S. 10, 16 S. Ct. 443, 40 L. Ed. 599.

No suit can be maintained against the United States, or against their property, without express authority of congress. And the United States have never consented to be sued in the courts of a state in any case. Neither the secretary of war, nor the attorney general, nor any subordinate of either, has been authorized to waive the exemption of the United States from judicial process, or to submit the United States or their property to the jurisdiction of the court in a suit brought against officers of the United States.—Stanley v. Schwalby, 162 U. S. 255, 16 S. Ct. 754, 40 L. Ed. 960, reversing judgment United States v. Schwalby, 8 Tex. Civ. App. 679, 29 S. W. 90.

An action was brought in a state court by one claiming a one-third interest in lands held by the defendants (officers of the army) as the property of the United States, and a third party intervened, claiming title to another third of the land. The trial resulted in a judgment against the intervener, and a final judgment in favor of the plaintiffs against the defendants for one-third of the land, and for possession of the whole jointly with the defendants. Held, that this was a judgment directly against the United States and against their property, and not merely against their officers, and was therefore erroneous.—Id.

The inability to make the United States a party defeats the right of a patentee for improvements in stamp canceling and postmarking machines to enjoin the use by a postmaster in a United States post office of infringing machines of which the United States is a lessee in possession, for a term which is not expired.—International Postal Supply Co. v. Bruce, 24 S. Ct. 820, 194 U. S. 601, 48 L. Ed. 1134.

The immunity of the United States from suit prevents a state from maintaining, in the Supreme Court of the United States, a suit against the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of the General Land Office to restrain them from allotting and patenting in severalty swamp lands within the limits of an Indian reservation.—State of Oregon v. Hitchcock, 26 S. Ct. 568, 202 U. S. 60, 50 L. Ed. 935.

A suit to restrain the Secretary of the Interior from carrying out the provisions of Act June 27, 1902, c. 1157, 32 Stat. 400, controlling the disposition of the pine lands ceded by the Indians of the state of Minnesota, under Act Jan. 14, 1889, c. 24, 25 Stat. 642, to the United States, to be administered for their benefit, and to require him to execute the trust and account, is, in effect, a suit against the United States, which the courts have no jurisdiction to entertain. Decree 25 App. D. C. 200, affirmed.—Naganab v. Hitchcock, 26 S. Ct. 667, 202 U. S. 473, 50 L. Ed. 1113.

The United States may not, without its consent, be sued by a state.—State of Kansas v. United States, 27 S. Ct. 338, 204 U. S. 331, 51 L. Ed. 510.

Exemption of United States from suit does not preclude action to prevent the Secretary of War from causing criminal proceedings to be brought against riparian owner for reclamation of his land outside of prescribed harbor limits.—(1912) Philadelphia Co. v. Stimson, 32 S. Ct. 340, 223 U. S. 605, 58 L. Ed. 570, affirming decree (1909) Same v. Dickinson, 33 App. D. C. 338.

Inability to make United States a party forbids maintenance of mandamus to require Secretary of Navy to deliver to highest bidder a cruiser which had been stricken from the naval register under Act Aug. 5, 1882, § 2, and for proposals for the purchase of which the Secretary of the Navy under Act March 3, 1883, had advertised.—United States ex rel. Goldberg v. Daniels, 34 S. Ct. 84, 231 U. S. 218, 58 L. Ed. 181, affirming judgment Same v. Meyer, 37 App. D. C. 282.

The immunity of the United States from suit prevents the state of Louisiana, as a producer of sugar, from maintaining an original bill in the federal Supreme Court against the Secretary and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury to review their judgment as to the duty to be exacted under Tariff Acts July 24, 1897, and Oct. 3, 1913, and the commercial treaty with Cuba Dec. 11, 1902, as made effective by Act Dec. 17, 1903, on importations of Cuban sugar.—State of Louisiana v. McAdoo, 34 S. Ct. 938, 234 U. S. 627, 58 L. Ed. 1506.

—127. Rights of action against United States or United States officers.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 116.

The United States is not suable under Tucker Act March 3, 1887, c. 359, 24 Stat. 505 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 752], on a claim for the value of the use by the army of a Spanish merchant vessel captured during the war with Spain, since the action is one sounding in tort, and is not converted into one of implied contract because the claim is in form for the use of the vessel after actual hostilities were suspended by the protocol of August 12, 1898, especially in view of the provision of the treaty of peace for the mutual relinquishment of all claims for national or individual indemnity that may have arisen since the beginning of the Cuban insurrection, and prior to the exchange of ratifications of such treaty.—Ribas y Hijo v. United States, 24 S. Ct. 727, 194 U. S. 315, 48 L. Ed. 994.

The Supreme Court of the United States has no jurisdiction of a bill in equity filed by the state of Louisiana against the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of the General Land Office to establish its title under the swamp land grant act of March 2, 1849 (9 Stat. 352, c. 87), to certain lands which were approved to the state by the Secretary of the Interior upon the manifest mistake of law, that, upon the abandonment of the military reservation of which they formed a part, the lands fell within the terms of the grant, since such suit raises questions of law and fact upon which the United States would have to be heard.—State of Louisiana v. Garfield, 29 S. Ct. 31, 211 U. S. 70, 53 L. Ed. 92.

An existing federal equity jurisdiction of a suit against an army officer based on his alleged infringement of certain patents for the benefit of the United States was ousted by the provisions of Act June 25, 1910, the effect of which was to provide for the appropriation of a license to use the invention, and the appropriation being sanctioned by means of the compensation for which the statute provides.—Crozier v. Fried Krupp Aktiengesellschaft, 32 S. Ct. 488, 224 U. S. 290, 58 L. Ed. 771, reversing judgment Fried, Krupp Aktiengesellschaft v. Crozier, 32 App. D. C. 1, 15 Ann. Cas. 1108.

No right to sue the United States was given by Act May 29, 1908, § 2, conferring jurisdiction on Court of Claims for any balances due on claims of Indian traders against the Menominee tribe of Indians in Wisconsin and members of said tribe at the Green Bay agency for supplies furnished for the carrying on of logging operations.—Green v. Menominee Tribe of Indians in Wisconsin, 34 S. Ct. 706, 233 U. S. 558, 58 L. Ed. 1093, affirming judgment 47 Ct. Cl. 281.

Exemption of the United States from suit does not preclude an action to enjoin the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of the General Land Office from casting a cloud on a title vested by an approved location of the grant made in Act June 21, 1860, by proceedings as to certain attempted entries upon such land under public land laws.—Lane v. Watts, 34 S. Ct. 965, 234 U. S. 525, 58 L. Ed. 1440, affirming decree 41 App. D. C. 139, rehearing denied, 35 S. Ct. 3, 235 U. S. 17, 59 L. Ed. —.

—129. Defenses in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 117.

Act Cong. Feb. 26, 1885 (23 Stat. 115), authorizing plaintiffs "to sue in the court of claims, which court shall pass upon the law and facts as to the liability of the United States for the acts of its officer, Joshua F. Bailey (collector of revenue), by reason of the seizure and closing up of the commission houses and bonded warehouses" of plaintiffs, "said suit to be maintained, any statute of limitation to the contrary notwithstanding," waives no rights or defenses which the government might have, except the statute of limitations; and the principle may be invoked as a defense that the government is not liable for unauthorized wrongs inflicted by its officers on the citizen, though occurring while engaged in the discharge of official duties.—United States v. Cumming, 130 U. S. 452, 9 S. Ct. 583, 32 L. Ed. 1029.

—130. Set-off and counterclaim.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 118.

A contractor to whom has been delivered, without sanction of law, material of old ships, property of the United States, to which he had no title whatever, by contract or otherwise, is accountable to the government for its full value, notwithstanding that his account has been settled by the officers of the navy department at a sum less than its full value; and, where he sells the property for an amount greatly in excess of the amount with which he has been charged in the settlement of his accounts, the excess may be set off by the United States in an action against it.—Steele v. United States, 113 U. S. 128, 5 S. Ct. 396, 28 L. Ed. 952.

In a proceeding in the court of claims by the state of Louisiana to recover from the United States moneys due under Act Cong. Feb. 20, 1811, granting the state 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of the sale of lands to be used in constructing roads and levees, as the legislature might direct, and moneys due under Act Sept. 28, 1850, and Act March 2, 1855, granting to the states all swamp lands therein, and the price of some already sold, held, that these funds were not subject to such a property trust for a particular purpose as would prevent a state from applying them to general purposes; and the United States could offset a claim against the state for interest on what are known as "Indian Trust Bonds," issued by the state.—United States v. State of Louisiana, 127 U. S. 182, 8 S. Ct. 1047, 32 L. Ed. 66.

The difference in quality and fuel value between the coal called for by the contract and a cargo of inferior coal furnished to the government and paid for may be set off against the government's liability to the same contractors under a later contract, where the parties agreed that the acceptance of the inferior coal should be a purchase outside the contract, and the contractors were notified before delivery that they would be charged with the difference if the coal proved inferior.—Barry v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 681, 229 U. S. 47, 57 L. Ed. 1060, affirming judgment Peabody v. Same, 45 Ct. Cl. 532.

131. Jurisdiction.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 119-125.

Where the United States brings into a prize court a vessel that was captured by the co-operation of the army and navy, and as to which there can be no distribution of prize money, it is a submission to the jurisdiction of the court, and a decree for damages may be rendered against it.—United States v. The Nuestra Señora De Regla, 108 U. S. 92, 2 S. Ct. 287, 27 L. Ed. 662.

Under Act March 19, 1890 (26 Stat. 24, c. 39), referring the claim of the Pottawatomie Indians of Michigan and Indiana to the court of claims for adjudication, that court had no authority to convert the perpetual annuities provided for in the treaties of September 26 and 27, 1833 (7 Stat. 431, 442), into a sum for present payment.—Pam-to-pee v. United States, 148 U. S. 691, 13 S. Ct. 742, 37 L. Ed. 613, affirming judgment Pottawatomie Indians v. Same, 27 Ct. Cl. 406.

The court of claims has no jurisdiction of claims against the government for torts.—Schlinger v. United States, 155 U. S. 163, 15 S. Ct. 85, 39 L. Ed. 108.

The use, by a contractor with the government, of a patented process in doing work afterwards accepted and used by the government, does not lay a foundation for a claim against the government under the constitution of the United States, so as to give the court of claims jurisdiction.—Id.

In enacting the act of March 3, 1883 (22 Stat. 158, c. 111), referring a certain claim for cotton taken or destroyed during the war to the court of claims, and removing the bar of any statute of limitations from claimant's cause of action, congress will be presumed to have employed in a proviso thereto substantially the words used in section 3 of the act of March 3, 1863 (12 Stat. 820, c. 120), relating to property abandoned and captured during the war, and providing for the recovery of the value thereof by its owner "on proof to the satisfaction of said court * * * that he never gave any aid or comfort to the present Rebellion," with a due regard for the rule of decision under the prior act that the successive amnesty proclamations of the executive had rendered such proof immaterial where the suit was brought before the statute had run, and that by those words it made the establishment of loyalty in fact a prerequisite to the jurisdiction of the court of claims.—Austin v. United States, 155 U. S. 417, 15 S. Ct. 167, 39 L. Ed. 206, affirming judgment 25 Ct. Cl. 437.

The proviso in Act March 3, 1883 (22 Stat. 158, c. 111), referring the claims of the representatives of one A., for cotton taken by the military authorities of the United States during the war, to the court of claims for adjudgment, and removing the bar of any statute of limitations, that it be shown to the satisfaction of the court that neither A. nor his surviving representatives "gave any aid or comfort to the late Rebellion, but were throughout the war loyal to the government of the United States," operates upon the entire enacting clause; making such loyalty on the part of A. a jurisdictional fact, and withholding consent for the prosecution of the suit until it was established to the court's satisfaction.—Id.

Act March 3, 1891, c. 538, § 4, 26 Stat. 852 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 761], in regard to Indian depredation claims, giving the claimant or the United States the right to reopen the case and try the same before the court of claims, does not authorize a reopening of the case in regard only to the amount of the government's liability, but, if it is reopened at all, both the amount of the depredation and fact of liability must be reconsidered.—Leighton v. United States, 161 U. S. 291, 16 S. Ct. 495, 40 L. Ed. 703.

132. Venue.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 126.

An action by the United States to recover the value of timber taken from public lands is transitory, and may be brought in any jurisdiction in which the defendant can be served with process.—Stone v. United States, 167 U. S. 178, 17 S. Ct. 778, 42 L. Ed. 127, affirming judgment 64 F. 667, 12 C. C. A. 451.

133. Time to sue, limitations, and laches.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 127, 128.

Rev. St. § 1069 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 740], providing that "every claim against the United States cognizable by the court of claims shall be forever barred, unless the petition is filed * * * within six years after the claim first accrues," is applicable as well to causes of action thereafter created as to those then existing.—Rice v. United States, 122 U. S. 611, 7 S. Ct. 1377, 30 L. Ed. 793.

Act Cong. Feb. 5, 1877, authorizing the court of claims to take jurisdiction, under the provisions of the act of March 12, 1863, providing "for the collection of abandoned property," etc., of the claim of Robert Erwin "for property alleged to have been taken from him," contains no provision as to when suit shall be brought thereunder, and in the absence of such special limitation, such a suit falls within Rev. St. U. S. § 1069, and is barred by six years.—Id.

Plaintiff's claim against the United States accrued in October, 1863, but was never presented to any executive department of the government until July, 1874, and was not forwarded to the court of claims by the secretary of the treasury until August, 1896. Held, that claimant's right to judgment was barred by Rev. St. § 1069 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 740], which provides that every claim against the United States, cognizable by the court of claims, shall be forever barred unless the statement of the claim be filed in the court, or transmitted to it, under the provisions of this act (March 3, 1863), within six years after the claim first accrues.—Finn v. United States, 123 U. S. 227, 8 S. Ct. 82, 31 L. Ed. 128.

Rev. St. § 1069 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 740], providing that in all cases in the court of claims the petition must be filed within six years after the claim accrues, applies to a suit by the state of Louisiana, to recover from the United States moneys due under Act Cong. Feb. 20, 1811, granting the state 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of lands sold, and moneys due under Acts Sept. 28, 1850, and March 2, 1855, granting to the states all swamp lands therein, and the price of some already sold.—United States v. State of Louisiana, 127 U. S. 182, 8 S. Ct. 1047, 32 L. Ed. 66.

141. Evidence.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 126-129.

Under the provision of Act Cong. March 3, 1881, giving the court of claims jurisdiction to determine the amounts due the Choctaw Nation by the United States under various treaties, that the court of claims "shall not be estopped by any action had or award made by the senate of the United States in pursuance of the treaty of 1855," which treaty provided that "the adjudication and decision of the senate shall be final," the award of the senate, though not binding on the court, should not be entirely disregarded, but should be considered as prima facie establishing the validity of the claim thereby adjudged in favor of the Choctaws, leaving the award open to attack by the government, both on such grounds as ordinarily will invalidate awards, and on the ground of being unsupported by proof, or unjust and unfair, in view of all the circumstances, on which questions the burden of proof would be on the government.—Choctaw Nation v. United States, 119 U. S. 1, 7 S. Ct. 75, 30 L. Ed. 306.

Act Cong. C. S. A. Aug. 30, 1861, provided that the postmaster general should collect all moneys in the hands of and due from postmasters within the Confederate States which had not been paid over when their government took charge of the postal service, which money should be applied to the pro rata payment of claims of loyal citizens of the Confederate States for mail services theretofore rendered the United States. Act Cong. March 3, 1877, appropriated a sum for the payment of claims for mail services rendered in the late Confederate States before the war, "provided, that any such claims which had been paid by the Confederate States government shall not again be paid." Held that, in an action on such a claim, the burden was on the claimant to show that payment was not made by the Confederate States.—Selma, R. & D. R. Co. v. United States, 139 U. S. 560, 11 S. Ct. 638, 35 L. Ed. 266.

Even if the burden were on the United States to show that such payment had been made, the facts relating to such payment are peculiarly within the knowledge of the claimant; and his failure to produce any evidence in regard thereto warrants the inference that he had been paid.—Id.

Contractor for construction of jetty in a harbor, suing for damages by wrongful refusal of government agent to permit laying of crest blocks on the jetty, held to have the burden of showing the number of working days he was unable to do labor of another character on the jetty because of such refusal.—Ripley v. United States, 32 S. Ct. 352, 223 U. S. 695, 750, 56 L. Ed. 614.

⚡143. Trial.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 141.

Act March 3, 1891, c. 538, § 4, 26 Stat. 852 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 761], in regard to Indian depredation claims, giving the claimant or the United States the right to reopen the case and try the same before the court of claims, does not authorize a reopening of the case in regard only to the amount of the government's liability, but, if it is reopened at all, both the amount of the depredation and fact of liability must be reconsidered.—Leighton v. United States, 161 U. S. 291, 16 S. Ct. 495, 40 L. Ed. 703.

⚡144. Judgment.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 142.

A claimant who accepts, in payment of a judgment of the court of claims, a sum of money appropriated by congress for that purpose, by an act which declares that such sum shall be "in full satisfaction of the judgment," cannot thereafter maintain a suit to recover interest on such judgment, under Rev. St. § 1090 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 746], which provides for the allowance of interest upon judgments which have been affirmed by the supreme court after the same have been presented to the secretary of the treasury for payment.—Pacific Railroad v. United States, 158 U. S. 118, 15 S. Ct. 766, 39 L. Ed. 918.

⚡146. Appeal and error.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 147.

Where the persons who are entitled to share in the award made by the court of claims in regard to the claims of the Pottawatomie Indians of Michigan and Indiana under the treaties of September 26 and 27, 1833 (7 Stat. 431, 442), do not clearly appear from the record, or from the opinion filed by that court (Pottawatomie Indians v. United States, 27 Ct. Cl. 403), which decides that the distribution shall be made by the executive branch of the government, the ruling will not be disturbed on appeal.—Pamto-pee v. United States, 148 U. S. 691, 13 S. Ct. 742, 37 L. Ed. 613, affirming judgment Pottawatomie Indians v. Same, 27 Ct. Cl. 403.

⚡147. Costs.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. § 148.

A judgment against the United States for costs is erroneous, in any aspect of the case.—Stanley v. Schwalby, 162 U. S. 255, 16 S. Ct. 754, 40 L. Ed. 960, reversing judgment United States v. Schwalby, 8 Tex. Civ. App. 679, 29 S. W. 90.

Unsuccessful defendants in a civil suit brought by the United States are liable for costs. Judgment 105 F. 1004, 44 O. C. A. 685, affirmed.—Pine River Logging & Improvement Co. v. United States, 22 S. Ct. 920, 186 U. S. 279, 46 L. Ed. 1164.

Equity, § 401-410.

§ 2. Appointment, qualification, and tenure.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Comrs. §§ 1, 2.

Commissioners, appointed by a United States district court having circuit court powers, who, after the creation of a United States circuit court in the same district, are continued in office by the latter court, though such continuance is not evidenced by reappointment, are commissioners de facto of the circuit court.—Starr v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 223, 164 U. S. 627, 41 L. Ed. 577.

Commissioners of the United States court for the Indian Territory are not taken out of the general rule which regards the power of removal as incident to the power of appointment, by the proviso of the act of congress of March 1, 1895 (28 Stat. 695, c. 145, § 4), declaring them subject to removal by the judge of the district where they reside "for causes prescribed by law," since no causes for removal have been affirmatively specified by congress, and the provision of Act May 2, 1890, § 39, authorizing them to exercise the powers of justices of the peace under the laws of Arkansas, does not bring the commissioners under the provisions of the Arkansas statutes respecting the removal of justices of the peace. Judgment 35 Ct. Cl. 90, affirmed.—Reagan v. United States, 21 S. Ct. 842, 182 U. S. 418, 45 L. Ed. 1162.

§ 3. Compensation and fees.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Comrs. §§ 5-15.

Under Rev. St. § 847, providing that United States commissioners shall receive "for issuing any warrant or writ, and for any other service, the same compensation as is allowed to clerks for like services," a commissioner who, by order of court, is required to keep a docket, with entries of each warrant issued and subsequent proceedings thereon on the day of the occurrence, is entitled to the same fees allowed the clerk by Rev. St. § 828 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 635], for making dockets, indexes, etc., though the services rendered are not in all particulars like those rendered by the clerk.—United States v. Wallace, 116 U. S. 398, 6 S. Ct. 408, 29 L. Ed. 675.

Where a United States commissioner has submitted his accounts to a district judge for examination and approval, but has been refused a hearing, and no order of approval or disapproval is entered, it is not necessary that the accounts should be presented at the treasury before commencing suit thereon, as Rev. St. § 846 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 647], provides for action by the judge before presentation at the treasury.—United States v. Knox, 128 U. S. 230, 9 S. Ct. 63, 32 L. Ed. 465.

Under Act Cong. Feb. 22, 1875, c. 80, 18 Stat. 318 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 648], providing that accounts of a United States commissioner shall be forwarded to the district attorney, who shall present them to a circuit or district court for approval, where, if properly verified, the court shall enter an order of approval or disapproval, before the same shall be allowed by the treasury department, and that such claims may be revised on their merits by the treasury officers as provided by existing laws; and under Rev. St. § 846 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 647], enacting that such claims shall be examined and certified by the district judge before being presented at the treasury—a commissioner, having complied with the law so far as in his power by transmitting his account to the district attorney, who presents it to the court, and is refused a hearing thereon, and no order is entered either of approval or disapproval, may maintain an action for the services in the court of claims.—Id.

Hearing and deciding motions on bail and the sufficiency thereof, and motions for continuance, are parts of the hearing and determination of criminal charges, under Rev. St. § 1014 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 716], directing the commissioner to commit on bail a person arrested for a crime or offense against the United States, and for which he is entitled to five dollars a day under section 847, allowing him, "for hearing and deciding on criminal charges, five dollars a day for the time necessarily employed."—United States v. Jones, 134 U. S. 483, 10 S. Ct. 615, 33 L. Ed. 1007.

The approval of a commissioner's account by a circuit court of the United States, under Act Feb. 22, 1875, c. 85, 18 Stat. 333 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 648], is prima facie evidence of the correctness of the items of that account; and, in the absence of clear and unequivocal proof of mistake on the part of the court, it is conclusive.—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to a fee for taking and certifying depositions to file.—United States v. Ewing, 140 U. S. 142, 11 S. Ct. 743, 35 L. Ed. 388.

A commissioner is entitled to a fee for writing out the testimony of witnesses examined by him.—Id.

Rev. St. § 1030 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 721], providing that no writ shall be necessary to bring any prisoner into court or for remanding him to jail, but the same shall be done on the order of the court or district attorney, for which no fees shall be charged by the clerk or marshal, relates exclusively to the clerk's action in entering the order of the court or district attorney, and to the marshal's action in transferring the prisoner to and from jail, and has no reference to his custody in a state jail pending or after examination, so as to deprive a United States commissioner of his fee for a mittimus.—Id.

Since a commissioner, in hearing and determining criminal charges, acts in a judicial capacity, and has the power, in his judgment, to suspend the hearing of a case, he is entitled to his per diem fees, in cases where he grants continuances at defendant's request.—Id.

Since a prisoner of the United States marshal is not under his control while confined in a state jail, and since Code Tenn. § 5877, requires that a prisoner, on adjournment of his examination from time to time, shall be "committed" to jail, a mittimus is proper to authorize the keeper of the jail to detain a United States prisoner, on adjournment of his examination; and for issuing each mittimus the United States commissioner is entitled to a fee of one dollar, under Rev. St. § 847, providing that for issuing any warrant he shall have the same compensation as is allowed to clerks for like services, and section 828 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 635], giving clerks one dollar for such service, Rev. St. § 1030 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 721], providing that no writ shall be necessary to bring any prisoner into court or for remanding him to jail, but the same shall be done on the order of the court or district attorney, for which no fees shall be charged by the clerk or marshal, relating exclusively to the clerk's action in entering the order of the court or district attorney, and to the marshal's action in transferring the prisoner to and from jail.—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to fees for entering the returns of, and filing, process.—Id.

Where the local practice requires the magistrate to reduce to writing the examination of complaining witnesses, an allowance should be made a commissioner of the circuit court for drawing a complaint, as "for taking and certifying depositions to file," for which an allowance is provided by Rev. St. § 847.—United States v. Ewing, 140 U. S. 142, 11 S. Ct. 743, 35 L. Ed. 388; Same v. Barber, 140 U. S. 164, 11 S. Ct. 749, 35 L. Ed. 396.

Act Cong. Aug. 4, 1886 (24 Stat. 274), making an appropriation to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30 1886, and, among other things, for fees of commissioners, and providing that the commissioner should receive no docket fees, did not merely except payment of such fees out of the appropriation, but abolished them altogether.—United States v. Ewing, 140 U. S. 142, 11 S. Ct. 743, 35 L. Ed. 388; Same v. McDermott, 140 U. S. 151, 11 S. Ct. 746, 35 L. Ed. 391, modifying judgment McDermott v. United States, 40 F. 217; (C. C.) United States v. Hall, 147 U. S. 691, 13 S. Ct. 478, 37 L. Ed. 333.

A commissioner of the United States courts can charge only one acknowledgment fee for the principal and sureties, and not a separate fee for each.—United States v. Ewing, 140 U. S. 142, 11 S. Ct. 743, 35 L. Ed. 388; United States v. Barber, 140 U. S. 177, 11 S. Ct. 751, 35 L. Ed. 398, reversing (D. C.) 35 F. 886; Same v. Hall, 147 U. S. 691, 13 S. Ct. 478, 37 L. Ed. 333.

A commissioner is entitled to fees for issuing mittimus writs.—United States v. Ewing, 140 U. S. 142, 11 S. Ct. 743, 35 L. Ed. 388; Same v. Barber, 140 U. S. 177, 11 S. Ct. 751, 35 L. Ed. 398, reversing judgment (D. C.) 35 F. 886.

A commissioner is entitled to compensation for administering the oath and drawing the jurat to affidavits by the supervisors of election that they had actually performed the services, where he is instructed by the attorney general that such affidavits are required.—United States v. McDermott, 140 U. S. 151, 11 S. Ct. 746, 35 L. Ed. 391, modifying judgment (C. C.) McDermott v. United States, 40 F. 217.

The commissioner's jurat to an oath of election supervisors is a proper charge under Rev. St. § 828 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 635], allowing 15 cents per folio for entering any return, or making any record, "certificate," return, or report.—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to a fee of 15 cents per folio for drafting affidavits of the supervisors that they had actually performed the services, where he is instructed by the attorney general that such affidavits are required before the supervisors will be paid for their services.—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to a fee of 15 cents for each jurat to oaths administered in connection with the complaint.—United States v. McDermott, 140 U. S. 151, 11 S. Ct. 746, 35 L. Ed. 391, modifying judgment (C. C.) McDermott v. United States, 40 F. 217; United States v. Barber, 140 U. S. 164, 11 S. Ct. 749, 35 L. Ed. 396.

A United States commissioner is entitled to fees for drawing complaints in criminal cases.—United States v. McDermott, 140 U. S. 151, 11 S. Ct. 746, 35 L. Ed. 391, modifying judgment McDermott v. United States, 40 F. 217; Same v. Ewing, 140 U. S. 142, 11 S. Ct. 743, 35 L. Ed. 388.

A charge per folio for transcripts of proceedings is lawful, under Rev. St. § 1014 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 716], which provides that copies of the process issued by the commissioner shall be returned, as speedily as may be, into the clerk's office of the court, together with the recognizances of the witnesses for their appearance.—United States v. Barber, 140 U. S. 164, 11 S. Ct. 749, 35 L. Ed. 396.

A commissioner is entitled to 10 cents for filing the complaint, under Rev. St. § 847, and under the clause of section 828 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 635], giving such allowance "for filing and entering every declaration, plea, or other paper."—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to 10 cents for each oath administered by him on examinations, under Rev. St. § 847.—Id.

Commissioners are entitled to fees for drafting bail bonds for defendants in criminal cases, and for drawing affidavits of sureties to such bonds touching their solvency and sufficiency.—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to fees for certificates furnished to witnesses, of the amount due them for attendance before him, as commissioner.—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to a charge per folio for pay rolls of witnesses.—Id.

A charge per folio for depositions taken on the examination, under Rev. St. § 847, allowing a fee of 20 cents per folio for taking depositions is proper.—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to a fee for taking the acknowledgment of recognizances, for the oaths to the sureties as to their responsibility, and for the jurats to such oaths, but not to more than one fee for each recognizance.—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to a fee of 10 cents for each oath administered to a witness in support of his claim for attendance and mileage.—Id.

Depositions taken by a United States commissioner on the examination under Rev. St. § 847, are not each a paper within the meaning of Rev. St. § 828 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 635], allowing a "fee for filing and entering every paper," and a charge for filing the same is improper. All the depositions attached together and filed are a single paper.—Id.

A commissioner is entitled to a fee of 10 cents for each oath administered in connection with the complaint.—United States v. Barber, 140 U. S. 164, 11 S. Ct. 749, 35 L. Ed. 396, following United States v. McDermott, 140 U. S. 151, 11 S. Ct. 746, 35 L. Ed. 391.

Though one complaint is ordinarily sufficient, however many are the charges against the accused, it is within the discretion of the court to allow the commissioner's charges for more than one case against the same person for the violation of the same section of the Revised Statutes.—United States v. Barber, 140 U. S. 177, 11 S. Ct. 751, 35 L. Ed. 398, reversing judgment (D. C.) Barber v. United States, 35 F. 886.

Where the court below has allowed a commissioner's charges in excess of three folios for drawing complaints, its action will not be disturbed—the complaints in question being under Rev. St. § 2461 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1527], for cutting timber on the public lands; section 5440 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3676], for conspiracy; section 5392 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3653], for perjury; and section 5393 [U. S. Comp. St. p. 3654], for subornation of perjury.—Id.

A commissioner cannot claim compensation for examining a complainant and his witnesses before the issue of a warrant, neither counsel nor the accused being present. This is not a "hearing and deciding on criminal charges," for which, under Rev. St. § 847, a charge may be made.—United States v. Patterson, 150 U. S. 65, 14 S. Ct. 20, 37 L. Ed. 999, distinguishing Same v. Jones, 134 U. S. 483, 10 S. Ct. 615, 33 L. Ed. 1007, and Counselman v. Hitchcock, 142 U. S. 547, 12 S. Ct. 196, 35 L. Ed. 1110.

For services rendered in good faith in criminal proceedings, in case of actual arrest and hearing, the commissioner is entitled to a fee of $10, whether the accused was discharged or held for trial; and it is immaterial that the complaint was defective, if it was manifestly intended to charge an offense. If, however, there is no arrest, there can be no fee.—Southworth v. United States, 151 U. S. 179, 14 S. Ct. 274, 38 L. Ed. 119.

The refusal of the court to approve a commissioner's accounts is no bar to an action therefor, though it may be considered as bearing on the good faith of the transaction.—Southworth v. United States, 151 U. S. 179, 14 S. Ct. 274, 38 L. Ed. 119, following United States v. Knox, 128 U. S. 230, 9 S. Ct. 63, 32 L. Ed. 465, and United States v. Jones, 134 U. S. 483, 10 S. Ct. 615, 33 L. Ed. 1007.

A commissioner is entitled to fees for services required of him by a rule of court.—United States v. Allred, 155 U. S. 591, 15 S. Ct. 231, 39 L. Ed. 273.

A commissioner is entitled to fees for administering oaths to deputy marshals to verify their accounts, as required by the attorney general and the accounting officers of the treasury.—Id.

In a suit by a commissioner for fees for warrants in 8,283 criminal cases, the court of claims found that these prosecutions "were the result of a purpose on the part of party managers to purge, as they alleged, the register of illegal voters"; that the commissioner without any inquiry, issued warrants of arrest in all cases in which affidavits were filed, in many cases not even signing them himself, but having them stamped by clerks with a facsimile of his signature; and that such warrants were issued for the purpose "of affecting the register of votes to be used in the election, and not to arrest and punish offenders," etc. Held, that these findings were sufficient to justify a general finding that the prosecutions were not instituted and carried on in good faith for the purpose of enforcing the criminal law, and that the commissioner was, therefore, not entitled to fees therein.—Southworth v. United States, 161 U. S. 639, 16 S. Ct. 694, 40 L. Ed. 835.

Under Rev. St. § 828 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 635], and Rev. St. § 847, commissioners are entitled to a fee of 15 cents for each jurat or certificate appended to depositions taken by them.—United States v. Julian, 162 U. S. 324, 16 S. Ct. 801, 40 L. Ed. 984.

A commissioner of a federal circuit court is not entitled to compensation for services rendered in connection with complaints in civil rights cases in which there has been no arrest and examination, since the fee of $10 allowed him by Rev. St. U. S. § 1986 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1265], "for his services in each case, inclusive of all services incident to the arrest and examination," when earned, covers all services, and, unless earned, he gets no other fee.—Allen v. United States, 27 S. Ct. 324, 204 U. S. 581, 51 L. Ed. 634.

Fees cannot be allowed a commissioner of a federal circuit court for certifying complaints in civil rights cases, as required by Rev. St. U. S. § 2027, to himself as chief supervisor of elections.—Id.

§4. Powers and functions in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Comrs. § 3.

A commissioner of the circuit court of the United States has no authority to administer an oath, such as is required by act of congress, to a deputy surveyor of the United States, and to take and certify his affidavit in regard to the manner in which he has fulfilled a contract for surveying, to be used in procuring pay for such services.—United States v. Reilly, 131 U. S. 58, 9 S. Ct. 664, 33 L. Ed. 75.

§7. Jurisdiction and authority as examining and committing magistrates.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Comrs. § 2.

The fact that Rev. St. § 627, providing for the appointment of commissioners by United States circuit courts, directs that they shall be called "commissioners of the circuit courts," does not render inadmissible a warrant signed by W., "Commissioner of the United States Court" for a certain district. Such signing does not affirmatively imply that he is not a commissioner of the United States circuit court.—Starr v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 223, 164 U. S. 627, 41 L. Ed. 577.

And it is immaterial that the warrant recites that W. was appointed by the "United States district court" for such district, where the district court had circuit court powers at the time of the appointment, which was prior to the creation of the circuit court for that district.—Id.

The special provision of Act May 2, 1890, c. 182 (26 Stat. 81) § 10, that persons charged with any offense against the territory of Oklahoma shall in all cases be taken before the United States commissioner whose office is nearest to the place where the offense was committed, was not repealed by the general provisions of the sundry civil appropriation bill of August 18, 1894, c. 301, 28 Stat. 416 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 717], that marshals shall take arrested persons before the commissioner nearest the place of arrest, or shall be entitled to no mileage therefor. Judgment 36 Ct. Cl. 598, reversed.—United States v. Nix, 23 S. Ct. 495, 189 U. S. 199, 47 L. Ed. 775.

The attorney general of the United States wrote to a United States marshal, referring to rumors of threats of personal violence against a justice of the supreme court, and suggested that extraordinary caution be used for his protection. The marshal and the district attorney replied, the latter suggesting the appointment of additional deputy marshals to accompany and protect the justice from assault while out of court. The attorney general then wrote to the marshal, referring to the correspondence, and authorizing him to retain additional deputies. Held, that the correspondence was sufficient to warrant the marshal in retaining a deputy to attend on and protect the justice both in court and while traveling through his circuit, in discharge of his duties.—Cunningham v. Neagle, 135 U. S. 1, 10 S. Ct. 658, 34 L. Ed. 55, affirming (C. C.) In re Neagle, 39 F. 833, 5 L. R. A. 78.

A United States marshal is not entitled to travel fees in serving warrants of commitment of prisoners to a penitentiary.—United States v. Tanner, 147 U. S. 661, 13 S. Ct. 436, 37 L. Ed. 321.

Under Rev. St. § 829 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 636], a marshal transporting convicts from his district to a prison in another district within the same state is entitled to fees at the rate of 10 cents per mile for himself and for each prisoner and necessary guard.—United States v. McMahon, 164 U. S. 81, 17 S. Ct. 28, 41 L. Ed. 357, reversing judgment 65 F. 976, 13 C. C. A. 257.

Under Rev. St. § 829 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 636], a marshal, who has transported a prisoner, is not entitled, in addition to his other fees, to a fee for the delivery of warrants of commitment to the warden of the penitentiary, as it is not a "service," within the meaning of such section.—Id.

Marshals are not entitled to fees for serving warrants of commitment.—United States v. McMahon, 17 S. Ct. 28, 164 U. S. 81, 41 L. Ed. 357, reversing judgment 65 F. 976, 13 C. C. In the First circuit the marshal is entitled, under Rev. St. § 829, cl. 3 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 636], to a fee of two dollars for distributing venires to the constables, according to the long-established practice in that circuit.—United States v. Harmon, 147 U. S. 268, 13 S. Ct. 327, 37 L. Ed. 164, affirming judgment (C. C.) Harmon v. United States, 43 F. 560.

¶15. — Attendance at court or before commissioner.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Mar. § 14.

A circuit or district court is "in session," within the meaning of Rev. St. § 829 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 636], fixing the marshal's compensation for attending same "while in session," only when it is open by its own order for the transaction of business, and a marshal is not entitled, under such section, to be compensated at the rate of five dollars per day for each day of the term when the court by its own action is not open for the transaction of business.—McMullen v. United States, 146 U. S. 860, 13 S. Ct. 127, 36 L. Ed. 1007, affirming judgment 24 Ct. Cl. 394.

A marshal is entitled to his per diem when, in obedience to an order of court directing an adjournment to a certain day, he is present upon that day, the journal is opened by the clerk, and the court is then adjourned to another day by direction of the judge.—United States v. Pitman, 147 U. S. 669, 13 S. Ct. 425, 37 L. Ed. 324, affirming judgment (D. C.) Pitman v. United States, 145 F. 159.

The fact that the 5th of July was generally celebrated as Independence Day, the 4th falling on Sunday, does not deprive a marshal of his per diem for attending court on that day, where the record shows that the court was open and transacted business.—United States v. Fletcher, 147 U. S. 664, 13 S. Ct. 434, 37 L. Ed. 322, affirming judgment (C. C.) Fletcher v. United States, 45 F. 213.

A marshal is entitled to charge for travel from his home to attend court as often, during the term, as the court is adjourned over one or more intervening days, except where such adjournment is from Saturday to Monday.—United States v. Shields, 153 U. S. 88, 14 S. Ct. 735, 38 L. Ed. 645.

Special deputy marshals, appointed to aid supervisors of election, are not entitled, while on duty, to extra compensation for attendance before commissioners.—United States v. McMahon, 164 U. S. 81, 17 S. Ct. 28, 41 L. Ed. 357, reversing judgment 65 F. 976, 13 C. C. A. 257.

A marshal attending criminal examinations in separate and distinct cases upon the same day, before the same commissioner, is not entitled to fees in each case, but only to the two dollars per diem allowed by Rev. St. § 829. But where he attends examinations before two different commissioners on the same day, he is entitled to a fee of two dollars for attendance before each commissioner. U. S. v. Erwin, 13 S. Ct. 443, 147 U. S. 685, 37 L. Ed. 331, applied.—United States v. McMahon, 17 S. Ct. 28, 164 U. S. 81, 41 L. Ed. 357, reversing judgment 65 F. 976, 13 C. C. A. 257.

The per diem fee for the attendance of a United States marshal at a court which has been opened for business by order of the judge is allowable, although business may not have been transacted in court on such day, and the judge may not have been present. Judgment 38 Ct. Cl. 598, reversed.—United States v. Nix, 23 S. Ct. 495, 189 U. S. 199, 47 L. Ed. 775.

¶19. — Computation of mileage and traveling expenses.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Mar. § 17.

Under Rev. St. § 829, cl. 25 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 638], where a marshal serves several precepts (not in behalf of the same person) against different persons, for different causes, he is entitled to full travel on each, though they are all served on the same trip.—United States v. Harmon, 147 U. S. 268, 13 S. Ct. 327, 37 L. Ed. 164, affirming judgment Harmon v. United States, 43 F. 560.

Under Rev. St. § 829, cl. 24 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 638], allowing a marshal "for traveling from his residence to the place of holding court, to attend a term thereof, 10 cents a mile for going only," the marshal is not restricted to a single travel at each term; but, where court adjourns over one or more days, he may return home, and charge travel for going to attend the term at the day to which it is adjourned. He may also charge travel for going to each special term.—United States v. Harmon, 147 U. S. 268, 13 S. Ct. 327, 37 L. Ed. 164, affirming judgment (C. C.) Harmon v. United States, 43 F. 560; United States v. Shields, 153 U. S. 88, 14 S. Ct. 735, 38 L. Ed. 645.

Act Cong. Feb. 22, 1875, c. 95, § 7 (18 Stat. 334 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 649]), does not preclude a marshal from charging full mileage on each of two or more writs served at the same time and place on different persons, but applies only to cases in which there is no actual travel, as where a writ was sent through the mail to be served by a deputy near the place of service.—United States v. Harmon, 147 U. S. 268, 13 S. Ct. 327, 37 L. Ed. 164, affirming judgment Harmon v. United States, 43 F. 560; United States v. Fletcher, 147 U. S. 664, 13 S. Ct. 434, 37 L. Ed. 322, affirming Fletcher v. United States, 45 F. 213.

Under Rev. St. § 829 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 636], allowing the marshal six cents a mile for traveling to serve process, with a proviso that, "where more than two writs of any kind required to be served in behalf of the same party or the same person might be served at the same time, the marshal shall be entitled to compensation for travel on only two of such writs," such marshal is entitled to mileage for each writ he serves when on different persons, although he only makes one trip.—Id.

When a marshal takes a criminal to a penitentiary, the only mileage he can charge is that prescribed in Rev. St. § 829 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 636], "for transporting criminals, ten cents a mile for himself, and for each prisoner and necessary guard," and he cannot also charge six cents per mile as for "going to serve" the warrant of commitment.—United States v. Tanner, 147 U. S. 661, 13 S. Ct. 436, 37 L. Ed. 321.

Under Rev. St. § 829, a marshal transporting convicts from his district to a prison in another district within the same state is entitled to fees at the rate of 10 cents per mile for himself and for each prisoner and necessary guard.—United States v. McMahon, 17 S. Ct. 28, 164 U. S. 81, 41 L. Ed. 357, reversing judgment 65 F. 976, 13 C. C. A. 257.

A United States marshal is not entitled to mileage for the distance traveled in serving warrants of arrest, in excess of the usually traveled route, between the place of receiving the writs and the place of service, however great the necessity of pursuing a circuitous route, in view of Rev. St. U. S. § 829 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 636], which directs such mileage to be computed "from the place where the process is returned to the place of service." Judgment 36 Ct. Cl. 598, reversed.—United States v. Nix, 23 S. Ct. 495, 189 U. S. 199, 47 L. Ed. 775.

◀20. — Disbursements and incidental expenses.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Mar. §§ 12, 12.

Under Rev. St. § 829, cl. 18 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 637], a marshal may charge for expenses in endeavoring to make an arrest when the services charged for were actually rendered, and the disbursements actually made.—United States v. Harmon, 147 U. S. 268, 13 S. Ct. 327, 37 L. Ed. 164, affirming judgment (C. C.) Harmon v. United States, 43 F. 560.

The hire of hacks to transport prisoners to and from court being agreed to have been in accordance with the usual practice, and to have always before been allowed, it will be presumed to have been required by the court, for the prompt dispatch of business, and a marshal should be reimbursed for money so spent.—Id.

A marshal is entitled to be reimbursed for money paid with the approval of the attorney general, to whom Rev. St. § 368 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 210], gives general supervisory power over the accounts of the court officers; the payment having been made on a requisition of the district attorney for blanks necessary for his use.—Id.

The expense of transporting a prisoner under a warrant of commitment cannot be allowed a United States marshal, where such prisoner escaped from the custody of his deputy before he could be delivered to the penitentiary, and there is no finding of due diligence on the part of the officer to prevent the escape. Judgment 36 Ct. Cl. 598, reversed.—United States v. Nix, 23 S. Ct. 495, 189 U. S. 199, 47 L. Ed. 775.

A prisoner who escapes from the custody of a deputy marshal while going to supper in a hotel will be presumed to have escaped through the officer's negligence.—Id.

◀21. — Special or extra services or expenses.

Special deputy marshals, appointed to aid supervisors of election, are not entitled, while on duty, to extra compensation for attendance before commissioners.—United States v. McMahon, 17 S. Ct. 28, 164 U. S. 81, 41 L. Ed. 357, reversing judgment 65 F. 976, 13 C. C. A. 257.

◀22. — Persons liable in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Mar. § 20.

The claims of deputy marshals for compensation are claims against the marshal personally, and not against the United States.—Douglas v. Wallace, 161 U. S. 346, 16 S. Ct. 485, 40 L. Ed. 727, affirming Wallace v. Douglas, 103 N. C. 19, 9 S. E. 453.

◀25. — Accounting as to fees.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Mar. § 21.

The approval and allowance of a marshal's account by a circuit court, under Act Feb. 22, 1875, 18 Stat. 333, c. 95 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 648], when some of the items are unauthorized by law, does not preclude a revision of the same by the proper officers.—McMullen v. United States, 146 U. S. 360, 13 S. Ct. 127, 36 L. Ed. 1007, affirming judgment, 24 Ct. Cl. 394.

The allowance by the district judge of the account of a United States marshal is prima facie evidence of the correctness of the mileage items of such account. Judgment 36 Ct. Cl. 598, reversed.—United States v. Nix, 23 S. Ct. 495, 189 U. S. 199, 47 L. Ed. 775.

◀27. — Recovery of fees or salary.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Mar. §§ 22, 23.

The disallowance by the first comptroller of the treasury of a marshal's account for fees is not such a rejection or adverse report "by a court, department, or commission," under the proviso of Act March 3, 1887, 24 Stat. 505, c. 359, § 1, cl. 1 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 752], as to prevent a circuit court from taking jurisdiction of a suit for the claim.—United States v. Harmon, 147 U. S. 268, 13 S. Ct. 327, 37 L. Ed. 164, affirming judgment (C. C.) Harmon v. United States, 43 F. 560.

On appeal from a judgment for fees due a United States marshal, it cannot be contended that there was no finding that the payment of such a sum would not exceed the maximum compensation of plaintiff, as this is a matter which still remains open for adjustment at the treasury department.—Id.

Where a claim for fees as marshal is presented to the department for allowance, and the department, in the exercise of its discretion, suspends action upon them until proper vouchers are furnished, or other reasonable requirements are complied with, the courts should not assume jurisdiction of proceedings to recover such fees until final action is taken or is deferred for an unreasonable time.—United States v. Fletcher, 147 U. S. 664, 13 S. Ct. 434, 37 L. Ed. 322, affirming judgment (C. C.) Fletcher v. United States, 45 F. 213.

◀29. Duties and functions and performance thereof.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Mar. § 23.

Under Const. art. 2, § 3, declaring that the president of the United States "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed," the president has power, through the attorney general, to direct a United States marshal to accompany and prevent from a threatened assault a justice of the supreme court while in the discharge of his official duties.—Cunningham v. Neagle, 135 U. S. 1, 10 S. Ct. 653, 34 L. Ed. 55, affirming judgment (C. C.) In re Neagle, 39 F. 833, 5 L. R. A. 78.

◀31. Liabilities for official acts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Mar. §§ 29-33.

A writ of attachment from a federal court having jurisdiction of parties and subject-matter, though voidable because issued upon an insufficient affidavit, is a sufficient protection to the marshal who levied it, in an action of trespass against him in the state court by the owners of the goods levied on, who were not the defendants in the attachment.—Matthews v. Denmore, 109 U. S. 216, 3 S. Ct. 128, 27 L. Ed. 912.

—36. Liabilities on official bonds.
See 47 Cent. Dig. U. S. Mar. §§ 36, 37.

The taking by a United States marshal, on a writ of attachment on mesne process against one person, of the goods of another, is a breach of the condition of his official bond, for which his sureties are liable.—Lammon v. Feusier, 111 U. S. 17, 4 S. Ct. 286, 28 L. Ed. 337.

42. What law governs.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 2-15, 418.

Act III, Feb. 12, 1857, provides that where any contract or loan shall be made in Illinois, "or between citizens of this state or any other state or country," bearing interest at a rate which is lawful in Illinois, "it shall be lawful to make the amount of principal and interest of such contract or loan payable in any other state," etc. Act III, Feb. 16, 1857, § 14, provides that it shall be lawful for any person borrowing money in Illinois to make notes and other securities, for the payment of interest at the rates authorized by the laws of Illinois, payable at any place where the parties may agree, although the legal rate in such place may be less than in Illinois. Held, that where a loan obtained by a citizen of Illinois from a New York corporation upon bonds made in Illinois, and secured by mortgages upon land situated therein, was for a rate of interest lawful in Illinois, the rate was lawful, though the loan was payable in New York, where such a rate was usurious.—Fowler v. Equitable Trust Co., 141 U. S. 384, 12 S. Ct. 1, 35 L. Ed. 786.

43. Constitutional and statutory provisions.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 16-19, 242.

48. — Amendment and repeal.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 19, 243.

The Texas statute declaring usurious contracts "void and of no effect" as to the whole rate of interest, was repealed by Const. Tex. art. 12, § 44 (2 Pasch. Dig. 1132). Held, that the statute made the contract voidable only, and in an action after the repeal the defense of usury will not avail against a contract made before the repeal.—Ewell v. Daggs, 108 U. S. 143, 2 S. Ct. 408, 27 L. Ed. 682.

49. Elements of usury.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 23-29, 144.

413. — Loan or forbearance.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, § 25.

Where there is no loan there can be no usury.—Struthers v. Drexel, 122 U. S. 487, 7 S. Ct. 1293, 30 L. Ed. 1216.

415. — Reservation, taking, or payment of or agreement for excessive interest.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 27-29.

One of the objects for which a loan was procured was to pay arrears of interest on previous loans between the same parties, and the lender retained out of the latter loan not only the interest due on the former ones, but interest on the overdue coupons evidencing the interest on the former loans, both parties supposing that such coupons bore interest. The court decided that such coupons did not bear interest. Held that, though the amount retained was in excess of the highest rate allowed by law on the original loans, this did not render the latter loan usurious, as there was no contract to pay such excessive rate.—United States Mortg. Co. v. Speery, 138 U. S. 313, 11 S. Ct. 321, 34 L. Ed. 969, reversing decree (C. C.) 26 F. 727.

436. Contracts and transactions involving hazard or contingency.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 92-95.

437. — Hazard of principal in general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, § 92.

A contract whereby the borrower of money agrees to repay to the lender a sum exceeding the amount borrowed, with the maximum legal interest added thereto, although it provides, with certain restrictions, that the portion of the debt remaining unpaid on the death of the borrower within a time fixed shall not be collected, is subject to cancellation, under Gen. St. Minn. 1894, § 2217, providing for the cancellation of usurious contracts.—Missouri, K. & T. Trust Co. v. Krumseig, 19 S. Ct. 179, 172 U. S. 351, 43 L. Ed. 474, affirming decree 77 F. 32, 23 C. C. A. 1, which affirms (C. C.) Krumseig v. Missouri, K. & T. Trust Co., 71 F. 350.

444. Interest in advance.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 93, 96.

445. — In general.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, § 93.

In 1873, a loan in Illinois at 10 per cent.—the highest lawful rate—was not rendered unlawful by exacting 3 per cent. thereof in advance.—Fowler v. Equitable Trust Co., 141 U. S. 384, 12 S. Ct. 1, 35 L. Ed. 786.

453. Compensation for services or expenses or losses incurred by lender.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 91, 114-118.

A contract for a loan at the legal interest secured by book accounts to be collected by the borrower held not usurious because the lender is to be paid 1 per cent. a month on the uncollected accounts at the end of each month as compensation for his services in examination of the borrower's books, as required to do by an indemnity bond.—Houghton v. Burden, 33 S. Ct. 491, 228 U. S. 161, 57 L. Ed. 780, affirming decree In re Canfield, 193 F. 934, 113 C. C. A. 562.

454. Commission or bonus to agent, broker, or other third person.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 119-129.

456. — Agent or other representative of lender.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 122-127.

Where a person agrees with a trust company to procure and forward applications for loans, with the understanding that he shall receive no compensation from it, but is to obtain his remuneration from borrowers, and he thereafter, in communications to the company and others, styles himself as agent for it, he must be so considered; and under the law in Illinois a payment to him of a commission by the borrower for securing a loan from the company at the highest legal rate makes the transaction usurious.—Fowler v. Equitable Trust Co., 141 U. S. 384, 12 S. Ct. 1, 35 L. Ed. 786.

Where the highest legal rate of interest is 10 per cent., the payment of a commission of 3 per cent. to a broker negotiating a loan for five years, at 9 per cent., does not make the transaction usurious.—Fowler v. Equitable Trust Co., 141 U. S. 411, 12 S. Ct. 8, 35 L. Ed. 794.

◀57. — Agent or other representative of borrower.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 128, 129.

Commissions paid by a borrower of money to a loan broker, or to his own agent, do not render the loan usurious, unless such broker or agent acts as the agent of the lender.—Call v. Palmer, 116 U. S. 98, 6 S. Ct. 301, 29 L. Ed. 559, affirming (C. C.) Palmer v. Call, 7 F. 737; Grant v. Phoenix Mut. Life Ins. Co., 121 U. S. 105, 7 S. Ct. 841, 30 L. Ed. 905; Fowler v. Equitable Trust Co., 141 U. S. 384, 12 S. Ct. 1, 35 L. Ed. 786.

◀62. Stipulations as to attorney's fees on default in payment.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, § 125.

In Illinois, a stipulation in a trust deed to secure a loan, for a "reasonable attorney's or solicitor's fee, not exceeding 5 per cent.," in case of foreclosure, does not, of itself, render the contract usurious.—Fowler v. Equitable Trust Co., 141 U. S. 411, 12 S. Ct. 8, 35 L. Ed. 794.

◀67. Usurious contract as consideration for new promise.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 140, 141.

Where the promisor in a usurious contract makes it the consideration for a new contract with a third person not a party to the original contract, or to the usury paid or reserved on it, and the new contract is not a contrivance to evade the statutes against usury, the latter is not illegal or usurious.—Call v. Palmer, 116 U. S. 98, 6 S. Ct. 301, 29 L. Ed. 559, affirming (C. C.) Palmer v. Call, 7 F. 737.

◀74. Effect of usury.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 148-161.

◀81. — Executed contracts.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, § 161.

Plaintiff, in a suit against a gas company to recover for services in negotiating and consummating a settlement of differences between defendant and another company, put the contract between said companies in evidence, and testified that he conducted the negotiations resulting in it; that he was the general manager of a company manipulating gas property throughout the country; that his and other companies were inconvenienced by the fact that they were expected to furnish gas at the insufficient price at which it was sold in the city where the contracting companies were located; that he suggested that the conflict there should be amicably terminated, and in consequence was employed to negotiate a settlement with defendant by the other company. Held, that plaintiff having himself suggested the settlement, and the contract being unlawful, as ultra vires of the other company, he could not recover for services in procuring its execution.—Gibbs v. Consolidated Gas Co. of Baltimore, 130 U. S. 396, 9 S. Ct. 553, 32 L. Ed. 979.

◀86. Usury in transactions through agents.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 169-174.

The taking of a bonus or commission from the borrower by the lender's agent, without the lender's knowledge or participation in it, does not render the loan usurious.—Call v. Palmer, 116 U. S. 98, 6 S. Ct. 301, 29 L. Ed. 559, affirming (C. C.) Palmer v. Call, 7 F. 737.

(B) RIGHTS AND REMEDIES OF PARTIES.

Denial of equal protection of laws, see Constitutional Law, ▶242.

◀91. Equitable relief.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 191-202.

◀95. — Tender or payment of amount actually received or due.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 193-202.

The provision of the usury law of New York that a borrower who files a bill in equity for relief need not offer to pay either interest or principal, is confined in its application strictly to borrowers; nor is it applicable to suits not brought within the state of New York. Decree 22 C. C. A. 606, 76 F. 905, affirmed.—Hubbard v. Tod, 19 S. Ct. 14, 171 U. S. 474, 43 L. Ed. 246.

A complainant who seeks the affirmative aid of equity to set aside a transaction as usurious must tender or offer to repay the consideration parted with by defendant.—(Iowa & Neb.) Hubbard v. Tod, 19 S. Ct. 14, 171 U. S. 474, 43 L. Ed. 246, affirming decree 76 F. 905, 22 C. C. A. 606. Contra, see Missouri, K. & T. Trust Co. v. Krumseig, 19 S. Ct. 179, 172 U. S. 351, 43 L. Ed. 474, affirming decree 77 F. 32, 23 C. C. A. 1, which affirms Krumseig v. Missouri, K. & T. Trust Co., 71 F. 350.

◀100. Application of payments of usury.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 213-224; 25 Cent. Dig. Mtg. § 841.

Under a statute that forfeits for usurious interest the whole interest paid and authorizes the debtor to recover it back within a certain time limited, usurious interest actually paid cannot be applied to the discharge of the principal.—Walsh v. Mayer, 4 Sup. Ct. 260, 111 U. S. 31, 28 L. Ed. 338.

◀112. Evidence.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 307-340.

◀113. — Presumptions and burden of proof.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 306-322.

An agent authorized to make loans for a foreign company by a contract which provides that all commissions and bonuses on such loans shall belong to the company, who receives a bonus exceeding legal interest on a loan, the company having knowledge of each step taken by him is presumed to act for the company in so doing.—McBroom v. Scottish Mortg. & Land Inv. Co. of New Mexico, 153 U. S. 318, 14 S. Ct. 852, 38 L. Ed. 729.

◀117. — Weight and sufficiency.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 323-340.

The defense of usury to a suit on a contract fair on its face must be established by satisfactory evidence.—Houghton v. Burden, 33 S. Ct. 491, 228 U. S. 161, 57 L. Ed. 780, affirming decree In re Canfield, 193 F. 934, 113 C. C. A. 562.

Limitation of Actions, 59.

137. Grounds of penalties.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 420-423.

Under Comp. Laws N. M. 1884, §§ 1730-1738, imposing a fine for charging, collecting, or receiving usurious interest, and giving the person from whom such interest is collected or received a right to recover double the amount so collected or received, but not declaring a contract providing for usurious interest void, and not prohibiting recovery of the amount loaned thereon, with legal interest, such a contract is void only as to the excess of interest, and the lender thereon is not liable for the penalty, so long as the principal debt, with legal interest, after deducting all payments, is unpaid.—McBroom v. Scottish Mortgage & Land Inv. Co. of New Mexico, 153 U. S. 318, 14 S. Ct. 852, 38 L. Ed. 729.

146. Forfeiture of interest.

See 47 Cent. Dig. Usury, §§ 437-439.

Rev. St. D. C. § 715, providing that, if any person shall contract to receive more than the legal rate of interest, he "shall forfeit the whole of the interest so contracted to be received, and shall be entitled to recover only the principal sum due," applies only to cases where the illegal interest has not been paid. The only remedy where the illegal interest has been paid is an action for its recovery as provided by section 716.—Carter v. Carusi, 112 U. S. 478, 5 S. Ct. 281, 28 L. Ed. 820.

An extraterritorial effect is not given the provisions of Laws Minn. 1897, c. 223, providing that a vendor shall have no right to cancel a contract for sale of land except on 30 days' notice, by applying it to an action on an executory contract to be performed in the state for the sale of land in another state, to recover damages for refusal to perform.—*Selover, Bates & Co. v. A valuable consideration may be other than the actual payment of money, and may consist of acts to be done after the conveyance. The advantages inuring to a city from the established military headquarters upon land conveyed to the United States by the city for that purpose constitute a valuable consideration for the conveyance.—Stanley v. Schwalby, 162 U. S. 255, 16 S. Ct. 754, 40 L. Ed. 960, reversing judgment United States v. Schwalby, 8 Tex. Civ. App. 679, 29 S. W. 90.

The fact that a committee appointed by the owners of certain lands, to sell the same, stipulate with the purchaser that a large part of the purchase money shall be paid to them, is no ground for a rescission of the contract by the purchaser, since, if any fraud is committed thereby, it is not a fraud upon him, but upon the rights of the other owners.—Farnsworth v. Duffner, 142 U. S. 43, 12 S. Ct. 164, 35 L. Ed. 931.

The fact that the seller of a tax title to lands represents that he is president of a bank and a railway company, and a member of the Baptist Church, and that he has built a church edifice, and been a member of the state senate and governor of the state, is no ground for rescinding the contract, whether such representations are true or false.—Id.

◄34. — Quantity, boundaries, and location.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 23.

A contract to convey a tax title to a tract of 40,000 acres of land provided that actual settlers within the boundaries thereof, who had been in possession according to law for 10 years, should not be disturbed, and guaranteed that the tract should contain at least 20,000 acres not so held. The deed made in pursuance thereof contained the same provision, with the further stipulation that, if the land not so held fell below 20,000 acres, the purchase price should be refunded in proportion to the deficiency. Before making the contract the purchaser spent three days upon the tract, and received actual notice of the claims of some settlers. Held, that he could not rescind the purchase on the ground of misrepresentation as to the quantity held by settlers, especially when he had caused no survey to be made showing what part was so held.—*Farnsworth v. ◄36. — Quality or value.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 40, 52, 53.

Defendant, in selling his mine, expressed his opinion as to amount of ore "in sight," and in a certain chamber, and said the mine was worth $15,000, and the ore body would be extensive—which representations did not appear to have been relied on by the purchaser; and represented that the purchasers had seen everything in the mine, while in fact there were certain plugged-up drill holes which they had not seen; but there was no direct evidence that defendant was himself aware of the holes, and he denied knowledge of them in his testimony and sworn answer. Held, that the evidence failed to support a bill to rescind the sale for fraudulent representations.—Southern Development Co. of Nevada v. Silva, 125 U. S. 247, 8 S. Ct. 881, 31 L. Ed. 678.

§37. — Application of doctrine of caveat emptor.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 54-60.

When a person purchases a tax title to lands upon the advice of his attorney, whom he has brought from a distant state to investigate the county records, and who has spent three days in so doing, a portion of the time in the presence of the defendants, who request that the examination be full, he is chargeable with knowledge of all that the records disclose, and cannot afterwards rescind the contract on the ground of misrepresentation as to any matters shown thereby.—Farnsworth v. Duffner, 142 U. S. 43, 12 S. Ct. 164, 35 L. Ed. 931.

Misrepresentations by a vendor of real property with reference to its area are not actionable, where a correct description of the property was given in a deed and recorded chain of title, which the purchaser's agent undertook to investigate and report upon, and the vendor made no effort to prevent a full investigation. Judgment 20 App. D. C. 185, affirmed.—Shappirio v. Goldberg, 24 S. Ct. 259, 192 U. S. 232, 48 L. Ed. 419.

§39. Illegality.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 9.

An agreement to sell a tract of land at a specified price if the offer should be accepted within the time mentioned is unenforceable, as contrary to public policy, where made in part consideration of services rendered before and after the making of the agreement, in bringing the property to the attention of committees of Congress as a suitable and appropriate site for a hall of records, although the actual services rendered may have been legitimate.—Hazelton v. Sheckels, 26 S. Ct. 567, 202 U. S. 71, 50 L. Ed. 939, 6 Ann. Cas. 217.

§41. Estoppel or waiver as to defects or objections.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 67, 68.

§43. — Ratification of voidable contract.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 67, 68.

A purchaser of real property cannot rescind the contract of sale because of the vendor's misrepresentations with reference to its area, where, after discovering the fraud, he collected rents for some months upon the property, corresponded with the vendor as to future terms of rental, declined to reduce the rent, made repairs, and performed other acts of ownership. Judgment (1902) 20 App. D. C. 185, affirmed.—Shappirio v. Goldberg, 24 S. Ct. 259, 192 U. S. 232, 48 L. Ed. 419.

§44. Evidence.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 69-76.

The execution and delivery of an instrument purporting to be a contract for the conveyance of real property is sufficiently proved where it appears that the grantor received a part of the money and the securities which were the consideration of the conveyance; that he carried out his part of it by executing a deed pursuant to the contract, which he subsequently reaffirmed by a recital in another deed; and that in his petition in bankruptcy he stated on oath that he owned no real estate, nor any interest therein.—Dent v. Ferguson, 132 U. S. 50, 10 S. Ct. 13, 33 L. Ed. 242.

A vendee of land filed a bill to restrain the collection of the purchase money on the ground of fraudulent representations by the vendor or his agent as to the freedom of the land from liability to overflow, and as to the number of acres of cleared land. The answer, under oath, denied all the allegations as to fraud and misrepresentations. The sale was made by a real estate broker, who gave the vendee a memorandum describing the land, stating at the same time that the description was based entirely on information derived from others. The vendee, by letter, accepted the offer to sell "on the representations made as to the amount, character, etc., of the lands," and he testified that he purchased on the faith of the representations contained in the memorandum, having informed the broker that he relied on them "as material inducements," and that he visited the land after he "had closed the purchase," though he stated in his bill that he accepted the offer after his visit to the land. The vendor's manager testified that the vendee came to the place, and made a thorough examination of it, stating that he wanted to buy it. Held, that the evidence was insufficient to entitle the vendee to recover for fraudulent representations.—Farrar v. Churchill, 135 U. S. 609, 10 S. Ct. 771, 34 L. Ed. 246.

II. CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION OF CONTRACT.

Parol or extrinsic evidence, see Evidence, §400.

§50. Construing instruments together.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 51.

Stipulations in a contract of sale as to the times of making payments and of delivery of the conveyance will control repugnant provisions in the condition of a bond given by the vendor to secure performance, and referring to the contract. 34 P. 51, 9 Utah, 260, affirmed.—Coughran v. Bigelow, 17 S. Ct. 117, 164 U. S. 301, 41 L. Ed. 442.

§54. Effect of executory contract on title to property.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 55.

An agreement to convey a certain interest in mines on demand within 12 months passes no present interest in the property.—Waterman v. Banks, 144 U. S. 394, 12 S. Ct. 648, 36 L. Ed. 479.

§60. Subject-matter.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 91-101.

§65. — Quantity or extent of land.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 93-96.

Certain lands sold by written agreement were described as "about 1,000 acres." Afterwards, in a written agreement compromising a suit about the purchase money, the land was described as "estimated to contain 1,000 acres." In a suit by the purchaser to recover for a deficiency in the land, the evidence of the attorney who drew the compromise agreement was that the seller refused, in the presence of the purchaser, to describe the land as 1,000 acres, and said he would not be bound by any particular number of acres. Held, the evidence not disclosing any fraudulent assurances, the transactions constituted a sale in gross, and the seller was not liable for any deficiency in the quantity.—Lawson v. Floyd, 124 U. S. 108, 8 S. Ct. 409, 31 L. Ed. 347.

§74. Time of performance and payment.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 113-120.

§76. — Concurrent acts.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 117, 119.

One who had made application to the surveyor for the survey of 1,813 sections of land in the state of Texas, to be purchased under Act Tex. July 14, 1879, comprising over a million acres, agreed to sell to another, for a specified price per acre, all his right, title, and interest in the same, agreeing further to have the surveys made, and the maps and field notes filed in the general land office, for which he was to be paid five cents per acre. Held, that the contract was for the entire body of land applied for, and that, before the applicant could become entitled to the agreed price, he was bound to have the whole surveyed, and the maps and field notes thereof filed within the prescribed time, so that the other party would have a right to demand patents from the state upon payment of the statutory price; and that by default therein he released the purchaser from the contract.—Telfener v. Russ, 162 U. S. 170, 16 S. Ct. 695, 40 L. Ed. 930.

◀78. — Time as of the essence of the contract.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 121-125.

Time may become of the essence of a contract for the sale of property, not only by the express stipulation of the parties, but from the very nature of the property itself, and especially when it is subject to sudden, frequent, or great fluctuations in value, as in the case of mining property.—Waterman v. Banks, 144 U. S. 394, 12 S. Ct. 646, 36 L. Ed. 479.

An agreement to convey a certain interest in mines, upon demand, within 12 months, passes no present interest in the property, but makes time of the essence of the agreement; and if the conveyance is not demanded within that period the obligation to make it ceases altogether.—Id.

◀79. Conditions and provisos.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 7, 3, 127-131.

Where land is conveyed to a railroad company by a city on condition that the terminus, principal offices, and machine shops of the railroad shall be located there, and the deed contains no covenant that they shall be continued for any expressed period, though the contract pursuant to which the conveyance was made provided for their "permanent" location, the condition is complied with as soon as the railroad company locates such terminal appurtenances on the land, and the removal of some of them eight years later is not a breach of the contract.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. City of Marshall, 136 U. S. 393, 10 S. Ct. 846, 34 L. Ed. 385.

◀80. Evidence to aid construction.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 132-135.

Where an agreement for the sale of land described it as "about 1,000 acres," and a later agreement as "estimated to contain 1,000 acres," acquiescence for many years is sufficient to raise the presumption that the purchaser understood the sale was in gross.—Lawson v. Floyd, 124 U. S. 108, 8 S. Ct. 409, 31 L. Ed. 347.

III. MODIFICATION OR RESCISSION OF CONTRACT.

Election to forfeit contract or enforce specific performance, see Specific Performance, ▶4.

(A) BY AGREEMENT OF PARTIES.

[No paragraphs or references in this Digest. But see 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 133-147.]

(B) RESCISSION BY VENDOR.

[No paragraphs or references in this Digest. But see 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 148-187.]

(C) RESCISSION BY PURCHASER.

◀106. Right to rescind.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 188-201.

◀107. — In general.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 188-192.

The purchaser cannot claim a termination of the contract by his failure to pay in full an installment of the price, part payment having been accepted, and both parties having treated the contract as subsisting.—Loud v. Pomona Land & Water Co., 153 U. S. 564, 14 S. Ct. 928, 38 L. Ed. 822.

◀113. — Defect in quantity or quality of land.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 201.

When a contract for the sale of several parcels of land does not apportion the purchase money, on failure of title as to one parcel thereof, the purchaser may rescind as to the whole.—Ankeny v. Clark, 148 U. S. 345, 13 S. Ct. 617, 37 L. Ed. 475, affirming judgment 20 P. 583, 1 Wash. St. 549.

By a contract of sale, defendant agreed to convey, with special warranty only, all the land within the exterior boundaries of a certain survey containing 50,006 acres, more or less, except such of the lands as were found, by subsequent surveys, to be held by third persons by adverse title and possession, constituting a better title than that of the vendor; the sale to be by the acre, and not in gross; part payment to be made when the vendee's attorney should certify the title to be good and valid, which certificate was to be made within 30 days. The certificate was accordingly made, the attorney stating therein that a small part of the survey was covered by an older survey, but that such survey had long been forfeited, and therefore did not interfere with the vendor's title. It was subsequently discovered that this older survey in fact covered most of the land included in the contract, but the full extent of the interference was not known by either party at the time, and the evidence was insufficient to show any fraudulent misrepresentation or concealment on the part of the vendor's agent. Held, that the interference between the surveys constituted no ground for rescission.—Clark v. Reeder, 158 U. S. 505, 15 S. Ct. 849, 39 L. Ed. 1070, affirming decree (C. C.) 40 F. 513.

◀124. Operation and effect.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 222-232.

◀126. — Rents and profits.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 229, 230, 231.

One who, after occupying land under a contract to purchase it, rightfully rescinds the contract, and abandons the land, because of the vendor's inability to make a good title, is not chargeable with rent.—Ankeny v. Clark, 148 U. S. 345, 13 S. Ct. 617, 37 L. Ed. 475, affirming judgment 1 Wash. St. 549, 20 P. 583.

IV. PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACT.

(A) TITLE AND ESTATE OF VENDOR.

Necessity of good title to support suit for specific performance, see Specific Performance, ▶95.

◀135. Easements and encroachments.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 256-257.

Vendors who represent themselves as having a good and indefeasible title in fee simple cannot compel the purchasers to accept their deed, and pay the purchase money, when it appears that they hold under a deed which reserved to their grantor the right to prospect for coal and other minerals, to mine for and remove the same if found, and a right of way over and across the land for these purposes. Nor is this defect cured by a quitclaim releasing these rights as to coal, but not as to other minerals. Even if no minerals have yet been found, it cannot be assumed that none will ever be discovered, so as to lead to the disturbance of the purchaser's possession. Adams v. Reed, 40 P. 720, 11 Utah, 480, affirmed.—Adams v. Henderson, 18 S. Ct. 179, 168 U. S. 573, 42 L. Ed. 584.

(B) CONVEYANCE.

145. Obligation to convey in general.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 276.

A claimant of an interest in a mining claim, of which the legal title is held by another under contract to convey to the claimant in a certain contingency, waives his right to a conveyance by consenting to the formation of a corporation to take and develop the property.—Johnston v. Standard Min. Co., 148 U. S. 360, 13 S. Ct. 585, 37 L. Ed. 480.

148. Tender.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 290-295.

The vendors in a contract for the sale of real property were absolved from any further performance of the conditions precedent, where, before they were in default, the vendee repudiated the contract without just cause.—Citizens' Nat. Bank of Roswell, N. M., v. Davison, 33 S. Ct. 625, 229 U. S. 212, 57 L. Ed. 1153, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 272, affirming judgment Davison v. Citizens' Nat. Bank, 120 P. 304, 16 N. M. 689.

(C) QUANTITY OF LAND AND APPURTENANCES.

161. Specific quantity or measurement.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 325.

Where a memorandum of land offered for sale describes the tract as containing a certain number of acres of cleared land, the vendee being informed at the time by the broker who was conducting the sale that the description was based on information derived from others, and the deed, executed more than two months later, recites a less number of acres of cleared land, the deed will prevail, in the absence of fraud.—Farrar v. Churchill, 135 U. S. 609, 10 S. Ct. 771, 34 L. Ed. 246.

(D) PAYMENT OF PURCHASE MONEY.

Payment or tender as condition precedent to enforcing specific performance of contract, see Specific Performance, 97.

172. Interest and expenses.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 349-351.

A conveyance of land contained an agreement by the grantees for the payment of a certain price per acre, in installments, with interest on deferred payments from a specified date; and that, if there should be any recovery against the grantor in suits pending as to some of the lands, the land so recovered should not form part of the land sold; and the last installment of the price was to be reserved until the decision of the suits and the ascertainment of the quantity of the land. Held, that the vendor was entitled to interest on deferred payments as to the price of all lands to which he had title, and of which he was in possession, actual or constructive; as to lands held adversely, to interest from the time of judgments for him in the ejectment suits; as to lands to which title was acquired after the conveyance, to interest from the date of the acquisition of title; and as to the last installment of the payments, to interest from the date specified in the conveyance.—Baines v. Clarke, 111 U. S. 789, 4 S. Ct. 671, 28 L. Ed. 599.

186. Excuses for default or delay.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 341, 373.

Where a bond by a vendor for the execution of a deed on a certain date is made dependent on payment by the vendee of an installment of the purchase price on that date, the fact that the vendor may not be able to give such a deed as is called for by his bond does not release the vendee from the duty of making or tendering payment.—Coughran v. Bigelow, 17 S. Ct. 117, 164 U. S. 301, 41 L. Ed. 442.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 331-333.

Vendees in possession as conditional vendees are estopped to question their vendor's title when sued in ejectment.—Chavez v. De Bergere, 34 S. Ct. 144, 231 U. S. 482, 58 L. Ed. 325, affirming judgment De Bergere v. Chavez, 93 P. 762, 14 N. M. 352.

(B) AS TO THIRD PERSONS IN GENERAL.

Compensation for property taken for public use, see Eminent Domain, 284.

212. Subsequent purchasers from vendor.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 436-439.

Defendant conveyed to M., with covenant of warranty, etc., a one-sixth interest in certain mineral land. At that time defendant had no title, but the owners of the legal title had orally agreed to convey to him a one-third interest; and in pursuance of this agreement they executed a deed for such interest, and delivered it in escrow, but the delivery was never completed. Subsequently defendant, for the avowed purpose of defeating his deed to M., induced the owners of the legal title to convey the one-third interest to defendant's wife, who knew of the deed to M., and who gave no consideration for the conveyance to her. Held, that the transaction must be regarded in equity as if the owners had conveyed to defendant and he to his wife, she holding in trust for M. and his heirs one-half of the interest conveyed to her.—Moore v. Crawford, 130 U. S. 122, 9 S. Ct. 447, 32 L. Ed. 878, affirming decree Crawford v. Moore, 28 F. 824.

222. Mode and form of conveyance.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 467-473.

—224. — Quitclaim.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 469-473.

A purchaser of real estate in Arkansas is not charged with notice of prior equities not of record, merely because his deed is in the form of a quitclaim, if it does not appear that he directed a deed of that kind.—McDonald v. Belding, 145 U. S. 492, 12 S. Ct. 892, 36 L. Ed. 788.

The receipt of a quitclaim deed does not of itself prevent the grantee from showing that he is a bona fide purchaser.—Moelle v. Sherwood, 148 U. S. 21, 13 S. Ct. 426, 37 L. Ed. 350; United States v. California & O. Land Co., 148 U. S. 31, 13 S. Ct. 458, 37 L. Ed. 354, affirming decree 49 F. 496, 1 C. C. A. 330.

Assuming that the receipt of a quitclaim deed precludes the grantee from showing himself a bona fide purchaser, this rule does not extend to one who holds directly by deed of bargain and sale, but has a quitclaim in his chain of title; and, as the rule is a highly technical one, it will not be applied to such a case, even though the grantor in the deed of bargain and sale is a mere agent—the conduit through which the title is passed—and the real transaction is with his principal, who conveys to him by quitclaim.—Id.

While it is held, in Texas, that one taking under a quitclaim deed of his grantor's interest only is affected with notice of all defects in the title, yet mere knowledge that the deed is in that form does not affect the title of one claiming under a subsequent warranty deed from the grantee.—Stanley v. Schwalby, 162 U. S. 255, 16 S. Ct. 754, 40 L. Ed. 960, reversing judgment United States v. Schwalby, 8 Tex. Civ. App. 679, 29 S. W. 90.

—225. Notice.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 474-562; 1 Cent. Dig. Ack. §§ 43, 55.

—226. — Effect of notice.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 495-501.

Where a deed of trust with power of sale is recorded, the purchaser at a sale thereunder acquires title as against a subsequent purchaser from the grantor whose deed is first recorded, since the latter, having notice of the trust deed, is charged with notice of the sale that may be made under it, and is not a purchaser without notice, within Rev. St. Ill. 1874, c. 30, § 30, providing that all deeds which are authorized to be recorded shall be void as to subsequent purchasers without notice until the same shall be filed for record.—Mansfield v. Excelsior Refinery Co., 135 U. S. 326, 10 S. Ct. 825, 34 L. Ed. 162.

—229. — Constructive notice, and facts putting on inquiry.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 477-494.

Where it appears from a will as recorded that lands were devised to executors in trust for plaintiffs, and, from the record of a decree setting aside the probate of the will, that plaintiffs were not represented in the proceedings to annul the probate, a suit by plaintiffs to set aside such decree because of such lack of representation cannot be defended by persons to whom such lands were conveyed by the heirs on the ground that they are bona fide purchasers.—McArthur v. Scott, 113 U. S. 340, 5 S. Ct. 652, 28 L. Ed. 1015.

Under Rev. St. Ill. 1874, c. 148, § 9, and chapter 30, § 33, the recording of a certified copy of a will, executed and admitted to probate in Ohio, does not constitute constructive notice of its contents, when unaccompanied by certified copies of the order and proceedings admitting it to probate in Ohio, or by a certificate that it was duly executed and admitted to probate according to the laws of Ohio.—Lewis v.

Barnhart, 145 U. S. 56, 12 S. Ct. 772, 36 L. Ed. 621, affirming judgment (C. C.) Same v. Barnhardt, 43 F. 854.

Information by an agent of a previous "sale," merely, and not of any conveyance, is insufficient to charge his principal with knowledge of a prior unrecorded conveyance made pursuant to such sale, where the agent searched the records and found no such deed, and thereupon advised his principal that the title was good.—Stanley v. Schwalby, 162 U. S. 255, 16 S. Ct. 754, 40 L. Ed. 960, reversing judgment United States v. Schwalby, 8 Tex. Civ. App. 679, 29 S. W. 90.

—230. — Recitals in conveyance.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 502-512.

Where, under a description in a deed, resort must be had to a prior deed to locate the same, and the prior deed so describes the land that a person reading it would discover that something had been omitted from the description therein, the purchaser is put upon inquiry, and will be charged with notice of what an inquiry would have revealed.—Simmons Creek Coal Co. v. Doran, 142 U. S. 417, 12 S. Ct. 239, 35 L. Ed. 1063.

The fact that the recitals of a recorded deed of a nonresident of the state, conveying certain lands in the county, show that the grantor received title through the will of her husband, does not constitute notice to another purchaser of different lands that they, too, were obtained by her through such will, so as to put the purchasers upon inquiry as to the extent of her interest under it.—Lewis v. Barnhart, 145 U. S. 56, 12 S. Ct. 772, 36 L. Ed. 621, affirming judgment (C. C.) Same v. Barnhardt, 43 F. 854.

The mere description of land, in a deed, as "known as the 'McMillan Lot,'" raises no inference that at the date of the deed it was still owned, if it ever had been, by any one of that name, and does not therefore charge a purchaser with notice of a prior unrecorded deed to one of that name.—Stanley v. Schwalby, 162 U. S. 255, 16 S. Ct. 754, 40 L. Ed. 960, reversing judgment United States v. Schwalby, 8 Tex. Civ. App. 679, 29 S. W. 90.

—231. — Records.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 487, 513-539; 1 Cent. Dig. Ack. §§ 43, 55; 35 Cent. Dig. Mtg. § 393.

A deed duly recorded, though so defectively acknowledged and certified that the certified copy would be incompetent as evidence, is constructive notice to a purchaser under Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. p. 271, § 30, declaring that all grants of lands shall be recorded, and section 31, providing that the recording of any deed, whether executed within or without the state, shall be deemed and taken to be notice to subsequent purchasers from the date of such recording, whether the deed shall have been acknowledged or proven in conformity with the laws of the state or not.—Stebbins v. Duncan, 108 U. S. 32, 2 S. Ct. 313, 27 L. Ed. 641.

The book of land entries kept in the office of the county clerks in Illinois, and showing the names of the purchasers of government land, is kept only for purposes of taxation, and does not constitute constructive notice of the facts stated therein.—Lewis v. Barnhart, 145 U. S. 56, 12 S. Ct. 772, 36 L. Ed. 621, affirming judgment (C. C.) Same v. Barnhardt, 43 F. 854.

The record of an adjudication by the Hot Springs land commission between two applicants for a patent is not sufficient to charge a purchaser for full value from the successful applicant, nearly seven years thereafter, with notice of any equities that might exist in favor of the unsuccessful applicant, there being no other record of the latter's claim, and no effort having been made in the meantime to enforce his rights by suit or otherwise.—McDonald v. Belding, 145 U. S. 492, 12 S. Ct. 892, 36 L. Ed. 788.

Where a mortgage has been fraudulently canceled of record, one who in good faith, without notice, buys the mortgaged lands, is entitled to protection under the Louisiana laws relating to reinscription, the period for reinscription having expired after his purchase.—Pickett v. Foster, 149 U. S. 505, 13 S. Ct. 998, 37 L. Ed. 829.

In the District of Columbia, where particular formalities are required to authorize the recording of an instrument, the record of an instrument defectively executed does not operate as constructive notice.—Lynch v. Murphy, 161 U. S. 247, 16 S. Ct. 523, 40 L. Ed. 688.

The protection of bona fide purchasers and mortgagees under the Mortgage Law Porto Rico, arts. 33, 34, 36, 37, against infirmities in their grantor's title not plainly expressed on the registry, extends to matters of fact and not of law, and where the registry gives notice of facts rendering the title invalid, the purchaser relying on the record takes his title subject thereto.—Ochoa v. Hernandez v. Morales, 33 S. Ct. 1033, 230 U. S. 139, 57 L. Ed. 1427.

Persons accepting a deed and mortgage from one whose entry of possession without prejudice to rights of third parties has been converted on the public records into a record of ownership without hearing under a retroactive clause in an order of the military governor of Porto Rico reducing the period of continued possession from 20 to 6 years, are charged with notice of any want of authority in such military commander.—Id.

Registration of deed after adoption of Laws N. C. 1885, c. 147, makes it valid as against persons who do not claim under grantor therein, but under his grantor by deed registered in meantime, where they had constructive notice of deed to grantor in first deed by registration in 1869, and Curative Act 1869-70, c. 32.—United States v. Hiwassee Lumber Co., 35 S. Ct. 851, 238 U. S. 553, 59 L. Ed. 1453, reversing judgment 202 F. 35, 120 C. C. A. 289.

232. — Possession.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 540-545, 548-562.

When the owner of real estate goes into possession with his polygamous wife, her occupancy is not of such a character as to give constructive notice to a purchaser of the legal title of her equities arising from a secret agreement for the transfer to her of an interest in the property.—Townsend v. Little, 109 U. S. 504, 3 S. Ct. 357, 27 L. Ed. 1012.

The owner of a 200-acre tract of land, unfenced, and otherwise unimproved, owned a much larger adjoining tract, and resided on a tract adjoining the latter. He used the 200-acre tract as a range for his cattle, and paid the taxes on it. Held, that such possession, being all the land was capable of, and being notorious for 30 years, was sufficient to put purchasers upon inquiry.—Simmons Creek Coal Co. v. Doran, 142 U. S. 417, 12 S. Ct. 239, 35 L. Ed. 1063.

The purchaser of real estate in the possession of a third person is bound to take notice of that person's title.—Horback v. Porter, 154 U. S. 549, 14 S. Ct. 1160, 18 L. Ed. 30.

A purchaser from heirs of a decedent in whom the title stood made no investigation as to the title, the property being in fact occupied by the real owners. He purchased subject to the widow's dower, to an unpaid mortgage, and to the possibility of the property's being required for the payment of decedent's debts. There was pending a suit by such heirs for partition, in which the widow had filed an answer, stating that her husband never had any interest therein. Held, that the vendee was not a bona fide purchaser without notice.—Kirby v.

Tallmadge, 100 U. S. 379, 16 S. Ct. 349, 40 L. Ed. 463.

Where land is occupied by two persons—as, for instance, by husband and wife—and there is a recorded title in one of them, such joint occupation is not notice of an unrecorded title in the other.—Id.

Where land is used for the purpose of a home, and is jointly occupied by husband and wife, neither of whom has title by record, a purchaser is bound to make inquiry as to the title of the wife, as well as that of the husband.—Id.

The open, notorious, and continued possession of property under apparent claim of ownership is notice to purchasers of whatever interest the person actually in possession has in the fee, whether such interest be legal or equitable, and of all facts which the purchasers might have learned by due inquiry.—Id.

The failure of the owner of premises to invest another with the legal title in accordance with a parol agreement under which possession has already been transferred, and his transfer of the legal title to a third party in violation of his agreement and with intent to defraud the promisee, is such a wrong as will entitle the latter to a decree specifically declaring that the grantee holds the title in trust for him. Decree 15 App. D. C. 164, affirmed.—Whitney v. Hay, 21 S. Ct. 537, 181 U. S. 77, 45 L. Ed. 758.

233. Failure to record deed or other instrument.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 563-566.

A lessee, in possession of a claim in Alaska under an agreement to work the same continuously and pay over to the lessor a percentage of the minerals, is a purchaser for a valuable consideration within Act June 6, 1900, tit. 3, § 98, providing that unrecorded conveyances shall be void against subsequent bona fide purchasers whose conveyance shall be first recorded.—(1912) Waskey v. Chambers, 32 S. Ct. 597, 224 U. S. 564, 56 L. Ed. 885, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 998, reversing judgment (1909) Eadie v. Same, 172 F. 73, 96 C. C. A. 561, 24 L. R. A. (N. S.) 879, 18 Ann. Cas. 1096.

234. Consideration.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 567-579.

235. — In general.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 567-569, 571-576.

When a vendor of land, having a purchase-money mortgage for practically the value of the property, obtains a decree setting aside his deed to the purchaser, he stands in the position of a bona fide purchaser for value, as against one claiming under an equitable mortgage given by the purchaser, of which the vendor has no notice.—Lynch v. Murphy, 161 U. S. 247, 16 S. Ct. 523, 40 L. Ed. 688.

240. Pleading purchase in good faith.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 601, 602.

Where there has been an adjudication by the Hot Springs land commission between two applicants for a patent, and a subsequent purchase from the successful applicant, a denial by such purchaser in his pleadings that he had notice of the unsuccessful applicant's claim until after he had made the purchase and paid for the property is sufficient, where it otherwise appears in his answer that the delivery of the deed and the payment of the purchase money occurred at the same time.—McDonald v. Belding, 145 U. S. 492, 12 S. Ct. 892, 36 L. Ed. 788.

241. Evidence as to purchase in good faith.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 603-611.

◀244. — Weight and sufficiency.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 609-611.

In a suit by the United States to forfeit certain lands granted in aid of a military road, defendant association pleaded that it was a bona fide purchaser, and in support of this plea each of the individual purchasers composing the association testified that he had no knowledge of any defects in the title when the land was purchased; that nothing of the sort was disclosed by their agent whom they sent to investigate the matter; and that they had procured an opinion as to the title from reputable attorneys, who pronounced it valid. The certificates of the governor, in whom was reposed discretion to determine when the road was completed in accordance with the terms of the grant, were shown to be regular, and in proper form. Held, that this was sufficient to sustain the defense of bona fide purchase, even though the allegations of the bill that the road company, under which defendant claimed, had procured the requisite certificates by fraud, were not denied.—United States v. California & O. Land Co., 148 U. S. 31, 13 S. Ct. 458, 37 L. Ed. 354, affirming decree 49 Fed. 496, 1 C. C. A. 330.

◀254. Equitable lien.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 627, 634, 641-649, 651.

The doctrine of a vendor's lien arising by implication exists in the state of Iowa.—Fisher v. Shropshire, 147 U. S. 133, 13 S. Ct. 201, 37 L. Ed. 109.

◀258. Amount and extent of lien.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 655-657.

Where a married woman, with the consent of her husband, buys land and gives her notes for the purchase money, and a lien is reserved in the deed for the payment of the notes, with interest above the ordinary legal rate which might be stipulated for by the parties, such interest may be recovered under the vendor's lien against the land, though the notes may be void as against the woman personally.—Bedford v. Burton, 106 U. S. 338, 1 S. Ct. 98, 27 L. Ed. 112.

◀266. Waiver, loss, or discharge of lien.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 687, 713-750.

Waiver of a vendor's lien cannot be inferred from the mere fact that the parties may not have contemplated the assertion of the lien in the first instance, nor from the lapse of more than two years between the surrender of possession by the vendor and the filing of his petition to establish and enforce the lien, unaccompanied by any acts on his part manifesting an intention not to rely on the land for security, or inconsistent with the continued existence of the lien.—Fisher v. Shropshire, 147 U. S. 133, 13 S. Ct. 201, 37 L. Ed. 109.

H., holding an option to purchase certain mines, on which he had made partial payments, procured the organization of a company to purchase them, with power to increase its capital. Thereafter, he and the vendors agreed that he should pay forthwith an additional portion of the purchase money, whereupon they would register the titles of the mines in the name of the company, "free from all charges and incumbrances;" that they should retain control of the property until all the payments should be completed; and H. agreed that stock of the company should be transferred to a trustee, as security for the remaining payments. Pursuant to this agreement, the vendors delivered a deed containing a covenant against incumbrances. Held, that the lien for the unpaid purchase money was not waived, not being included in the agreement to convey free of charges and incumbrances, and there being nothing to show that the vendors relied alone for their security on the deposit of stock.—Slide & Spur Gold Mines v. Seymour, 153 U. S. 509, 14 S. Ct. 842, 38 L. Ed. 802, affirming decree (C. C.) Seymour v. Slide & Spur Gold Mines, 42 F. 633.

The money required by the contract to be paid forthwith was advanced by a syndicate, the vendors consenting that a part of the stock deposited should be held for its benefit. Their agreement to that effect recited that the company was to issue the shares to H. in full payment for the mines, against a transfer free of all incumbrances, and that the shares were to be transferred to the trustee for behoof of all concerned, and referred to the contract between the vendors and H. for the terms of their agreement. Held, that this did not amount to either an agreement or a statement by the vendors that their lien was waived.—Id.

◀267. Payment, release, or satisfaction of lien.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 751-753.

H. & M., who owned land subject to a vendor's lien, laid out the land in three blocks, subdivided into lots. They then partitioned the land between them. M. took block 2 and part of block 3, and assumed the vendor's lien, while H. took block 1 and the residue of block 3, free from the vendor's lien. Afterwards M. sold his portion of the land to J., who assumed the vendor's lien and agreed to relieve from the lien the portion held by H. J. then gave a mortgage on block 2 to secure a loan to him by R., and promised to procure a release of the vendor's lien on block 2, but he took a release of block 3 instead. H. afterwards sold some of the lots in block 2, and the agents of R., who negotiated the loan to H., with the proceeds of such sale and other money advanced by them, paid off the amount of the vendor's lien, took up uncanceled the notes evidencing the same, and procured a release of block 2 from the vendor's lien, but R. was not informed of the transaction until a year later. Held, that the vendor's lien notes were paid, and the lien could not be enforced as security for the loan by R. to H.—Richardson v. Traver, 112 U. S. 423, 5 S. Ct. 201, 28 L. Ed. 804.

◀268. Enforcement of lien.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 759-831.

◀269. — Nature and form of remedy.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 759-763.

The general provision for the institution of suits against absent and nonresident defendants, in Tex. Code, art. 1230, which does not specially mention any class of actions, is applicable to all cases where, under recognized principles of law, suits may be instituted against nonresident defendants, and therefore includes a suit to enforce an equitable lien on land for purchase money. Judgment 35 S. W. 1074, 13 Tex. Civ. App. 636, reversed.—Roller v. Holly, 20 S. Ct. 410, 176 U. S. 398, Adv. S. U. S. 410, 44 L. Ed. 520.

278. — Time to sue, limitations, and laches.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 776, 777.

Although a debt for unpaid purchase money is barred by limitation under the local law, the lien therefor on the land is not barred if there is no such open, adverse possession, for the period within which actions for the recovery of real estate must be brought, as will cut off the right to enforce the equitable lien for purchase money.—Hardin v. Boyd, 113 U. S. 756, 5 S. Ct. 771, 28 L. Ed. 1141.

293. — Review.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. § 829.

On appeal from a decree enforcing a vendor's lien on a contract for the sale of land, a deduction, from the amount of land to be paid for, of a part of the land recovered by a third party, will not be disturbed on indefinite testimony, where it appears that the vendor was as much bound as the purchasers to defend the action of such third party.—Baines v. Clarke, 111 U. S. 789, 4 S. Ct. 671, 28 L. Ed. 599.

(B) ACTIONS FOR PURCHASE MONEY.

302. Right of action.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 845-850.

In an action at law, the declaration alleged that the plaintiff sold land to a third person, who gave his notes for the purchase money, secured by mortgage of the land; that afterwards the defendant, in a suit by him against that person, claimed the ownership of the land, and alleged that the other person, acting merely as his agent, illegally made the purchase in his own name, and that he was liable and ready to pay for the land; that he was thereupon adjudged to be the owner of the land, and took possession thereof; and that by reason of the premises the defendant was liable to the plaintiff in the full amount of the notes. Held, that the declaration showed no cause of action under Civ. Code La. art. 1890, and Code Prac. La. art. 35, relating to actions on contracts by persons who are not parties thereto, but for whose benefit they were made.—Cragin v. Lovell, 109 U. S. 194, 3 S. Ct. 182, 27 L. Ed. 903.

303. Conditions precedent.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 851-851.

Under a contract clearly expressing the intention that payment of the price of land shall precede the conveyance, an action for the price may be brought without a conveyance or tender thereof.—Loud v. Pomona Land & Water Co., 153 U. S. 564, 14 S. Ct. 928, 38 L. Ed. 822.

(C) ACTIONS FOR DAMAGES.

(B) ACTIONS FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT.

351. Damages.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Ven. & Pur. §§ 1017, 1047-1052.

The difference between the purchase price and the market value at the time of executing a contract for the sale of land is the measure of damages in an action by the vendee for the vendor's refusal to perform. Judgment (1907) 29 App. D. C. 490, affirmed.—Harten v. Löffler, 29 S. Ct. 351, 212 U. S. 397, 53 L. Ed. 568.

Evidence of the value of the benefit of a liquor license and of the business and good will embraced in a contract for the sale of real property is admissible on the question of damages in an action by the vendee against the vendor, for refusal to perform.—Id.

Accordingly, where bridges on the line of a railroad were destroyed during the Civil War by either of the contending forces, their subsequent rebuilding by the United States as a measure of military necessity, without the request of, or any contract with, the owner of the railroad, imposes no liability upon such owner.—Id.

Acts of legitimate warfare committed during a revolution in a foreign state cannot be made the basis of individual liability. Decree 65 F. 577, 13 C. C. A. 51, 38 L. R. A. 406, affirmed.—Underhill v. Hernandez, 18 S. Ct. 83, 168 U. S. 250, 42 L. Ed. 456.

A military commander carrying on operations under the authority of a revolutionary government in Venezuela, which was afterwards recognized by the United States as the legitimate government of that country, is not liable in a court of the United States for wrongs inflicted upon a citizen of the United States.—Id.

◀11. Enemies, and rights of war as to persons.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 37-41.

The individual acts of friendship of a subject of one nation at war toward the other nation will not affect his status as an enemy.—The Benito Estenger, 20 S. Ct. 489, 176 U. S. 568, 44 L. Ed. 592.

◀13. Liability of enemies' property to capture.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 44-56.

A vessel which left Europe with a cargo consigned to New Orleans owners, after the blockade of the Southern ports had become known, and the United States consul had refused to give papers for such ports, was forfeitable with her cargo as "enemy's property," except what interest was owned at the North which was liable to confiscation for trading with the enemy.—United States v. Hallock, 154 U. S. 537, 14 S. Ct. 1158, 17 L. Ed. 568.

A vessel owned by a Spanish corporation, having a Spanish registry, sailing under the Spanish flag and a Spanish license, and officered and manned by Spaniards, must be deemed a Spanish vessel for the purpose of capture as a prize, although British subjects were the legal owners of some, and the equitable owners of the rest, of the stock in the corporation, and intended to restore the vessel to British registry, if war rendered the change desirable.—The Pedro, 20 S. Ct. 138, 175 U. S. 354, 44 L. Ed. 195, affirming in part decree (D. C.) The Buena Ventura, 87 F. 927.

A Spanish vessel sailing from Havana for Santiago on April 22, 1898, with no cargo except what was destined for the enemy's ports, was subject to capture, although her voyage began at Antwerp, Belgium, and she was under charter to proceed from Cuba to a port of the United States to get a cargo for a return voyage to Europe.—Id.

Merchant vessels of the enemy, carrying on innocent commercial enterprises at the time, or just prior to the time, when hostilities break out, are entitled to a liberal interpretation of a proclamation which lays down rules for the treatment of merchant vessels of the enemy. Decree 87 F. 927, reversed.—The Buena Ventura v. United States, 20 S. Ct. 143, 175 U. S. 384, 44 L. Ed. 206.

Merchant vessels which had loaded in a port of the United States, and sailed therefrom before the commencement of the war with Spain, and were still on their original voyage, not having reached any foreign port, were within the exemption from capture given by the president's proclamation, allowing such vessels in ports of the United States until May 21, 1898, for loading their cargoes and departing from ports or places within the United States.—Id.

A vessel owned by a Spanish corporation, officered and manned by Spanish subjects, sailing under Spanish registry and the Spanish flag, having a royal patent from the Crown of Spain, and proceeding to a Cuban port, was subject to capture on April 27, 1898, notwithstanding her intention, according to custom, to proceed from Cuba to the United States for a cargo to be taken to Europe.—The Guido, 20 S. Ct. 152, 175 U. S. 382, 44 L. Ed. 206, affirming in part decree The Buena Ventura, 87 F. 927.

A vessel of 35 tons burden, with a crew of six men, engaged in coast fishing, and on which the fish caught by the crew from the sea, amounting to about 10,000 pounds, are kept alive on board, two thirds of which belong to the crew and the other third go to the owner of the vessel as compensation for her use, is to be regarded as engaged in coast fishery, and not in a commercial adventure, within the rule of international law exempting coast fishing vessels from capture as prize.—The Paquete Habana, 20 S. Ct. 290, 175 U. S. 677, 44 L. Ed. 320.

Coast fishing vessels, with their implements, supplies, cargoes, and crews, when unarmed and honestly pursuing their peaceful calling of catching and bringing in fresh fish, and not employed for a warlike purpose or in such a way as to give aid or information to the enemy, are exempt from capture as prize of war by the general consent of the civilized nations of the world, and independently of any express treaty or other public act.—Id.

A chartered vessel is to a certain extent, pro hac vice, a vessel of the nation to which the charterer belongs. Decree 89 F. 351, affirmed.—The Adula, 20 S. Ct. 432, 176 U. S. 361, 44 L. Ed. 505.

A mail steamship carrying mail of the United States is not for that reason exempt from capture as an enemy vessel. Decree, The Buena Ventura, 87 F. 927, affirmed.—The Panama, 20 S. Ct. 480, 176 U. S. 535, 44 L. Ed. 577.

The exemption from capture by the president's proclamation of April 26, 1898, of "Spanish merchant vessels" while completing their voyage then begun, if they do not have on board any prohibited article or contraband of war, does not extend to a Spanish vessel owned by a subject of the enemy, when it has an armament fit for hostile use, and is intended in the event of war to be used as a war vessel, and which is destined to a port of the enemy, although the armament is one that the vessel, as a mail steamship, is required by contract with the Spanish government to carry.—Id.

The sending to a stronghold of the enemy, of an enemy vessel carrying provisions, constitutes, under the laws of war, illicit intercourse with the enemy, subjecting the property to capture as a prize.—The Benito Estenger, 20 S. Ct. 489, 176 U. S. 568, 44 L. Ed. 592.

A colorable transfer of a ship from a belligerent to a neutral is in itself ground for condemnation as prize.—Id.

A cargo shipped by neutral commission merchants on an enemy vessel, to an enemy port, though on a voyage commenced before war was declared, where the invoices state that the goods were shipped "to order for account and risk and by order of the parties noted below," who are, in addition to the consignor, the owners of the vessel and other subjects of the enemy, while the bills of lading state that the goods are taken "for account of whom it may concern," and there is no charter party, will be deemed to be the property of the consignees during the voyage, so as to be subject to capture, especially when no claim to any part of the cargo is made by the consignor.—The Carlos F. Roses, 20 S. Ct. 803, 177 U. S. 655, 44 L. Ed. 929.

An American corporation doing business in Cuba was during the war with Spain an enemy to the United States with respect of its property found and then used in Cuba, and such property could be regarded as enemy's property, liable to be seized and confiscated by the United States in the progress of the war. Judgment (1907) 42 Ct. Cl. 99, affirmed.—Juragua Iron Co. v. United States, 29 S. Ct. 385, 212 U. S. 297, 53 L. Ed. 520.

Neither the capitulation of Santiago and the cessation of active military operations in the Santiago district, nor the President's proclamation of July 13, 1898, with reference to the rights of private property, changed the character of a Spanish merchant vessel lying in the harbor as enemy's property, nor exempted it from liability to capture by the military authorities for military purposes.—Herrera v. United States, 32 S. Ct. 179, 222 U. S. 553, 56 L. Ed. 316; Diaz v. Same, 32 S. Ct. 184, 222 U. S. 574, 56 L. Ed. 321.

14. Contributions and requisitions.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 57-63.

There is no implied contract on the part of the United States to make compensation to an American corporation on account of the destruction of its property in Cuba in the course of military operations during the war with Spain for the sole purpose of protecting the health and lives of the soldiers then actually engaged in the war. Judgment (1907) 42 Ct. Cl. 99, affirmed.—Juragua Iron Co. v. United States, 29 S. Ct. 385, 212 U. S. 297, 53 L. Ed. 520.

15. Commercial intercourse with enemy, or with territory under military control.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 64-79.

Under Act July 13, 1861, c. 3, prohibiting all commercial intercourse between the states in insurrection and the rest of the Union, and Supplementary Act July 2, 1864, c. 225, extending the prohibition to persons residing within the lines of national military occupation in the insurrectionary districts, whether with each other or with persons within the districts in insurrection and not within those lines, and the president's proclamations in pursuance thereof, a purchase, by a citizen of Memphis from a citizen of Mobile, at a time when both places were in the military occupation of the United States, of cotton situated within the Confederate lines, was in violation of law, and conferred no right which can be enforced against the title acquired by the United States by seizure under chapter 120 of the captured and abandoned property act of March 12, 1863.—Walker's Ex'rs v. United States, 106 U. S. 413, 1 S. Ct. 300, 27 L. Ed. 166.

Such a purchase was not authorized by an order of the president reciting that the purchaser then owned products of the insurrectionary states, and then had arrangements for other products of those states, and directing that they should be free from seizure, detention, or forfeiture to the United States, where it appeared that the purchaser, at the date of the order, did not in fact own any part of the cotton in question, and had no arrangement therefor.—Id.

A sale of cotton situated in the Confederate States, in 1862, between two persons within the Union lines, and unattended by any communications with the enemy's country, or any agreement for the transfer of money or property across the lines, was not in contravention of any rule of international law, or of any proclamation issued by the president of the United States.—Briggs v. United States, 143 U. S. 346, 12 S. Ct. 391, 36 L. Ed. 180, reversing judgment 25 Ct. Cl. 126.

Act July 17, 1862 (12 Stat. 589), which rendered void, as against the government, all transfers of property by persons in rebellion, did not affect the validity of conveyances as between private persons.—Williams v. Paine, 18 S. Ct. 279, 169 U. S. 55, 42 L. Ed. 653.

18. Contraband.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 91-95.

No duty to reship a lot of sulphur properly unloaded and warehoused at Port Empedocle, Sicily, because it had become contraband of war by reason of the existence of war between Spain and the United States and the Spanish proclamation of April 23, 1898, was imposed upon the master of the vessel before sailing to New York via Sicilian ports, by his knowledge that the Sicilian newspapers reported that a temporary verbal arrangement had been made between the Italian and Spanish governments under which sulphur might go free. Decree The Styria, 101 F. 728, 41 C. C. A. 639, modified.—The Styria v. Morgan, 22 S. Ct. 731, 186 U. S. 1, 46 L. Ed. 1027.

The discharge and warehousing at Port Empedocle, Sicily, by the master of an Austrian vessel bound from Trieste to New York via Sicilian ports, of sulphur shipped at that port, which had become contraband of war by reason of the outbreak of the war between Spain and the United States and by the Spanish proclamation of April 23, 1898, without awaiting the result of the rumored efforts of the Italian government to induce the Spanish government to exempt sulphur from the list of the contraband of war, was a reasonable exercise of the discretion vested in him by the bills of lading, having due regard to the interests of the ship and cargo, both contraband and innocent.—Id.

19. Blockade.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 96-102.

A vessel which left Europe with a cargo consigned to New Orleans owners, after the blockade of the southern ports had become known, and the United States consul had refused to give papers for such ports, was forfeitable with her cargo as "enemy's property," except what interest was owned at the north, which was liable to confiscation for trading with the enemy.—United States v. Hallock, 154 U. S. 537, 14 S. Ct. 1158, 17 L. Ed. 568.

There is no rule of law determining that the presence of any particular force is essential to render a blockade legally effective. The test is whether it is practically effective, and this is a question, though a mixed one, more of fact than of law. It is sufficient if the force is such as to render ingress or egress in fact dangerous; and a single modern cruiser whose guns command a circle of 13 miles in diameter when stationary is sufficient to maintain a legally effective blockade of a port having a single entrance, like that of San Juan, Porto Rico. Decree (D. C.) 91 F. 274, modified.—The Olinde Rodrigues, 19 S. Ct. 851, 174 U. S. 510, 43 L. Ed. 1065.

A steamship belonging to citizens of a friendly power held not guilty of an attempt to break the blockade, though she was seized while passing within a few miles of a blockaded port, which was one of her ports of call on her regular voyages, and though certain bills of health were not delivered up to the captors, with her other papers, and were afterwards destroyed; there being evidence showing a reasonable explanation of these facts.—Id.

When naval vessels of the enemy are lying within a blockaded port, the fact that the commander of the blockading force suggests to his government that additional vessels are needed in order to make the blockade "positively effective" is not sufficient to show that the blockade then existing is not legally effective, so far as concerns the ingress and egress of commercial vessels.—Id.

The mere fact that the master of a vessel knows that there is profitable traffic awaiting him within a blockaded port lying upon the route of his vessel is not of itself sufficient ground for condemnation, though the vessel is taken while passing near to such port. Mere presence of a motive is not sufficient to supply the lack of evidence of a guilty intent.—Id.

Probable cause for a capture exists when there are circumstances to warrant suspicion, though it may turn out that the facts are not sufficient to warrant condemnation.—Id.

The forfeiture of a vessel as a prize for attempting to run a blockade should not be made on evidence which consists of suspicious circumstances merely, although they make probable cause for the capture of the ship and justification of her captors. Decree 89 F. 510, reversed.—The Newfoundland, 20 S. Ct. 274, 176 U. S. 97, 44 L. Ed. 386.

A direction to enter a blockaded harbor, given by the commanding officer of one of the blockading vessels, which has hailed an approaching ship, cannot be construed as a permission to violate the blockade, as such permission would not be within the scope of his authority. Decree (D. C.) 89 F. 351, affirmed.—

The Adula, 20 S. Ct. 432, 176 U. S. 361, 44 L. Ed. 505.

A notice of a blockade to the charterer of a vessel, who is on board with power to name the port which she is to visit, but with no right to interfere with the navigation of the ship, is a notice to the vessel.—Id.

A blockade of an enemy's port may be established, without any proclamation by the president, by the commander of the naval forces, as an adjunct to naval operations against other blockaded ports and the enemy's fleet.—Id.

The opinion of foreign writers on international law cannot be accepted as overruling in any particular prior decisions of the supreme court of the United States to the effect that a departure for a blockaded port, with intent to violate the blockade, renders the vessel liable to seizure.—Id.

The legal effect of a lawful and sufficient blockade is the closing of the port, and an interdiction of the entrance of all vessels, of whatever nationality or business.—Id.

The blockade of a port is not terminated by the fact that the mouth of the bay is in the complete possession and control of the blockading fleet, when the enemy's port is still in the possession of the enemy's forces, as are several other positions in the neighborhood, and the port is 18 miles from the mouth of the bay, and access to it is obtained either by a small river emptying into the upper bay, or by rail from another town on the bay.—Id.

The sailing of a vessel with a premeditated attempt to violate a blockade is ipso facto a violation of the blockade, and renders the vessel subject to capture from the moment she leaves the port of departure.—Id.

21. Capture of enemies' property on land.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 105, 106, 108.

By the law of nations as recognized and administered in this country, when movable property in the hands of the enemy, used or intended to be used for hostile purposes, is captured by land forces, the title passes to the captors as soon as they have reduced the property to firm possession; but when such property is captured by naval forces a judicial decree of condemnation is usually necessary to complete the title of the captors. Judgment 30 Ct. Cl. 378, affirmed.—Oakes v. United States, 19 S. Ct. 864, 174 U. S. 778, 43 L. Ed. 1169.

23. Recapture, and restoration to owner of recaptured property.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 109, 110.

The act of March 3, 1800 (2 Stat. 16), since substantially embodied in Rev. St. § 4652, providing for the restoration to the owners of the property of persons resident in, or under the protection of, the United States, which had been captured by an enemy in war, on its recapture by the forces of the United States, applies only to property which the enemy acquired possession of by capture, and not to such as it may have obtained by other means, though in fraud of the rights of the owner. Where a steamboat was taken within the Confederate lines by its captain, and there sold by him to the Confederate authorities, from whom it was afterwards captured by the forces of the United States, the case was not one of recapture, within the statute, though the sale was made without the knowledge or consent of the principal owner, who was a loyal citizen of the United States. Judgment 30 Ct. Cl. 378, affirmed.—Oakes v. United States, 19 S. Ct. 864, 174 U. S. 778, 43 L. Ed. 1169.

A steamboat, which was in the hands of the Confederate forces in a western river, and had been dismantled by them for the purpose of converting it into a gunboat, when it was captured. In February, 1862, under fire, by detachments of men in small boats from federal gunboats, under command of a naval officer, there being no federal land forces in the vicinity, must be regarded as a naval capture, and not one by the army, although the naval forces on such rivers were at the time under the general control of the war department.—Id.

24. Captures at sea.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, § 111-123.

27. — Duties and liabilities of captors.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, § 115-119.

The right of capture acts on the proprietary interest of the thing captured at the time of capture, and is not affected by the secret liens or private engagements of the parties.—The Carlos F. Roses, 20 S. Ct. 803, 177 U. S. 655, 44 L. Ed. 929.

Naval captors of vessels as prize of war, the proceeds of which the prize courts have decreed should be restored to the claimants, with damages and costs, cannot be held liable therefor, where the libels were filed by the United States in its own behalf, praying a forfeiture to it, and alleging a capture pursuant to instructions from the President.—United States v. The Paquete Habana, 23 S. Ct. 593, 189 U. S. 453, 47 L. Ed. 900.

28. Prize.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, § 124-185; 1 Cent. Dig. Adm. § 250-259; 13 Cent. Dig. Courts, § 20.

Under Act July 2, 1864, c. 225, § 7, providing that no property taken upon any of the "inland" waters of the United States shall be regarded as maritime prize, applies to all the waters of the United States upon which a naval force could go, other than bays and harbors on the sea coast, and includes such water as the James river, lying within the body of counties in Virginia.—United States v. Steam Vessels of War, Seaboard, Texas, Beaufort, 106 U. S. 607, 1 S. Ct. 539, 27 L. Ed. 286.

The bounty, in lieu of prize money, allowed by Act June 30, 1864, c. 174, applies only to successes achieved by the navy alone, without the assistance of the army, and solely by maritime force.—Id.

The jurisdiction of a prize court is strictly in rem, and usually confined to the adjudication of the question of prize or no prize; and the relative rights of rival claimants will not be settled further than may be necessary to the determination of the main question. A decree, therefore, ordering restitution to the claimant, will not estop a third person from showing, as against attaching creditors of the claimant, that he himself is the rightful owner, and that claimant held the vessel in trust for him.—Cushing v. Laird, 107 U. S. 69, 2 S. Ct. 196, 27 L. Ed. 391.

The United States, having captured a vessel for alleged violation of neutrality laws, delayed bringing her in for condemnation for 175 days, and continued to use her in military and naval service under a charter party which stipulated that it should be void if the vessel was confiscated, and by which the United States agreed to pay $200 a day for the use of her. Held, upon a decree of restitution, that, the United States having submitted to the jurisdiction, a judgment for damages for demurrage could properly be rendered against it, and that claimant was fairly entitled to $200 per diem from the seizure until the vessel was actually surrendered for adjudication, and also to her value in money, with interest to the decree of restitution.—United States v. The Nuestra Senora De Regla, 108 U. S. 92, 2 S. Ct. 287, 27 L. Ed. 662.

Where the United States brings into a prize court a vessel that was captured by the co-operation of the army and navy, and as to which there can be no distribution of prize money, it is a submission to the jurisdiction of the court, and a decree for damages may be rendered against it.—Id.

Prize Act June 30, 1864, § 10, rule 1, provides that the commanding officer of a fleet or squadron receives in all cases one-twentieth of all prize money awarded to vessels under his immediate command. Rule 2 provides that the commanding officer of a division is to be paid one-fiftieth part of any prize money awarded to any vessel of his division, unless he elect to receive the share due to him as commander of a single ship assisting in a capture. Rule 4 provides that the commander of a single ship shall have one-tenth part of all the prize money awarded to the ship under his command, if at the time of the capture it was under the command of the commanding officer of a fleet, squadron, or division. Rule 5 provides that, after the "foregoing deductions," the residue shall be distributed among all others doing duty on board "in proportion to their respective rates of pay in the service." Held, that the commander of a single ship attached to a naval squadron could not, instead of one-tenth of the prize money awarded to his ship, elect to take a share proportionate to his rate of pay.—United States v. Steever, 113 U. S. 747, 5 S. Ct. 765, 28 L. Ed. 1133.

A torpedo steam launch, under the control of the naval department, though not proved to have had any books, is a "single ship," within the meaning of rule 4.—Id.

The distribution of prize money among the subordinate officers and crew of a ship "in proportion to their respective rates of pay in the service," under Prize Act June 30, 1864, c. 174, § 10, rule 5, is to be made according to their pay at the time of the capture, and not according to the pay of grades to which they have since been promoted as of that time.—Id.

Under Act Aug. 8, 1882, c. 480, referring the claims of the captors of the ram Albemarle to the court of claims, each captor is entitled to recover such a sum as, together with the sum formerly paid him by the secretary of the navy under the prize decrees in the Case of The Albemarle, will equal his lawful share of the prize money in that case.—Id.

Under Rev. St. § 4639, if it appears that probable cause for capture existed, all costs and expenses may be charged against the vessel, though restitution of the vessel herself is awarded. Decree (D. C.) 91 F. 274, modified.—The Olinde Rodrigues, 19 S. Ct. 851, 174 U. S. 510, 43 L. Ed. 1065.

When, after the captors have put in their proof, the claimant, without adducing anything further, moves for the discharge and restitution of the vessel, he cannot at the same time reserve the right to adduce further proofs in the event that his motion shall be denied.—Id.

A Spanish vessel seized as a prize on April 22, 1898, when there was probable cause for the seizure, but which was exempted from seizure and condemnation by the subsequent proclamation of April 26th, is not entitled to damages or costs on restitution. Decree 87 F. 927, reversed.—The Buena Ventura v. United States, 20 S. Ct. 148, 175 U. S. 384, 44 L. Ed. 206.

An order for further proof, in case of the libel of a vessel as a prize for trying to violate a blockade, is not an abuse of discretion, where the circumstances created a suspicion of an intention to enter the blockaded port. Decree 89 F. 510, reversed.—The Newfoundland, 20 S. Ct. 274, 176 U. S. 97, 44 L. Ed. 386.

It is only where the testimony in preparatorio makes a case of grave doubt that the court orders the taking of further proofs. Decree 89 F. 351, affirmed.—The Adula, 20 S. Ct. 432, 176 U. S. 361, 44 L. Ed. 505.

A motion to take further proofs in a prize case is properly denied where the proof proposed to be brought forward, when compared with that already in the case, leaves the court to the conclusion that the legal effect of the facts before it cannot be varied by the explanation offered.—Id.

The burden of proving neutral ownership of a vessel in a prize case is on the claimants.—The Benito Estenger, 20 S. Ct. 489, 176 U. S. 568, 44 L. Ed. 592.

The presumption is that a cargo on an enemy vessel is enemy property.—The Carlos F. Roses, 20 S. Ct. 803, 177 U. S. 655, 44 L. Ed. 929.

Evidence of enemy interest in a captured cargo, arising on the face of the documents, is not overcome in favor of neutral claimants in another country by proof that, before war was declared and during the voyage, they accepted drafts on security of the bills of lading and without any other indemnity than the proceeds of the cargo and the insurance thereon, by which the insurers were subrogated to their rights, where it appears that the claimants sent a part of the bills of lading to bankers at the port where the cargo was, and that these were received several months afterwards, without showing from whom they were then received, and that the claimants retained other bills of lading "pending the disposal of the cargo," but the evidence fails to show whether the insurance contemplated a war risk or why a portion of the bills of lading were retained by the claimants, and fails to set forth the relations, transactions, or correspondence existing and passing between the claimants and the enemy owners of the cargo.—Id.

Naval vessels not within signal distance of a capture are not vessels "making the capture," within the meaning of Rev. St. U. S. § 4630 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3132], and therefore cannot be taken into account in estimating the relative force of captor and prize, for the purpose of determining the proportion of the prize money to which the captor is entitled under that section, although their proximity may have induced the surrender of the prize to an inferior force.—United States v. Officers, etc., of U. S. S. Mangrove, 23 S. Ct. 343, 188 U. S. 720, 47 L. Ed. 664.

A vessel of the United States navy was not "within signal distance" of another vessel making a capture, so as to be entitled to share in the distribution of the prize money under Rev. St. U. S. § 4632 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3133], where the two vessels were from 12 to 15 miles apart, and the vessel making the capture was equipped with boat flags 3 feet by 4 in size, instead of the usual signal flags 8 feet by 11.—Id.

The entire equipment of a vessel of war, including everything necessary to be used for the purposes of the vessel, is included in the words, "ship or vessel of war belonging to an enemy," as used in the provisions for bounty made by Rev. St. U. S. § 4635 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3134], and is, therefore, not the subject of condemnation as prize of war.—United States v. Taylor, 23 S. Ct. 412, 188 U. S. 283, 47 L. Ed. 477.

An enemy's war vessel, raised and floated after a naval engagement, in an attempt by the United States, with the advice and concurrence of the captors, to save her, but which by reason of the injuries received in action was lost in an endeavor to reach the nearest practicable point at which she could be reconstructed, was not appropriated to the use of the United States, so as to be lawful prize of war for the benefit of the captors, under Rev. St. U. S. § 4625 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3130], but such captors are entitled to bounty, under section 4635 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3134], for her destruction in the engagement.—Id.

Vessels used by the navy of the United States as colliers, manned principally by unenlisted men, and armed only for purposes of defense, are not, though within signal distance of a capture, entitled to participate in the prize money awarded, under Rev. St. U. S. § 4632 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3133], to "all vessels of the navy within signal distance of the vessel or vessels making the capture, under such circumstances and in such condition as to be able to render effective aid if required."—United States v. Dewey, 23 S. Ct. 415, 188 U. S. 254, 47 L. Ed. 463.

Barges propelled by sweeps and by poling, and nonseagoing floating derricks or wrecking boats without means of propulsion, the property of private citizens, are not the subject of capture as prize of war.—Id.

The government of the United States was absolved from all liability, under its prize statutes, to the captors of property of an enemy susceptible of condemnation as prize of war, by the restoration of such property to the enemy before condemnation.—Id.

Naval stores captured at a naval station by a naval force of the United States, as the result of a naval engagement, are no less subject to condemnation as prize of war because taken on land, since if the rights of captors were confined to the proceeds of ship and cargoes by Act July 17, 1862 (12 Stat. 600, c. 204) § 2, providing for distribution among the captors of the proceeds "of all ships and vessels, and the goods taken on board them, which shall be adjudged good prize," such restriction was so far removed by Act June 30, 1864 (13 Stat. 306, c. 174), which, in addition to the repeal of such section, provided that captors should be entitled to "the net proceeds of all property condemned as prize," as to permit such statute to extend to other property fairly coming within the accepted rules of prize.—Id.

Appliances and outfit taken from an enemy's vessels of war sunk or otherwise destroyed in battle by naval vessels of the United States are not the subject of prize, but are included within the words "ship or vessel of war," as used in Rev. St. U. S. § 4635 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3134], awarding a bounty for the destruction of an enemy's vessels.—Id.

An enemy's war vessels, run ashore in battle, and sunk by their own commanders, though left in such condition as not to be floated by any of the means ordinarily possessed by a naval force, cannot be said to have been "sunk or otherwise destroyed," within the meaning of the bounty provisions of Rev. St. U. S. § 4635 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3134], where they are afterwards raised, reconstructed, and commissioned in the United States Navy, but are vessels captured and appropriated to the use of the United States, within the meaning of sections 4624, 4625 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3130], and are therefore lawful prize of war for the benefit of the captors.—Id.

A prize court may enter a decree against the United States for the damages sustained by the claimants of vessels captured by its navy as prize of war, the proceeds of which have, in the prize proceedings, been ordered restored to such claimants, with damages and costs, where the libels were filed by the United States in its own behalf, praying a forfeiture to it, and alleging a capture pursuant to instructions from the President.—United States v. The Paquete Habana, 23 S. Ct. 593, 189 U. S. 453, 47 L. Ed. 900.

An exception to the findings of a commissioner as to the damages to be awarded the claimants of vessels unlawfully captured as prize of war, on the ground that they were not warranted by the evidence, is sufficient to open the question as to whether or not such damages were excessive, where all the evidence is attached to the commissioner's report.—Id.

29. Legislative confiscation of property of enemies, or of persons aiding, adhering to, or absent with enemy.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 186-205; 39 Cent. Dig. Paymt. § 137.

In condemnation proceedings of real estate under Confiscation Act July 17, 1862 (12 Stat. 589, c. 195), a mortgagee intervened for the protection of his rights. On decree in his favor, the property was sold, and the proceeds applied in part satisfaction of his debt. The United States realized nothing. Held, in ejectment against the purchaser by the heirs of the original owner, that the intervention did not amount to a foreclosure, and that the purchaser took only what the condemnation sale purported to convey,—an estate for the life of the owner for whose act it was forfeited.—Waples v. Hays, 108 U. S. 6, 1 S. Ct. 80, 27 L. Ed. 632.

Act Aug. 6, 1861, c. 60, providing for the confiscation of property used for insurrectionary purposes, was aimed exclusively at the property itself, to weaken insurrection, and not to punish the owner. Consequently the purchaser of property condemned thereunder took title in fee, and not a mere life estate for the life of the owner.—Kirk v. Lynd, 106 U. S. 315, 1 S. Ct. 296, 27 L. Ed. 193.

A purchaser of land confiscated under the act of July 17, 1862, acquired nothing from the United States, except the interest of the person alleged by the libel of information to be the owner.—Waples v. United States, 110 U. S. 630, 4 S. Ct. 225, 28 L. Ed. 272.

It is no defense to a suit brought against an executor to compel the payment of a legacy that the amount of the legacy was confiscated by the Confederate government because due to a loyal citizen, and the executor compelled to pay it to a Confederate agent, under judgment of the state court, acting in pursuance of a law of the Confederate congress.—Stevens v. Griffith, 111 U. S. 43, 4 S. Ct. 283, 28 L. Ed. 348.

Money in a bank in New York, held to the credit of an institution in South Carolina, is not of such specific quality that it is liable to seizure by a United States marshal in confiscation proceedings, under Act Cong. Aug. 6, 1861 (12 Stat. 319), providing for the confiscation of "property used for insurrectionary purposes."—Phoenix Bank of City of New York v. Risley, 111 U. S. 125, 4 S. Ct. 322, 28 L. Ed. 374.

There was, between a person, whose life estate was condemned under the act of congress of July 17, 1862, and his heirs, such a privity that the heirs are bound by a suit and decree to enforce a mortgage, executed by their ancestor, containing the pact de non alienando, to which the ancestor alone had been made a party defendant.—Avegno v. Schmidt, 113 U. S. 293, 5 S. Ct. 487, 28 L. Ed. 976, affirming 35 La. Ann. 585.

In a suit for the condemnation of property under Act July 17, 1862, there was no jurisdiction in the district court of the United States to pass upon the validity of a mortgage on such property.—Id.

The rights of a mortgagee of property were not affected by a subsequent judgment of confiscation of the property had under Act July 17, 1862.—Id.

Mexican public documents, consisting of memoranda, orders, and a deed from the commissioners of that government, respecting the appraisal and sale of property declared, in said instruments to be in the hands of public officers charged with its custody, as having been confiscated by the commanding general from one described as a rebel, are insufficient evidence that the confiscation was made in due form of law.—Sabariego v. Maverick, 124 U. S. 261, 8 S. Ct. 461, 31 L. Ed. 430.

Property confiscated under Act July 17, 1862, descends, on the death of the former owner, to his heirs by natural inheritance, and is not taken by them as purchasers; and hence they are bound by a suit and decree to enforce a mortgage, executed by their ancestor, containing the pact de non alienando, to which the ancestor alone had been made a party defendant.—Shields v. Shift, 124 U. S. 351, 8 S. Ct. 510, 31 L. Ed. 445, affirming judgment 36 La. Ann. 644.

The confiscation and sale of property subject to a prior mortgage does not destroy the mortgage lien, nor prevent the conveyance of the entire estate by a sale on foreclosure.—Id.

Where the property of a person has been confiscated and sold on the ground of treason and rebellion, the removal of his disabilities by pardon or amnesty reverts in him the power of disposition over the reversion of such property, expectant upon the termination of the confiscated estate; it having been in suspension during his disability.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bosworth, 133 U. S. 92, 10 S. Ct. 231, 33 L. Ed. 550.

Under the confiscation act of 1862 (12 Stat. 589, 627), the estate forfeited is the life estate. The fee remains in the offender, but without power of alienating it during life, unless his disability is removed.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bosworth, 133 U. S. 92, 10 S. Ct. 231, 33 L. Ed. 550; Jenkins v. Collard, 145 U. S. 546, 12 S. Ct. 868, 36 L. Ed. 812; United States v. Dunnington, 146 U. S. 338, 13 S. Ct. 79, 36 L. Ed. 806, modifying Wallach v. Van Riswick, 92 U. S. 202, 23 L. Ed. 473.

The general amnesty proclamation of December 25, 1868, proclaiming pardon to all such offenders, released them from punishment and obliterated their offenses, so that conveyance of a remainder estate, executed August 26, 1865, must be thereupon regarded as an ordinary conveyance of a remainder dependent upon a life estate, as if no confiscation had taken place.—Jenkins v. Collard, 145 U. S. 546, 12 S. Ct. 868, 36 L. Ed. 812, distinguishing Wallach v. Van Riswick, 92 U. S. 202, 23 L. Ed. 473.

Under Act July 17, 1862 (12 Stat. 589, 627), authorizing confiscation of the estates of persons engaged in the Rebellion, the "forfeiture of real estate not to extend beyond the natural life of the offender," the condemnation and sale of a "life estate" leaves the reversion or remainder in such offender, but without the power of alienation; it being in a state of suspended animation.—Jenkins v. Collard, 145 U. S. 546, 12 S. Ct. 868, 36 L. Ed. 812.

Certain land in Washington, sold under the confiscation act of 1862, was thereafter condemned under Act May 8, 1872 (17 Stat. 83) for an enlargement of the capitol grounds, an appraisal was had, and the value was deposited in court. These proceedings took place during the life of the fee-simple owner, who had lost the estate by confiscation. Held, that the condemnation operated upon the whole fee, and vested a perfect title in the United States; that the disability of the former owner was removed by the amnesty and pardon proclamation of December 25, 1868; and that consequently the appraisal was valid, and binding upon him and his heirs, as well as upon the tenant during his life, under the 'confiscation sale.—United States v. Dunnington, 146 U. S. 338, 13 S. Ct. 79, 36 L. Ed. 996, modifying judgment Wallach v. Van Riswick, 92 U. S. 202, 23 L. Ed. 473.

The entire value of the condemned land was paid out under order of court to the heirs of the last tenant under the confiscation sale, neither the owner in fee nor his heirs appearing. Held, that if there was any error in such payment the United States was not chargeable therewith, since the court was not the agent of the government in such payment, and the government was under no obligation to see that the money was properly distributed.—Id.

Forfeitures incurred under Act July 13, 1861, making commercial intercourse between citizens of states in insurrection and other citizens unlawful, may be enforced after cessation of hostilities.—Duvall v. United States, 154 U. S. 548, 14 S. Ct. 1162, 18 L. Ed. 252.

Under the act of August 6, 1861 (12 Stat. 319), providing for the seizure and condemnation of property used with the consent of the owner in aid of the Rebellion, where the subject of condemnation proceedings was a vessel, and the libel therefor was filed in a court of admiralty, the pleadings and procedure were governed by the rules in admiralty, and not by the strict rules of criminal procedure. Nor was a preliminary order by the president directing such proceedings to be instituted essential to their validity under such statute. Judgment 30 Ct. Cl. 378, affirmed.—Oakes v. United States, 19 S. Ct. 864, 174 U. S. 778, 43 L. Ed. 1169.

◀ 30. Military occupation, control, and conquest of territory.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 206-210.

The exaction of duties on importations into Porto Rico from the United States, before the cession of the island by treaty, was properly made under the war power by General Miles' order of July 26, 1898, which merely extends the existing regulations, and by the tariffs of August 19, 1898, and February 1, 1899, prescribed by the president as commander in chief.—Dooley v. United States, 21 S. Ct. 762, 182 U. S. 222, 45 L. Ed. 1074; Armstrong v. Same, 21 S. Ct. 827, 182 U. S. 243, 45 L. Ed. 1086.

Goods imported into Porto Rico from the United States after the cession of that island to the United States by the treaty of peace with Spain are not subject to duties imposed by order of the military commander and by the President of the United States as commander in chief, though the right to administer the government of the island continued in the military commander, since his power to levy duties extended only to importations from foreign countries, and by the treaty of cession the island ceased to be foreign country, and the entry of goods from the ports of the United States was free until Congress should constitutionally legislate upon the subject.—Id.

The regulation of the revenue of conquered territory, even after the treaty of cession, remains with the executive and military authority, in the absence of congressional legislation.—Downes v. Bidwell, 21 S. Ct. 770, 182 U. S. 244, 45 L. Ed. 1088.

The existence of an armed insurrection of the natives in the Philippine Islands after the ratification of the treaty of peace with Spain did not justify the exaction of duties on imports from the United States into Manila after that date, under an order of the President, issued during the Spanish-American war, that "on the occupation of any forts and places in the Philippine Islands by the forces of the United States" the duties shall be levied and collected "as a military contribution."—Lincoln v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 455, 197 U. S. 419, 49 L. Ed. 816, reversing judgment 40 Ct. Cl. 1.

A military occupation giving the right to exercise governmental authority is an occupation plus possession of the enemy's country for the purpose of holding it temporarily at least.—MacLeod v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 955, 229 U. S. 416, 57 L. Ed. 1260.

The collection by military authorities of the United States during military occupation of duties on a cargo imported from a foreign port into Cebu, in the Philippine Islands, occupied by a de facto insurgent government which had required payment of like duties, is not authorized by executive orders of the President of July 12, 1898, and December 21, 1898, directing collection of duties during military occupation at ports and places in the possession of the forces of the United States.—Id.

The authority of the military commander at Manila during military occupation to control shipments by persons trading at Manila and vessels sailing from there of American registration did not extend to collection of duties on a cargo imported by residents of Manila from a foreign port to a port in the island of Cebu, then occupied by a de facto insurgent government which had required payment of like duties.—Id.

The unauthorized collection of duties by the military authorities of the United States during military occupation, where goods had been entered at a Philippine port in possession of a de facto insurgent government, which had compulsorily required payment of like duties, was not ratified by Act June 30, 1906, legalizing duties imposed by authorities of United States or provisional military government prior to March 8, 1902.—Id.

◀ 31. Military government and martial law.

See 48 Cent. Dig. War, §§ 211-214.

The military governor of Porto Rico was not authorized by the President to make any judicial order that would deprive any person of his property without due process of law, where the instructions from the President safeguarding the property of the inhabitants were recognized as a declaration of the principles by which the military government of Porto Rico was limited.—Ochoa v. Hernandez y Morales, 33 S. Ct. 1033, 230 U. S. 139, 57 L. Ed. 1427.

No legislative purpose to validate any order of the military governor of Porto Rico in excess of the authority conferred on him by the President can be gathered from the declaration in Act April 12, 1900, § 8, that the laws and ordinances of Porto Rico shall continue in force, except as modified hereinafter, or as modified by military orders in force when the act takes effect.—Id.

The retroactive clause in the order of the military governor of Porto Rico reducing from 20 to 6 years the period during which possession of real property must continue to permit ex parte conversion on the public records of an ex parte entry of possessory title into a record of ownership, conferring an apparent title on such possessor as against true owners by his bona fide grantees without notice, is limited to cases where there still remains a reasonable opportunity to the true owners to contest the claims of the possessor.—Id.

Act Mo. 1869 protects all purchasers of property from factors by transfer of the warehouse receipt by written indorsement. Held, that where a factor pledged cotton of his principal to a bank to secure his own personal debt, by pledge of the warehouse receipt, unindorsed, the owner was entitled to have the proceeds of the cotton applied to his own note held by the pledgee.—Allen v. St. Louis Nat. Bank, 120 U. S. 20, 7 S. Ct. 460, 30 L. Ed. 573.

An insolvent gave certain goods in payment to a creditor, who pledged them. In a suit by other creditors of insolvent to have the pledge set aside, it appeared that, in consideration of $5,000 and two notes of like amount, which the pledgee afterwards paid, the creditor gave him three notes, of $5,000 each, and indorsed warehouse receipts for the goods; that the full terms of the contract of pledge were stated on the face of the notes. Held, that the pledge was a real, and not a simulated, one, and conformed to the requirements of Voorhies' Rev. Civ. Code La. art. 3158, providing that, for a pledge to be good against third parties, it must be in writing and signed; it must mention the amount of the debt, as well as the species and nature of the thing pledged; that pledges of movable property shall be accompanied by delivery, but property in a warehouse shall pass by delivery of the warehouse receipt.—Freiburg v. Dreyfus, 135 U. S. 478, 10 S. Ct. 716, 34 L. Ed. 206, affirming (C. C.) Weiler v. Same, 26 F. 824.

The indorsement to a third person, as security for loans, of a receipt issued by a warehouse company for goods kept under lock and key in a place leased by it from the owner of the goods, which receipt recites that it received the property on storage, "to be delivered only upon surrender of this receipt, properly indorsed, and payment of all charges thereon," is a sufficient delivery as against attaching creditors of the owner to validate the transaction as a pledge, whether the receipt is to be deemed a public warehouse receipt under Rev. St. Ill. c. 114, § 2, or not.—Union Trust Co. v. Wilson, 25 S. Ct. 766, 198 U. S. 530, 49 L. Ed. 1154.

No such change of possession results from the issuance of so-called warehouse receipts acknowledging the receipt of goods on premises really occupied by the owner, though in form leased by the latter to the warehousing company, as renders valid a pledge of such receipts, where actual possession of the goods was exercised by and existed with the owner substantially the same after issuance of the receipts as before. Judgment (1906) 143 F. 32, 74 C. C. A. 186, affirmed.—Security Warehousing Co. v. Hand, 27 S. Ct. 720, 206 U. S. 415, 51 L. Ed. 1117, 11 Ann. Cas. 789.

Laws N. I. APPROPRIATION OF RIGHTS IN PUBLIC LANDS.⌚ 4. Constitutional and statutory provisions.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 1.

Power to authorize irrigation corporations organized under Act N. M. Feb. 24, 1887, to take and divert surplus public waters over and above the needs of prior appropriators, was not denied to the legislature of that territory by the proviso in Desert Land Act March 3, 1877, c. 107, 19 Stat. 377 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1549], that surplus water on the public domain shall remain and be held free for the appropriation and use of the public for irrigation, mining and manufacturing purposes, subject to existing rights. Judgment, Albuquerque Land &

Irrigation Co. v. Gutierrez, 61 P. 357, 110 N. M. 177, affirmed.—Gutierrez v. Albuquerque Land & Irrigation Co., 23 S. Ct. 338, 188 U. S. 545, 47 L. Ed. 588.

Territorial as well as state legislation with respect to the regulation of the use of public waters was authorized by the provisions of Act Cong. March 3, 1891, c. 561, 26 Stat. 1095 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1570], and Act Cong. July 26, 1866, c. 262, § 9, 14 Stat. 253, Rev. St. § 2339 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1437], recognizing, so far as the United States is concerned, the validity of local customs and decisions in respect to the appropriation of water, and those of Desert Land Act March 3, 1877, c. 107, 19 Stat. 377 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1549], permitting the appropriation of water for irrigation and the reclamation of desert land.—Id.

◄8. Persons entitled to appropriate water.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 3.

The right to appropriate water for irrigation where the doctrine of prior appropriation obtains is not confined to riparian proprietors. Decree (Ariz. 1907) 89 P. 504, affirmed.—Boquillas Land & Cattle Co. v. Curtis, 29 S. Ct. 493, 213 U. S. 339, 53 L. Ed. 822.

Garland, 17 S. Ct. 7, 164 U. S. 1, 41 L. Ed. 327.

◄19. Successive appropriations and priorities thereof.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 11, 12.

The Federal Supreme Court will assume, in the absence of Montana legislation to the contrary, that prior appropriators of the waters of an interstate stream at a point in Wyoming could acquire rights as against junior appropriators of the waters of the same stream in Montana, enforceable in the latter state.—(1911) Bean v. Morris, 31 S. Ct. 703, 221 U. S. 485, 55 L. Ed. 821, affirming decree (1908) 159 F. 651, 86 C. C. A. 519, affirming decree (C. C. 1906) Morris v. Bean, 146 F. 423.

◄20. Effect of appropriation as against prior riparian proprietors.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 12.

The grantee from the state of Sonora, Mexico, of land on the San Pedro river, cannot claim to have acquired, under the grant, rights as a riparian proprietor of which he could not be deprived by a subsequent attempt to appropriate the water, since the doctrine of appropriation was, to some extent, at least, in force in that state by custom, irrigation having been practiced in the Santa Cruz Valley prior to the cession to the United States, and the right of appropriation, without regard to the riparian character of the lands, having been in force there probably from the time when the Spaniards first settled in the valley. Decree (Ariz. 1907) 89 P. 504, affirmed.—Boquillas Land & Cattle Co. v. Curtis, 29 S. Ct. 493, 213 U. S. 339, 53 L. Ed. 822.

The acquisition of rights as a riparian proprietor which could not be displaced by a subsequent attempt to appropriate the water cannot be based upon a patent from the United States, issued pursuant to a decree of the court of private land claims, confirming a Mexican grant to riparian lands, on the theory that such patent not only confirms the Mexican title, but releases that of the United States.—Id.

One who acquires his right to a water ditch and water right through public land, under Act Cong. July 26, 1866, but after the grant of the right of way to a railroad, takes it subject to the prior right of the railroad, and cannot recover the damages that may be necessarily occasioned to him by its entry on its right of way.—Bybee v. Oregon & C. R. Co., 139 U. S. 603, 11 S. Ct. 641, 35 L. Ed. 305, affirming judgment (C. C.) 26 F. 586.

◄34. Applicability and adoption of common-law doctrine.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 27, 28.

The general adoption of the common law by Howell's Code Ariz. 1864, c. 61, § 7, cannot be deemed to have included the common-law doctrine of riparian rights, in view of the declaration of Bill of Rights, art. 22, that streams susceptible of use for irrigation purposes are public property, and of the various provisions of chapter 55 of the Code, giving those owning or possessing irrigable lands the right to divert, by means of irrigating canals, necessary water from any convenient stream. Decree (Ariz. 1907) 89 P. 504, affirmed.—Boquillas Land & Cattle Co. v. Curtis, 29 S. Ct. 493, 213 U. S. 339, 53 L. Ed. 822.

◄37. Constitutional and statutory provisions.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 29.

The police power of the state justifies the enactment of Laws N. J. 1905, p. 461, c. 238, under which a riparian owner may be prevented from diverting the waters of a stream of such state into any other state, for use therein. Decree, McCarter v. Hudson County Water Co. (1906) 65 A. 489, 70 N. J. Eq. 695, affirmed.—Hudson County Water Co. v. McCarter, 28 S. Ct. 529, 209 U. S. 349, 52 L. Ed. 828, 14 Ann. Cas. 560.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 65, 66.

Every reasonable equity of the user of the water of a public stream for mining purposes is met by a decree in a suit to restrain the pollution of the stream, which leaves it open to modification to permit reasonable experiments to determine the effect of erecting settling basins to dispose of tailings and waste material without detriment to the lower lands.—Arizona Copper Co. v. See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 93.

Where the government grants lands on the bank of a fresh-water stream, without reservation, in states where the common law prevails, all unsurveyed islands between the middle line of the stream and the bank pass by the grant, and the riparian owner cannot be divested by a subsequent survey and grant of the islands.—Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Butler, 159 U. S. 87, 15 S. Ct. 991, 40 L. Ed. 85.

◀93. Accretion and reliction.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 96-103, 106, 107.

Where the official plat of the survey of government lands shows a river as one boundary of a certain lot, in accordance with Rev. St. U. S. § 2395 et seq., a subsequent patent for the lot, describing it by number, and referring to the plat, on which it is marked as containing a certain amount, and deeds, describing the lot by number, pass all accretion to the lot up to their respective dates.—Jefferis v. East Omaha Land Co., 134 U. S. 178, 10 S. Ct. 518, 33 L. Ed. 872, affirming (C. C.) East Omaha Land Co. v. Jeffries, 40 F. 386.

The rule that owners of land bounded by streams are entitled to additions to their land formed by accretion is applicable to the Missouri river, notwithstanding the peculiar character of that stream and of the soil through which it flows, whereby changes in its banks are great and rapid.—Id.

The law of accretion applies to the Missouri river, notwithstanding that, owing to the swiftness of its current and the softness of its banks, the changes are more rapid and extensive than in most other rivers.—State of Nebraska v. State of Iowa, 143 U. S. 359, 12 S. Ct. 396, 36 L. Ed. 186.

◀98. Actions.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 104.

Allegations in a bill that land was formed by imperceptible degrees, and that the process continued for 17 years, resulting in the production by accretion of 40 acres or more, and "went on so slowly that it could not be observed in its progress, but at intervals of not less than three or more months it could be discerned by the eye that additions greater or less had been made to the shore," sufficiently state that the land was formed by imperceptible degrees to bring it within the rule relating to accretion.—Jefferis v. East Omaha Land Co., 134 U. S. 178, 10 S. Ct. 518, 33 L. Ed. 872, affirming East Omaha Land Co. v. Jeffries (C. C.) 40 F. 386.

III. SUBTERRANEAN AND PERCOLATING WATERS.

Jurisdiction of federal courts, see Courts, ▶287.

◀100. Rights to water flowing in defined channels.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 109.

The presence of water beneath the bed of the Arkansas river as it passes through the state of Kansas, though in places of considerable amount and running in the same direction, does not show the existence of an independent subsurface river, flowing continuously from the Colorado line through the state of Kansas.—State of Kansas v. State of Colorado, 27 S. Ct. 655, 206 U. S. 46, 51 L. Ed. 968.

The determination of the respective rights of the states of Kansas and Colorado to the benefit of the water in the Arkansas river cannot be affected by any theory that, because at times and in some places the entire bed of the channel is dry, there are two rivers, one commencing in the mountains of Colorado and terminating at or near the state line, and the other commencing at or near the place where the former ends, and, from springs and branches, starting as a new stream, to flow onward through Kansas and Oklahoma toward the Gulf of Mexico.—Id.

The fact that a meandered line was run along the edge of a marsh in surveying fractional sections of public land does not conclusively show that they bordered on a body of water so as to give the purchaser riparian rights, but the meandered line is only an irregular line, beyond which may be forest or prairie, land or water, government or Indian reservation. Decree 85 F. 45, 29 C. C. A. 5, affirmed.—Niles v. Cedar Point Club, 20 S. Ct. 124, 175 U. S. 300, 44 L. Ed. 171.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 120; 8 Cent. Dig. Bound. §§ 114, 121, 122; 41 Cent. Dig. Pub. Lands, §§ 35, 36.

The title of a riparian proprietor on an un-navigable lake extends to the center of the lake.—Hardin v. Jordan, 140 U. S. 371, 11 S. Ct. 808, 838, 35 L. Ed. 428, reversing judgment (C. C.) 16 F. 823.

In case of a grant by the United States of land situated on a nonnavigable lake, the body of water, and not the meander line in the government survey, is the boundary; and the fact that a tongue of land projects out into the water beyond the meander line does not give the land department the right to afterwards survey and grant it, if there was no fraud or mistake in the first survey.—Mitchell v. Smale, 140 U. S. 406, 11 S. Ct. 819, 840, 35 L. Ed. 442.

Whether a lake ever existed in front of or bordering on land patented to the state of Oregon under the swamp land grant, the recession of whose waters would leave the bed of the lake thus laid bare to accrue to the owner of such land, is a question of fact which is not concluded by a mere call in the official survey, plats, and maps for a meander line along the side of a lake as a boundary of such land.—French-Glenn Live Stock Co. v. Springer, 22 S. Ct. 563, 185 U. S. 47, 46 L. Ed. 800, affirming judgment 58 P. 102, 35 Or. 312; Same v. Colwell, 22 S. Ct. 566, 185 U. S. 54, 46 L. Ed. 804, affirming judgment 58 P. 1119, 36 Or. 600.

Whether the patentee of the United States to land bounded on a nonnavigable lake belonging to the United States takes title to the adjoining submerged land is determined by the law of the state where the land lies. Decree, Cleveland v. Shedd, 52 N. E. 380, 177 Ill. 123, affirmed.—Hardin v. Shedd, 23 S. Ct. 685, 190 U. S. 508, 47 L. Ed. 1156.

Grants by the United States of land adjoining an unnavigable lake did not convey the land under water, where under the state law riparian owners take title only to the water's edge.—Marshall Dental Mfg. Co. v. State of Iowa, 33 S. Ct. 168, 226 U. S. 460, 57 L. Ed. 300, affirming decree State v. Jones, 122 N. W. 241, 143 Iowa, 398.

¶ 158. Contracts.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 184, 186-188.

When a state constructs a dam for the bona fide purpose of furnishing water to a public canal, it has a right to the water power incidentally created thereby, and may lease it to private parties, and the riparian owner has no right to compensation therefor.—Kaukauna Wa- ter Power Co. v. Green Bay & M. Canal Co., 142 U. S. 254, 12 S. Ct. 173, 35 L. Ed. 1004, affirming decree Green Bay & M. Canal Co. v. Kaukauna Water Power Co., 70 Wis. 635, 35 N. W. 529, 36 N. W. 828.

The rights of one who has created a water power by lawfully raising one section of an irrigating canal, in the process of enlarging it under a contract with the owner entitling him to enlarge that section and have the use of the increased flow of water thereby caused, but making no provision for the creation of any water power in so doing, while it expressly provides that it shall not in any way interfere with the rights, titles, interests, or privileges of the owner of the canal, except as therein provided, are not infringed by a dam which the owner of the canal makes in the lower section thereof, raising the water therein so high that it destroys the water power, when this is done by him for the purpose of enabling him to irrigate therefrom lands to which the water could not be conducted from the canal without thus raising the level of the water therein. Judgment 53 P. 575, 6 Ariz. 135, affirmed.—Consolidated Canal Co. v. Mesa Canal Co., 20 S. Ct. 628, 177 U. S. 296, 44 L. Ed. 777.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 277, 278.

A contract made by a city with a water company for supplying water, which provided that it should be "voidable" by the city, upon the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, whenever there should be a substantial failure of performance by the company, and that until "so avoided" the city should not erect waterworks of its own, must be treated as valid and binding by the city until such a judgment has been obtained; and the city cannot set up the failure of the company to perform its contract, for the first time, in defense to a suit by the company to enjoin it from carrying out measures already taken to erect waterworks of its own. Decree Walla Walla

Water Co. v. City of Walla Walla (C. C.) 60 F. 957, affirmed.—City of Walla Walla v. Walla Walla Water Co., 19 S. Ct. 77, 172 U. S. 1, 43 L. Ed. 341.

An implied contract that a village will not construct its own waterworks, or provide itself therewith otherwise than by purchase or condemnation of the works of an incorporated water company, after the expiration of a contract for the supply of water by such company for a term of years, does not arise from the consent of the village to the incorporation of the company and its construction of waterworks under a franchise that is not exclusive and which does not require the village to take water of that company, where the statutes give the village merely the right, without imposing upon it any express liability, to condemn such waterworks, and also preclude the village from making an express contract for a water supply for more than five years without a vote of the electors. Judgment 55 N. E. 562, 161 N. Y. 154, 46 L. R. A. 687, affirmed.—Skaneateles Waterworks Co. v. Village of Skaneateles, 22 S. Ct. 400, 134 U. S. 354, 46 L. Ed. 585.

A city does not impliedly contract not to construct its own waterworks system by requiring a waterworks company, as a condition of its franchise, to provide all the inhabitants of the city with a water supply on the terms and conditions therein expressed, when read in connection with a previous provision requiring the company to furnish water to those desiring to purchase it, at least, after the five years have expired during which the company was bound by such franchise to furnish water to the city at a definite price, for which an appropriation was therein made. Judgment City of Helena v. Helena Waterworks Co., 122 F. 1, 58 C. C. A. 381, affirmed.—Helena Waterworks Co. v. City of Helena, 25 S. Ct. 40, 195 U. S. 383, 49 L. Ed. 245.

The action of a city in authorizing a private corporation to erect waterworks for the purpose of supplying the city, without any exclusive rights, does not deprive the city of its statutory right to erect waterworks of its own.—Knoxville Water Co. v. City of Knoxville, 26 S. Ct. 224, 200 U. S. 22, 50 L. Ed. 353.

A municipality excludes itself from competition during the period named with the grantee in an ordinance of the exclusive right to erect, maintain, and operate waterworks for a definite term, to supply water for public and private use.—City of Vicksburg v. Vicksburg Waterworks Co., 26 S. Ct. 660, 202 U. S. 453, 50 L. Ed. 1102, 6 Ann. Cas. 253.

A municipality, in exercising the authority conferred by its charter to provide for the erection and maintenance of a system of waterworks to supply the city with water, and, to that end, to contract with a party or parties who shall build and operate waterworks, may exclude itself from constructing and operating waterworks of its own for the term covered by such contract.—Id.

The appraisal of a waterworks plant where a municipality elects, under legislative authority, to exercise its option to purchase at a value to be determined by three engineers, one each to be selected by the city and the waterworks company, and the third by the two so selected, is a matter of public concern, and unanimity among the appraisers is therefore unnecessary; the decision of the majority being sufficient.—City of Omaha v. Omaha Water Co., 30 S. Ct. 615, 218 U. S. 180, 54 L. Ed. 991, 48 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1084.

The valuation of a waterworks plant, made by a board of appraisers where a municipality has elected, under legislative authority, to exercise its option to purchase at a value to be determined by three engineers, one each to be selected by the city and the waterworks company, and the third by the two so selected, is not vitiated, in the absence of any evidence of actual bad faith, by the examination of the company's books by the appraisers without the consent of the city, or the presence of its representatives, since the strict rules relating to arbitration and awards do not apply.—Id.

The city of Omaha had the power to acquire and operate a private waterworks plant as it existed, with its outlying distributing systems serving adjacent suburban towns, under Laws Neb. 1897, c. 10, § 27, providing for the construction and maintenance of waterworks "either within or without the corporate limits of the city," supplemented by section 27 of the same statute, granting the city power to appropriate any existing waterworks system lying within the city or in part without such city, and within 10 miles from the corporate limits, and by Laws 1903, c. 12, providing a method of procedure for acquiring municipal water plants, and the creation of a water board for their control and management, and Comp. St. 1907, c. 12a, § 242, empowering water boards to contract with any municipality adjacent to said city to supply such municipality with water.—Id.

The acquisition of a waterworks plant as it existed when the city made its election, under legislative authority, to exercise its option to purchase, including the outlying distributing systems serving adjacent suburban towns, must be deemed to have been within the contemplation of both the city and the waterworks company, where such system was a single one, having a common source of supply and common main connections therewith, unless the ordinance exercising the option is so plainly limited to the purchase of only so much of the distributing system as lay wholly within the corporate limits as to admit of no other meaning.—Id.

The commercial value of a waterworks plant as a going concern is properly included in the valuation of the plant by the board of appraisers appointed, where the municipality has elected to exercise its option to purchase, although the ordinance exercising such option provides that nothing shall be paid for the unexpired franchise of the waterworks company.—Id.

An election by a city to exercise an option to purchase a waterworks plant at the expiration of the franchise cannot be inferred from the adoption of an ordinance providing for an appraisal, for the fixing of rates, and for submitting by special election the question whether the city should purchase and whether a new franchise should be granted, where nothing was done after the appraisers, having made an appraisal, failed to fix the schedule of rates, since under Const. Colo. art. 20, § 4, then in force, no franchise relating to the city streets should be granted except on a vote of the electors, and the city charter made a like vote necessary to the acquisition by the city of any public utility.—City and County of Denver v. New York Trust Co., 33 S. Ct. 657, 229 U. S. 123, 57 L. Ed. 1101, reversing decree 187 F. 890, 110 C. C. A. 24.

A municipality cannot exercise its option to purchase the plant of a water company by adoption of a charter amendment contemplating a purchase independent of its option and on different terms.—Id.

An exclusive franchise granted by a city to waterworks company to supply water for a definite term does not prevent the city from issuing bonds for and constructing its own waterworks to be operated after the franchise expires.—City of Vicksburg v. Henson, 34 S. Ct.

95, 231 U. S. 259, 58 L. Ed. 209, reversing judgment 203 F. 1023, 121 C. C. A. 664.

184. Water or waterworks companies.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 234-239.

185. — Franchises, privileges, and powers.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 237, 238.

Franchise granted by a municipal ordinance to a water company held limited to 20 years, where the city charter expressly declares that all franchises should be limited to such time.—City and County of Denver v. New York Trust Co., 33 S. Ct. 657, 229 U. S. 123, 57 L. Ed. 1101, reversing decree 187 F. 890, 110 C. C. A. 24.

Provisions in the franchise granted by a city to a water company that, at the expiration of the term, the plant may be purchased by the city, or at its election the city may renew the contract with a reduction in the rental, do not impose on the city duty to exercise either option.—Id.

189. Franchise to private individuals.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 272.

A municipal corporation by ordinance granted a franchise to S. and his assigns for 30 years to construct and maintain waterworks. After passing the ordinance the city contracted with S., in case the waterworks should be constructed, to sell him all the water mains then located in streets, to be used by him in the construction of works. Held, that such contract was executory, and conditional on the continuing performance by S. of the stipulations of his original contract, and on subsequent failure to comply with such stipulations the city had the right to retake possession of the mains.—Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. v. City of Galesburg, 133 U. S. 156, 10 S. Ct. 316, 33 L. Ed. 573, affirming (C. C.) City of Galesburg v. Galesburg Water Co., 34 F. 675.

Where a city has by ordinance granted a franchise to S. and his assigns for 30 years to construct and maintain waterworks, purchasers of bonds issued by the assigns of S., and secured by a mortgage on the waterworks, franchise, contracts, etc., though they purchase in good faith, acquire no rights, as against the city, which will deprive it of a right to rescission of the contract, to which it would have been entitled as against S. or his assigns, since they purchased the bonds knowing that the city was not a party to them, and that they were subject to a continuing compliance with the terms of the ordinance, of which they were bound to take notice.—Id.

A city by ordinance granted a franchise to S. and his assigns for 30 years to construct and maintain waterworks. The ordinance provided that the water supplied should be good, and uncontaminated by sewage, the works to be of a certain capacity, and sufficient to supply all the water required by the city and its inhabitants, and further provided for a test of their capacity on completion. Such test was made, and the city passed a resolution accepting the works, and reciting that they had been completed according to contract, and the required test successfully made. Held, that the acceptance covered only the construction of the works, and did not deprive the city of its right to a rescission of the contract in case S. or his assigns thereafter failed to comply with the stipulations in the ordinance as to the quantity and quality of the water to be supplied; such stipulations being conditions precedent to the continuing right to the franchise.—Id.

192. Rights in streets and other public places.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 279.

A contract granting to a water company the privilege of laying its mains in the streets, with a covenant by the town to pay hydrant rentals, is to be strictly construed in favor of the public, and therefore not taken as an exclusive grant.—Long Island Water-Supply Co. v. City of Brooklyn, 17 S. Ct. 718, 166 U. S. 685, 41 L. Ed. 1165.

The privilege of using city streets for water supply in cities having no municipal plant, granted by Const. Cal. art. 11, § 19, subject to the rights of the municipality to regulate the charges, coupled with the duties imposed by article 14, §§ 1, 2, and St. Cal. 1881, pp. 54, 55, §§ 1, 7, 8, upon the municipality to fix water rates annually does not import a contract that the owner of the plant shall not be subject to competition from a public source.—Madera Waterworks v. City of Madera, 33 S. Ct. 571, 228 U. S. 454, 57 L. Ed. 915, affirming decree (C. C.) 185 F. 281.

A municipal grant of the right to occupy city streets for a water distributing system when accepted by the grantee is a substantial property right.—Boise Artesian Hot & Cold Water Co. v. Boise City, 33 S. Ct. 987, 230 U. S. 84, 57 L. Ed. 1400.

A municipal grant to individuals for an indefinite term of the right to lay in the city streets and to repair the pipes of a water-distributing system, if affected by Rev. St. Idaho 1887, § 2710, prohibiting corporations from supplying a city with water without municipal assent, and which provides that no contract must be made for a term exceeding 50 years, is not thereby ineffective, but is limited to a term of 50 years.—Id.

194. Mains, pipes, and appliances for distribution.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 280.

Requiring a water company to bear the cost of making service connections held constitutional.—(1912) Consumers' Co. v. Hatch, 32 S. Ct. 465, 224 U. S. 148, 56 L. Ed. 703, affirming judgment (1909) Hatch v. Consumers' Co., 104 P. 670, 17 Idaho, 204.

200. Supply to municipalities.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 274.

The continuing character of a waterworks company's contract obligation to furnish an adequate supply of wholesome water is not met by showing that such a supply has been furnished at times, or that, at the time of completion of the works, the company was able to carry out its contract, nor is nonperformance excused by the occurrence of conditions which are likely to happen in a climate of long, dry summers.—(1910) City of Columbus v. Mercantile Trust & Deposit Company of Baltimore, 31 S. Ct. 105, 218 U. S. 645, 54 L. Ed. 1193, reversing decree (C. C. 1908) Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co. of Baltimore v. Columbus, 161 F. 135.

The acceptance by a municipality and its people of improved conditions in a waterworks system, resulting from complaints, does not estop the municipality to rescind the contract with the waterworks company for a breach of its contract obligation to furnish an adequate supply of wholesome water, unless such improved conditions result in the continuous maintenance thereafter of such a supply.—Id.

The maxim that "he who seeks equity must do equity" does not justify a court in denying to a municipality rescission under its crossbill of a contract with a waterworks company which the latter has broken by failing to maintain a continuous and adequate supply of wholesome water, and in affirmatively restraining the municipality from establishing its own system unless it shall do equity to the bondholders of the waterworks company by purchasing the usable parts of the waterworks system.—Id.

A municipality has the right to treat a contract with a waterworks company as terminated by the latter's breach of its contract obligation to furnish a continuous adequate supply of wholesome water.—Id.

The municipality cannot claim that a water company is obliged to furnish free water for fire purposes, where a charge for such water is included in the schedule of water rates established by water commissioners conformably to Rev. Codes Idaho, § 2839.—Boise Artesian Hot & Cold Water Co. v. Boise City, 33 S. Ct. 997, 230 U. S. 84, 57 L. Ed. 1400.

A finding of the existence of a contract between a city and a water company as to the supply of water for fire purposes is sustained by evidence that a schedule of water rates for such supply, adopted under Rev. Codes Idaho, § 2839, had been reported to the city by the commissioners and the city had paid the rates and used the water after it had notified the water company that it would pay no further bills for such service, and the water company continued to maintain its service for fire purposes.—Id.

203. Water rents and other charges.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 289-299; 35 Cent. Dig. Mtg. § 324.

Courts will not interfere with the collection of rates established under legislative sanction, unless they are so plainly and palpably unreasonable as to make their enforcement equivalent to the taking of property for public use without such compensation, as, under all the circumstances, is just, both to the owner and the public.—San Diego Land & Town Co. v. City of National City, 19 S. Ct. 804, 174 U. S. 739, 43 L. Ed. 1154, affirming decree (C. C.) 74 F. 79.

A contention that, in ascertaining whether water rates are just, the court should take into consideration the cost of the plant, the cost per annum of operating the plant, including interest on money borrowed, and reasonably necessary to be used in constructing the same, the annual depreciation from use of the plant, and a fair profit over and above such charges for services, is defective in not requiring the real value of the property and the fair value in themselves of the services. Just compensation is a fair return upon the reasonable value of the property at the time it is being used by the public.—Id.

Const. Cal. art. 14, § 1, requiring water rates to be fixed by the legislative bodies of municipalities by ordinance in February and July of each year, and Act Cal. March 7, 1881, § 2, making it the duty of such bodies at least 30 days prior to January 15th of each year to obtain from water companies a detailed statement showing the names of rate payers, the amount paid by each during the preceding year, and all revenue derived from all sources and expenditures for supplying water, dispense with necessity of a formal notice to parties interested as to the day on which the rates are to be fixed.—Id.

Sufficient provision for a hearing as to the fixing of water rates is made by Act Cal. March 7, 1881, § 2, making it the duty of the legislative bodies of municipalities to require water companies at least 30 days before January 15th of each year to furnish detailed statements showing the names of rate payers, amount paid by each during the preceding year, and all revenue derived from all sources and expenditures for supplying water.—Id.

Where, prior to the passage of an ordinance fixing water rates by a municipality, the water company, under Act Cal. March 7, 1881, was required to make a detailed statement of its business and financial condition, and the subject of rates was considered in conferences between the local authorities and the officers of the water company, it will be presumed that the case of the water company as to the justice of the rates fixed was fully considered before the ordinance fixing the rate was passed.—Id.

Losses to a water company arising from the distribution of water to consumers outside of the city are not to be considered by a municipality in fixing the rates of a water company, only a part of whose system is within the municipality.—Id.

Reservation by a city, in a lease of its waterworks, of the right to regulate rates, provided they be not reduced below the then existing rates, must, if valid, be deemed to be a limitation upon the right of the city as a municipality to regulate water rates, and not a mere granting back by the lessees of the right of the city in its proprietary capacity only. Judgment, Los Angeles City Water Co. v. City of Los Angeles (C. C.) 88 F. 720, affirmed.—City of Los Angeles v. Los Angeles City Water Co., 20 S. Ct. 736, 177 U. S. 558, 44 L. Ed. 886.

A water company is not estopped to contest the constitutionality of a city ordinance fixing its water rates at a rate in violation of a provision in a contract between the city and the grantors of the company, merely because for 15 years it has collected the rates established by similarly objectionable ordinances, where it has annually protested against the city's conduct.—Id.

The power of a water company to increase its annual water rates, in the absence of any attempt by the board of supervisors to fix such rates, is not precluded by Act Cal. 1885, §§ 5, 8, giving the supervisors power to fix such rates, and providing that until so established, or after they shall have been abrogated by the board of supervisors, "the actual rates established and collected" by those who furnish water shall be deemed and accepted as the legal established rates thereof. Decree, Lanning v. Osborne (C. C.) 76 F. 319, affirmed.—Osborne v. San Diego Land & Town Co. of Maine, 20 S. Ct. 980, 178 U. S. 22, 44 L. Ed. 961.

The annual rates for water as first fixed are not made irrevocable by a contract for the sale of water rights for a fixed sum, providing, in addition, for the payment of annual rates, to "be fixed by the party of the first part [the water company] as allowed by law."—Id.

The court will not fix the amount of water rates on holding that the rates charged are unreasonable, but, under Act Cal. 1885, resort must first be had to the body designated by the law to fix proper rates, which is the board of supervisors.—Id.

An ordinance granting an exclusive franchise to a water company, with the right to use streets, requiring the municipality to pay certain rentals, and binding the grantee, among other things, to furnish an adequate supply of water, does not give a contract right to charge the rates named in the ordinance for the whole period of the franchise by virtue of a provision that the grantee "shall charge the following annual rate to consumers of water during the existence of this franchise," as this is merely a regulation of the right to charge rates, and does not amount to a stipulation that no other regulation will be made during the term of the franchise. Judgment 53 N. E. 383, 178 Ill. 571, affirmed.—Rogers Park Water Co. v. Fergus, 21 S. Ct. 490, 180 U. S. 624, 45 L. Ed. 702.

A contract concerning governmental functions, such as one which affects the right of a city to regulate rates of a water company, must be strictly construed; and such functions cannot be held to have been stipulated away by doubtful or ambiguous provisions.—Id.

The power of a city to fix water rates, conferred by the Illinois statutes of 1872, became a condition of privileges thereafter granted to water companies.—Freeport Water Co. v. City of Freeport, 21 S. Ct. 493, 180 U. S. 587, 45 L. Ed. 679, affirming judgment 57 N. E. 862, 186 Ill. 179; Danville Water Co. v. City of Danville, 21 S. Ct. 505, 180 U. S. 619, 45 L. Ed. 696, affirming judgment 57 N. E. 1129, 186 Ill. 326.

Municipal corporations may be invested by statute with the power to bind themselves by an irrevocable contract not to regulate water rates.—Id.

A contract giving a water company the right to charge certain rates for 30 years without interference by new ordinances changing rates is not authorized by Act Ill. April 9, 1872, empowering cities and villages to contract with such companies for a supply of water for public use for a period not exceeding 30 years, and Act Ill. April 10, 1872, empowering such municipalities to authorize persons or private corporations to construct and maintain waterworks "at such rates as may be fixed by ordinance and for a period not exceeding 30 years," since, under the rule requiring strict construction of such grants, the clause "for a period not exceeding 30 years" qualifies the words "construct and maintain," but does not qualify the words "at such rates as may be fixed by ordinance."—Id.

A municipality is not precluded from exercising the power to fix and regulate water rates, conferred upon it as a city of the third class by Act Ky. June 14, 1893, p. 1073, c. 222, § 29 (Ky. St. 1899, § 3290), by the provisions of a prior municipal ordinance granting the right to construct waterworks, which gave the grantee "power and authority to make and enforce, as a part of the condition upon which it will supply water to its consumers, all needful rules and regulations not inconsistent with the law, or provisions of this ordinance."—City of Owensboro v. Owensboro Waterworks Co., 24 S. Ct. 82, 191 U. S. 358, 48 L. Ed. 217.

The power to regulate the rates at which water shall be furnished to consumers in a municipality whether furnished by private persons or by the municipality itself, was included in the authority conferred by Act Ky. June 14, 1893, p. 1073, c. 222, § 29 (Ky. St. 1899, § 3290), on a city of the third class, to provide the city and its inhabitants with water service by contract or by works of its own, and to make regulations for the management thereof, and to fix and regulate the prices to consumers.—Id.

The decision of a state court that a municipality could not, by a contract with a water company, deprive itself of the right to establish reasonable maximum water rates, conformably to a state statute adopted to carry into effect a provision of the state Constitution in force when the contract was made, which invests the Legislature with full power to pass laws to correct abuses and prevent excessive charges by "persons and corporations engaged as common carriers in transporting persons and property, or performing other services of a public nature," and declares that the Legislature "shall provide for enforcing such laws by adequate penalties or forfeitures," is not so clearly erroneous as to require reversal on a writ of error from the Supreme Court of the United States. Judgment 36 So. 174, 47 Fla. 338, affirmed.—Tampa Waterworks Co. v. City of Tampa, 20 S. Ct. 23, 199 U. S. 241, 50 L. Ed. 170.

A contract with a waterworks company, fixing maximum water rates to private consumers for 30 years, which, unless so grossly unreasonable as to suggest fraud or corruption, is binding, and, as such, is protected against impairment by the contract clause of the federal Constitution, could be made by the city of Vicksburg under the authority of Laws Miss. 1886, p. 695, c. 358, § 5, empowering it to provide for the erection and maintenance of a system of waterworks to supply that city with water, and, to that end, to contract with a party or parties who shall build and operate waterworks.—City of Vicksburg v. Vicksburg Waterworks Co., 27 S. Ct. 762, 206 U. S. 496, 51 L. Ed. 1155.

A deduction for depreciation for use must be made from estimated costs of reproducing waterworks plant when determining its present value to test the reasonableness of rates fixed by ordinance.—City of Knoxville v. Knoxville Water Co., 29 S. Ct. 148, 212 U. S. 1, 53 L. Ed. 371.

Capitalization is no guide to present value of tangible property of a waterworks company objecting to rates fixed by municipal ordinance, where all common and preferred stock was issued under construction contracts for an amount greatly in excess of the true value of the property.—Id.

Depreciation of the original part and impairment in value of the parts which exist cannot be added to the present value of the surviving parts in determining the value of the tangible property of a waterworks company when testing reasonableness of rates fixed by ordinance.—Id.

The absence of any requirement in a municipal ordinance fixing water rates that the waterworks company shall continue to give a discount for prompt payment must be taken into consideration when determining, for the purpose of testing the reasonableness of such rates, the reduction in the company's income which will be produced by the enforcement of such ordinance.—Id.

The net income of a waterworks company during the years succeeding the passage of a municipal ordinance fixing maximum water rates, which has never been enforced, should be considered by the courts in determining the reasonableness of such rates.—Id.

The courts should not enjoin the enforcement of a municipal ordinance fixing maximum water rates on the ground that such ordinance is invalid under Const. U. S. Amend. 14, as confiscatory, unless the confiscation is clearly apparent.—Id.

204. Injuries incident to supply or use.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, §§ 300-302.

206. — Insufficiency of supply.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 301.

A contract by a city with a water company for a water supply will not sustain action against the company for breach of contract to furnish water for fire protection, brought by a taxpayer.—German Alliance Ins. Co. v. Home Water Supply Co., 33 S. Ct. 32, 226 U. S. 220, 57 L. Ed. 195, 42 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1000, affirming judgment 174 F. 764, 99 C. C. A. 258.

An action ex delicto cannot be maintained against a water company by a taxpayer whose property is destroyed by failure to furnish water for fire protection under its contract with a municipality.—Id.

The respective rights of the states of Kansas and Colorado in regard to the flow of water in the Arkansas river is not subordinate to any supposed superior right on the part of the national government to control the whole system of the reclamation of arid lands, since the reclamation of arid lands is not one of the powers granted to the general government.—*State of Kansas v. Acts 1895, p. 21, c. 21 (Rev. St. 1895, tit. 60, c. 2), authorizing the organization of irrigation corporations, and giving them power of eminent domain, and providing that the act shall apply to those portions of the state in which, by reason of insufficient or irregular rainfall, irrigation is beneficial for agricultural purposes, does not render the act void for indefiniteness as to the territory to which it applies. Judgment (1905) 86 S. W. 11, 98 Tex. 494, 107 Am. St. Rep. 640, affirmed.—Borden v. Trespalacios Rice & Irrigation Co., 27 S. Ct. 785, 204 U. S. 667, 51 L. Ed. 671.

C-225. — Proceedings for organization.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 317.

St. Cal. 1887, as amended in 1889 and 1891, provides that landowners desiring the formation of an irrigation district shall present to the board of supervisors of the county in which the lands to be included, or the greater part thereof, are situated, a petition signed by 50, or a majority, of the landowners in the proposed district, which petition, together with a notice of the time of the meeting at which it will be presented, shall have been published in some newspaper of the county at least two weeks before its presentation; that the board of supervisors shall then "hear the same, and may adjourn such hearing from time to time, * * * and on the final hearing may make such changes in the proposed boundaries as they may find to be proper"; and that they shall not include in the district any lands which, in the judgment of the board, will not be benefited by irrigation by the system to be used in the district. Held, that these provisions give the persons interested in the proposed improvement the right to appear before the board and contest the facts upon which the petition is based, and the fact of benefit to any particular land included in the description of the proposed district.—Fallbrook Irrigation Dist. v. Bradley, 17 S. Ct. 56, 164 U. S. 112, 41 L. Ed. 369, reversing judgment Bradley v. Fallbrook Irrigation Dist. (C. C.) 68 F. 948.

C-226. — Territorial extent, and annexation or inclusion of land.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 318.

A statute providing that the land to be included in an irrigation district shall be susceptible of one mode of irrigation from a common source, and by the same system of works, and such that it may be benefited by the system of irrigation used in such district, sufficiently specifies the character of the land to be included.—Fallbrook Irrigation Dist. v. Bradley, 17 S. Ct. 56, 164 U. S. 112, 41 L. Ed. 369, reversing judgment Bradley v. Fallbrook Irrigation Dist. (C. C.) 68 F. 948.

Where a statute provides that the board of supervisors, after hearing the petition for the formation of an irrigation district, shall exclude therefrom any lands which will not, in the opinion of the board, be benefited by the system of irrigation to be used, the inclusion of certain lands after an opportunity for such hearing is of itself a determination that they will be benefited by the proposed irrigation.—Id.

A provision that no land shall be included in an irrigation district, except such as may be benefited by the system of irrigation used in that district, means that the land must be such that it may be substantially benefited. It is not sufficient that such irrigation creates an opportunity thereafter to use the land for a new kind of crop, while not substantially benefiting it for the cultivation of the old kind, which it had produced in reasonable quantities, and with ordinary certainty, without the aid of irrigation.—Id.

C-231. — Assessments, and lien and enforcement thereof.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 320.

The interpretation of Reclamation Act June 17, 1902, by Secretary of the Interior and by Congress in Acts March 6, 1906, and March 1, 1907, removes any doubt that the irrigable lands may be assessed with the annual cost of maintenance and operation under the authority conferred on the Secretary of the Interior.—Swigart v. Baker, 33 S. Ct. 645, 229 U. S. 187, 57 L. Ed. 1143, reversing decree Baker v. Swigart, 199 F. 865, 118 C. C. A. 313.

C-257. Tolls and other charges for water.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 312.

The price which a waterworks plant brought on foreclosure is evidence which a board of supervisors when regulating water rates may take into consideration in estimating the value of the plant, on which the water company is entitled to a fair return from its rates. Decree (C. C.) 110 F. 702, affirmed.—San Diego Land & Town Co. v. Jasper, 23 S. Ct. 571, 189 U. S. 439, 47 L. Ed. 892.

The depreciation in value of a waterworks plant, and in the value of the services rendered to consumers, due to a diminution in the water supply from a long-continued drought from which the surrounding country has suffered since the passage of an ordinance regulating water rates, may be considered in determining the reasonableness of such rates.—Id.

Irrigation rates established by a board of supervisors are not necessarily unreasonable because they will only yield a full return on the total value of the plant when the water company shall serve the entire area which its system will supply.—Id.

The valuation of a waterworks plant for purposes of taxation may be considered by the courts in determining the reasonableness of water rates as fixed by a board of supervisors—especially where such valuation was sworn to by officers of the water company.—Id.

So long as a board of supervisors defends a suit to have water rates fixed by them declared void for unreasonableness, there is a sufficient party respondent to enable the court to consider the merits of the controversy, notwithstanding the default of those who set in motion the proceedings before the board.—Id.

Assuming that a contract exemption from the reduction by a board of supervisors of water rates below a certain point was created in favor of the company organized under St. Cal. 1853, p. 87, as amended by St. 1862, p. 540, by the provisions of section 3 of the latter act, the legislature, in the exercise of its reserved power to alter or repeal, conferred by Const. Cal. 1849, art. 4, § 31, still could enact the provisions of St. 1885, p. 95, § 5, authorizing the supervisors to reduce the rates to not less than 6 nor more than 18 per cent. upon the then value of the property actually used in supplying water to the public. Judgment (C. C.) San Joaquin & K. R. Canal & Irrigation Co. v. Stanislaus County, 113 F. 930, reversed.—Stanislaus County v. San Joaquin & K. R. Canal & Irrigation Co., 24 S. Ct. 241, 192 U. S. 201, 48 L. Ed. 406.

No contract that the state would not thereafter authorize boards of supervisors to reduce water rates so as to yield to the stockholders less than 1½ per cent. per month on the capital actually invested by a corporation organized under St. Cal. 1853, p. 87, as amended by St. 1862, p. 540, was created by the provision of section 3 of the latter act, that every such company should have power to establish its rates, which should be subject to regulation by the appropriate board of supervisors, but should not be reduced by them below that point.—Id.

Failure of irrigation company to offer evidence as to its water rights before board of supervisors by whom its rates are fixed does not estop it to assert that the value of such water rights were not taken into account, where supervisors contend that it is entitled to no compensation therefor.—San Joaquin & Kings River Canal & Irrigation Co. v. Stanislaus County, 34 S. Ct. 652, 233 U. S. 454, 58 L. Ed. 1041, reversing decree (C. C.) Same v. Stanislaus County, 191 F. 875.

The right of an irrigation company as against riparian proprietors to withdraw the water from its canals must be included in the valuation of its property in determining whether the water rates fixed by county supervisors would yield the 6 per cent. return to which the company is entitled under Act Cal. March 12, 1885 (St. 1885, p. 95), empowering the boards to fix the rates notwithstanding Const. Cal. 1879, providing that water appropriated for sale is appropriated to a public use.—Id.

(C) MINING, MECHANICAL, AND MANUFACTURING PURPOSES.

271. Water or water-power companies.

A court, in considering an act of a state legislature incorporating water-power companies, should not adopt such a construction thereof as would prevent the state from ever after using the waters of the stream for public or municipal purposes, without making compensation to such water-power companies, unless the legislative intent is beyond doubt.—St. Anthony Falls Water-Power Co. v. Board of Water Com'rs of City of St. Paul, Minn., 18 S. Ct. 157, 168 U. S. 349, 42 L. Ed. 497.

277. Acquisition of water rights, and rights incident thereto.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Waters, § 327.

A preliminary contract for sale by a riparian owner of a water power concession after an attempted forfeiture by the public authorities, and the lands and options to be used with the concession, reciting a petition for a new concession, entitles a person, to whom the owner had contracted to give a 10 per cent. interest for his services, to receive such commission though the new concession provided that it should not be deemed a recognition of any previous grant and though the sale would not have taken place without a confirmation or regrant of the concession.—Valdes v. Larrinaga, 34 S. Ct. 750, 233 U. S. 705, 58 L. Ed. 1163.

¶13. Management and conduct of business.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Wharves, §§ 8, 9, 11, 12.

A wharf in the harbor of a city, at the foot of a public street, built by a railway company under authority from the city, in addition to adequate terminal facilities, for the purpose of more conveniently procuring the transportation of freight beyond its own line by such carriers as it might select, is not a public wharf whose use can be demanded by a shipper, on payment of reasonable hire, for the purpose of employing vessels of his own selection for the further carriage of his goods. Judgment 128 F. 1020, 62 C. C. A. 681, reversed.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. West Coast Naval Stores Co., 25 S. Ct. 745, 198 U. S. 483, 49 L. Ed. 1135.

¶20. Injuries to vessels or cargoes.

See 48 Cent. Dig. Wharves, §§ 35-43; 44 Cent. Dig. Ship, § 332.

The owners of a wharf, who were engaged in shipping crushed stone, chartered a vessel to load with stone thereat, knowing that there was a ridge of rock under the berth, which could endanger the vessel when loaded, and that a vessel of about the same draught had previously received injuries from the rocks. Both the broker who chartered the vessel for the wharf owners and their foreman assured the master that there was plenty of water. When partly loaded, the master made soundings around the vessel, but discovered nothing. Before the loading was completed, the vessel settled upon the rock, and was wrecked. Held, that the master was not guilty of negligence, and that the wharfingers were liable for the damages. Decree 10 App. D. C. 469, affirmed.—Smith v. Burnett, 19 S. Ct. 442, 173 U. S. 430, 43 L. Ed. 750.

While a wharfinger does not guaranty the safety of vessels coming to his wharves, he is bound to exercise reasonable diligence in ascertaining the condition of the berths thereat, and, if there is any dangerous obstruction, to remove it, or to give due notice of it to vessels about to use the berths. At the same time, the master of such a vessel is bound to use ordinary care, and cannot run carelessly into danger.—Id.

Decree (1907) 29 App. D. C. 460, affirmed.—Turner v. American Security & Trust Co., 29 S. Ct. 420, 213 U. S. 257, 53 L. Ed. 788.

A written agreement between testator and his wife, in which the latter relinquished all claim to her husband's property and all right to dower or alimony, and which concluded by stating that it was intended to restore to the parties the same contractual and property rights as they possessed before marriage, is admissible in evidence to explain the testator's untrue statements that he was a widower and had been divorced, which had been admitted in evidence as proof of his mental unsoundness.—Id.

The record in a suit for divorce brought by the testator, in which he alleged as a cause that his wife was incapable of a valid marriage on account of a physical malformation, which the physicians appointed by the court reported after examination, did not exist, is not admissible on the issue of the testamentary capacity of the testator some 30 years afterwards, being too remote in point of time, and leading to the collateral inquiry whether the statement was actually false, and, if so, whether the result of a delusion, or of malice or falsehood.—Id.

The wholly unofficial certificate of a vice consul, appearing at the foot of a will executed abroad, if otherwise sufficient as an attestation, may be treated as such by disregarding the superfluous words, "Vice Consul, United States of America," appended to his signature. Judgment 22 App. D. C. 9, affirmed.—Keely v. Moore, 25 S. Ct. 169, 196 U. S. 38, 49 L. Ed. 376.

(D) HOLOGRAPHIC WILLS.

(F) MISTAKE, UNDUE INFLUENCE, AND FRAUD.

162. Evidence.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 388-437.

163. — Presumptions and burden of proof.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 388-402.

A testatrix will not be presumed ignorant of the contents of a will, which was not read to her at the time of execution, because she cannot read, where there is a total lack of proof of fraud, undue influence, or want of testamentary capacity attending the execution of the will. Decree (1906) 28 App. D. C. 355, affirmed.—Lipphard v. Humphrey, 28 S. Ct. 561, 209 U. S. 264, 52 L. Ed. 783, 14 Ann. Cas. 872.

164. — Admissibility in general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 403-414.

It is not competent, for the purpose of proving the invalidity of a will, to show by the declarations of the principal legatee, made about or after the date of the execution of the will, that she had knowledge at that time of its execution and its provisions.—Ormsby v. Webb, 134 U. S. 47, 10 S. Ct. 478, 33 L. Ed. 805.

165. — Declarations of testator.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 415-420.

Declarations and letters of one whose alleged will is attacked as a forgery, when not part of the res gestæ, are not admissible, whether made before or after the date of the will, to show the improbability of his making such a disposition of his property as that which is in question. Judgment 12 App. D. C. 552, reversed.—Throckmorton v. Holt, 21 S. Ct. 474, 180 U. S. 552, 45 L. Ed. 663.

Declarations of an illiterate testatrix prior and subsequent to the date of her will, as to how she intended to dispose, or had disposed, of her property, are properly held inadmissible to show that she was ignorant of its contents, where there was no evidence of testamentary incapacity at the date of the will, and nothing in the evidence excluded from which it could be inferred, and there was no evidence of fraud or undue influence. Decree (1906) 28 App. D. C. 355, affirmed.—Lipphard v. Humphrey, 28 S. Ct. 561, 209 U. S. 264, 52 L. Ed. 783, 14 Ann. Cas. 872.

166. — Weight and sufficiency.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 421-437.

A will of a person of sound mind and memory cannot be set aside in the federal courts on evidence tending to show only a possibility or suspicion of undue influence. Decree 17 App. D. C. 238, affirmed.—Beyer v. Le Fevre, 22 S. Ct. 765, 186 U. S. 114, 46 L. Ed. 1080.

(G) REVOCATION AND REVIVAL.

184. Codicil.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 462-467.

A will provided that, on the determination of a trust therein provided for, so much of testatrix's estate should be delivered to the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania as amounted to $5,000, to endow a bed to be maintained in the name and in memory of testatrix's son. The residue of the estate was "devised and bequeathed" to the Home for Incurables, to similarly endow one or more beds. Testatrix, in a codicil executed on the same day, declared: "I hereby revoke the bequest made by me to the Home for Incurables, and I hereby give the $5,000 (heretofore in my will bequeathed to said Home for Incurables) to" E. C., "Said bequest being on account of her kindness to my son and myself." Held, that the codicil operated to revoke the bequest to the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, and to substitute therefor the legatee named in the codicil. Decree 10 App. D. C. 56, reversed.—Home for Incurables v. Noble, 19 S. Ct. 226, 172 U. S. 383, 43 L. Ed. 486.

V. PROBATE, ESTABLISHMENT, AND ANNULMENT.

(A) PROBATE AND REVOCATION IN GENERAL.

204. Statutory provisions.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 506.

The organic act of New Mexico (Act Cong. Sept. 9, 1850, § 10, 9 Stat. 449, which declares that the "jurisdiction" of the probate courts shall be "as limited by law," does not put in force the practice and procedure of the common law touching matters of probate, regardless of any statutory provisions of the territory; and, as the common law was not adopted in New Mexico until 1876, and then only to a limited extent, the validity of the practice and procedure on the probate of wills before that time must be determined by the statutory regulations of the territorial assembly.—Bent v. Thompson, 138 U. S. 114, 11 S. Ct. 238, 34 L. Ed. 902, affirming judgment 5 N. M. 408, 23 Pac. 234.

205. Necessity for probate.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 507, 509-512, 561, 523.

The delivery of a certificate of deposit, with an indorsement providing that it shall not take effect until after the donor's death, if valid as a will of personalty, will not take effect under St. Tenn. § 2169, until probate.—Basket v. Hassell, 108 U. S. 267, 2 S. Ct. 634, 27 L. Ed. 719.

(B) ACTIONS TO ESTABLISH OR DETERMINE VALIDITY IN GENERAL.

222. Nature and form of remedies in general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 542-544; 1 Cent. Dig. Action, § 123.

A bill in equity by the heirs at law and next of kin, who are citizens of other states, will not lie in the United States circuit court, to set aside the probate of a will on the ground of a want of testamentary capacity and undue influence, and for an accounting by the devisee in possession, there being an adequate remedy at law in an action of revindication, under Code Prac. La. arts. 4, 12, 43, for the recovery of possession of immovable property.—Eliis v. Davis, 109 U. S. 485, 3 S. Ct. 327, 27 L. Ed. 1006.

228. Persons who may attack or contest will or probate.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 550-559.

230. — Estoppel, waiver, or agreement affecting right.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 555-559.

A beneficiary of a will, who accepts a provision for his benefit, is estopped from disputing the validity of one to his prejudice.—Utermehle v. Norment, 25 S. Ct. 291, 197 U. S. 40, 49 L. Ed. 655, 3 Ann. Cas. 520, affirming judgment 22 App. D. C. 31.

Ignorance of the rule of law that a party taking the benefit of a provision in his favor under a will is estopped to assert the invalidity of that instrument, although coupled with ignorance of any evidence on which a contest could be based, will not prevent the application of such rule, in the absence of fraud, imposition, or misrepresentation, where the original situation cannot be restored, and there has been extreme negligence in attempting to discover the facts.—Id.

(C) PROBATE OR ESTABLISHMENT OF LOST OR DESTROYED WILLS.

[No paragraphs or references in this Digest. But see 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 560-567.]

(D) PROBATE OR RECORD OF FOREIGN WILLS.

[No paragraphs or references in this Digest. But see 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 568-583.]

(E) JURISDICTION, LIMITATIONS, AND LACHES.

Infancy affecting limitation of action, see Limitation of Actions, ⚡72.

⚡254. Jurisdiction of actions relating to wills or probate.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 590-593.

⚡256. — Court in which will was probated or recorded.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 591.

A probate judge in New Mexico cannot declare void a will duly admitted to probate by one of his predecessors, since Act N. M. Jan. 26, 1861 (Comp. Laws, §§ 1446-1449), which distinctly defines the course of procedure before probate judges, confers no such power on them.—Bent v. Thompson, 138 U. S. 114, 11 S. Ct. 238, 34 L. Ed. 902, affirming judgment 5 N. M. 408, 23 Pac. 234.

(F) PARTIES AND PROCESS OR NOTICE.

[No paragraphs or references in this Digest. But see 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 606-626.]

(G) PETITIONS, OBJECTIONS, AND PLEADINGS.

[No paragraphs or references in this Digest. But see 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 627-650.]

(H) EVIDENCE.

⚡287. Presumptions and burden of proof.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 651-664.

⚡290. — Revocation.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 663.

No presumption of the revocation of a will by the testator, or under his direction, arises in the case of a will received by the register of wills through the mail, with a local postmark, more than a year after the death of the testator and more than 22 years after its execution, where the will, when received, is mutilated, torn, and burned around the edges, with no seal upon it, while there is no evidence of its whereabouts from the time of its execution until that time, and nothing to show by whom it was mailed, but there is evidence that no such paper was found among his papers in his house after his death. Judgment 12 App. D. C. 552, reversed.—Throckmorton v. Holt, 21 S. Ct. 474, 180 U. S. 552, 45 L. Ed. 663.

⚡291. Admissibility.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 665-696.

⚡297. — Declarations of testator as to execution or revocation.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 690-696.

In proceedings involving the validity of a will, evidence that the testator stated to a witness that he received the bulk of his estate by breaking the will of his grandfather, who was also the ancestor of the caveators, and that his estate consisted of that property, is inadmissible, because it is immaterial how the property was acquired.—Ormsby v. Webb, 134 U. S. 47, 10 S. Ct. 478, 33 L. Ed. 805.

Declarations of a testator are not admissible for the purpose of showing his state of mind, in order to raise an inference that acts of mutilation shown by the will were performed by him or under his direction, and that they were made with the purpose of revocation, where such declarations are not part of the res gestæ. Judgment 12 App. D. C. 552, reversed.—Throckmorton v. Holt, 21 S. Ct. 474, 180 U. S. 552, 45 L. Ed. 663.

⚡299. Weight and sufficiency.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 575, 581, 697-723.

⚡306. — Revocation.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 732, 733.

Evidence tending to show that part of a paper on which a codicil was written was torn off after the testator's death, connected with testimony of some of the persons who read the paper while it was yet intact, and who were interested in knowing its provisions, that the part torn off contained a certain provision, which was of a wholly immaterial character, but that they could not remember whether it contained any other provisions, would not authorize a jury to find that it contained provisions revoking or materially altering the will.—McIntire v. McIntire, 162 U. S. 383, 16 S. Ct. 814, 40 L. Ed. 1009.

The mere fact that the proofs may establish that, after the testator's death, alterations were made which did not materially change the will, and which were not of such a nature as to justify the presumption that he had revoked it in whole or in part, would not authorize the jury to return a verdict the effect of which would be to set aside the probate.—Id.

(I) HEARING OR TRIAL.

⚡322. Reception of evidence.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 762-765.

Testimony of a witness that certain peculiarities in a signature to a will are frequently found in the signatures of the signer of the will is admissible in rebuttal of testimony by another witness that such peculiarities are not often found in the genuine signatures of such person, especially where there is a sharp conflict in the evidence as to the genuineness of the signature. Judgment 12 App. D. C. 552, reversed.—Throckmorton v. Holt, 21 S. Ct. 474, 180 U. S. 552, 45 L. Ed. 663.

Notice by the court to the proponents of a will that they must offer all the evidence they propose to give before resting the case does not justify a refusal to admit evidence of the proponents in rebuttal of testimony of the contestants which could not have been anticipated.—Id.

⚡324. Questions for jury in general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 225, 767-770.

The fact that a white testator devised his entire estate to a negro who had been for years his business and household companion, to the exclusion of his cousins, does not require the submission of the issue of his mental soundness to the jury, where the only conclusion that can be drawn from the direct testimony is in favor of his mental soundness when the will was made. Judgment 17 App. D. C. 128, affirmed.—Leach v. Burr, 23 S. Ct. 393, 188 U. S. 510, 47 L. Ed. 587.

—328. Instructions.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 774, 776-787.

—332. — Undue influence and fraud.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 785.

Where it is clear from the evidence that, if the principal legatee exercised no undue influence over the testator, there is no ground to believe any one else did, or to doubt the validity of the will, and the testimony of such legatee covers the case so completely that, if she is believed, the jury are bound to find the will valid, it is not reversible error to charge them that, if they believe such legatee's testimony, their verdict must be in support of the will.—Ormsby v. Webb, 134 U. S. 47, 10 S. Ct. 478, 33 L. Ed. 805.

(J) JUDGMENT OR DECREE.

—347. Admission to record of will probated in other jurisdiction.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 804, 805.

A record of the ancillary probate of a will, reciting the production of the copy, publication of the notice of hearing, that the probate was duly authenticated, and that, on full hearing, and examination of the proofs and allegations, it appeared to be regular, is not open to the objection that it contains no proof that the probate court obtained jurisdiction, nor any record of authentication or probate by any foreign court.—Culbertson v. H. Witbeck Co., 127 U. S. 326, 8 S. Ct. 1136, 32 L. Ed. 134.

—355. Opening or vacating.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 811-819.

Probate proceedings in the District of Columbia in which a verdict sustaining the will has been rendered by a jury after a trial of the issues framed under a caveat will not be set aside at the instance of the caveator, who participated in the proceedings, because there was no publication, under act June 30, 1902, c. 1329, 32 Stat. 526, against unknown heirs or next of kin, until after the verdict, where there was no suggestion made at any time that there were any such persons in existence.—(1911) Lewis v. Lockett, 31 S. Ct. 682, 221 U. S. 554, 55 L. Ed. 851, affirming judgment (1908) 32 App. D. C. 188.

(K) REVIEW.

Proper mode of review, see Appeal and Error, —4.

—356. Nature and form of remedy.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 820.

A proceeding for the probate of a will in the District of Columbia is not a suit in equity, but is a case in which the parties have a right to jury trial, and in which there may be adversary parties, and hence may be brought to the supreme court from the district courts by writ of error, instead of by appeal.—Ormsby v. Webb, 134 U. S. 47, 10 S. Ct. 478, 33 L. Ed. 805; Campbell v. Porter, 162 U. S. 478, 16 S. Ct. 871, 40 L. Ed. 1044.

(L) FEES AND COSTS.

[No paragraphs or references in this Digest. But see 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 875-894.]

(M) OPERATION AND EFFECT.

—421. Collateral attack on probate or judgment.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 904-910; 30 Cent. Dig. Judgm. §§ 961, 962.

The judgment of a probate judge admitting a will to probate on the evidence of witnesses who were present at its execution, as provided by Acts N. M. Jan. 12, 1852 (Comp. Laws 1884, § 1393), is valid and conclusive, unless appealed from and reversed, though the record does not disclose that testator's heirs were cited or appeared in the probate proceedings.—Bent v. Thompson, 138 U. S. 114, 11 S. Ct. 238, 34 L. Ed. 902, affirming judgment 5 N. M. 408, 23 Pac. 234.

—422. Conclusiveness of probate or record.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 911-919; 30 Cent. Dig. Judgm. §§ 1067, 1068, 1303.

—427. — Execution, genuineness, validity, and contents of will.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 916; 30 Cent. Dig. Judgm. §§ 1068, 1303.

Probate of a will, though it may be conclusive evidence of the validity of the instrument within the state, is no proof of its execution in conformity with the laws of another state.—Robertson v. Pickrell, 109 U. S. 608, 3 S. Ct. 407, 27 L. Ed. 1049.

A decree establishing a will does not determine that any particular property belongs to the decedent's estate.—Lewers & Cooke v. Atcherly, 32 S. Ct. 94, 222 U. S. 285, 56 L. Ed. 202.

—433. Admissibility, as evidence, of will or proofs, or of record or exemplified copy thereof.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 924-927, 929-936; 30 Cent. Dig. Evid. §§ 1321, 1414, 1415.

A will proved in Virginia, agreeably to the laws of that state, is as available in evidence in Illinois as if probated in that state.—Long v. Patton, 154 U. S. 573, 14 S. Ct. 1167, 19 L. Ed. 881.

—434. Foreign probate or judgment.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 937-945; 30 Cent. Dig. Evid. § 1416.

A decree of a Texas court admitting a will to probate is not denied full faith and credit by a judgment of a Louisiana court annulling the will on the ground that testator died domiciled in Louisiana, and that by the laws of that state the will was void.—Burbank v. Ernst, 34 S. Ct. 299, 232 U. S. 162, 59 L. Ed. 551, affirming judgment Succession of Burbank, 56 So. 430, 129 La. 528.

VI. CONSTRUCTION.

(A) GENERAL RULES.

—445. Construction in favor of instrument.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 962-967.

—449. — Disposition of entire estate, or partial intestacy.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 965.

A will inartificially drawn, showing beyond doubt an intention to dispose of all the testator's property, and bequeathing to his wife deposits in a bank "amounting to $10,000, more or less," entitles her to bonds purchased after the will was made, amounting to about $9,000, when the deposit in the bank was reduced by a corresponding amount, and the bonds must otherwise remain undisposed of by the will. Decree, Sinnott v. Kenaday, 14 App. D. C. 1, reversed.—Kenaday v. Sinnott, 21 S. Ct. 233, 179 U. S. 606, 45 L. Ed. 339.

Intention of testatrix, a leper, residing at the settlement at Kalaupapa, Hawaii, to give her husband not only the property which she left situated there, but all other property owned by her, wherever situated, and of whatever character, clearly appears from a gift to him of "all property known belonging to me and appearing in my name, situate at Kalaupapa," describing it as three horses and a wooden house, and "other houses owned by me, as well as all other property owned by me."—Gray v. Noholoa, 29 S. Ct. 571, 214 U. S. 108, 53 L. Ed. 931.

454. Language of instrument.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 972-985.

461. — Substitution of words.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 980.

The word "and" will not be substituted for "or" in the clause in a will providing for the disposition of the testator's estate in case any of his sons should die "without leaving a wife or child," unless the whole context of the will plainly and beyond question requires such substitution in order to give effect to the intention of the testator. Decree (1905) 25 App. D. C. 567, affirmed.—Travers v. Reinhardt, 27 S. Ct. 563, 205 U. S. 423, 51 L. Ed. 865.

485. Evidence to aid construction.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1016-1057.

486. — In general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1016-1022.

The construction of a will, executed and attested as required by law, cannot be affected by testimony as to the testator's health at the time of publishing the will, or his length of life afterwards.—Barber v. Pittsburgh, F. W. & C. Ry. Co., 17 S. Ct. 488, 166 U. S. 83, 41 L. Ed. 925, determined on certificate (C. C.) 69 F. 501.

489. — Identification of persons or other objects.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1037-1046.

In case of a bequest of a testator's residuary estate, "to be equally divided between the Board of Foreign and the Board of Home Missions," it appearing that several different religious denominations, including the Presbyterian, have boards of home and foreign missions, held, that parol evidence was admissible to show that the testator was an elder of a Presbyterian Church, whose contributions to home and foreign missions were always sent to the Presbyterian boards; that he took especial interest in the work of those boards, and contributed to them, but not to societies of other denominations; and that this evidence, taken in connection with the fact that the testator, in other parts of the will, made other bequests to the Presbyterian Church, and objects connected with it, showed the Presbyterian Boards of Home and Foreign Missions to be entitled to receive the bequest.—Gilmer v. Stone, 120 U. S. 586, 7 S. Ct. 689, 30 L. Ed. 734.

490. — Identification of property or other subject-matter.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1047-1067.

Where a will provided, "Touching my worldly estate, I give, devise, and dispose of the same in the following manner," specifying and describing particular lots for each of his near relatives, and among them to his brother a "lot No. 6, in square 403, together with the improvements thereon," and to his son "the balance of my real estate, believed to be and to consist in lots No. 6, 8, and 9," etc., parol evidence was admissible to show that he did not own lot 6 in square 403, and that there were no improvements on it, and that he did own lot 3 in square 406, which had a dwelling on it, occupied by testator's tenants, that being the only lot owned by testator not specified and described in his will; and where the whole tenor of that instrument shows an intention to dispose of all his property, the clause will be construed to give his brother lot 3 in square 406.—Patch v. White, 117 U. S. 210, 6 S. Ct. 617, 710, 29 L. Ed. 860.

(B) DESIGNATION OF DEVISEES AND LEGATEES AND THEIR RESPECTIVE SHARES.

493. Certainty in designation and description in general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 1077.

A bequest "to the First Christian Church, erected, or to be erected, in the village of Telfairville, in Burke county, or to such persons as may become trustees of the same," is a valid bequest to charitable uses.—Jones v. Habersham, 107 U. S. 174, 2 S. Ct. 336, 27 L. Ed. 401.

498. Issue, descendants, or offspring.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1087-1089.

"Issue," and not "lawful heirs," was meant by the words "sucesion legitima" in a devise of the residue of the testator's estate "in the character of fidei-commissum, and that the other [shares] may [profit by] accretion, in case of death without sucesion legitima," in equal parts to his nieces and a foster child, who was to adopt his surname, coupled with a provision for the education of such foster child, and a request that when her education was finished she should return to live with the said nieces.—De Rodriguez v. Vivoni, 26 S. Ct. 475, 201 U. S. 371, 50 L. Ed. 792.

505. Heirs.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1090-1102.

506. — In general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1090-1099.

While, strictly speaking, no one is the "heir" of a living person, yet a devise to the "heirs" of a person named (who is a living person and is so recognized in the will) describes with sufficient certainty the persons intended, and shows that the word is not used in the strict sense, but as meaning the heirs apparent of that person, or the persons who would be his heirs were he dead when the devise takes effect.—Barber v. Pittsburgh, F. W. & C. Ry. Co., 17 S. Ct. 488, 166 U. S. 83, 41 L. Ed. 925, Determined on certificate (C. C.) 69 F. 501.

516. Educational institutions.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 1111.

The institution incorporated as "The President and Directors of Georgetown College" by Act Cong. June 10, 1844, c. 41, 6 Stat. 912, which expressly provides that no misnomer of a corporation shall defeat or annul any donation, is entitled to the property bequeathed to "Georgetown University in the District of Columbia," where there is not in such district any such incorporated institution of learning as "Georgetown University," separate from and independent of "Georgetown College." Judgment, Colbert v. Speer, 24 App. D. C. 187, affirmed.—Speer v. Colbert, 26 S. Ct. 201, 200 U. S. 130, 50 L. Ed. 403.

530. Taking per stirpes or per capita.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1143-1152.

531. — In general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1143, 1144, 1148-1152.

The children of the brothers of an illiterate testator take per capita, and not per stirpes, under the residuary clause of a will in which, after making a bequest to certain "nephews and nieces," the testator provides for an equal division of the remainder "between my brothers Edwin and Charles children." Decree 20 App. D. C. 134, affirmed.—McIntire v. McIntire, 24 S. Ct. 196, 192 U. S. 116, 48 L. Ed. 369.

(C) SURVIVORSHIP, REPRESENTATION, AND SUBSTITUTION.

537. Death of devisee or legatee as contingency.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1162-1164, 1302-1309.

539. — Devise or bequest to take effect immediately.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1163, 1302-1308.

The intention of a testatrix that, failing husband or son surviving, her estate should go to a designated charity, is so manifest from the terms of her will, by which she devised her entire estate to her son, subject to a provision for her husband's support, and provided that in case she survived both husband and son it should go to such charity, which was also to receive the estate at the husband's death in case he alone survived, that such charity will take to the exclusion of the next of kin of either the testatrix or her son, where both survive the husband, but perish in a common disaster, with nothing to show the order of death. Decree, Paul v. Hulick, 18 App. D. C. 9, reversed.—Young Women's Christian Home v. French, 23 S. Ct. 184, 187 U. S. 401, 47 L. Ed. 233.

541. Death coupled with other contingency.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1165-1173, 1302-1309.

545. — Dying without issue.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1171-1176, 1310-1313.

In Pennsylvania, when there is a devise to a person named, with a devise over, "in case of his death unmarried or without issue," these words are equivalent to simply "dying without issue," unless there is something else in the case to require a different construction.—Barber v. Pittsburgh, F. W. & C. Ry. Co., 17 S. Ct. 488, 166 U. S. 83, 41 L. Ed. 925; determined on certificate (C. C.) 69 F. 501.

By the settled rule in Pennsylvania, a devise over to named living persons, on the failure of the issue of the first taker, imports, not a definite, but an indefinite, failure of issue.—Id.

(D) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.

558. Mode of description.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1206, 1206, 1211-1215.

Although a will disposes of the testator's entire estate among several legatees, a codicil giving a sum fixed to a certain person is not to be rejected because it is ambiguous as to which of the funds theretofore bequeathed shall be subject to the payment of the last legacy. Decree 10 App. D. C. 56, reversed.—Home for Incurables v. Noble, 19 S. Ct. 226, 172 U. S. 383, 43 L. Ed. 486.

574. Debts or other obligations released.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1252-1254.

Testator, dying without issue, by his will gave the bulk of his property to his brothers and sisters in equal shares, and directed "that any and all notes, bills, accounts, agreements, or other evidences of indebtedness against any of my said brothers and sisters, held by me at the time of my decease, be canceled by my said executors, and delivered up to the maker or makers thereof, without payment of the same, or any part thereof," except two notes given by his brother J. alone, secured by a trust deed, which he directed to be collected and divided among his brothers and sisters. Held, that such clause did not include joint and several notes given after the date of the will, by a partnership of which a brother was a member, to obtain money to carry on the partnership business, and secured by an agreement to convey land, or any part of such notes.—Waterman v. Alden, 143 U. S. 196, 12 S. Ct. 435, 36 L. Ed. 123.

578. After-acquired property.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1258-1265.

A devise of "all my right, title, and interest in and to all my lands, lots, and real estate," excepting certain lands specifically devised, and "all my personal property and estate, of whatsoever kind and nature," is sufficiently comprehensive to pass real estate subsequently acquired, of which testator is seized and possessed at his death.—Hardenbergh v. Ray, 151 U. S. 112, 14 S. Ct. 305, 38 L. Ed. 93, affirming judgment Hardenbergh v. Same (C. C.) 33 F. 812.

(E) NATURE OF ESTATES AND INTERESTS CREATED.

592. Limitation over on death of devisee or legatee.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1302-1312.

594. — Dying without issue.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1310-1318.

A testator devised to E. land in fee, and provided that, should E. die in her minority, and without lawful issue then living, the land should revert and become a part of the residue of his estate. He also devised land to his son W. for life, remainder to J., son of W., in fee, with a like proviso; gave to his widow certain real and personal property for life, and devised the residue of his estate to his executors, and directed that the income be suffered to accumulate until his eldest grandchild, then living, should attain the age of 21 years, or until the decease of his son W., whichever should first occur, and then the whole to be equally divided among all his grandchildren then living, and in making such division the amount of the devise to J. and to E., according to an estimate of their present value, to be made by three appraisers, to be charged to them as part of their respective shares. Held, that the limitation over in the devise to E. took effect on her dying under age and without issue, though after the deaths of the testator and of W.—Britton v. Thornton, 112 U. S. 526, 5 S. Ct. 291, 28 L. Ed. 816, affirming Thornton v. Britton (C. C.) 8 F. 308.

596. Fee simple.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1319-1350, 1808.

598. — Devise without words of limitation.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1327-1331.

The evident intention of a testator to dispose of his whole estate by a will making all his heirs at law devisees, with a special aim at equality among them, particularly evidenced by charging the funeral expenses and the testator's debts upon that devisee who was given a greater quantity of realty than the others, prevents the application of the rule that devises of land without words of limitation or description pass nothing but a life estate. Decree 22 App. D. C. 385, reversed.—McCaffrey v. Manogue, 25 S. Ct. 319, 196 U. S. 563, 49 L. Ed. 600.

600. — General devise with power of disposition.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1335-1339.

A devise "to my brother, to be held, used, and enjoyed by him, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns forever, with the hope and trust, however, that he will not diminish the same to a greater extent than may be necessary for his comfortable support and maintenance, and that at his death the same, or so much thereof as he shall not have disposed of by devise or sale, shall descend" to the testator's three nieces, share and share alike, confers an estate in fee simple with an absolute power of disposition on the brother, and the limitation over is void.—Howard v. Carusi, 109 U. S. 725, 3 S. Ct. 575, 27 L. Ed. 1089.

By a will, testator gave to his wife "all my estate, real and personal," "to be and remain hers, with full power, right, and authority to dispose of the same as to her shall seem most meet and proper, so long as she shall remain my widow," upon condition that, if she should marry again, "all of the estate herein bequeathed, or whatever may remain, should go to my surviving children." Held, that under Comp. St. Neb. c. 23, § 124; c. 73, § 49—providing that devises of land shall be construed to convey all the estate of the devisor therein which he could lawfully devise, unless a different intention shall clearly appear by the will, and that the term "heirs," or other technical words of inheritance, shall not be necessary to create or convey a fee, the will gave testator's widow such an estate in lands in Nebraska, of which he died seised, that she could, during her widowhood, convey to third persons an estate in fee simple therein.—Roberts v. Lewis, 153 U. S. 367, 14 S. Ct. 945, 38 L. Ed. 747.

◀604. Estates tail.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1360-1371.

◀605. — Words necessary or sufficient in general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1360-1365.

In Pennsylvania, a devise to A., and in the event of her "dying unmarried, or, if married, dying without offspring by her husband, then these lots are to be sold, and the proceeds to be equally divided among the heirs of J.," creates an estate tail in A. Decree (C. C.) 69 F. 501, affirmed on certificate.—Barber v. Pittsburgh, F. W. & C. Ry. Co., 17 S. Ct. 488, 166 U. S. 83, 41 L. Ed. 925.

◀608. Application of rule in Shelley's Case.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1372-1373.

Under the law of real property prevailing in the District of Columbia, as declared by the courts of Maryland and of the District, though the rule in Shelley's Case is recognized as one of property, yet, if there are explanatory and qualifying expressions from which it appears that the import of the technical language is contrary to the clear and plain intent of the testator, the former must yield, and the latter will prevail; and where there is a devise to a person for life, with remainder to the heirs begotten of his body, and their heirs and assigns, forever, the first taker has an estate for life, and his children take an estate in fee, by purchase.—De Vaughn v. Hutchinson, 17 S. Ct. 461, 165 U. S. 566, 41 L. Ed. 827.

The testator must be deemed to have used the words of inheritance as mere descriptive personarum, and not in their full legal sense, thus defeating the application of the rule in Shelley's Case, where, after giving outright to his other children their respective shares of his estate, he directed that the share of a specified son should be paid over to certain designated trustees, the income therefrom to be paid over to such son, "the principal to be paid to his heirs after his death."—(1912) Vogt v. Graff, 32 Sup. Ct. 134, 222 U. S. 404, 56 L. Ed. 249, affirming judgment (1909) Vogt v. Same, 33 App. D. C. 358.

The rule in Shelley's Case does not apply where the particular estate is equitable, and the estate in remainder legal.—Id.

◀627. Estates in severalty, joint tenancy, or tenancy in common.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1452-1459.

The surviving daughter of the testator does not take, to the exclusion of her sister's children, under a will executed after the marriage of such sister, devising the testator's real property in trust to his daughters "for and during their respective lives * * * and from and after their death in trust for the child or children of each of my said daughters then alive in fee simple," and providing that, if any of the daughters should die without having been married, her share should pass to the survivors. Decree (1905) 25 App. D. C. 514, affirmed.—Cruit v. Owen, 27 S. Ct. 71, 203 U. S. 368, 51 L. Ed. 227.

(F) VESTED OR CONTINGENT ESTATES AND INTERESTS.

◀630. Contingency on which estate or interest depends in general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1464-1480, 1486, 1487.

A testator appointed certain persons executors and trustees of his will, and devised and bequeathed all his estate to them "for the term of 20 years, in trust, and for the uses and objects and purposes hereinafter mentioned and expressed, and for the purpose of enabling them more fully to carry into effect the provisions of this will, and for no other use, purpose or object." The trustees were authorized to make leases and loans for periods within the 20 years. They were also authorized to mortgage the real estate for the purpose of rebuilding in case of destruction by the elements. Testator then devised and bequeathed his estate, after payment of debts and legacies which were charged on the real estate, to four persons in equal shares, "after the expiration of the trust estate vested in my executors and trustees for the term of 20 years after my decease," and directed a certain part of the income to be paid to one of the devisees "until the final division of my estate, which shall take place at the end of 20 years after my decease, and not sooner." Testator further directed that no part of the estate should "be sold, mortgaged (except for building), or in any manner incumbered until the end of 20 years from and after my decease, when it may be divided or sold for the purpose of making a division between my devisees"; that, in the event of any of the devisees being alive at the end of the 20 years, there should be a division of the estate, "anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding"; and that "in such case my executors, in making division of the said estate, shall apportion each legacy or annuity on the estate assigned to my devisees, who are hereby charged with the payment of the same." Held, that an equitable estate in fee in one-fourth of the estate vested in each of the four devisees at the death of testator.—Potter v. Couch, 141 U. S. 296, 11 S. Ct. 1005, 35 L. Ed. 721.

A testator appointed certain persons executors and trustees of his will, and devised and bequeathed all his estate to them "for the term of 20 years, in trust, and for the uses and objects and purposes hereinafter mentioned and expressed, and for the purpose of enabling them more fully to carry into effect the provisions of this will, and for no other use, purpose or object." The trustees were authorized to make leases and loans for periods within the 20 years. They were also authorized to mortgage the real estate for the purpose of rebuilding in case of destruction by the elements. Testator then devised and bequeathed his estate, after payment of debts and legacies which were charged on the real estate, to four persons in equal shares, "after the expiration of the trust estate vested in my executors and trustees for the term of 20 years after my decease," and directed a certain part of the income to be paid to one of the devisees "until the final division of my estate, which shall take place at the end of 20 years after my decease, and not sooner." Testator further directed that no part of the estate should "be sold, mortgaged (except for building), or in any manner incumbered until the end of 20 years from and after my decease, when it may be divided or sold for the purpose of making a division between my devisees"; that, in the event of any of the devisees being alive at the end of the 20 years, there should be a division of the estate, "anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding"; and that "in such case my executors, in making division of the said estate, shall apportion each legacy or annuity on the estate assigned to my devisees, who are hereby charged with the payment of the same." Held, that an equitable estate in fee in one-fourth of the estate vested in each of the four devisees at the death of testator.—Id.

634. Remainders.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1488-1510.

A testator devised lands and personal property to his executors and their successors, and their heirs, in trust; and directed that the income, until his youngest grandchild who might live to be 21 years of age should arrive at that age, should be divided equally among the testator's children, or the issue of any child dying, and among the grandchildren also as they successively came of age; that "after the decease of all my children, and when and as soon as the youngest grandchild shall arrive at the age of twenty-one years," the lands should be "inherited and equally divided between my grandchildren per capita," in fee, and that "in like manner" the personal property should "at the same time be equally divided among my said grandchildren, share and share alike, per capita"; and that if any grandchild should die before the final division, leaving children, they should take and receive, per stirpes, the share which their parent would have been entitled to have and receive if then living; and provided that any assignment, mortgage, or pledge by any grandchild of his share should be void, and the executors, in the final division and distribution, should convey and pay to the persons entitled under the will. Held, that all the grandchildren took equitable vested remainders, opening to let in those born after the testator's death, and subject to be divested only as to any grandchild who died before the expiration of the particular estate, leaving issue, by an executory devise over to such issue.—McArthur v. Scott, 113 U. S. 340, 5 S. Ct. 652, 28 L. Ed. 1015.

Under a will, the daughters surviving testator held to have taken at his death a vested remainder in fee in the homestead to take effect in possession on the marriage of all of them, or the death of the last unmarried daughter, not defeasible as to any one of them by her death, leaving descendants, before expiration of the preceding estates.—(1912) Johnson v. Washington Loan & Trust Co., 32 S. Ct. 421, 224 U. S. 224, 56 L. Ed. 741, affirming decree (1909) 33 App. D. C. 242.

635. Opening of vested estates or interests to let in after-born children.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1511-1513.

Where an estate is given to a person, for life, with remainder to after-born children, upon the birth of a child, the estate vests in him, subject to open and let in after-born children.—

McArthur v. Scott, 113 U. S. 340, 5 S. Ct. 652, 28 L. Ed. 1015.

636. Devesting vested estates or interests.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1514-1518.

A remainder to children, vesting in those in esse at the death of the testator and in those born during the continuance of the life estate, is defeated as to a child dying before the termination of the particular estate.—McArthur v. Scott, 113 U. S. 340, 5 S. Ct. 652, 28 L. Ed. 1015.

(G) CONDITIONS AND RESTRICTIONS.

640. Validity of conditions.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1525-1545.

649. — Restraint of alienation.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 1540.

A clause of a will that, "if either of the devisees or legatees named in my will shall in any way or manner cease to be personally entitled to the legacy or devise made by me for his or her benefit, the share intended for such devisee or legatee shall go to" certain other persons, is void as in restraint of alienation.—Potter v. Couch, 141 U. S. 296, 11 S. Ct. 1005, 35 L. Ed. 721.

659. Performance or breach.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 953, 1555-1559.

665. — Breach and effect thereof.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1561-1569.

Where bequests were made on condition that the legatees acquiesce in the will, with bequests over of the shares of any who should dispute it, a claim set up by some of the legatees to the ownership of certain property which the testator had assumed to dispose of as his own was an election by such legatees not to acquiesce in the will, and the gift over of their shares took effect. Judgment Meech v. Smithsonian Institution, 8 App. D. C. 490, reversed.—Smithsonian Institution v. Meech, 18 S. Ct. 396, 169 U. S. 398, 42 L. Ed. 793.

671. — In general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1577, 1578, 1586.

A testator bequeathed to each of his four daughters $20,000, to be held in trust by his executors to apply the income to their use and benefit, and provided that "from and after the intermarriage of any of them" his executors should hold the securities "belonging to the said daughter so marrying, in trust for the following purposes": (1) For the maintenance of her and her husband, and the survivor of them for life, and after the death of both "for such issue as she may leave at the time of her death"; (2) "and, in case she shall die without leaving such issue," then for her surviving sisters, and the issue of any deceased sister; and (3) that both principal and income "shall be utterly free from the power or control of the husbands of my said daughters." Held, that the provisions relative to the daughters who should die without issue applied only to those who married, and that a daughter who never married took an absolute title to her portion.—Wellford v. Snyder, 137 U. S. 521, 11 S. Ct. 183, 34 L. Ed. 780, affirming decree Snyder v. Baker, 5 Mackey, 443.

Ⓒ679. Construction of testamentary trusts.

Ⓒ681. — Trustees.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1599-1601, 1612, 1613.

A testator appointed certain persons executors and trustees of his will, and devised and bequeathed all his estate to them "for the term of 20 years, in trust, and for the uses and objects and purposes hereinafter mentioned and expressed, and for the purpose of enabling them more fully to carry into effect the provisions of this will, and for no other use, purpose, or object." The trustees were authorized to make leases and loans for periods within the 20 years. They were also authorized to mortgage the real estate for the purpose of rebuilding in case of destruction by the elements. Testator then devised and bequeathed his estate, after payment of debts and legacies, which were charged on the real estate, to four persons in equal shares, "after the expiration of the trust estate vested in my executors and trustees for the term of 20 years after my decease," and directed a certain part of the income to be paid to one of the devisees "until the final division of my estate, which shall take place at the end of 20 years after my decease, and not sooner." Testator further directed that no part of the estate should "be sold, mortgaged, except for building, or in any manner incumbered until the end of 20 years from and after my decease, when it may be divided or sold for the purpose of making a division between my devisees"; that, in the event of any of the devisees being alive at the end of the 20 years, there should be a division of the estate, "anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding"; and that "in such case my executors, in making division of the said estate, shall apportion each legacy or annuity on the estate assigned to my devisees, who are hereby charged with the payment of the same." Held, that the executors took the legal title to the estate in fee, to hold until they had divided the estate, though the 20 years should have elapsed before the division.—Potter v. Couch, 141 U. S. 296, 11 S. Ct. 1005, 35 L. Ed. 721.

Ⓒ684. — Capital and income.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1614-1628.

Where certain shares of capital stock in a business corporation were bequeathed in trust to pay over the "dividends of said stock" to another during her life, remainder to the trustee absolutely, and thereafter the corporation increased its capital stock to represent profits actually invested in extending and perfecting its plant, and distributed the new shares pro rata among the holders of the old, the new shares represented capital, and not income or dividends," and therefore the trustee was entitled, as against the life tenant, to hold the new shares received by her, subject to the same trust as the old, and with the same right of remainder.—Gibbons v. Mahon, 136 U. S. 549, 10 S. Ct. 1057, 34 L. Ed. 525, affirming 4 Mackey, 130, 54 Am. Rep. 262.

The widow is not entitled to any part of the income from her deceased husband's realty before the same comes into the executors' hands as trustees under a will directing the executors, who are also named as trustees, to obtain a decree of distribution, as soon as may be, and devising the residue of the testator's estate, not before otherwise devised or bequeathed, to the trustees living at the date of the decree of distribution, who, "with respect to all property which shall be so distributed to them," are to reduce the same to possession and manage it, collecting the rents and income, and keeping separate the accounts pertaining to the realty, and to pay over to the widow, in lieu of dower, one-third of the income of the "realty last aforesaid."—Hawaiian Trust Co. v. Von Holt, 30 S. Ct. 303, 218 U. S. 367, 54 L. Ed. 519.

Ⓒ686. Effect of failure of trust.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1644-1649.

An equitable life estate given to a niece of the testator in the income from a specified piece of land excepted from the general scheme for the creation of a trust fund from the rents of the testator's real property for the benefit of his grandchildren does not fail because of the repugnancy of this scheme to the rule against perpetuities, the effect of which is to give the testator's daughter all the rest of the property, including the remainder in the life estate; nor does this result follow because the trustees are directed to keep such income up to $40 per month from the other property included in the trust. Decree (1905) 25 App. D. C. 291, affirmed.—Landram v. Jordan, 27 S. Ct. 17, 203 U. S. 56, 51 L. Ed. 88.

(I) ACTIONS TO CONSTRUE WILLS.

Ⓒ707. Fees and costs.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1684-1686.

Costs on the affirmance by the federal Supreme Court of a decree of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia which affirmed a decree of the Supreme Court of the District in a suit to construe a will, upholding all the disputed provisions, will be taxed against the unsuccessful appellants, where the executor did not appeal from the original decree nor from the decree of affirmance by the Court of Appeals. Decree (1905) 26 App. D. C. 209, affirmed.—Iglehart v. Iglehart, 27 S. Ct. 329, 204 U. S. 478, 51 L. Ed. 575.

(A) NATURE OF TITLE AND RIGHTS IN GENERAL.

Ⓒ714. Devise or bequest to creditor.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1698-1703.

When a will made a general bequest of the testator's whole estate to her children, to all of whom she had been indebted, but one of whom she had paid, such will being made before the liquidation of the indebtedness, the presumption that a legacy to a creditor is in satisfaction of his debt does not apply, and the claims of the children are not extinguished by the provisions of their mother's will.—*Glover v. Ⓒ727. Possession and control of property.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1746-1758.

A direction to hold and administer a testator's property for the benefit of certain minor legatees, which would forbid the transfer of the property to a lawfully appointed administrator or to one legally authorized to receive it, cannot be implied from a clause in the will appointing the holder of such property to distribute the proceeds equally between such legatees. Decree 24 App. D. C. 573, reversed.—Darlington v. Turner, 26 S. Ct. 630, 202 U. S. 195, 50 L. Ed. 992.

6-732. Property or fund out of which legacies are to be paid.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1732-1737, 1801-1818.

Where a will gives directly to a legatee the interest on $4,000 for life, and "the said sum of $4,000," on the death of the life tenant, to certain persons named, the executors cannot, by setting apart a bond and mortgage for $4,000, and by recording a declaration of trust to this effect, preclude the legatees from enforcing payment of the legacy from the general assets of the estate; the legatees never having assented to or ratified the action of the executors, or waived their rights under the will.—*Sherman v. (C) ADVANCEMENTS, ADEMPMENT, SATISFACTION, AND LAPSE.

6-757. Advancements.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1957-1977; 20 Cent. Dig. Evid. §§ 1059, 1066, 1138.

6-759. — Construction and operation of testamentary provisions.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 1961-1965.

The will of M. gave his estate, in equal shares, to his four children and a grandchild, and directed that any advances to them, made or to be made, should be treated as gifts, and not in any manner to be accounted for. Held, that the dominating purpose of the will was to secure an equal division of what property the testator should leave, irrespective of advances; and, while a debt from a legatee might be created which would be independent of the absolution accorded by the will, to establish such a debt would require clear proof of a distinct purpose to do so on the part of the testator. Decree, Cowen v. Adams, 78 F. 536, 24 C. C. A. 198, affirmed.—Adams v. Cowan, 19 S. Ct. 873, 174 U. S. 800, 43 L. Ed. 1188.

Moneys advanced by testator to a son during his lifetime and after the will was made, whatever the amount and whether charged on his books or not, cannot be deducted from the share of such son under a will reciting that he has made advances to children which are charged to them on his books, and may make further advances which may be charged on his books to their respective accounts, and that he desires that equal provision made for each shall be in addition to the "advances made or that may hereafter be made," and that "said advances made and that may hereafter be made be treated, not as advances, but as gifts, not in any manner to be accounted for." Decree, Cowen v. Adams, 80 F. 448, 25 C. C. A. 547, affirmed.—Adams v. Cowen, 20 S. Ct. 668, 177 U. S. 471, 44 L. Ed. 851, affirming judgment on rehearing 19 S. Ct. 873, 174 U. S. 800, 43 L. Ed. 1188.

(D) ELECTION.

(E) ABATEMENT.

[No paragraphs or references in this Digest. But see 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 2100-2112.]

(F) LEGACIES CHARGED ON PROPERTY, ESTATE, OR INTEREST.

6-820. Charge on property of estate in general.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 2114-2119, 2121.

A devise of land was made on specified conditions, "under the penalty in case of noncompliance, of loss of the above property," the conditions being to pay certain money legacies, and a life annuity in money. Other legacies in money were given, and there was a provision "that all the legacies which I have given in money and not charged upon any particular fund" should not be payable for two years "after my decease," followed by a provision as to the payment by the devisee of interest on the first-named money legacies after she should come into possession of the land devised. No other money legacies were given payable by any person on conditions, and there were no other legacies in money which could answer the description of legacies in money charged on a particular fund. Held, that the life annuity was a charge on the land devised.—Canal Bank v. Hudson, 111 U. S. 66, 4 S. Ct. 303, 28 L. Ed. 354.

A testator owning a large estate and making his will, in view of impending dissolution, bequeathed his entire estate to his wife, adding: "I recommend to her the care and protection of my mother and sister, and request her to make such gift and provision for them as in her judgment will be best." The mother and sister resided at a distance, and were in urgent need of such provision; the mother being an invalid of advanced age, requiring constant medical attendance, nursing, and care, and having no income except the interest on $15,000, which had been loaned to testator many years before by his deceased father, and the sister being wholly dependent on her. Held, that it was the testator's intention to charge the bequeathed estate with such gift and provisions, and that the request was mandatory.—Colton v. Colton, 127 U. S. 300, 8 S. Ct. 1164, 32 L. Ed. 138, reversing decree (C. C.) 21 F. 594.

6-826. Enforcement of charge.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 2123-2133.

Where a life annuity was made a charge on land devised, and the will was proved and recorded in the county where the land was situated, it was not necessary, in a suit in chancery by the life annuitant, to establish the arrears due on the annuity as a specific lien on the land, to make as defendant the trustee in a deed of trust made by the devisee under the will, provided, in a suit to enforce the deed of trust, brought by the beneficiaries under it, they were given the right to contest the validity of the lien claimed by the life annuitant, and to redeem the land from such lien, when established.—Canal Bank v. Hudson, 111 U. S. 66, 4 S. Ct. 303, 28 L. Ed. 354.

(G) DEBTS OF TESTATOR AND INCUMBRANCES ON PROPERTY.

[No paragraphs or references in this Digest. But see 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 2139-2164.]

(H) VOID, LAPSED, AND FORFEITED DEVISES AND BEQUESTS, AND PROPERTY AND INTERESTS UNDISPOSED OF.

6-851. Effect of failure of devise or bequest on limitation over or other disposition.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, §§ 2167-2170.

6-853. — Acceleration of remainder or other subsequent interest.

See 49 Cent. Dig. Wills, § 2169.

Testator bequeathed the income from his estate to his wife. At her death it should go to his sisters, if living, and on their death be divided among three charitable institutions. Held, that the death of the sisters before the testator did not defeat the remainder of the charities, but it vested in them upon the death of the widow.—Robison v. Female Orphan Asylum of Portland, 123 U. S. 702, 8 S. Ct. 327, 31 L. Ed. 293.

The court allowed 15 witnesses for defendant to be summoned at government expense, and disallowed 10, of whom 2 were already summoned, 7 were the wives of witnesses whom the court ordered summoned (the affidavit stating that the husband and wife were relied on to prove the same fact), and 1 was relied on merely to corroborate the testimony of other witnesses. Held, that the action of the court was proper.—Goldsby v. United States, 160 U. S. 70, 16 S. Ct. 216, 40 L. Ed. 343.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 19-27; 12 Cent. Dig. Corp. § 2090.

A paper directing the registrar of voters to furnish the number of white and colored voters, without specifying any paper in his possession the production of which is sought, is not a subpoena duces tecum.—Murray v. State of Louisiana, 163 U. S. 101, 16 S. Ct. 990, 41 L. Ed. 87.

A paper directing the jury commissioners to furnish the names and residences of citizens who appeared for qualification as jurors, and of those who qualified, and from whom the grand jury was drawn, is not a subpoena duces tecum.—Id.

The officer of a corporation having in his possession the books of the corporation, described in a subpoena duces tecum directed to the corporation, must produce the books or be held in contempt.—Wilson v. United States, 31 S. Ct. 538, 221 U. S. 361, 55 L. Ed. 771, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 558.

A subpoena duces tecum directed to a corporation is not illegal because it does not conform to the provisions of Rev. St. § 877 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 667), that witnesses required on the part of the United States shall be subpoenaed "to attend to testify generally on their behalf, and not to depart the court without leave thereof or of the district attorney."—Id.

A subpoena duces tecum is not invalid because it contains no ad testificandum clause, but simply directs a corporation, which could not give oral testimony, to produce books.—Id.

The authority to issue subpoenas duces tecum was comprehended in the power conferred upon the Federal courts by Act Sept. 24, 1789, c. 20, § 14, 1 Stat. 81 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 580), to issue all writs not specially provided for by statute which may be necessary for the exercise of their respective jurisdictions, and agreeable to the practice and usages of law.—(1911) American Lithographic Co. v. Werckmeister, 31 S. Ct. 676, 221 U. S. 603, 55 L. Ed. 873, affirming judgment (1908) 165 F. 426, 91 C. C. A. 376.

Compulsory production of the books of a corporate defendant under a subpoena duces tecum served upon an officer of the corporation in an action to recover the penalties prescribed by Rev. St. § 4905 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3414) for printing and selling copies of a copyrighted painting, did not, after the change of the rule as to the incompetency of parties as witnesses, made by section 858 (page 659) violate any of the rights of the corporation under section 724 (page 583) providing for the production on notice and motion of a party's books and papers, since this section cannot be regarded as providing an exclusive procedure.—Id.

One who, though a lunatic, is able to apprehend the obligation of an oath, and give a correct account of matters he has seen or heard, is admissible as a witness.—District of Columbia v. Arms, 107 U. S. 519, 2 S. Ct. 840, 27 L. Ed. 618.

—45. Obligation of oath.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 104-107.

On a trial for murder, a boy nearly five and a half years old, being offered as a witness, stated on his voir dire that he knew the difference between the truth and a lie; that if he told a lie, the bad man would get him; that he was going to tell the truth; that his mother had told him that morning to "tell no lie." To the question what would be done with him in court if he told a lie, he replied that they would put him in jail, and to a question as to what the clerk said to him when he held up his hand, he answered: "Don't you tell no story." Held competent.—Wheeler v. United States, 159 U. S. 523, 16 S. Ct. 93, 40 L. Ed. 244.

Cr. Proc. Act Utah, 1878, provides that "the rules for determining the competency of witnesses in civil actions are applicable also to criminal actions and proceedings, except as otherwise provided in this act." Civ. Prac. Act § 374, provides that "all persons, without exception, otherwise than as specified in this chapter, may be witnesses in any act or proceeding. Facts which, by the common law, would cause the exclusion of witnesses, may still be shown for the purpose of affecting their credibility." Section 378, which was repealed by Act March 9, 1882, provided that "persons against whom judgment has been rendered upon a conviction for felony, unless pardoned by the governor, or such judgment has been reversed on appeal, shall not be witnesses." Held, that by such repeal convicted felons were made competent witnesses in criminal as well as civil cases.—Hopt v. People of Territory of Utah, 110 U. S. 574, 4 S. Ct. 202, 28 L. Ed. 262.

At common law, and on general principles of jurisprudence, when not controlled by express statute giving effect within the state which enacts it to a conviction and sentence in another, such conviction and sentence can have no effect by way of penalty or of personal disability or qualification beyond the limits of the state in which the judgment is rendered. A conviction in North Carolina will not make the convict incompetent to testify in Texas.—Logan v. United States, 144 U. S. 263, 12 S. Ct. 617, 36 L. Ed. 429, reversing judgment United States v. Logan (C. C.) 45 F. 872.

—49. — Effect of pardon or punishment.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 116-118.

The granting of a full and unconditional pardon by the president of the United States to a person convicted of a felony restores his competency as a witness, and this result is not affected by a recital in the pardon that it was granted for the reason, among others, that his testimony was desired by the government, in a cause then pending in a court of the United States.—Boyd v. United States, 142 U. S. 450, 12 S. Ct. 292, 35 L. Ed. 1077, reversing judgment United States v. Boyd (C. C.) 45 F. 851.

A full pardon by the governor of Texas of a person convicted of crime therein, though granted after he has served out his term of imprisonment, takes away all disqualifications as a witness, and restores his competency to testify to any facts within his knowledge, even if they came to his knowledge before his disqualification was removed by the pardon.—Logan v. United States, 144 U. S. 263, 12 S. Ct. 617, 36 L. Ed. 429, reversing judgment United States v. Logan (C. C.) 45 F. 872.

Feb. 19, 1867 (Pub. See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 491-522.

Rev. St. § 858 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 659], provides that in the United States courts no witness shall be excluded in any civil action because he is a party to or interested in the issue tried, "provided, that in actions by or against executors, * * * in which judgment may be rendered for or against them, neither party shall be allowed to testify against the other, as to any transaction with, or statement by, the testator, * * * unless called to testify thereto by the opposite party. * * * In all other respects, the laws of the state in which the court is held shall be the rules of decision as to the competency of witnesses," at law or in equity. Held, that the words "in all other respects" mean "in all other respects than those provided for in the clause preceding the proviso"; and a witness cannot be excluded simply because he is a party to or interested in the issues.—Goodwin v. Fox, 129 U. S. 601, 9 S. Ct. 367, 32 L. Ed. 805.

(C) TESTIMONY OF PARTIES OR PERSONS INTERESTED, FOR OR AGAINST REPRESENTATIVES, SURVIVORS, OR SUCCESSORS IN TITLE OR INTEREST OF PERSONS DECEASED OR INCOMPETENT.

127. Actions and proceedings in which testimony is excluded.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 553-573.

128. — In general.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 553-555, 562-564, 570.

A proceeding to subject to execution corporate stock which had been assigned to defendant by the execution debtor, who died pending the action, and whose administrator was substituted as a party defendant, is not an action "by or against" the administrator within Rev. St. § 858 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 659], so as to render the testimony of the administrator of defendant incompetent, for the liability of the estate had already been fixed by the judgment against decedent, and the real issue was between plaintiff and defendant as to the validity of the attachment.—Monongahela Nat. Bank v. Jacobus, 109 U. S. 275, 3 S. Ct. 219, 27 L. Ed. 935.

129. — Representative or other capacity, or title or interest of party.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 556-560.

Rev. St. § 858 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 659], provides that no witness shall be rendered incompetent because of interest, except that in actions by or against executors or administrators, an interested party will not be admitted to testify to transactions with any decedent. Held, that the exception cannot be extended to an action against an assignee in bankruptcy.—Hobbs v. McLean, 117 U. S. 567, 6 S. Ct. 870, 29 L. Ed. 940.

Though complainant is executrix of the person with whom the transactions were had, yet, where she does not seek a decree in her favor as executrix, but claims only as legatee and devisee, she is not forbidden to testify by Rev. St. § 858 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 659], providing that, in actions by or against executors, neither party shall testify against the other as to any transaction with or statement by testator, unless called to testify thereto by the opposite party.—Goodwin v. Fox, 129 U. S. 601, 9 S. Ct. 367, 32 L. Ed. 805.

133. — Claim or demand against estate of decedent or incompetent person.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 566-569.

A suit against executors to establish a trust in favor of plaintiff as to property held by the testator in his own name asserts a "demand against the estate of a deceased person," within the meaning of the Utah statute (2 Comp. Laws 1888, p. 427, tit. 10, c. 2) disqualifying as witnesses parties to an action "against an executor or administrator upon a claim or demand against the estate of a deceased person as to any matter of fact occurring before the death of such deceased person and equally within the knowledge of both the witness and the deceased person." 32 P. 48, 8 Utah, 380 affirmed.—Whitney v. Fox, 17 S. Ct. 713, 166 U. S. 637, 41 L. Ed. 1145.

137. Parties and other persons whose testimony is excluded.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 574-649, 651.

139. — Parties of record.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 582-597.

A husband who joins his wife in a crossbill to enforce an alleged trust against a decedent's estate for the benefit of the wife alone is not rendered incompetent as a witness by Pub. Laws III. 1867, p. 183, § 2, which provides that no party or interested person shall testify against an adverse party who sues or defends as heir of a decedent, as he is not directly interested nor is he a party adverse to complainant within the statute.—Kingsbury v. Buckner, 134 U. S. 650, 10 S. Ct. 638, 33 L. Ed. 1047.

Under Rev. St. § 858 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 659]; Act July 16, 1862, c. 189 (12 Stat. 588, Act July 2, 1864, c. 210, § 3, 13 Stat. 351, Act March 3, 1865, c. 113, 13 Stat. 533), providing that no person shall be excluded as a witness in a civil action by reason of being "a party to or interested in the issue tried," except "that in actions by or against executors, administrators, or guardians, in which judgment may be rendered for or against them, neither party shall be allowed to testify against the other as to any transaction with or statement by the testator, intestate, or ward, unless called to testify thereto by the opposite party, or required to testify thereto by the court," where, in an action by the administratrix of L. against the administrator of S., plaintiff resigns as administratrix, and an administrator de bonis non is appointed, and allowed to prosecute in her place, she ceases to be a party, and becomes a competent witness.—Snyder v. Fiedler, 139 U. S. 478, 11 S. Ct. 583, 35 L. Ed. 218.

157. Subject-matter of testimony.

163. — Admissions or other statements by person subsequently deceased or incompetent.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. § 670.

Declarations by the deceased president of defendant company, if relevant, may be admitted; neither the person testifying to them nor the president's executor or administrator being interested in the suit.—Jacksonville, M., P. Ry. & Nav. Co. v. Hooper, 160 U. S. 514, 16 S. Ct. 379, 40 L. Ed. 515.

(D) CONFIDENTIAL RELATIONS AND PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS.

187. Husband and wife.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 734-743.

188. — In general.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 734, 736.

Neither Rev. St. § 858, removing the disqualification of witnesses for interest, nor the act of July 20, 1864, relating to the law of evidence in the District of Columbia (13 Stat. 374; Rev. St. D. C. §§ 786, 877), has altered the rule of the common law in regard to the disclosure of private communications between husband and wife, except where the husband or wife called as a witness is a party to, or interested in, the suit in which the testimony is sought; and a husband or wife, not a party or interested, is incompetent to testify in any suit to such communications.—Hopkins v. Grimshaw, 17 S. Ct. 401, 165 U. S. 342, 41 L. Ed. 739.

190. — Subject-matter of communications.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. § 737.

Under Rev. St. § 877, providing that, on the trial of any cause in the District of Columbia, the wife shall not be competent or compellable to give evidence for or against her husband in any criminal proceeding, nor shall a wife be compellable to disclose any communication made to her by her husband during the marriage, in an action by a wife against the heirs of her deceased husband to establish her claim as creditor of his estate on account of the alleged investment by him of her property in his own name, the wife is not compellable to testify as to directions given by her to her husband concerning the investment.—Stickney v. Stickney, 131 U. S. 227, 9 S. Ct. 677, 33 L. Ed. 136.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. §§ 754, 755.

Defendant, who was deceased's partner, about a week after the latter's disappearance, and before his body was found, consulted an attorney, stating that deceased was missing, and that he had taken partnership funds with him, and inquiring whether defendant could hold the partnership property as security for his share of the money. Held, that the consultation was privileged, and that, it was error, on defendant's trial for murder, to permit the attorney to testify to defendant's statements on the theory that they showed a scheme to defraud the relatives of deceased, as such scheme was not at all manifest except by assuming defendant's guilt of the murder.—Alexander v. United States, 138 U. S. 353, 11 S. Ct. 350, 34 L. Ed. 954.

◀ 202. — Instructions as to will or conveyance.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. §§ 756, 757.

In a suit between devisees under a will, communications by the testator to counsel, respecting the will or other similar instrument, are not privileged.—Glover v. Patten, 17 S. Ct. 411, 165 U. S. 394, 41 L. Ed. 760.

◀ 219. Waiver of privilege.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. §§ 769, 781, 782.

Defendant, alleging that she was deceived in relation to her rights by her counsel, and having given testimony in relation thereto, cannot object to testimony by such counsel upon the same matters.—Hunt v. Blackburn, 128 U. S. 464, 9 S. Ct. 125, 32 L. Ed. 488.

Allegations in pleadings and offer of testimony, held not to waive privilege accorded by Civ. Code Ariz. 1901, par. 2535, subd. 6, against disclosure of communications to a physician.—Arizona & N. M. R. Co. v. Clark, 35 S. Ct. 210, 235 U. S. 689, 59 L. Ed. 415, L. R. A. 1915C. 834, affirming judgment 207 F. 817, 125 C. C. A. 305.

Statements taken down as testimony before the grand jury, over four months after the occurrences to which they relate, could not be used for the purpose of refreshing witness' memory.—Putnam v. United States, 162 U. S. 687, 16 S. Ct. 923, 40 L. Ed. 1118.

It was error to permit counsel, on the ground of surprise, to call the attention of his own witness to statements made by the witness before the grand jury, ask him to refresh his recollection thereby, and inquire whether, after so doing, he did not remember the matter as formerly testified to.—Id.

In an action on a life policy excluding from the risks assumed the death of assured by his own hand, sane or insane, where the defense was suicide, defendant's secretary, as a witness for defendant, testified that he understood from plaintiff's agent, when the proofs of loss were submitted, that deceased met his death by inflicting a pistol shot, and was asked on cross-examination if he had not stated at such time that, if it depended upon him, the loss should be paid without delay. Held, that the question was relevant, as calling for a portion of the conversation, part of which the witness had given.—Home Ben. Ass'n v. Sargent, 142 U. S. 691, 12 S. Ct. 332, 35 L. Ed. 1160, affirming judgment Sargent v. Home Ben. Ass'n (C. C.) 35 F. 711.

275. Cross-examination of party in general.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 924, 926, 967-975.

In an action by a passenger against a carrier, for injuries sustained through the negligence of defendant's servant, defendant, in order to prove that plaintiff was a trespasser, may ask plaintiff, on cross-examination, if he did not refuse to pay his fare or leave the coach, when plaintiff has testified that he was rightfully in the coach as a passenger under the usual conditions.—Gilmer v. Higley, 110 U. S. 47, 3 S. Ct. 471, 28 L. Ed. 62.

In an action for wrongful attachment based on an affidavit that plaintiff was "about to convert his property or a part thereof into money for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors," there was evidence at the trial to show an intent on plaintiff's part at the time of the suing out and levy of the attachment to defraud his creditors by secreting his property by putting it into the shape of notes, and by fraudulently placing them beyond the reach of his creditors; and plaintiff testified in chief on direct examination that on the day of the levy or the next day a large amount owed to him was put in the shape of negotiable notes. Held, that plaintiff might properly be asked on cross-examination what he had done with such notes.—Eames v. Kaiser, 142 U. S. 488, 12 S. Ct. 302, 35 L. Ed. 1091.

In an action for personal injuries, where plaintiff alleged, by way of special damage, that prior to the accident the business he was engaged in yielded him a certain sum, but at the trial made no attempt to show the extent or value of such business, the refusal to allow defendant to cross-examine on that subject was not error.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Urlin, 158 U. S. 271, 15 S. Ct. 840, 39 L. Ed. 977.

277. Cross-examination of accused in criminal prosecutions.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 925, 979-983.

Where the accused is examined as a witness in his own behalf, the question as to whether the cross-examination must be confined to matters pertinent to the testimony in chief, or may be extended to the matters in issue, is one of state law as administered in the courts of the state, and not of federal law; and is not a ground on application to the United States supreme court for a writ of error.—Ex parte Spies, 123 U. S. 131, 8 S. Ct. 22, 31 L. Ed. 80.

A prisoner who takes the stand in his own behalf waives his constitutional privilege of silence, and may be cross-examined upon his evidence in chief as to the circumstances connecting him with the crime with the same latitude that would be exercised in the case of an ordinary witness.—Sawyer v. United States, 26 S. Ct. 575, 202 U. S. 150, 50 L. Ed. 972, 6 Ann. Cas. 269.

An accused who voluntarily takes the stand may be subjected to cross-examination as to his statement.—Powers v. United States, 32 S. Ct. 281, 223 U. S. 303, 56 L. Ed. 448.

One accused of illegal conduct in distillation of spirits, who has testified that he was employed to beat apples near a still, with no interest in the still, may be cross-examined as to whether he had not previously with his alleged employer made brandy, to show he was not innocently occupied.—Id.

Cross-examination of accused tending to show that she and her codefendant lived unhappily as husband and wife and were occasionally separated is relevant to her testimony in chief, denying testimony of an accomplice that he had talked with her to aid in a search for her husband, where she testified that she always knew where he was.—Wilson v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 347, 232 U. S. 563, 58 L. Ed. 728.

Carriers subject to Act March 4, 1907, c. 2939, 34 Stat. 1415 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 1170), regulating hours of labor of employees, cannot claim a privilege against self-incrimination to justify the refusal to comply with an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, requiring the secretary or similar officer to make monthly reports under oath, showing the instances where employees subject to the act have rendered excess service, and giving the cause and explanatory facts, if any, or, where there has been no excess service, to make a separate oath to that effect, in lieu of the form to be used in detailing excess service.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 31 S. Ct. 621, 221 U. S. 612, 55 L. Ed. 878.

The secretary or similar officer of a carrier subject to Act March 4, 1907, c. 2939, 34 Stat. 1415 (U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 1170), regulating hours of labor of employees, cannot claim a personal privilege against self-incrimination to justify a refusal to comply with an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, requiring such official to make monthly reports under oath, showing the instances where employees subject to the act have rendered excess service, and giving the cause and explanatory facts, if any, or, where there has been no excess service, to make a separate oath to that effect, in lieu of the form to be used in detailing excess service.—Id.

293. Constitutional and statutory provisions.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 1000-1014.

A proceeding to forfeit goods for a violation of the customs revenue laws, whether in rem or in personam, is a criminal case; within the fifth amendment of the constitution, and an order for the compulsory production of defendant's private books and papers, under Act Cong. June 22, 1874, c. 391, § 5, 18 Stat. 187 [U. S. Comp.

St. 1901, p. 2019] making a refusal to produce books equivalent to a confession of the allegations which it is charged that they will prove, is void, as in violation of that amendment.—Boyd v. United States, 116 U. S. 616, 6 S. Ct. 524, 29 L. Ed. 746.

The fifth amendment to the constitution of the United States, which declares that no person "shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself," extends its protection to a witness called to testify before a grand jury which is investigating alleged violations of the interstate commerce law. It is not limited to cases of criminal prosecution against the witness himself.—Counselman v. Hitchcock, 142 U. S. 547, 12 S. Ct. 195, 35 L. Ed. 1110, reversing judgment in re Counselman (C. C.) 44 F. 268.

The constitutional privilege of refusing to give self-incriminating testimony was not intended to shield the witness from the personal disgrace or opprobrium attaching to the exposure of his crime, but only from actual prosecution and punishment.—Brown v. Walker, 161 U. S. 591, 16 S. Ct. 644, 40 L. Ed. 819, affirming judgment (C. C.) 70 F. 46.

The governments of the several states, or their judicial establishments, are not obliged to accord the privilege against self-incrimination afforded by Const. U. S. Amend. 5.—Ensign v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 33 S. Ct. 321, 227 U. S. 592, 57 L. Ed. 658, affirming judgment Commonwealth v. Ensign, 77 A. 657, 228 Pa. 400, which affirms judgment 40 Pa. Super. Ct. 157, 163.

The repeal of Rev. St. § 860 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 661), after the incriminating testimony was given, does not deprive the witness of immunity afforded by that section against the use in evidence of such testimony in any criminal proceeding.—Cameron v. United States, 34 S. Ct. 244, 231 U. S. 710, 58 L. Ed. 448.

◀297. Answer tending to subject witness to criminal prosecution.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. §§ 1011, 1028-1037.

The examination of witnesses before a grand jury concerning an alleged violation of Anti-Trust Act July 2, 1890, c. 647, 26 Stat. 209 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3200], is a "proceeding" within the meaning of the proviso to Act Feb. 25, 1903, c. 755, 32 Stat. 854-904 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1905, p. 602], that no person shall be prosecuted or be subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for, or on account of, any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence in any proceeding, suit, or prosecution under certain named statutes, of which the anti-trust act is one. Order (C. C.) in re Hale, 139 F. 496, affirmed.—Hale v. Henkel, 26 S. Ct. 370, 201 U. S. 43, 50 L. Ed. 652.

◀298. Privilege as to production of documents.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. §§ 1038-1041; 16 Cent. Dig. Discov. § 117.

The possibility that the cashbook whose production was sought by a federal grand jury engaged in investigating the criminal liability of a national bank employé for a disappearance of cash from the bank vaults might show dealings likely to lead to a charge that its owner, then being proceeded against in the civil courts of the state as party to a "bucket shop," was an abettor of the guilty person, or might disclose a violation of the criminal laws of the state against that form of gambling, justifies his refusal, under the claim of his privilege against self-incrimination, either to produce the book, or to answer questions manifestly intended to prove possession or control as a preliminary to calling for the book.—Ballmann v. Fagin, 26 S. Ct. 212, 200 U. S. 186, 50 L. Ed. 433.

The objection that incriminating books and papers were required to be produced before a grand jury under Act Vt. Oct. 9, 1906, p. 79, No. 75, without extending immunity from criminal prosecution, is not available to a corporation which has been fined for contempt in failing and absolutely refusing to produce any of the books and papers called for, with some unimportant exceptions, and has thus prevented the court from inquiring into the validity of the objection. Judgment, in re Consolidated Rendering Co. (Vt. 1907) 66 A. 790, affirmed.—Consolidated Rendering Co. v. State of Vermont, 28 S. Ct. 178, 207 U. S. 541, 52 L. Ed. 327, 12 Ann. Cas. 658.

A corporation cannot resist, upon the ground of the constitutional protection against self-incrimination, the compulsory production of its books and papers before the grand jury under a subpoena duces tecum.—Wilson v. United States, 31 S. Ct. 538, 221 U. S. 361, 55 L. Ed. 771, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 558.

The privilege against self-incrimination afforded by Const. Amend. 5, does not protect the officer of a corporation in resisting the compulsory production before the grand jury under a subpoena duces tecum directed to the corporation, of the letter-press copy books of such corporation in his possession, because the contents thereof may tend to incriminate him, even though the inquiry before the grand jury was not directed to the corporation itself.—Id.

A corporate officer cannot urge his constitutional privilege against self-incrimination to excuse his refusal to produce the corporate records in his custody before the grand jury under a subpoena duces tecum directed to him, because their contents may tend to incriminate him.—Dreier v. United States, 31 S. Ct. 550, 221 U. S. 394, 55 L. Ed. 784.

A corporation cannot object, on the ground of a constitutional protection against self-incrimination, to the admissibility in evidence against it, in an action to recover a statutory penalty, of the entries in the corporate books, produced by a corporate officer in obedience to a subpoena duces tecum.—(1911) American Lithographic Co. v. Werckmeister, 31 S. Ct. 676, 221 U. S. 603, 55 L. Ed. 873, affirming judgment (1908) 165 F. 426, 91 C. C. A. 376.

Privilege of corporate officers against self-incrimination in the production of their own books and papers before a grand jury does not protect the former officers of a dissolved corporation in resisting compulsory production of the books and papers of such corporation in their possession.—Wheeler v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 158, 226 U. S. 478, 57 L. Ed. 309.

A stockholder in a defunct corporation cannot invoke his constitutional privilege to justify refusal to produce before the grand jury books and papers in his possession, though the legal title to them may be in him.—Grant v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 190, 227 U. S. 74, 57 L. Ed. 423, affirming judgment (D. C.) in re Grant, 198 F. 708.

The books of a bankrupt which have been transferred to a trustee in accordance with Bankr. Act, § 70, may be produced before the grand jury and before the petit jury at the trial of a bankrupt for concealing assets without infringing the bankrupt's constitutional privilege against self-incrimination.—Johnson v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 572, 223 U. S. 457, 57 L. Ed. 919, 47 L. R. A. (N. S.) 263.

Under the provision of the contract labor law of Feb. 26, 1885, c. 164, 23 Stat. 332, § 3 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1291], that the penalty may be sued for in a civil action, this action, though civil in form, is criminal in nature, and the defendant cannot be compelled to be a witness against himself.—Lees v. United States, 150 U. S. 476, 14 S. Ct. 163; 37 L. Ed. 1150, following Boyd v. United States, 116 U. S. 616, 6 S. Ct. 524, 29 L. Ed. 746.

The accused cannot claim to have been compelled to be a witness against himself, in violation of Philippine Islands Civil Government Act July 1, 1902, c. 1369, § 5, 32 Stat. 692, because of the denial of a motion to compel the provincial fiscal to return a statement made by accused in ignorance of his rights, and to prohibit the fiscal from using the statement, where such statement was not afterwards used in any way.—Pendleton v. United States, 30 S. Ct. 315, 216 U. S. 305, 54 L. Ed. 491.

301. — Cross-examination.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. §§ 1043-1046.

An accused who waives his constitutional privilege of silence, takes the stand in his own behalf, and testifies to an alibi, may be asked on cross-examination as to every fact which had a bearing upon his whereabouts upon the night when the crime was committed, and as to what he wore, what he did, and the persons with whom he associated that night.—Fitzpatrick v. United States, 20 S. Ct. 944, 178 U. S. 304, 44 L. Ed. 1078.

303. Effect of release or discharge from liability.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. §§ 1037, 1049, 1050.

Tender of a pardon from the President does not destroy the privilege of a witness against self-incrimination, but he may reject the pardon and refuse to testify.—Burdick v. United States, 35 S. Ct. 267, 236 U. S. 79, 59 L. Ed. 476; Curtin v. Same, 35 S. Ct. 271, 236 U. S. 96, 59 L. Ed. 482. Reversing judgment (D. C.) United States v. Burdick, 211 F. 492.

304. Effect of statutory protection of witness from use of evidence against himself.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. §§ 1051, 1052.

Rev. St. § 860 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 661], provides that no "evidence obtained from any party or witness by means of a judicial proceeding * * * shall be given in evidence, or in any manner used against him, or his property or estate, in any court of the United States, * * * in any criminal proceeding, or for the enforcement of any penalty or forfeiture." Held that, as this provision would not prevent the use of testimony so obtained to search out other testimony to be used against the witness, the protection afforded is not co-extensive with that of the fifth amendment; and hence a witness in any criminal investigation in the federal courts may still refuse to answer on the ground that his testimony will tend to criminate himself.—Counselman v. Hitchcock, 142 U. S. 547, 12 S. Ct. 195, 35 L. Ed. 1110, reversing judgment in re Counselman (C. C.) 44 F. 288.

Act Feb. 11, 1893, c. 83, 27 Stat. 443 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3173], provides that no person "shall be excused from attending and testifying or from producing books, papers, tariffs, contracts, agreements and documents, before the interstate commerce commission, or in obedience to the subpoena of the commission, * * * on the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to criminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture; but no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing, concerning which he may testify, or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, before said commission." Held, that this act completely shields the witness against any criminal prosecution which may be aided, directly or indirectly, by his testimony, and in effect operates as a pardon for the offense to which it relates, and therefore the act is not in conflict with the provision of the fifth amendment to the constitution of the United States, which declares that no person shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself.—Brown v. Walker, 161 U. S. 591, 16 S. Ct. 644, 40 L. Ed. 819, affirming judgment (C. C.) 70 F. 48.

The protection afforded by the act of February 11, 1893, c. 83, 27 Stat. 443 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3173] to persons who are required thereby to give self-incriminating evidence in proceedings before the interstate commerce commission, extends to any possible prosecution in the state courts, as well as in the federal courts.—Id.

The immunity extended by Act Feb. 4, 1887, c. 104, 24 Stat. 379 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3154], to regulate commerce, as amended by Act Feb. 11, 1893, c. 83, 27 Stat. 443 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3173], from prosecution or forfeiture of estate because of testimony given in pursuance of the requirements of the law, satisfies the guaranty of the fifth amendment of the federal Constitution against compelling witnesses to furnish evidence against themselves. Order (C. C.) Interstate Commerce Commission v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 123 F. 969, reversed.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baird, 24 S. Ct. 563, 194 U. S. 25, 48 L. Ed. 860.

The right of a witness to claim his privilege against self-incrimination, afforded by Const. U. S. Amend. 5, when examined concerning an alleged violation of Anti-Trust Act July 2, 1890, c. 647, 26 Stat. 209 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3200], is taken away by the proviso to Act Feb. 25, 1903, c. 755, 32 Stat. 904 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1905, p. 602], that no person shall be prosecuted or be subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence in any proceeding, suit, or prosecution under certain named statutes, of which the anti-trust act is one, which furnishes a sufficient immunity from prosecution to satisfy the constitutional guaranty although it may not afford immunity from prosecution in the state courts for the offense disclosed.—Nelson v. United States, 26 S. Ct. 358, 201 U. S. 92, 50 L. Ed. 673; Hale v. Henkel, 26 S. Ct. 370, 201 U. S. 43, 50 L. Ed. 652, affirming order (C. C.) in re Hale, 139 F. 496.

The difficulty, if any, of procuring the testimony which a person has given on his examination before a grand jury concerning an alleged violation of Anti-Trust Act July 2, 1890, c. 647, 26 Stat. 209 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3200], does not render the immunity from prosecution or forfeiture, given by the proviso to Act Feb. 25, 1903, c. 755, 32 Stat. 854-904 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1905, p. 602], insufficient to satisfy the guaranty of Const. U. S. Amend. 5, against self-incrimination. Order (C. C.) in re Hale, 139 F. 496, affirmed.—Hale v. Henkel, 26 S. Ct. 370, 201 U. S. 43, 50 L. Ed. 652.

Entries in the books of a party, produced in obedience to a subpoena duces tecum, were not rendered inadmissible on the trial by Rev. St. § 860 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 661), providing that no discovery or evidence obtained from a party or witness by means of a judicial proceeding shall be given in evidence or used against him in a criminal case, or in a proceeding to enforce a penalty or forfeiture, since these provisions manifestly refer to a case where, in some prior judicial proceeding, a discovery had been made or testimony had been given, and the evidence so obtained was sought to be used.—(1911) American Lithographic Co. v. Werckmeister, 31 S. Ct. 876, 221 U. S. 603, 55 L. Ed. 873, affirming judgment (1908) 165 F. 426, 91 C. C. A. 376.

Congress may compel the giving of testimony which may serve to incriminate the witness, provided immunity be accorded in all respects commensurate with the guaranty of Const. U. S. Amend. 5, against self-incrimination.—Glickstein v. United States, 32 S. Ct. 71, 222 U. S. 139, 56 L. Ed. 128.

The privilege against self-incrimination afforded by Const. U. S. S. 43, 50 L. Ed. 652, affirming order (C. C.) In re Hale, 139 F. 496; McAlister v. Henkel, 26 S. Ct. 385, 201 U. S. 90, 50 L. Ed. 671.

Whether an attorney may refuse to obey a subpoena calling him to produce his client's books before a grand jury because tending to incriminate the client depends on the client's constitutional rights, irrespective of any question of professional privilege.—Grant v. United States, 33 S. Ct. 190, 227 U. S. 74, 57 L. Ed. 423, affirming judgment (D. C.) In re Grant, 198 F. 708.

Where a witness is asked on cross-examination if he had not stated, in talking about the matter, that he wanted plaintiffs to recover because he would then get his pay, an objection because of the failure to specify time and place was properly sustained.—Standard Oil Co. v. Van Etten, 107 U. S. 325, 1 S. Ct. 478, 27 L. Ed. 319.

Where witnesses for the prosecution have testified upon cross-examination by defendants that they, at their own expense, employed an attorney to assist in the prosecution, it is proper to exclude a further question asked of them, as to how much they paid such assistant.—Ball v. United States, 163 U. S. 662, 16 S. Ct. 1192, 41 L. Ed. 300.

Ⓒ=324. — Party called as witness by adversary.

As Rev. St. § 914, providing that the practice, etc., in federal courts shall conform as near as may be to that in state courts in like causes, expressly excepts equity causes, where plaintiffs read in evidence, in a suit in equity in the federal courts, depositions of defendants, they make defendants their own witnesses, and cannot contend that they are unworthy of credit, though the depositions were taken "as under cross-examination," under a state statute (1 Brightly, Purd. Dig. Pa. p. 728) providing that a party to any civil proceeding may be examined "as if under cross-examination," at the instance of the adverse party "but the party calling for such examination shall not be concluded thereby."—Dravo v. Evidence of the declarations of a witness, introduced, not merely to contradict his testimony on cross-examination, but as evidence of the facts which he declares, are not inadmissible because the party offering such evidence may, by extending the cross-examination of the witness to such facts, have made him his own witness. Decree 107 F. 819, 46 C. C. A. 655, affirmed.—Fourth Nat. Bank of St. Louis v. Albaugh, 23 S. Ct. 450, 188 U. S. 734, 47 L. Ed. 673.

Where the only witnesses testifying for the government in a prosecution for murder were two Indians, a man and a woman, whose testimony differed in some respects, but who both testified that the murder was committed by the defendant on trial and the husband of the woman, who was indicted with him, questions asked the woman on cross-examination directed to showing that she was then living with the other witness as his wife, were proper, as affecting her credibility, and their exclusion was error.—Tia-Koo-Yel-Lee v. United States, 17 S. Ct. 855, 167 U. S. 274, 42 L. Ed. 166.

(D) INCONSISTENT STATEMENTS BY WITNESS.

379. Inconsistency of statements as ground of impeachment in general.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. § 1209, 1220-1222, 1247-1256.

In an action against a railroad company for personal injuries to an employe, it is competent, for the purposes of impeachment, to use at the trial and introduce in evidence papers signed by witnesses, and containing a synopsis of statements obtained from them by the company's claim agent shortly after the occurrence, and while they were still in the company's employ.—Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Artery, 137 U. S. 507, 11 S. Ct. 129, 34 L. Ed. 747.

Rev. St. § 860 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 661], which provides that "no pleading of a party, nor any discovery or evidence obtained from a party or witness by means of a judicial proceeding," shall be given in evidence, or in any manner used against him, does not apply to an application, under section 878, by one indicted, to have witnesses summoned and paid by the United States, and statements therein are competent to contradict his testimony.—Tucker v. United States, 151 U. S. 164, 14 S. Ct. 299, 38 L. Ed. 112.

Where a witness denies having made certain statements, leading questions may be propounded to a witness called in rebuttal to contradict him.—Union Pac. Ry. Co. v. O'Brien, 181 U. S. 451, 16 S. Ct. 618, 40 L. Ed. 766.

380. Witnesses who may be impeached by inconsistent statements.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. § 1210-1215.

On a fourth trial, where defendant introduces in evidence the deposition of a deceased witness, a deposition previously made by him in a suit between different parties, and containing statements inconsistent with the former, is not admissible to rebut it, where it has been used on three former trials during the witness' life, in each of which plaintiff cross-examined him, and did not refer to the previously made deposition.—Ayers v. Watson, 132 U. S. 394, 10 S. Ct. 116, 33 L. Ed. 378.

Where defendant is surprised by the statement of his own witness, who, however, is not hostile, in respect to a matter not in itself prejudicial and thereupon defendant is permitted to cross-examine him, and show the fact to be otherwise, the court may, in its discretion, refuse to allow defendant to further show by a third person that the witness had made a contradictory statement to him.—Hickory v. United States, 151 U. S. 303, 14 S. Ct. 334, 38 L. Ed. 170.

Where a material witness for the government in a murder case dies after the first trial, and on the second trial the government reads in evidence a transcribed copy of the reporter's stenographic notes of his testimony taken on the first trial, it is a valid objection to evidence offered by defendant to show that the deceased witness, after such first trial, stated that his testimony was given under duress, and was untrue, that the usual foundation for impeaching testimony has not been laid.—Mattox v. United States, 156 U. S. 237, 15 S. Ct. 337, 39 L. Ed. 409.

387. Cross-examination as to inconsistent statements.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. § 1222-1232.

In an action to recover duties paid under protest the inquiry was whether the goods were dutiable under Schedule K of the act of March 3, 1883, as "knit goods, made on knitting frames," as assessed by the collector, or under Schedule N, as "bonnets, hats, and hoods for men, women, and children," etc., as claimed by the importers. One of the latter testified that the goods were "Scotch bonnets," known and sold in this country as such. On cross-examination he testified that he had before had a suit against the government, under the old tariff, and was then asked if the claim then was that these goods were caps made on frames. Held, that this question could not be excluded on the ground that the record of the prior suit was the best evidence of the claim, but that it was competent for the purpose of impeaching the witness' credibility.—Toplitz v. Hedden, 146 U. S. 252, 13 S. Ct. 70, 36 L. Ed. 961, affirming judgment (C. C.) 33 F. 617.

388. Laying foundation for proof of inconsistent statements.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. § 1233-1242, 1246.

The contradictory declarations of a witness, whether oral or in writing, made at another time, cannot be used for the purpose of impeachment until the witness has been examined upon the subject, and his attention particularly directed to the circumstances in such a way as to give him full opportunity for explanation.—The Charles Morgan v. Kouns, 115 U. S. 69, 5 S. Ct. 1172, 29 L. Ed. 316.

389. Admission or denial by witness of making of inconsistent statements.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. § 1243-1245.

Evidence that a railroad company's night watchman had admitted on the night of the accident that the rear section of the train was going at about 15 miles an hour when it crossed the highway, is admissible to impeach his credibility, where, on his cross-examination, he has denied making such admission.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Converse, 139 U. S. 469, 11 S. Ct. 569, 35 L. Ed. 213.

397. Effect of impeachment by inconsistent statements.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witr. § 1265, 1266.

A showing on cross-examination that the witness has made contradictory statements has no tendency to establish the truth of the subject-matter of such statements.—Southern R. Co. v. Gray, 36 S. Ct. 558, 241 U. S. 333, 60 L. Ed. 1030.

(E) CONTRADICTION AND CORROBORATION OF WITNESS.

⚡398. Right to contradict testimony in general.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 1267, 1274, 1275.

Where defendant, charged with embezzling marked currency from a decoy letter, stated it was placed in the pocket of his coat while he was absent, by enemies in the post office, the government is not bound by his statement on cross-examination naming two co-employees as enemies; and evidence that the persons named were friendly to defendant is not objectionable as collateral, but is competent in rebuttal.—Scott v. United States, 19 S. Ct. 209, 172 U. S. 343, 43 L. Ed. 471.

⚡403. Testimony subject to contradiction.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 1271-1273, 1275.

⚡404. — In general.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Witn. §§ 1271, 1272.

A witness who testifies that he does not recollect hearing a certain person, not a witness, make a certain statement, cannot be impeached by testimony that such person made such a statement in the witness' presence.—Goldsby v. United States, 160 U. S. 70, 16 S. Ct. 216, 40 L. Ed. 343.

The United States is entitled to injunctive relief where a cattle owner who has not secured the requisite stock-grazing permit from the Secretary of Agriculture turns out his cattle under circumstances which show that he expected and intended that they would graze on a forest reservation, although the government may not have complied with the local fence laws—even assuming that such laws can apply to the United States.—Light v. United States, 31 S. Ct. 485, 220 U. S. 523, 55 L. Ed. 570.

Congress, in the exercise of its control of the property of the United States under Const. U. S. art. 4, § 3, could constitutionally enact Act March 3, 1891, c. 561, § 24, 26 Stat. 1103 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1537), under which public forest reservations may be established on the public domain without the consent of the state where the land lies.—Id.

The Secretary of the Interior cannot make the exercise by an owner and lessee of lands within the Yosemite National Park of his right to pasture his cattle upon such lands, and to use the toll roads leading thereto, conditional upon his compliance with certain rules and regulations prescribed by the secretary for the government of the park, as to marking and defining the boundaries, or obtaining the written permission of the superintendent.—(1911) Curtin v. Benson, 32 S. Ct. 31, 222 U. S. 78, 56 L. Ed. 102, reversing decree (C. O. 1907) 158 F. 383.

The land department possesses no general discretion to reject entries on public land selected under Act June 4, 1897, and the departmental regulations in lieu of lands relinquished in a forest reservation, or to award the lands to subsequent applicants.—Daniels v. Wagner, 35 S. Ct. 740, 237 U. S. 547, 59 L. Ed. 1102, L. R. A. 1916A, 1116, reversing decree 205 F. 235, 125 C. C. A. 93; Same v. Merrithew, 35 S. Ct. 747, 237 U. S. 570, 59 L. Ed. 1113, reversing decree Same v. Wagner, 205 F. 235, 125 C. C. A. 93; Same v. Craddock, 35 S. Ct. 749, 237 U. S. 574, 59 L. Ed. 1118, reversing decree Same v. Wagner, 205 F. 235, 125 C. C. A. 93; Sawyer v. Gray, 35 S. Ct. 842, 237 U. S. 674, 59 L. Ed. 1170.

Unsurveyed lands might be reserved by the President, under Act March 3, 1891, § 24, and Act June 4, 1897, empowering him to establish forest reservations on the public domain.—United States v. Morrison, 36 S. Ct. 326, 240 U. S. 192, 60 L. Ed. 599, reversing judgment Morrison v. United States, 212 F. 29, 128 C. C. A. 485.

10. Offenses.

See 50 Cent. Dig. Woods, § 6.

Grazing stock upon a forest reservation without the permit required by a rule made and promulgated by the Secretary of Agriculture under the authority conferred upon him by forest reserve acts (Act June 4, 1897, c. 2, 30 Stat. 35 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1539]; Act Feb. 1, 1905, c. 288, § 5, 33 Stat. 628 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 577]), is made an offense against the United States by the provisions of those acts that violations of such rules and regulations shall be criminally punishable.—(1911) United States v. Grimaud, 31 S. Ct. 480, 220 U. S. 506, 55 L. Ed. 563, reversing judgment (D. C. 1909) 170 F. 205.

A regulation by the Secretary of Agriculture, forbidding stock grazing on a forest reservation without securing a permit, must be regarded as within the authority conferred upon him by Congress in the forest reserve acts (Act June 4, 1897, c. 2, 30 Stat. 35 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1539]; Act Feb. 1, 1905, c. 288, § 5, 33 Stat. 628 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1909, p. 577]), to make rules and regulations governing occupancy and use, and for the preservation of the forests, although a fee is charged for such permits, especially in view of the provisions in the later of the two statutes and in subsequent acts respecting the disposition of forest reservation revenue.—Id.
